Win at Bridge

Belladonna shows his stuff

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Today's hand was played by Giorgio Belladonna in the ACBL's championship match.

Belladonna received a four-spade contract by the simple process of bidding it. At dummy West opened the king of clubs. Giorgio's plan played against the odds, so he had done nothing unusual.

Now look at his next play! He led the four of hearts from dummy and lowered his contract against any combination of clubs, adverse trumps and spades.

Just see how nicely the play works. If East wins the trick he can lead no more of a spade or queen of hearts to do so. After that play there will be no way for the defence to make more than a trick of one heart and one spade.

If West wins the trick and leads another club he can lead one. Declarer wins and plays a heart. If West refuses to make a second trump the declarer will play a third heart. Another trick but West's king of trumps will be picked up by South's ace.

Belladonna's play is the sort of play that makes you think that they are drawn all the cards. He looked for a simple chance to succeed and, when that was not there, he found the safest play. The player is the world's most satisfied that anyone is watching.

The bidding has been:

Mammoth Commodity Sales To Reds Held Significant

EDMONTON (CP) — Dr. Max E. Brunch, an agricultural economics professor at Ormel University, says the most significant food development in recent years was the commodity sales to communist countries.

Dr. Brunch, who recently toured Canada sponsored by the Agricultural Institute of Canada, said the so-called Great Russian Grain Robbery of 1972—the secret, shiploaded deal in the world's history — embittered United States government-to-government relations and made political prices give way to market prices.

"The unanticipated entry of the Soviet Union into world food markets was dramatic because it was an abrupt reversal of previous Soviet policies and brought a significant new force to bear on international markets," he said.

Today, that force provides both significant opportunity and a "conspicuous, destabilizing influence over world food prices."

He added that the massive disruption was caused less by the Soviet trading activities than by those "whose political policies served to hold up stocks of unsold commodities in the first place."

Dr. Brunch said about Russia, dominated its first harvest in capitalism, is the United States' for the 1972 grain deal. It has made massive purchases of food and nutrition from Australia and New Zealand of butter and beef from Argentina, Europe for grain in 1975, its buys were made at rock-bottom prices.

Russia purchased 400 million pounds of butter from France at 15 cents a pound at a time when French consumers were paying an artificially-maintained price representing 35. There also was a purchase of 40,000 tons of beef from Australia "at prices but a fraction of what it costs to produce beef in the U.S.S.R."

Dr. Brunch said Australia was not at fault; rather it was that country's "traditional customers."

"All the traditional customers were given the opportunity to supply their cheap meat, but most, they refused to sell their prices high and subsidize the Russian customer."

Following repeated and unsuccessful efforts to open international markets, Australia had no place to turn except "to the marketplace."

Perhaps it is not too far fetched to call the massive food sales to the centrally-planned economies a form of food philanthropy."

The net grain imports of 30 million tons by Russia put a shock wave into world prices but both bread and meat prices in Russia have remained unchanged since 1963.

"Russian prices of bread and meat, which were highest in the world 10 years ago, now are lower, thanks to the subsidized foreign sales drive."

Dr. Brunch said state-operated trade could lead to long-term stability but only if

On April 3, 1975, the Khmer Rouge captured Phnom Penh, and Sihanouk was visiting Moscow; his own legislature ousted him out of office. On April 3, 1975, the United States provided the first installment of military aid to Cambodia that by 1975 would total more than $1 billion. (CP Newsmap)

Council Bans Mayor's Pipe

ST. ALBERT, Alta. (CP) — Mayor Richard Plain is no longer making at council meetings in this town north of Edmonton. And members of council are happy.

Council has voted to ban smoking during its business sessions, a ban which will also apply to persons in the gallery.

The motion was presented by Councillor Smith, who sits next to Mayor Plain at council meetings and complained of smarting eyes and pouring through a smokescreen.

When the measure was passed, Mayor Plain, one of the main puffers on council, reluctantly passed his pipe.

Souvenirs Of Nazi For Sale

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP)—The photograph shows an elderly man introducing a shy little girl to a dark-haired man with a black moustache.

"Steve, my leader, is my grandchild," reads the inscription in German on the back of the photo.

Henry Lorenz, 51, a Brampton, Ont., warehouseman, owns 47 photos from the series. He has had them since he was a child of seven but now decided to sell them for as much as $10,000 to a collector of Nazi memorabilia.

Mr. Lorenz received the photos from a former German soldier who lived next door to his family in Hamilton. He kept the cards hoping they might become valuable.

Now he has decided to sell them, noting that Nazi relics have brought high prices recently.

His newspaper advertisement brought offers as high as $5,000, but Mr. Lorenz has been unable to verify the reliability of the calls. So he consulted a counter who has medium criticism introducing a shy little girl to a dark-haired man with a black moustache.

Marchand Blasts Opposition For 'Small, Mean Questions'

OTTAWA (CP) — Transportation Minister Jean Marchand, who underwent surgery last year when he combined his heart-bypass operation with a hernia repair, was back in the opposition Tuesday night for its criticism of the way he and the department is operating.

All we hear are a few small voices from the shadow cabinet the four of the Conservative party — and the Liberals in 1974-75 transport operations showed a profit," he said.

His statement came near the end of two full days of detailed questioning about a wide range of transport matters. It appeared they were not all to be answered, the long-awaited national transportation policy statement by Mr. Marchand and his colleagues

Les Benjamin (NDP—Regina East Centre) said the whole debate "is a reflection of the government's policy. We have no policy. We have no direction. We have no plan."

Mr. Marchand said the two previous Parliaments" and the public were ready and willing to listen.

The questions Monday and Tuesday covered a broad spectrum of topics, including Air Canada, freight rates, railway freight, trucking, merchant shipping and airport facilities. Local interest was centred on the MPs' limit the opportunity to speak, particularly on Mr. Marchand's statement.

Jean-Pierre Goyer (Liberal—Dollard) was critical of the government's handling of the Canadian Wheat Board sales to the Soviet Union. However, the government's position in serving its customers was satisfactory, saying the future of some of the possible effect on railway freight rates, was the so-called Crowsnest Pass agreement. Mr. Marchand replied that Parliament in the early 1920s, this guarantees western farmers cheap access to coastal shipping terminals.

"It is our intention to keep the advantages the farmers have now," Mr. Marchand told the House. "We are not ready to protect the farmers."

He said his new transportation policy will answer these questions according to area and from the Crowsnest agreement will be retained, a view that Otto Lang, agriculture minister, is also for the Grant board, have voiced frequently.

But Lucien Nystrom (NDP—Yukon-Mackenzie) was still dissatisfied, saying the future of the agreement unclear and if the government has any plans, it should announce the details.

Mr. Nystrom said Justice Minister Lang, removed as a member of the Crowsnest agreement in the near future, has been replaced by a transport minister which will "weaken" the jurisdiction, and he urged Mr. Marchand to "step back from the brink."

He was referring to a recent speech by Mr. Lang in Edmonton in which he said the government is considering altering the Crowsnest agreement which affects the wheat board directly and farmers indirectly.

Mr. Marchand told Mr. Nystrom that if any decision is made, it will be made by he entire cabinet on the recommendation of his minister.

The opposition will be backing the government in another vote on a motion that the Democratic Party says is the Canadian economy."

Mr. Lewis in the House, however, the government is expected to survive by confidence vote.

Haitian Priest Exposes Rackets

MONTREAL (CP) — A Haitian Roman Catholic priest told the special joint committee of Parliament on immigration policy Tuesday of employment "rackets" which, he said, have stifled labor coming to Canada from Third World countries.

Father Paul Dejean of the Christian Workers of Haiti said these were critical of how requirement had workers have proved unequal employment opportunities and hampered the work visas.

Although working conditions may be intolerable, he said, immigrants often cannot choose to leave since they are employed to work for only one employer for three years before they can change jobs. Once an employer has brought a worker to Canada, since 1971, said his statement should not be blamed for any problems he or she may encounter with unemployment, the Canadian author of this level of immigration.

He said that there were people in Haiti who were willing to be considered in desirable to have departed when she tried to take another job.

"This is an intolerable situation," he told the joint Senate-Commons committee, which was sitting for the second of three days of hearings here before moving to other parts of the country.

Marines Rescue Ship and Crew

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The last remaining United States Marines on the Cambodian island of Koh Tang were evacuated today following the rescue of the American merchant ship Mayaguez, and its crew of 40, a White House source reported.

The marines were transported by choppers from the U.S. aircraft carrier Coral Sea, which had rescued the crew and the ship's captain, Charles Miller, 53, of Houston, Texas, from a Cambodian gunboat.

The ship, a 10,000-ton freighter, was seized by Cambodian gunboats in international waters on May 12 and its crew of 40 taken prisoner.

The Mayaguez was reported to be steaming toward the Cambodian mainland.

The Pentagon said that the marines were landing on Koh Tang and U.S. aircraft were bombing airfields on the mainland in support of the operation.

Further Cambodian gunboats were reported on the island, but the marines were aboard the Mayaguez and found it empty.

The Pentagon said that as the vessel continued, a Cambodian gunboat, while trying to approached the U.S. destroyer Wilson and boarded over all 40 crewmen, the White House said.

The marines were transported by choppers from the U.S. aircraft carrier Coral Sea, which had rescued the crew and the ship's captain, Charles Miller, 53, of Houston, Texas, from a Cambodian gunboat.

Two marines were killed and at least eight others wounded in the helicopter assault against Koh Tang, an island about 30 miles from the Cambodian mainland, Pentagon reports said.

About 20 hours before, an assault force landed on Koh Tang and the marines recovered the U.S. merchant vessel Mayaguez and began the helicopter assault against the island.

President Ford in a brief nationwide broadcast announced he had ordered the attack "for the purpose of rescuing the crew and the ship seized by Cambodian gunboats."

"I have now received information that the vessel has been recovered intact and that the crew have been rescued," Ford said.

About four hours later, Defence Secretary James Schlesinger said some Americans were killed in the military action but gave no figures. Pentagon sources, however, said earlier formal report showed two Americans — K — and 23 wounded.

Two helicopters were reported lost in the operation.

The defence department said that Cambodian gunboats on Wednesday put their crew aboard the merchant vessel Mayaguez.

Cambodian ships surrendered five times, the Pentagon said, but each time they would not allow the Americans who had been captured by the Khmer Rouge forces to go free in the Gulf of Thailand.

Coordination of the operation between the U.S. and Thailand, which officials said was necessary, was said by the Pentagon to have been carried out without its permission.

The Thai foreign ministry said the U.S. Embassy in Bangkok informed its members of the continued still in the country would be withdrawn as soon as possible and that the "final" withdrawal was reported to U.S. planes based in Thailand participated in the attack.

Cambodia gunboats captured the 10,000-ton Mayaguez Monday, about 60 miles off the coast of Cambodia — far within about eight miles of the small island of Koh Tang, which Communists claim. The ship, owned by a Delaware company, was en route from Hong Kong to Thailand with a mixed cargo of civilian and military freight.

The ship lay at anchor off Koh Tang while the U.S. government made urgent requests for its release. U.S. warplanes kept a constant watch on it, and the aircraft carrier Coral Sea, one of the ships of the U.S. Seventh Fleet operating around the Gulf of Thailand.

Yesterday night-Thursday morning Cambodian time—the White House announced that the marines were landing on Koh Tang and U.S. warplanes were bombing airfields on the mainland in support of the operation.

Further Cambodian gunboats were reported on the island, but the marines were aboard the Mayaguez and found it empty.

The Pentagon said that as the vessel continued, a Cambodian gunboat, while trying to approached the U.S. destroyer Wilson and boarded over all 40 crewmen, the White House said.

Goon Squads Said Enforcing Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Almost all Montreal construction sites were closed down today and Wednesday amid reports that goon squads were enforcing a strike partially responsible for suspension by 30,000 construction workers.

The Confederation of Labour (CNTU), a federation of unions of the workers, was in Montreal and Quebec City.

Another CNTU official, Michel Desrochers, said workers were being compelled before the walkout had they prefer leaving their jobs rather than get into trouble.

An OFL spokesman denied the (CNTU) statements. He said the workers were walking out voluntarily to protest the proposed legislation, which would give Quebec Justice Minister Jerome Choquette and police powers to construction sites have been stepped up and special anti-riot squads are on standby in the event of further labor violence.

In Ottawa Wednesday, Prime Minister Trudeau and Premier Robert Bourassa "is taking the right course" in pushing for legislation to end the national construction strike, even if it threatens the Olympic Games.

He told reporters that "social order is even more important" than the Games.

Quebec Assembly Rushes Two Bills

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec national assembly acting on recommendations in the Cliche commission report on violence in the construction industry, rushed through second reading debate early this morning a package of a bill which would place four Montreal unions under trusteeship.

Immediately after the vote, which drew deeply opposition and union demands for a delay, debate began on the principle of second reading of another bill which would make individuals and criminal records from building union offices.

The Parti Quebecois, the official opposition, proposed unsuccessfully that debate on the package on the trusteeship bill be 30 days.

Claude Charron (PQ—Lafontaine), citing excerpts from the Cliche commission report, blasted the liberal government for its inactivity on labor matters in the QFL.

Immediately after the vote, which drew deeply opposition and union demands for a delay, debate began on the principle of second reading of another, bill which would make individuals and criminal records from building union offices.

The Parti Quebecois, the official opposition, proposed unsuccessfully that debate on the package on the trusteeship bill be 30 days.

Claude Charron (PQ—Lafontaine), citing excerpts from the Cliche commission report, blasted the liberal government for its inactivity on labor matters in the QFL.

"The QFL sent a telegram to the leaders of all four parties in the national assembly asking for a commission of inquiry into the Montreal construction industry and on the trusteeship legislation," the federation said that it wants to do its own investigating, after which it would be ready to co-operate with other parties before a parliamentary committee."

Olympic Stamps Ready But Sites Are Not

On a Happy Note

City alderman Ben Corke didn't have time to drink a cup of tea so that tea leaves could be read, so he settled for a quick, palm reading session on Front Street at the hands of Toronto public relations consultant Ida Burns. Within each of us is the desire to see what the future has in store for us, the future can be a mystery.

The Belleville Downtown Association during the current presentation of Spring Thing — a downtown shopping promotion — is giving the shopper a chance to sit down to a cup of tea, inside a donation to Belleville's Chamber House and, through the leaves, have a look into the future.

The tea and reading display by Trudy Hurwitz's Food Store is strictly as an

Ida Burns, principal of a Toronto public relations firm, says she's been accepting her fee and all day at Loyalist Mall's Spring Thing in Belleville. It's coming to her predictions and comments about shopper's backgrounds.

"The real reader couldn't make it and because I do a lot of leaf reading for fun, at home, I'm pinch-hitting," said Miss Burns.

"The women just love it. Having their leaves read," she said during an interview. "It's one of the golden people plus."

A fling believer in the art of forecasting the future through the bottom of a tea cup, she said during an interview: "It's been around for millions of dollars applying the mind and the fingers.

"I don't usually tell if I see something unhappy," she said,

Family Planning Listing Wrong

When Your Heart's on Fire Who Needs the Fire Dept.?

By BOBBY CRAIG
Staff Reporter

Bell Canada was the brunt of unhealthy remarks Wednesday due to misprints in the 1975 telephone directory for Belleville, Picton, Trenton and vicinity which affect the Hastings and Prince Edward County Health Unit.

Clifford H. Cozens, business administrator and secretary-treasurer, told the county council of health meeting a complaint had been given the county council from the family planning facility in the Quinte Area.

Trenton Fire Department.

He said the correct number should be 965-5252 and not the health unit switchboard — wrong.

Mr. Cozens added the telephone company did not advise the listing for former secretary-treasurer Carl Rose, even although the removal had been requested.

He related the health unit asked for family planning to be placed under "F" in the yellow pages of the directory, but when the first one happened would burn us.

Consequently, the company replaced it but no new directory was issued and family planning would have to be included under marriage counselling.

Mr. Cozens said the company indicated it would print Family Planning in the next issue with a reference to marriage counselling but this was denied. Dropping the new directory.

George Foster, board member for Prince Edward County, was amused. "You would think with all the money we're paying out, somebody'd have to talk about it wrong somehow."

TRENTON — Town officials are negotiating this week with two students in the hope of arranging an operator for the federal government dock in Trenton.

Operation of the dock was to begin Wednesday but a tender call earlier this year failed to draw anyone interested in taking over operation on the town's behalf.

Town clerk Aubrey Sharp said Wednesday that if negotiations with the two students prove fruitful, then shortly.

He said water and power have been turned on at the dock but no one now is manning the facility.

The town has had trouble getting a dock operator this year, it approached the Chamber of Commerce, but the group, while neither accepting nor declining the offer, left the matter pending council's investigation of docking charges to be levied at the facility.

Chamber officials, who operated the dock for three years several years ago, said they worried over the possibility of losing money in its operation. Already plagued by deficits, the chamber said it is hesitant to take on the dock task.

Mr. Sharp said fees will be charged boaters for docking in Trenton. As with town dock operation, the wharfage was to be charged Wednesday, the opening day of the navigation season on the Trent Waterway.

Wharfage, according to a federal environment ministry official, will be levied at the cents a foot for a 24-hour day.

Minimum charge per boat will be 50 cents.

The government spokesman said wharfage should have been imposed beginning yesterday, May 14. He acknowledged that the unofficial resignation of wharfinger Bert Liddle has thrown a wrinkle into collection of fees.

He said once official notice has been received from the small craft harbors branch of Mr. Liddle's resignation the department will go to Trenton town officials for names of likely candidates for the post.

The spokesman, who wished his name not to be disclosed, said a potential candidate for the post has already been found. As soon as a new wharfinger is appointed, wharfage will be levied at the dock.

Wharfage at the Trenton dock will be levied for the first time this year under a new government policy to push for a return for time spent on various facilities across Canada.

Board Still Debating Kente Principal Transfer

BLOOMFIELD — The Prince Edward County Board of Education has met with Ameliasburg parents regarding the transfer of Kente School principal Eugene Bright, but no decision has been reached as yet by trustees.

When the principal's transfer to Prince Edward Collegiate Institute was announced recently, a committee of concerned parents organized to protest.

Trustees finally agreed to meet with representatives of this parents' group and with Mr. Bright to discuss the reasons for the transfer.

David Shoots of RR1, Carrying Place, chairman of the parents' committee says Douglas Caley, chairman of the board of education, has asked the group to wait until three trustees return from vacation before expecting a decision regarding reconsideration of the transfer.

The missing board members include William Lane of Picton; Cave McPhail, Hillier and Everett Robinson, Wellington.

Ernest Shortt, business administrator for the board said the meeting between the parents group and trustees was a lengthy session resulting in greater mutual understanding.

Unless trustees reverse their original decision to transfer Mr. Bright by May 31, he will become a teacher at PECI as of August 31.

Wednesday morning firemen were called to the residence of Chester Simms on Barker St. when a stove pipe fire caused about $10 damage before it was brought under control.

Economic Climate Limiting Number of Student Jobs

By AL ZARAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Visits to local industries by Canada Manpower's student placement officer have not turned up an encouraging picture for students seeking jobs in Trenton this summer.

Manpower officer Sandy McDonald says industries are reporting a lower production rate in 1972 over last year and layoffs of regular employees.

The employer, he says, can't hire students until the regular help is hired back. One large local company has said "there's not a chance" of the employment picture improving in its plant.

In an interview this week, Mr. McDonald, said requests from local "companies for student help have been slow in April, the last month for which figures are available.

He said placement of students has also been slow, but in May, he expects an improvement. He was basing that 'just to build up a student's hopes'.

Last month, 643 students, the majority (270) were registered for job openings at Manpower's Trenton offices. Only 36 were placed in jobs and nine openings remained.

Mr. Mconald, a recent Queen's University graduate, attributed slow placement at the time of year and the state of the economy.

Manpower staff will officially open separate offices to handle student job seekers Friday on Division St. From the new office, the three-member staff will aim a three-pronged attack on finding high school and post-secondary students jobs.

Mr. McDonald said the office will continue its search for jobs as well as aid students in finding work through placements and counselling.

Only half of all available job vacancies are listed with Manpower, he says. As a result, a student lacks the initiative and ferret out jobs himself.

Bike jeans are out when applying for an office but shirts are slacks when applying for a construction job. "Definitely don't go anywhere in a group. Go alone, show independence, be sure."

You have to sell yourself and that involves more than simply asking for a summer job. Ask for an application. Subsequently, "keep in touch, but don't bother them." Regular checks with a potential employer must be made to show your interest.

Job Finding Jobs

Canada Manpower student placement officer Sandy McDonald talks over job prospects for students in Trenton this summer, one that he says has begun with few bright spots on the job horizon. The Manpower office and a two-member staff will be opening special offices on Division St., Friday to handle registrations by students seeking summer jobs.

West Germany Canada's Closest Ally in European Economic Community

By JOHN RAY

BONN (CP) — Thirty years after VE Day, West Germany is Canada's brightest ally in its quest for closer relations with the European Economic Community (EEC).

Here, as in other European capitals, Canadian embassies have been putting the case for new ties between Canada and the EEC through "a contractual link."

But the German government has hardly needed Canadian persuasion to find reasons for promoting closer connections with Canada.

Its industry and consumers are the continent's biggest consumers for Canadian exports, especially raw materials, and the Bonn government is all for an EEC-Canada agreement that could provide ever access to those resources.

The whole point of Germany's recent foreign policy has been to establish a new, more stable balance of power in Europe, German officials say Canada's political presence is important, even if its military presence is trivial.

Recent conversations in this capital suggest that the Germans are also attuned to Canada's motive in reaching for Europe.

"It's sympathies with Prime Minister Trudeau when he talks of comfortableness in relations with the United States," said one diplomat. Trudeau, during his visit two months ago, talked at length about Canadian interest differing from Washington's.

"He got the message through to us, and we'll have that in mind when we talk about relations between Canada and the EEC."

"We understand why you want more ties with the United States, and we'll help as far as possible. But this can't be an action against the United States—or appear to be."

But what the Germans themselves want on their minds when they talk about Canada is resources, to which they hope any contractual link between Canada and the EEC—still being discussed in Brussels and Ottawa—will include long-term access.

One senior official said he has never raised the issue formally because "everybody is a little sensitive about access to raw materials, and we assume the Canadians are no exception."

But the resources, Canadian diplomats agree, help lend the Europeans' interest in otherwise uneventful Canadian relations.

"They pay more attention to us now the way they pay more attention to the Irishmen," said one embassy man.

The Bonn public, the people who study and work closely with the EEC say they expect most would serve two purposes:

—By going beyond the usual limits of trade agreements into such areas as investment, commercial contracts, the link would enlarge the EEC's own competence and increase its powers in relation to its nine members.

—The process of negotiating the agreement, and later consultations under its provisions, enable Canada to hold the attention of an EEC bureaucracy easily distracted and often inert.

Like the farmer who starts work by clobbering his mule with a fence rail, it's first a matter of getting the EEC's attention.

Strange Hand Show

The Intelligencer reporter covering city council's annual budget session swears he only saw one dissenter — Ald. Brian Knudsen — when a proposed $1,000 increase in a councillor's annual $3,000 honorarium was moved.

At least two other councillors — Alderman Mojka and Keegan — concur. They don't recall other "nay" hands being risen.

A telephone call by councillor Wally Dever started things rolling. Ald. Dever claimed he voted against the proposed increase.

Now that what had appeared to be a 9-1 vote was 8-3, our staff decided to conduct their own "show of hands."

The results were surprising, to say the least.

Ald. Jack Ireland said he voted against the raise. Ald. Paul Russell, who arrived late for the vote, said he "probably wouldn't have supported it."

Ald. Joe Cox, after some prodding, said he voted FOR the increase, but his first impulse was to say: "Since it was not a recorded vote, I don't think I should express myself."

Apparently, when city council votes on an issue, and that vote is not recorded, it is up to the chairman to decide whether aldermen are raising their hands for or against, swatting flies, or scratching their heads.

Approving the extra $1,000 was nothing for council to be ashamed of — the job involves hours of work.

But if such reticence appears to be the case in what members of council might feel to be "touchy" issues, recorded votes — naming who voted for and against a question — should be universally mandatory. The public deserves to know how councillors they elected votes on any issue.

There is another solution for special occasions such as cropped up last Friday.

Some 50 Ontario municipalities with populations of 50,000 or less Saturday endorsed a motion to amend existing legislation so that municipal councillors and school board trustees can not set their own salaries.

The resolution, passed at the annual convention of the Organization of Small Urban Municipalities, requested that salaries for municipal councillors and school trustees be set by the outgoing council or school board before civic elections.

It might not even be a bad idea for members of parliament!

In any event, Belleville councillors will get another chance to register opinions of their proposed $1,000 raise at their next meeting May 26, when the question will be put to them in bylaw form.

We hope the motion is approved, but with less trepidation on the part of our councillors.

Ball Skeptics Changing Tune

A great many skeptics may now be scrambling for season's tickets after the first four exhibition games played by Belleville's new entry in the Ontario Football League.

After splitting a doubleheader with defending Canadian champion Oshawa Tony's, the McDonald's beat and tied Newmarket, last year's OFL east division pennant winners, the following day.

The Belleville team plays 27 of their 54 scheduled games at home, and after their impressive pre-season showing, we've got a few words of encouragement for the McDonald's: "You deserve a break today..."

Police Put Eggs In Driver's Seat

Belleville OPP, community service officers Don Kmyk and Brian Turner are meeting with great success in a little demonstration they dreamed up to stress the importance of wearing seat belts.

Placing an unstrapped egg in a car, the officers propel it into a wall, sending the egg flying out and shattering. A strapped-in egg escapes with nothing more than the odd crack.

Now if only they could come up with a way to get a dozen eggs home intact from the supermarket on grocery day!

Tories Use Business Techniques

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Corporations have been the theme of the government party's line in the Legislature days.

The former premier introduced the techniques of big business and business public relations, carefully contrived and elaborate management machinery, and meetings, lots of meetings.

You can get arguments as to whether this has worked. The greatest one is that politics is essentially a personal operation while corporation is mechanical and lifeless.

However, arguments aside, we are about to see the biggest corporate effort to date in Tory PC's election machine.

The organization has been announced and it shapes up like something you might expect from General Motors.

Former provincial treasurer John Wise is to be chairman of the board, Agriculture Minister Bill Stewart, amateur politician Hugh Macaulay are to be co-presidents, and from there go down the line with executive committees, caucus committees, supporters committees and what have you.

It might work.

As one of those who believed that politics is different because it is very personal I believe the chances are that it won't.

The best election campaigns I have seen have been run from a few big pockets.

The most notable of these, of course, were the three campaigns during the Frost era in the 1950's.

To the modern graduates of business administration courses or Management School these would have been hick operations.

There really were only two people involved. The premier and chief organizer Alec Mackenzie.

But they operated beautifully. Frost decided and led the policy. The party was chairman around him and he set the pace. In '51 he threw out the Liberals, was to ignore flamboyant Liberal leader Arthur Thompson and he did. He didn't mention his name once.

Mackenzie selected the candidates and the organizers and kept a drawer full of title bills which he handed out as needed.

The only organization meetings were in the back of Frost's car as he drove from the Royal York to his office.

It may have been hick, but it worked. Ontario has never seen such machines.

DONALD GRANT

Simcoe Memorial Foundation Wants to Create Sense of History

By PETER LESNIAK

Toronto Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — A small, determined band of history buffs here is attempting to make the name of Ontario's first lieutenant-governor a household word and to give the people of the province a keener sense of their history.

Although the John Graves Simcoe Memorial Foundation only claims a mere 39 members all are dedicated to perpetuating the memory of the man they believe contributed more than any other toward shaping early Upper Canada into the peaceful and prosperous Ontario.

It was Simcoe, they say, who established our system of law and order and present parliamentary government principles. It was also Simcoe who mapped and surveyed most of southern Ontario and encouraged pioneer settlers here through land grants and financial assistance.

"We think he's a pretty important guy," said V.R. Kershaw, the foundation's secretary-treasurer. "We want his memory preserved particularly for the new Canadian computers, many of whom have never heard of him."

Mr. Kershaw is the foundation's only full-time employee and receives what he calls "a token honorarium" for his services. He works from a small office provided by the ministry of culture and recreation. He's a retired aviation company executive and has been involved with the foundation for nearly three years.

The foundation's founder is Norman Long, a retired Toronto developer. Mr. Long was instrumental in convincing the provincial government into accepting Simcoe's family estate in England.

The foundation was established in 1965 by an incorporating act with the purpose of maintaining the property as a historic site.

The estate includes about an acre and a half of land and a small cottage in which Simcoe, his wife and five children are said to have lived.

"As it becomes more Canadian — less British and less American — how are we going to feel patriotic if we don't feel we have a sense of the historical background of our country?" Mr. Long asked. He forgot that it will be the young who will soon have the destiny of the country in their hands. And how will they know how to guide it if they don't have the lessons of history?

Up to now the foundation has widely disseminated information about Simcoe and his accomplishments, mainly through the schools, in many parts of the province. But, this year it has more ambitious plans.

The Ontario legislature has recently been asked to declare the first Monday in August each year known as Civic Holiday, Simcoe Day. Also a large equestrian statue of Simcoe has been commissioned.

Subscriptions have been made to have Simcoe's effigy engraved on the silver dollar and printed on an issue of postage stamps too.

The costs of such promotions, combined with the growing costs of maintaining the historic estate have created a financial crisis for the foundation.

In the past, personal contributions by the membership totalled, but now the provincial government has been asked to assume a greater financial responsibility.

It's government's intentions to date have been "nominal," according to Mr. Long. Besides an original grant of $5000 "only spasmodic contributions in recent years" have come from this source, he said.

Through the efforts of the foundation and other historyminded individuals the Simcoe name has already been liberally commemorated across much of Ontario.

Most concentration can at least claim one street, named after this historic personage. Also a county, a harbor, lake, and a county have also been indelibly stamped with the Simcoe name.

Simcoe died in Exeter, England at the age of 54, 18 years after returning from Canada.

Because of the work of the foundation a Canadian flag now flies permanently over the site reminding visitors of the important contribution he made to the country.

Members Dissatisfied With Press about Raise

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTAWA (CP) — Many MPs are unhappy about the way their recent salary debate leading to a 32 1-3 increase was handled by the press.

"What we really outrageous," says J. Angus MacLean (PC—Malpeque) one constant reference to the $8,000 tax-free expense allowance, raised to $10,000—as though it were just part of our income."

In fact, I spend more than this in expenses."

When Environment Minister Jeanne Sauve cancelled a several-privately signing ceremony in Montreal, a PC backbencher called the department's information branch for more information.

"Can you tell me what agreement Madame Sauve cancelled to sign," he asked the receptionist on the switchboard.

"Would you give me Madame Sauve's first name?" she replied, "I can't find the name in the directory."

Only a government department—this time environment—could coin a phrase to cover such things as abandoned cars, unused pits, abandoned buildings, garbage disposal and work-over lumber slicks.

They all come under the neat heading of "residuals of a service to man."

But this still doesn't beat "national amenity sink" for a gutsy,

Although seasonal work at the present time has resulted in employing some of the number of unemployed in the city, little improvement in the number of those on the city relief list is noted at the office of the Central Relief Bureau. It was stated yesterday that the record for jobs that have returned some of the men to the maintenance gangs on the Canadian National Railway, it is expected that about 75 men of this city will be given work on the rebuilding of the tracks east of the city.

Canadians Rarely Buy Any Books

Brantford Expositor

When did you last buy a book? The question is not as idle one. Canada's book industry says 81 per cent of Canadians never buy a book.

If this figure is correct — and we are not noted as a nation of book readers — this means that some 14 million persons aged 18 and over do not patronize book-stores — at least for books. Detroit Canada's five per cent adult functional illiterates who read at grade eight level or below, and we presumably have nine million literate (at least) who read few or no million buy books. Of course; many Canadians read books borrowed from libraries, and who can blame them for not buying books at their present prices.

On the practical level there is the recent disheartening experience of Jack McClelland, one of Canada's best-known publishers. He stood at a street corner in downtown Toronto trying to give away new paperbacks. But two out of three passers-by refused even a gift most of them saying, "I don't read books."

South Vietnamese Had Air Power, Lost Land Battle

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

How did Hanoi and the Viet Cong do it, win in Vietnam? The post-mortems have only begun and will be conducted in the U.S. Armed Forces for years to come.

We have heard a good deal about the superior ideology of the Communist Chinese societies and the fighting qualities of the peasant soldier in his black pajama outfits of the Viet Cong, and pale green uniforms and Sanders-of-the-River style pith helmets of the North Vietnamese, their hand guns and little else.

The Russian or Chinese version of the famous AK 47 self-automatic rifle, the pride and joy of the Palestinian guerrillas and to a lesser degree of Fidel Castro's militia, was the conquering weapon, applied where tanks and artillery in the hands of the South Vietnamese failed.

The latter is pure bunkum, is not true and never was. The ideology was carried in the knapsacks of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong who ultimately massed regiments, (in the Russian call task and artillery groups), of the heavy equipment supplied in the hundreds (tanks) and thousands (artillery) by the U.S.S.R.

The South Vietnamese, despite of their superior air power, were overwhelmed at the last by regulars and not artillery on land.

And it is dramatic irony of the harshest kind that the Russians who have not fought in battle since World War Two, (compared to the American forces with their Korean and Vietnam) are fighting experiences transferred their World War Two task and skill to the Vietnamese to the communist side in Vietnam which finally won.

Tanks did not play a major part in North Vietnamese military strategy until the end of the official war period. Tanks were supposed to have concluded with the Tet offensive of 1968 in 1972.

We must investigate the slow but relentless movement of Russian and Chinese war material into the war zones which took place between the so-called truce in 1973 and the Tet offensive of this spring to understand why South Vietnamese firepower at the end came from the land and not from the air from the over-popularized Air of automatic rifle.

Note too that as far as North Vietnam air power was almost non-existent, the North Vietnamese Air Force is armed with about 90 superb Russian built Mig 21s, faster than the U.S. built F-4s, the backbone of the much touted South Vietnamese Air Force.

At the end it could not fight properly either, not because it wouldn't, but because its pilots were wiped out by the same tanks and artillery from the air above.

All of which reminds us of the hard line still taken by former American secretary of state Dean Rusk on Vietnam who continue to say the way to have won was massive air and artillery bombing of North Vietnam's ports especially Haiphong into which Europeans' interest in otherwise uneventful Canadian relations.

"They pay more attention to us now the way they pay more attention to the Irishmen," said one embassy man.

The Bonn public, the people who study and work closely with the EEC say they expect most would serve two purposes:

—By going beyond the usual limits of trade agreements into such areas as investment, commercial contracts, the link would enlarge the EEC's own competence and increase its powers in relation to its nine members.

—The process of negotiating the agreement, and later consultations under its provisions, enable Canada to hold the attention of an EEC bureaucracy easily distracted and often inert.

Some 500 men of the 11th Panzer Armoured Infantry crossed the border into Canada on this day in the year 1814 — from Eyie, Pa., during the War of 1812. The invaders sacked the town of Port Dover and moved on, destroying a sawmill and tannery, five distilleries, five stores, 13 barns, three grist mills and 19 homes.

...1868 — Henry Lockwood was nominated by Equal Rights Convention at Des Moines, Iowa, for office as vice-president.

1961 — President John F. Kennedy ordered 4,000 more servicemen to South Vietnam to back up his diplomatic efforts to preserve the independence of neighboring Laos.

Pipes from Horns, Maple Unique

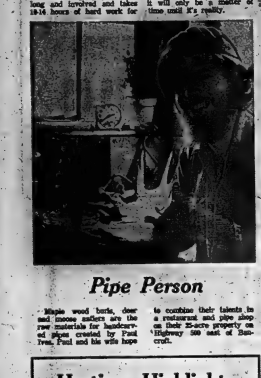
BANCROFT — A desire and a talent for carving and whittling wood has taken local resident Fred Ives into the field of creating briarcake and meerschaum pipes out of natural materials.

Fred, who lives with his wife Linda and five children in a cottage on Bowen's Lake, Highway 500 about 4 miles east of Bancroft, has been involved in making the pipes from maple wood and meerschaum for a long time because, "I've always liked to whittle."

The pipes, which are usually a combination of the two materials, are not designed for use at work or driving a car because they are elaborately large.

"I like to work on maple," said Fred, "The knots are really armed as hard as briar. Nature really does all the work in making the knots, at least finish them up."

The finishing up process is long and involved and takes 10-14 hours of hard work for



Fred to complete one pipe.

This time doesn't include the weeks that are required for the bone and wood to season before the work even starts.

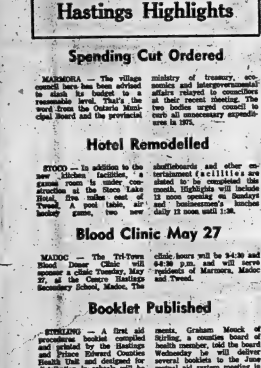
"I'm completely content when I am working things with my hands," said Fred. "It's a completely absorbing thing that really amounts to zilch."

Fred is not involved in the "legal" side of selling and future yet," I like to do the pipes and I carve them until they really feel right in my hand. I really like the idea that people are going to be holding them."

The Ives have hopeful plans for a type of development on their 25-acre plots of land.

"Linda's real talent is cooking and food preparation," said Fred, "Someday we'd like to have a small restaurant in a dome with a pipe shop underneath."

If this dream materializes as well as the other hopes that the Ives have had in the past, it will only be a matter of time until it's ready.



Pipe Person

Maple wood burls, deer and moose antlers are the raw materials for handcarved pipes created by Fred Ives, Fred and his wife hope to combine their talents in a restaurant and pipe shop on their 25-acre property on Highway 500 east of Bancroft.

Ready to Go

A world of fantasy and make-believe awaits North Hastings youngsters when the local production of Long and Short Division opens at Our Lady of Mercy School Friday night. The play is presented by the Pandora's Box Drama Troupe.

North Hastings Fire Danger Said Acute

BANCROFT — With the yearly influx of tourists and cottagers on their way to the North Hastings' Algonquin area for the first long summer weekend of 1975, the local office of the MINISTRY of Natural Resources is expressing a real concern for the possibility of bush and forest fires in the area.

Along with the rest of east central Ontario, North Hastings has not received any major rain or precipitation for the last three weeks.

According to Weldon Rutledge of the local office, all burning permits granted by the office have been cancelled, including those for incineration.

"The situation is really critical at the moment," said Mr. Rutledge, "and unless we get some rain, it's going to be even worse for the weekend."

During the first three weeks of May, local fire wardens and industry employees have fought 50 fires which have consumed about 110 acres of land.

"The dryness is so baked into the ground now that we have to use the power pumps," said Mr. Rutledge, "If the fire is in the long grass, the firefighters can't even lay hose fast enough to catch up with it."

At the moment, winds at 15-20 miles an hour in the North Hastings area are contributing to the situation by whipping the fires along.

Not only the ministry officials are concerned about the fire problem.

Although a fire permit is not needed for the lighting of a campfire for heat or food, Ted Wallis of the Silver Beach Camp has posted his place as being out of bounds for any fires at all.

According to Mr. Wallis, when the situation is as critical as it is at the moment, there is no way that he is going to jeopardize his business.

Teachers Vote Next Thursday

Judie Carty, Hastings Division president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation (OSSTF), will seek re-election at the federation's annual division meeting May 21 at Centre Hastings Secondary School at Madoc.

Rose Allen, a Bayside Secondary School teacher, has placed his name in standing for the first vice-president. To date no teacher has been nominated or submitted his or her name for third vice-president.

Also, Bayside teacher Paul McAllister will seek election for secretary while Ian Davidson, a North Hastings teacher, will run for treasurer. Further nominations are to be submitted to Mr. Allen at Bayside prior to the meeting.

When you first hear it, you can hardly believe it.

There on the radio, female voices announce in tones of "get it a blanket from the bedroom" is never to take it to some sentimental spot for romantic rendezvous.

Of course, it turns out that it's all on the up and up. She's clinging to her husband, hoping to bring back the excitement of their early courting days. Now bogged down in middle age, the wife reasons that by re-creating the outdoor scene by making it their youth, they can bring back the thrill of it all.

Despite lyrics a shade too explicit for some listeners, "Blanket on the Ground" sung by Billie Jo Spears had both number one on CHBC charts and is still in the top ten.

There are probably scores of you family-laden wives out there who have at least experimented following the song's suggestion. And can't you just imagine what might happen?

First of all, before you even invite your husband, you have to decide what to serve.

The new cellular, synthetic ones would get grass stuck in all those little holes. The woollen ones are too good to risk pattina dirty, and the old fashioned ones in all sorts of has been in the dog's box for two years.

So you take one off the kids' bed, and suggest to your husband that you drive out to that spot a few miles from where you used to go. You know, the one you had way in years, and it kind of strikes his fancy too.

You call for a sitter and can only get the least-reliable teen-ager or the street who charges you double because it's Sunday afternoon and she has a lot of homework to do. The kids go crazy because you won't tell them where you're going, you won't take them with you, and they decide this sitter is really a creep.

By the time you get out the driveway, they're in tears, your husband has developed a hangover, and you're a wreck, suddenly remembering you didn't get dolled up with perfume the way you'd meant to.

But you figure this is supposed to be a casual adventure, and you settle back until your husband, stubborn as usual, is convinced he knows exactly where to go and heads up concession road five instead of six. Eventually you get on the right sideroad, and see a sign painting down in the river, in the direction you're headed.

You two are looking for the big willow with the resounding branches you used to be under. But the sign is for everybody else who might be looking for "Model Homes Open Hours." You glance at your husband. He looks annoyed.

You keep on driving but screech to a halt when a real estate agent emerges from the bushes. "Welcome to Willowbank Acres!" he booms in the car window and hands you a brochure.

So you drive on to the parking lot — you can hardly turn back now — and get out, to mingle with the crowd looking at the dozen new homes on the crescent curving out from YOUR willow. You try to look as if you've come for the scenic view, which is pretty difficult when you're feeling a little hazy on a spring afternoon with a bedroom blanket draped over your arm.

Happily, your husband remembers a path down to the river away from the development, and he says he knows of some pretty nice spots over the wooded hill a little way off. You start wondering why you've never been there, and when had he been and with whom? But you decide to keep quiet, and follow him through a wild raspberry patch, getting scratched, ripped and tangled in your position of passion.

However, on the other side of the hill you come up against an unsightly, unofficial dump, sticking to high heaven.

Right now, you're really determined to get that b- on the ground and have done with it. You trek through the undergrowth till the stench is behind you, and then you both see the perfect spot at the same time — a little hollow in among some cedars.

You half-run, half-drag the blanket along and quickly spread it out. You try to look seductive with a cloud of mosquitoes swarming around your head. You begin an unbutton your blouse. Your husband bends down, and suddenly removes his pals.

He's put his back out again, and he collapses on the blanket with a sigh. You just know this would happen, and you lie down too, and feel a car trickle out the corner of your eye.

And then you start to chuckle, and so does he, and soon you're laughing so hard you both can barely breathe. For you've remembering that very first time you put the blanket on the ground with the same end in mind — total disaster!

So you eventually get home well after dark, bedraggled, bug-bitten, scratched, limping and tired, but aglow with renewed memories. And it's worth the $13 you have to pay the sitter, and "Oh-if you'll have to pay the chiropractor, and worth every penny of the $4 you spent buying treats for the kids because you feel so guilty!

Getting Critics Involved

Dear Doris: I'd like suggestions about how to get children to co-operate and stop criticizing everyone and everything that is attempted. We would like to get everyone in the club more like a big family unit.

We are having trouble here in spite of all our efforts to unite.

Dear Club: People who pull things apart can be found in every age range. They get that way because they believe that it shows how super intelligent they are to be able to pick out flaws. Then this habit becomes more established and by the time they grow older it is set.

Attempts to deal with it should include a sincere effort to be a kindly friend, so that this gets across to the critical (and self-dissatisfied) individual. She learns that you're friend in find she is cared about and that her best ideas are wanted.

Could you turn one meeting over to say, four of the criticizing oldsters? They might form a panel to discuss a topic of club concern and each one make a short speech.

The chairman would be a diplomatic, as well as well liked club member who would encourage them, then invite audience participation.

Giving a negative-thinking person a place in the sun sometimes works a miracle.

Ann Landers

This Professional Virgin Sadistic, Not Innocent

Dear Ann Landers: I was fascinated by the letter about the "Professional Virgin" in the Herald the end I think it's lousy. She's a wonderful gal in many ways, but when it comes to sex she's off her rocker. I believe the girl is a kind. She loves to lead guys on—giving them every reason to think they'll score. When things get to the boiling point, she lowers the boom, feigns indignation and announces, "I'm not that kind of a girl!"

Although a medical examination would prove she has everything she so born with, I'd say her behavior is far from virginal. When she describes how far she goes, I find it difficult to understand what she thinks she's saving by not completing the act.

Curiously, please. I'd love for her and others who behave this way to see it in print. — One Who Was Tossed

Dear Out: Your friend, another "professional virgin" who made such a big issue over a little tease, are kidding themselves. Although they would be clinically "intact" they really haven't saved much in the way of personal integrity, reputation or anything else. I agree with you — they ARE sadistic.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been married to this wonderful man for four months. It is my first marriage (I'm in my late 30's) and Jack's second. He was widowed after a having been married for 18 years—so you see he is several years my senior.

It seems whenever Jack introduces me to anyone he says, "Meet my new wife." This bothers me. I don't feel it's necessary that I be introduced as "new." I've mentioned this to Jack at least three times but he seems to forget. What can I do to get the idea across? — Aches With Sensitivity

Dear Ass: Forget it. It's no big deal. Jack will probably drop that irritating word within the year. In the meantime you can't see that any harm is being done.

When he begins to introduce you as his OLD wife, then you'll have something to complain about.

Dear Ann Landers: I have to laugh the way people who write to you have divided themselves into two camps—cat lovers, who are invariably dog haters, and dog lovers, who hate all cats.

Actually, I don't mind either cats or dogs. It's children I find intolerable.

Why has so little been written on this subject—considering our society has become completely child-dominated?

More and more I meet people who share my disgust at the way our nation's little monsters are let loose to ruin cars, furniture, lawns, parks public buildings and even marriages.

I've been in homes where parents have allowed their children to take over the conversation, argue with guests, and run the entire show which I consider insolent. And have you noticed how many children are permitted to answer the phone and say, "Who is this?"

You might consider me an oddball, but there are more of us around than you think. I hope the parents who read your column give it some serious thought. — Upstate N.Y.

Dear Up: Well!!! I'm glad you refined your position. Dad, I'll keep my grandchildren away from YOUR neck of the woods.

Going Back to the Land Cut Their Food Costs

OTTAWA (CP)—A former social-services consultant for the city of Ottawa says he has found a way to beat the high cost of food for his family of nine children. He has gone back to the land in Prince Edward Island.

Mr. Carota's total income in 1974 from farming, fishing and film-making was $7,000, he said.

The family garden supplies its vegetable needs year-round. Mr. Carota cans or freezes what isn't eaten during the summer.

Mr. Carota said he scrounges potatoes left in the fields of nearby farms and stores them in a root cellar beneath the house. A cow gives 1 ½ gallons of milk a day and their chickens provide a steady supply of eggs.

Some of their sons grows wheat, which is ground at a nearby flour mill and used to make bread. The family even makes its own spaghetti.

The former consultant said his family's solution to high food costs will not work for the urban poor but he thinks a co-operative system would.

"We need a co-operative effort so farmers and fishermen can sell directly to the consumer," he said. "A co-op of farmers could sell their goods to a co-op of buyers."

Produce would be sold off railway cars in low-income families who live near railway stations. The program would remove middlemen from the system and allow consumers lower prices and farmers higher returns for their produce.

A show of summer fashions, song, dance and new cars will be presented at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. Friday, May 14 in downtown Belleville.

Sponsored by Trudeau Motors and the Downtown Merchants' Association, the show will be produced by Ida Burns and Associates.

It will be presented in front of Walker's Store on flat-bed trucks.

Shoes, men and women's clothing, cars, watches and even jewellery will be featured in the show which includes musical entertainment, all part of Downtown Days.

Books By And About Women

THE FIGHTING PARKHURSTS — by Rodi Mitchell.

The Parkhursts must be one of the most remarkable families in the history of Britain. The indomitable Mrs. Parkhurst and her three daughters, Christabel, Sylvia and Adela became involved in a multitude of causes from women's suffrage to helping to oust Mussolini's Fascists from Africa. They shared seething vitality but their politics ran the gamut from anarchism and communism to high Toryism and even near-Fascism.

Probably their strongest bond was their lifelong fating up the laces against injustice and apathy wherever it occurred. They were sometimes downright intolerant, yet their courage was unquestionable. They were, as David Mitchell characterizes them, "not inverted and essentially defensive feminists but inspired human beings who happened to be women."

The many photographs throughout this book lend a fascinating ingredient to a thoroughly delightful entertainment and meticulously researched history.

Made For The Cottage

SuperiorTV, 180 Cannifton Rd., have just the right TV for the cottage — a couple of them as a matter of fact. For a small color set, there is either a 14 inch or 13 inch model from Hotpoint, or a black and white 12 inch model by Viking from Hotpoint, or a black and white 12 inch model by Viking from Hotpoint. Superior also has a good selection of portable radios, portable cassette player and and tape recorder combinations and radio and tape recorder combinations. Just because you're getting away from it all, doesn't mean that you leave music and news behind. They'll be there when you want them, with the fine products from Superior TV. And don't forget that great Superior free year warranty on parts and labor on Hotpoint products. Have a great weekend!

Special Datsun Models

Vader's Car Sales are having some pretty exciting new arrivals this weekend — three special Datsun models. For the really economy-minded there's a stripped down version of the Datsun 220 going at a pretty stripped down price; to celebrate its first ten years in Canada, Nissan Canada has produced a special 710 2-door model with special options, again at a special price (quantities are limited however, so again at a special price (quantities are limited however, so you'd better hurry on this one). And for you Z car enthusiasts, the new 2802 2 + 2 will make your eyes pop out. And Vader's have just finished having the parking done, so it's not dusty up there at their new location on College St., just around the corner from their former North Front location. Happy car shopping.

The Weekend To Garden

This long weekend is traditionally THE weekend to beautify your environment with the planting of flowers and getting your vegetable garden in order. If the weather holds, it will be perfection itself. And Sidney Ian is ready for you. It just be perfection itself. And Sidney Ian is ready for you. It has all its annuals in stock as well as vegetables such as cabbage, tomatoes, seed potatoes, onion sets, etc., and Sidney Ian has all the tools and fertilizers you'll need too. And the great thing about Sidney Ian — and it's always a great thing to mention — is that Sidney Ian will be open on the holiday with its usual 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. shopping hour schedule. So you have no excuse for not getting that job done. And I bet you'll all enjoy it too, one you get at it.

Downtown Days Song

At the Tropical Garden Pet Shop, 261½ Front St., they are literally singing about the fabulous Downtown Days' now going on in downtown Belleville. And by "they", I mean the budgies, which are being featured at special prices as are many items in the downtown shopping area. The budgies are priced at just $6 each and the Tropical Garden fish special is still on too — three fish for just 75c. The Tropical Garden certainly isn't out of tune with the spirit of the special shopping event, though there is definitely something "fishy" about the part of the facilities. (Forgive me Tropical Garden, It's late and I just couldn't resist.)

Graduation Gift Headquarters

W. Womacott and Son Jewellers, 247 Front St. have quite a selection of graduation gifts available for you and your gift list — pendants, watches, rings, sterling silver ID bracelets, which I'm told are a really popular item. If you've got no idea, desk sets, and book ends, just to name a few. But on Womacott's, you get more than just a selection of good gift items tastefully displayed. You get advice absolutely free of charge — information about the kinds of stones in jewellery, versatility and DURABILITY and ABSOLUTELY ALWAYS, you get a smile. That's a guarantee. Womacotts will be glad to help because they really are glad to help!

Still Have Time

That great home furnishing team of Wrays and Kreshner is still offering custom corner drapes for Kreshner models. You come in to Wrays and choose your very own covering from an extensive selection and choose the style of furnishings to go with the, from a range of four. And you get not only high quality Kreshner construction, but also the range of fabric selection, which, you can understand, was about to be cut to stock every model in every future. This is indeed a special offer at Wrays, 366 Front St., but it's one that ends with all good offers — has an expiry date. And that date is this Saturday, May 17. So if you want quality and versatility in your home furnishings, you'd better hurry.

The Whole Thing

It struck me this week, when I was talking with Belleview Glass and Mirror, 254 Pinnacle St. that some of you who want patio doors are wondering where to get them. You've moved where you have envisaged your patio door. Well, Belleview doesn't just handle a selection of patio doors and do the measuring and estimating; they can do the wall work too. So maybe, you thought the whole thing was a bit of an impossibility and you didn't know where to make the first step. Well, the first step is a call to Belleview Glass and Mirror at 962-2511. And there is still a 10% discount on the price of patio doors. I'll bet you with the whole thing was done for this lovely weather.

Colors, Style and Price

If you've walked by the window at Studio 331 at 331 Front St., you will have seen the splashes of navy, red, and white which dominate the display. They could also describe the wardrobe, because those great colors are making fashion headlines again this season. And what also is making headlines is the 25 per cent discount on all merchandise in Studio 331 during the celebration of the downtown shopping extravaganza. And this 25 per cent extends to all purchases, also, including the wigs and jewellery in the wig boutique. Studio 331 is certainly getting into the swing of things and so should you, by getting yourself down there this weekend. It's a great weekend to shop DOWNTOWN.

Great Investment Potential

That's exactly how Gord Robbin Real Estate is describing this special Oak Hills property they are offering for sale. Here you have 15 acres of wilderness property, with lots of pine trees and a great view (as you look out two miles from Oak Lake and just 12 miles from Belleville. There are over 1200 feet of road frontage on this property, which also has a creek running through it. This acreage has a potential for some exciting estate-size building. So you people with an eye for a good investment and a good property should pick up your phone and call one of Gord Robbin sales staff at 968-6475. This kind of property just does not come along every day. And you know it.

Open On Monday

The Inn On The Bay Tavern in Picton will be open this long weekend. And what a great weekend to explore the many beauties of Prince Edward County and then end up at the county seat in Picton for lunch or dinner. (I think that I might well be accused of being in the employ of the Prince Edward County Chamber of Commerce). Inn On The Bay overlooks the Picton harbour, which should be a bustle of boats this weekend. And if you have visited the Inn before, you should go back again and see it in the spring. The menu may have changed, but the great food has not. And you'll still see your favorites such as roast prime rib and orange roughy and my favorite, Shrimp a la Mignon. Happy driving and happy dining at Inn On The Bay.

Women's Year at Murray's

This is International Women's Year, as you all know. And its impact is being felt down at Murray's Food Market on Front St. Not only has cashier Sue-Ann Davis proven that while the produce manager is a man, she can make profits and happy customers, but there's a lot of activity and discussion going on at the cashier's desk. What's all this about the smiles from the guys in the meat department? Who has to take the customers' money with a smile — all the time? Who has to bear the increased brunt of the Im Ins cost of living, each and every day? Who talks to the stalwart Murray's customers every day and makes them feel welcome, no matter if they have a headache, or new shoes on, or they are mad at Murray? The trusty, tired and very overworked, that's who. So hats off to the cashiers at Murrays. Why not?

Immigrant Children Pose School Problem

VANCOUVER (CP) — Educationists say the biggest single problem facing the Vancouver school system is students with non-English-speaking backgrounds who need extra help with their English.

A sharp upward swing in immigration has intensified the problem because almost half the non-English-speaking newcomers go to British Columbia settle in Vancouver—1,385 of 3,013 students in the 1973-74 school year.

The school board says it is a crisis situation unique in Canada.

Of the 60,657 elementary and secondary school students currently enrolled in Vancouver schools, more than 26 per cent identify English as a second language.

The largest group of these 15,855 students is Chinese, with 5,042 students or 43.7 per cent of the group considering English a second language.

Other main groups in this category are: Italian, 2,481 (13.2 per cent); German, 1,391 (7.4) and Punjabi, 924 (4.9). Others in descending order are Portuguese, Greek, Dutch, Indian, Japanese, Yugoslav, Hindi, Filipino-Tagalog, and French.

The school board maintains that the federal government should provide most of the extra financial assistance required because Ottawa brings in the immigrants.

Last year the Vancouver board received $880,000 from the provincial department of education to provide for special needs beyond the regular budget. Half of this went to hire teachers, many of whom were assigned to handle second-language students.

This year, the board and department set up a formula under which the board will pay half the cost of a $800,000 program for instruction in language assistance centres staffed by specialized teachers and members of the community.

Jack Fleming, deputy education minister, said he is hopeful the federal government will assist with funding.

Cheques stolen in Kenya have been cashed in South America within 24 hours, police spokesman said.

Macdonald Mystery Filmed at Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Ross Macdonald, whose 23 mystery novels have sold six million copies, expressed pleasure that his novel, The Three Roads, is being filmed in Toronto.

His thrillers feature detective Lew Archer.

Macdonald, Kenneth Miller in private life, spent his childhood in Canada with his parents and later, after their breakup, with a series of relatives. He obtained the first of his several post-graduate degrees at the Ontario College of Education. Though his books are set in California, scattered references to Toronto pop up in them.

In Toronto for the start of the filming by Savona Films, Macdonald said the script by Toronto writer Tom Hedley is "a terrific achievement."

The first Archer book, The Moving Target, starred Paul Newman in the movie Harper. The second, The Drowning Pool, stars Newman again and will be released soon.

Commenting on the mystery novel, Macdonald said: "The literary subculture has always been just full of mystery freaks. It is almost the central genre in English writing, and it keeps coming back.

"People enjoy the illusion of seeing life presented as a mysterious puzzle, a puzzle with a tidy solution."

His detective, here has become less macho and more gentle toward women, and less violent as he grows older. "In fact I," said his 49-year-old creator.

Archer had become more contemplative, "and I'm still for less political than I was."

Oil Policy Said Work Of CIA Man

TORONTO (CP) — Mel Hurtig, Edmonton publisher and a founding member of the Committee for an Independent Canada, says a former member of the United States Office of Strategic Service, predecessor of the Central Intelligence Agency, now is a special adviser to Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed.

He told a meeting of the Canadian Electrical Distributors Association Wednesday that Walter J. Levy, a former U.S. presidential and state department consultant, is earning $60,000 annually as a part-time resource development consultant to Mr. Lougheed.

"During the past 15 years, Mr. Levy has been instrumental in convincing both Alberta and Ottawa that we had plenty of oil and that if we followed the policy the U.S. would do us a favor and take some of our surplus off our hands," he said.

"It was Mr. Levy who helped convince Canadians we absolutely had to hook pipeline to Montreal to service our markets.

"It was Mr. Levy . . . who actually drafted the ridiculous 1961 National Oil Policy that helped American petroleum companies exploit their Canadian cruds by their U.S. refineries while insuring the highest possible profits importing offshore oil into Eastern Canada.

"And now, today in 1975, incredibly, it is Mr. Levy again, this time as a $60,000-a-year part-time consultant to Peter Lougheed, helping to plan 'the giveaway of the Athabasca tar sands,' he said.

"It was on the basis of Walter Levy's advice that Peter Lougheed ignored the expert advice that he had received from the senior Alberta civil servants that had been forced to give a different task forces over a period of two years . . . advice as to how to develop the tar sands in Alberta's best interests and in the best interests of Canada as a whole," he said. "The essence of their advice was that . . . now is the time to resist the growing historical trend of greater foreign ownership in Canada's energy resources . . . the tar sands can be developed with Canadian expertise and with Canadian capital.

"The result of Mr. Levys influence on Mr. Lougheed—and I'm very correct and very recent influence; that I'm talking about—was the Sunday, June agreement in September of 1973 for a massively subsidized, 80 per cent foreign-owned so-called Syncrude plant, controlled by—under the control of Exxon—one of Mr. Levy's former employers."

Boycott Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Association of University Teachers (CAUT) voted Wednesday to boycott Simon Fraser University on Jan. 26 unless a satisfactory resolution of all outstanding grievances has been arranged.

Gets CBC Job

TORONTO (CP) — Judy LaMarsh, former federal cabinet minister who was recently named to head a provincial government commission studying violence in movies and on television, says she has accepted an offer to become host of This Country in the Morning on CBC radio.

Miss LaMarsh said in an interview Tuesday that before she begins her CBC job in September, the name and format of the show will be changed.

Big Deficit

LONDON (AP) — Britain announced Wednesday a huge loss of 392 million pounds ($884.7 million) in its overseas trade for April, but the deficit was not as bad as had been feared in London's financial community.

Policeman Spat

TORONTO (CP) — Joseph McLean, 58, a Metropolitan Toronto policeman, pleaded guilty to a provincial court Wednesday to a charge of common assault for spitting in the face of a man in a city restaurant.

McLean, who was off duty at the time of the offence, was given an absolute discharge.

Convicts Want Raise

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — The cost of canteen items has increased at a greater rate than convicts pay and a raise is necessary to keep pace with inflation, says a brief signed by 300 Millhaven institute prisoners.

The prisoners sent a copy of the brief this week to Andre Therrien, commissioner of prisons, on behalf of 2,400 prisoners in the Ontario region, saying wages in the last year increased by 19.31 per cent, while canteen items jumped an average of 36.44 per cent.

Boiler Idle

BATH, Ont. (CP)—One of four boilers at Ontario Hydro's Lennox generating station has been inoperative since April but plant spokesman Dennis Wilkie said Wednesday he is optimistic that the problem will be isolated and corrected within eight weeks. The defective part of the 500-megawatt boiler are being studied at several research laboratories in Canada and the United States, Mr. Wilkie said. Bath is eight miles west of Kingston.

Billion Dollar Land Fraud Found

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — State officials said Wednesday they have uncovered what may be the largest land fraud swindle in the history of the United States, involving thousands of victims and up to $1 billion in lost investments.

Details of the alleged fraud were disclosed by state Attorney-General Robert Shevin and Comptroller Gerald Lewis.

The scheme, allegedly involves the pyramid-type sale of 5-acre fish farm parcels on private property.

Lewis, responsible for enforcing Florida's security laws, said his investigation so far involves 36 land developments which allegedly have defrauded between 30,000 and 50,000 people out of $700 million to $1 billion through the sale of unsecured high interest rate corporate notes.

Lewis said some of the principals "have known links with organized crime."

A land development corporation buys a large tract of land with money borrowed from a bank or an investment group, which in turn is given a first mortgage on the property. Then the developer subdivides the tract and sells lots to individuals for little or nothing down and a small monthly payment.

The lot buyers are promised as long as they maintain their payments.

But then the developer begins to sell so-called "corporate bonds" bearing an interest rate of an attractive 14 per cent, giving the investor a first mortgage on a certain number of lots, depending on the size of the investment, as protection.

Then the developer defaults on the interest payments on the bonds, and the investor tries to foreclose on the lots only to discover that the first mortgage he thought he held actually was owned by the original lender.

"In many cases, these investors have discovered that only did somebody else hold the first mortgage but nobody ever owned the lots that were given as security or that more than one person had been assigned the same lots," Lewis said.

Lewis said the injunction named the Equitable Development Corp. of Fort Lauderdale, developer of Highland Park Estates near Sebring, Fla., as one of the firms involved.

Spending Plans Appease North

THUNDER BAY, Ont. (CP) — Plans by the Ontario government to spend several million dollars more on northwestern Ontario appeared at least, some of the concern of the area who came to do battle Wednesday with provincial cabinet ministers holding a public session.

The province revealed a $18.5 million package Tuesday to counter what it said is regional disparity. On Wednesday, additions to the Thunder Bay-Lakehead gave some confirmed decisions to go ahead with two additions to the Thunder Bay electric power generating station and land acquisition for a thermal plant at Marmion Lake near Atikokan, about 120 miles northwest of Thunder Bay.

A $3.5-million government office building at Thunder Bay, dubbed a "mini Queen's Park," by James Auld, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Port William, and a $1.6-million provincial courthouse were officially opened during the cabinet tour.

Environment Minister William Newman also revealed a control order issued against Dryden Pulp and Paper Co. that would cut use of mercury by the firm and fall and redeem odors from the plant.

Allan Grossman, provincial resources development minister, said Grand Council Treaty 9 Indians that cabinet members would meet for three days in June with Indian representatives in Sault Ste. Marie to discuss an Indian proposal for better communications with the government.

Third of Drivers Fail Their Tests

At the first corner the nervous applicant turned left and lost control. The car went across a sidewalk, crashed through a drugstore window, destroying a perfume display, and stopped beside the cash register.

"I suppose this fails me?" the driver murmured.

"Yes, I believe it does," answered the shaky but sweat-smelling examiner.

Thirty per cent of the 365,223 persons in Ontario who took their first test for a driver's licence failed last year, and the man who went through the perfume display was one of them.

Forty per cent of all vehicles in Canada are in Ontario and Toronto is third in vehicle density in North America, after Los Angeles and Detroit.

So more people take driving tests in Ontario than anywhere else in Canada, and as a result, more fail—despite all the training ways that give the 226 driver examiners a title for their money.

One examiner was trapped in a car for more than an hour after the applicant smashed into a hydro pole. The pole broke and the wires snapped and covered the car.

An applicant from British Columbia told an examiner the worst drivers in the world were from Toronto. He then passed a streetcar on the left.

Another applicant believed in the power of positive thinking. "I am a very good driver," he repeated to the examiner. "I am a very good driver."

As he made a turn, he lost control of the car. The alert examiner grabbed the steering wheel, got a foot on the brake and brought the car to a stop safely.

"You're a very good driver too," said the shaken applicant.

Such incidents can make an examiner nervous, say Jim McLane and Dave Vail who between them have 22 years experience as examiners.

Mr. McLane, 33, district manager for the transportation and communication ministry in Kitchener, Ont., and former chief examiner for Metropolitan Toronto, said many examiners quit but none has been killed.

Mr. Vail, 47, supervisor of examiners in Mississauga, Ont., said one man who quit at lunch hour on his first day on the job, "thought we were crazy."

Both agree that examiners must be calm and have a liking for people. For $12,988 a year, they face not only unskilled drivers but also unpleasant ones. One applicant threatened to shoot an examiner after he failed the test. Another spat in the examiner's face.

A few attempts to bribe examiners still go on, but, said Mr. Vail, "We don't get much of it any more. It's got around that you can't buy us."

The test ride can be as thrilling as an amusement-park roller coaster or as boring as a Marx Brothers comedy.

In one examination, the car was not equipped with signal lights. "Or if I use hand signals?" the applicant said. "It's OK with me," the examiner replied.

The applicant was told to turn left and signalled correctly, but when he was told to turn right he stuck out his right arm, smacking the examiner in the mouth. He failed.

Day Seen When Manure Will Be Animal Feed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Scientists at the University of British Columbia are working on an idea not unlike one proposed by the classic Gulliver's Travels by Jonathan Swift.

In that book scientists were trying to make something useful out of excrement but were handling the material unsuccessfully.

Lionel Cosiliard, director of the project at UBC, says as a result of the work being done now he sees a day when animal manure as well as human waste will be processed for animal feed.

Recently, four university researchers, in the fields of engineering and agriculture, signed a $240,000 contract with Environment Canada, and the federal department of supplies and services, to hire engineers to design 10,000-gallon biological digesters. The digesters will convert animal waste into feed.

Dr. Coulthard, a sanitary engineer, is working on the project by Hugh Sabey, an animal nutritionist; Farwell Ellis, chairman of the department of animal and poultry science; Duffy Tweddell, a microbiologist, and Darrell Bratz, a poultry nutritionist.

BACTERIA USED

The system uses thermophilic (heat-loving) bacteria which neutralizes odors and heat the sewage to the point where it becomes sanitary-safe. Sludge, like the digesters, sediment will absorb the manure to provide oxygen for the bacteria.

Dr. Coulthard said temperatures in the centers will be as much as 160 degrees Fahrenheit, destroying bacteria and any other harmful organisms in the material.

Dr. Tweedsley said other harmless bacteria then can be made to increase the nutrient value of the treated sewage.

Dr. Coulthard said it takes about two weeks to produce a quantity of usable feed in a 50 gallon digester, which has been operating 3 years. The large model would be operated continuously and would produce 1½ to two tons, dried weight, of feed a day.

The scientists estimate that about 25 per cent of the solids processed are recovered. The final product is odorless and high in protein compared with the original material.

Dr. Coulthard said the new product has not yet been approved for use as feed for animals destined for human consumption but he suspects government approval soon.

"What we have been doing is throwing away a good food source," said Dr. Coulthard. He noted that in terms of nutrient value human sewage is the highest compared to that of poultry, swine, beef and dairy cattle.

He said the potential for public-health use of the process "is probably even greater" than the benefits for agriculture.

Dr. Coulthard, noting there is always the possibility of a "super bug" epidemic developing, especially through [illegible] overgovernment plants, said the thermophilic process acts as an effective guard.

He said the federal department of agriculture is interested because of the possible use of the process to save on feed costs and for use by farmers near urban areas.

Dr. Sabey said his experiments indicate the nutrient material can substitute for about 25 to 30 per cent of farm animal diets.

He also said that while high-grade soy meal now costs about $350 a ton, the material his group will produce might cost $100 to $150 a ton.

"Sewage is an nutritional resource."

Coulthard said animal wastes which are simply dried out can be used as feed for ruminant animals, like cows, which have multiple stomachs. However, the material being produced by single-stomach animals like poultry, pigs and man.

"We might come to that eventually, but I haven't tested it," he said. "I don't like the idea of it."

LUTON, England (CP) — When jealous wife Sonia Mickleborough suspicions of her husband James, she persuaded friend John Adams to install a "love bug"—a small radio transmitter in James' car. The idea was to lure in on his conversations, but James discovered the wiring was a bomb and called police. Adams was fined for using an undicensed transmitter, while James and Sonia patched things up.

Sheiks Still Fight For Deposed Imam

WADI AL JAW, North Yemen (Reuter) — Royalist sheikhs, flying to the banner of the deposed Imam Badgr of Yemen, still are fighting pro-royalist forces in a war that most of the world has forgotten.

In San'a, capital of the Arab Republic of (North) Yemen, officials instinctively lower their voices if the conversation turns to the war that officially ended five years ago.

But in this fruit-like republican outpost, a 12-hour Jeep ride northwards of San'a, a young army officer talks more readily.

"Although the government says it has pacified Al Jaw, the fighting is continuing in these remote valleys," he said.

"This country is ungovernable. Do you know what we call it? The land between the Red Sea and the devil."

The officer, armed with a British First World War rifle and a curved dagger stuck in his belt, is one of three commanding a force of 300 republican troops. Only one month they lost six men in a clash with the royalist followers of the Imam near Al Razm, six miles east of here.

Speaking in Arabic through an interpreter, the officer said his men were forced to abandon their position outside Al Razm following the clash.

They have since withdrawn to the entrance of Wadi Al Jaw, a rugged, twisting valley, about 15 miles west of the Saudi Arabian border and not far from where the Queen of Sheba once held court.

The soldiers' beats are short. They go down to Razm and at dusk the men return to them for a hot bite of food, leaves chewed like drugs for their stimulated effect, before turning in.

The three officers have the unique privilege of a truck in which to spend the night, with a mattress on the floor and a transistor radio. Several Soviet-made ammunition boxes serve as furniture.

The fighting goes back to September, 1962, when army officers backed by Egypt deposed Imam Al-Badr, an king of Yemen and proclaimed a republic.

With support of Saudi Arabia, the imams and his followers set up their headquarters in the north of the country and have set against the republicans for eight years.

Not until 1970 was the Imam forced to go into exile, having holded monitored groups of his adherents.

With a battle flag bearing a white sword and five stars on a green background, the royalist irregulars have fought on, using their knowledge of the mountains to elude government troops.

In San'a, government officials say the royalist front is crumbling but that the republicans will done not run beyond the mouth of the valley of Al Jaw.

Opposition United
No Restrictive Budget Is Needed

OTTAWA (C) — Government economic policies took a verbal beating in the Commons Wednesday from an unusually united opposition that warned against a restrictive budget.

Ed Broadbent, New Democrat parliamentary leader, accused Finance Minister Edgar Turner of ignoring unemployment in his budget-fashioning. "It's fanning inflation."

His call for an expansionary budget aimed at increasing employment was followed by Opposition Leader Stanfield with a warning that a tight-veristic fire budget "would be the final disgusting act in a sequence of events born in dishonesty, nurtured in complacency and matured in perversion."

Progressive Conservatives and the NDP formed a rare alliance on an economic issue, supporting each other in votes on a non-confidence motion by Mr. Broadbent and an amendment by Mr. Stanfield. The majority Liberals easily won both votes with a margin of 131 to 86 on the main motion and of 138 to 79 on the amendment.

The debate was on a topic chosen by the NDP, but Mr. Stanfield took the limelight with a sharp scathing attack on Mr. Turner and his economic policy.

Mr. Turner, planning a budget late this month or early June, had told the House that consensus involving labor and business was fighting inflation is the only palatable restraint program.

"During the last few minutes that the minister was speaking I had the feeling that I was listening to one of my own speeches except that it was not as well delivered," quipped Mr. Stanfield, who has been flattered only in the election landslide after campaigning for income and price controls.

He said there has been too much gamesmanship, secrecy and too much confusion sometimes seeming to be created deliberately on the economic program.

By frittering away the months immediately after the election, the government has caused Ottawa to see the consensus program as a sham "and from there it looks as if it has been a shambles."

Turner Will Report to Cabinet Today on Economic Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister John Turner is expected to report to cabinet today on his problems in selling a voluntary wage and price control program and seek advice on what to do next.

He said Wednesday that government plans probably will be disclosed in a new federal budget, which he hopes to introduce by the end of the month.

The finance minister was questioned persistently again in the Commons Wednesday about economic policies to fight inflation and recession and he told opposition members to wait for the budget.

Earlier Wednesday he met 27 business leaders, including heads of some of the country's largest corporations. There were no conclusive results from the five-hour session, participants said later.

"We are prepared to co-operate with anything that has a serious chance of working," Mr. Turner said after the meeting with businessmen.

In another economic development, Canada said in a preliminary report that profits of industrial corporations were down 19 per cent in the first quarter compared with a year ago. For manufacturing industries there was a 17-per-cent profit decline. Mr. Turner has warned that the competitive position of Canadian companies is suffering because increases in production costs—including labor costs—have been higher here than in other countries.

He refused comment on the possibility that the government might use a mandatory wage and price control program if it has in reserve.

Communications Talks to Continue

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal and provincial communications ministers Wednesday turned a two-day conference into a constipating affair as the completion of their dispute frustrated their attempts to resolve it.

Federal Communications Minister Gerard Pelletier faced a concerted provincial effort to wrest some of the federal government's traditional authority over communications out of Ottawa's grip.

"We're not on for a power trip," he told reporters. "We want to protect the national broadcasting system," including both CBC and private networks such as CTV television network.

The provinces were willing to leave such systems, "national in scope," under federal control. CTV television and satellite communications also figured in their concept of ideal systems.

But they had little more demand, expressed in a common statement read by John Rhodes, Ontario's communications minister. All communications within the borders of each province should be under the jurisdiction of that province.

Mr. Pelletier had one thing to offer: A formal committee of all communications ministers in the country, as a means of improving consultation with the provinces.

By the end of what was scheduled as a two-day federal-provincial conference, Mr. Pelletier had conceded nothing of substance.

He had, however, agreed to consider bringing the provinces into the decision-making role that was at the root of their demands.

In fact, all parties agreed to extend the meeting. They will reconvene in mid-July, leaving civil servants to work on preparations for the extension of the conference.

Sidney Gives to Area Rec Programs

Sidney Township will spend approximately $36,000 on recreation this year, following a budget presentation by new recreation director Jim Neale before Monday night's council meeting.

Reeve Gord Wilson said that while this figure could be changed slightly during May 30 budget discussions, "I'm sure we'll be pretty close to this as a realistic budget to use."

Total expenditures in the budget presented by new recreation director Jim Neale totalled $42,850 while the $6,000 payment anticipated to be received from participants in registration fees to offset expenditures totalled $36,175.

The largest item in the budget is in the area of capital expenditures — a sum of $20,000.

The budget also includes $1,500 toward the Belleville Minor Sports Association, and $2,000 for Trenton.

Township councils of Sidney and Frankford did not approach the township, however, Trenton notified the they intended receive some financial assistance to help defray deficits participating in their recreation programs.

$60 in the budget which still must be passed by council May 30.

City Gives Fair Board Vote of Confidence

By CARL MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

The right of the Quinte Exhibition and Raceway to continue its operation on its present Sidney Street site was given further lease at Wednesday night's informal meeting between officials of the fair and city council. The result was a strong vote in favor.

At issue in the 2½-year lease the fair board holds on its property. The lease is held by the city parks board. Confusing the issue are separate leases held by the curling club and town bowling club and the future of Sidney Street.

Eight of city councillors, led by Mayor Robin Jeffrey, attended the meeting called by the fair board to attempt to clarify the position of the fair and its future. All were in favor of continuing the fair and harness racing at the present site, with the exception of Alderman Joan Corkie.

"This is one of the most reasonable presentations I've had in City Hall," Mrs. Corkie said. "But this facility should not be in the city. The fairgrounds and raceway should be somewhere on the perimeter of the city. The serviced acreage should be split between industrial and family dwellings. The city should assist the fair board to relocate and free this land for a more suitable use."

In rebuttal, former fair board president Doug Rollins pointed out fair and racing operations required services land as much as residential properties. Fair board manager Ev Gosnell noted that fairs, raceway and community centres had a record of complementing each other.

Genevieve Edmonds, Calgary, the CNE in Toronto and Hilters are examples of fair operations that had a considerable record of growth and success.

Fair board president Lyle Vanclief said the basic lease is the future of the fair and its harness racing are its

Gifted Students One Area of Board Study

A community task force, looking into alternatives in education, may consider the problems facing the gifted and talented children of society.

The task force, made up of teachers, principals, a family court lawyer and lay people, met this week at the Education Centre to discuss methods of obtaining information about school leavers.

In the course of discussion, the task force pointed indicated an interest in percentage of students that have an exceptional gift in academics, athletics or one or two areas of endeavor.

There is a growing interest across North America in the gifted and talented students which many educators believe is a neglected segment of the student population.

Meanwhile, the group will pursue its study into early

Wearing Out Welcome

City Harbor Improvement Committee chairman Stu Meeks and helper Ken Gilberson Wednesday morning replaced rocks taken from shoreline with the boards of the floating docks in the harbor. Smelt, fishermen built fireplaces with the rocks and left them behind. In this one they left the decomposing corpses of two carp and a rabbit. "Fishermen are welcome here," said Ald. Meeks, "but they've got to respect our property and the work we've put into it."

Sidney Residents May Face $40 Tax Hike This Year

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The average residential taxpayer in Sidney Township may pay approximately $40 more in taxes this year the result of an anticipated 11 mill tax hike.

Council was given preliminary figures Wednesday based largely on estimates. Formal budget discussions will be held May 30 when the rate will be made official, said Reeve Gord Wilman.

Township treasurer Bob Vandervoort said the new rate is composed of the township's general rate, the county levy and the school board levy — will mean approximately $12.8 more this year for an assessment of $1,000. The average township assessment is $3,200.

Reeve Wilman said his council has tried to control spending this year in anticipation of marked increases from the county and the school board.

The county's levy climbed 47 per cent or an additional $125,000 and the school board 17 per cent or $190,000.

Compared to total township expenditures last year of about $1,600,000, this year the total expenditure is up 25% on the bulk of which is accounted for in the county and school levies.

Reeve Wilman said these figures are close estimates at this time but that some changes could be made during the May 30 current budget session when it is anticipated the mill rate will gain official recognition.

The township opened last year with a surplus of $111,000 and closed with a surplus of $118,000.

The township's total expenditures were $1.6 million. Approximately $1.1 million was raised through taxation, $104,000 through other government contributions, $367,000 in subsidies and $18,000 in fees revenues.

Sewage Cost Raised

Sidney Township will pay $21,650 in its share of the maintenance of the Batawa Sewage plant, it was learned at a council meeting Wednesday.

This marks an increase from the previous year of more than $2,000.

"They felt we weren't paying our share of the labor and chemicals," township staff told council.

Seventeen Area Groups Receive City Funding

In its current budget for 1975, city council has made grants totalling $41,925 to 17 Belleville agencies and groups.

The name of the group and grant received are as follows: Central Volunteer Bureau $6,500, CHUO $1,800, Chamber of Commerce $8,000, Convention Bureau $2,000, Horticultural Society $200, Salvation Army Camp $500, Highlands of Hastings Tourist Association $700, Santa Claus Parade $700, United Community Services $12,000, Rotary Music Festival $300, YMCA $1,000, Wharf Street Bowling Club $200, Central Ontario Cheese Makers Association $200, Belleville and District Employment committee $250, Canadian Mental Health Association $100, Quinte Arts Council $1,000 and a contingency fund of $225.

Garage Robbed

Several break and enter activities have kept city police busy this week.

Ed's Esso at 113 Station St. reported a set of trade worth cards and a tape deck and tapes valued at $125 were stolen from its premises between 7 p.m., Tuesday and 7 p.m., Wednesday. Entry was gained by breaking a window.

Bruce Seamans of 76 South Foster Ave., told police someone stole $275 worth of fishing tackle and rods from his boat docked at the yacht club sometime late Tuesday or early Wednesday.

And Rollins Construction notified police of the theft of a set. of screwdrivers valued at $110 sometime late Tuesday or early Wednesday from building under construction on Tracey St.

Fence Missing

City police are investigating an unusual theft which occurred on the property of Talbot Motors 79 Ltd. at 266 North Front St. sometime between 5-7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

A company spokesman reported the theft of about 75 metres cut out and stole a 12-foot section of seven-foot high fence.

Thieves Cart Meat Away

City police may have found a number of meat products stolen from a city residence two weeks ago, but they have been held for a purpose.

Police said today they were notified by Mrs. Ida Kirs of 111 Avondale Ave. Wednesday that she had frozen food missing from her freezer. Her wheelbarrow had been stolen earlier but the additional theft was not detected until this week.

Fish Pier Proposed

Dunkers — Young, old or middle-aged — will have a place of their own to practise their favorite sport if plans can put his plan into reality.

The plan is simply to build a pier for fishermen out from Victoria Park into the Moira River just south of the CPR bridge.

"If we can scrimp and scrounge enough this summer to get the materials together, I'd like to see a pier set aside for fishermen — and women — projecting out from the floating docks," Alderman Meeks said. "I'd wager a lot of pople would get a lot of enjoyment from it."

"My idea is that it should be exclusively for fishing and that there are signs put up to that effect."

Planning, Waste Control Two Major County Concerns

Waste disposal and regional planning were cited as the two major problems facing Hastings County during a meeting of the Association of Counties and Regions of Ontario this week.

More than 120 elected and appointed officials from the Hastings County area attended the conference Tuesday to discuss a broad range of questions dealing with the county and particularly to discuss the need for a study to investigate restructuring of county boundaries and government.

Responding to the question of problems facing the county, Tweed Reeve Barbara Allen said along with waste disposal and planning, the county is faced with the broad problems of regional disparities and costs of operating county property.

County Warden Bill McCrae in an interview Wednesday, he agreed that these were all areas of prime concern with his administration but generally, "the county is in good shape."

He said he felt waste management was the major issue in that provincial regulations governing waste disposal are forcing municipal governments to carry costly changes.

With the province more restrictive on burning waste and exercising more controls on dump sites, individual municipalities are under increasing pressure to provide sophisticated disposal techniques," said Reeve Allen.

Warden McCrae said planning is one of his personal priorities as a county area of concern and said, "The Quinte Planning Board and the Hastings County Planning Board do most work closely together."

He said roads were always a major problem in that "they seem to wear out as fast as we get them built." The county this year will spend more than $1 million on road improvements, he said.

As for money problems, "we and everybody else has money problems. Municipal budget always make headlines," said the warden.

The warden said interest still exists among member municipalities on county council in the problem. "We can argue like the devil around council table but always stay friends."

Township May Lease Land for Firehall

Sidney Township councillors will meet with the Hastings County Board of Education to discuss leasing a place on property at Bayside Secondary School for use as a fire hall site to serve the south end of the township.

Originally, the township asked to buy the property but it was said this week that the board of education found here might be compatible for the sale — decisions that could be circumvented by leasing the land.

Sidney Township — participating the sale — has already purchased a new fire truck for the south division and has set up a capital fund for construction of the fire hall.

Township clerk Hugh Lyons said today, the township's capital fund which is aimed at building construction, will probably exceed $180,000 this year after current budget talks May 30.

This capital fund is tentatively earmarked for construction of a fire hall — evaluated at approximately $88,000 and later construction of an arena facility.

Creative Spirit as Important as Three Rs Says Educator

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the eighth of a series featuring community persons. The personality sketches include teachers, administrators and trustees.

By RON CARSON

While some educators are talking about the 3 Rs there is still the odd one who is more developing the creative spirit of students is a major role of today's schools.

"The creative person is an asset rather than a liability to society . . . it doesn't matter what area of life," says Murray Irwin, arts co-ordinator for the Hastings County Board of Education. Mr. Irwin has been with the administration since last September.

The former teacher at Albert College, Mr. Irwin joined the county system at Queen Elizabeth School where he was department head of English. He later moved to Centennial Secondary School as a vice-principal.

As an arts co-ordinator, Mr. Irwin is responsible for co-ordinating curriculum within the subjects of music, art, drama, physical education, home economics and industrial arts throughout the county. The board also employs another arts co-ordinator, Connie Williams.

Mr. Irwin says he sees his role as supportive.

"The job is to provide support and assistance to teachers in the way of resource material for courses, contacts in the community, the organizing of workshops and teaching techniques," he explained.

He also says the co-ordinators assist in providing good experiences to the students, through the use of plays, theatre groups and musical presentations. Much of the co-ordinators work takes place in the school.

Mr. Irwin says the co-ordinators must also keep on top of new curriculum developments from the ministry of education. Secondary school curriculums are always in constant change.

Outside of education Mr. Irwin has been active in choral work in the city. He now is choir director with the Belleville Choral Society which was founded in 1935. He has also been a former president of the Quinte Arts Council and is still an active member.

Mr. Irwin says he has retained the possibility of returning to the classroom at some time in the future.

Creative Spark

Murray Irwin, one of the arts co-ordinators with the Hastings Board of Education, says he believes the development of the creative aspect of human personality is still of prime importance in education despite a revived interest in the three Rs.

Student Centre Opens

Wednesday saw the official opening of this year's Canada Manpower Centre for Students (CMC) located at 223 Dundas Street East. On hand for the ceremony was (from left to right) student placement officer Peter Fleming, Alderman George Zegouras and CMC representative Ham Fraser. Placement advisors can be reached by calling 962-8681.

Shero Says Solid Effort Is All the Flyers Need

PHILADELPHIA (CP)

Coach Fred Shero of the Philadelphia Flyers doesn't believe in the law of averages.

Thus, if Bernie Parent wins outlasting the idea that they are due to lose the next time because of the Stanley Cup final tonight, because they haven't beaten the Flyers the previous seven times before, Shero says they are wrong.

"You sure they're saying the law of averages is on their side and they're due to beat us," Shero said. "I don't believe in the law of averages. You have to work hard."

But Shero said the Buffalo players believe perhaps the Sabres are due to beat the Flyers, who are 13-6-3 on their home ice against Buffalo and were 3-0-1 home and away against the Sabres during the 1974-75 National Hockey League season.

"I think it's about time the breaks started going for us," said Buffalo winger Rick Dudley.

"So one game they beat us 4-1 in Philadelphia and we outshot them by 20 shots. In our last game of the season (a 6-4 tie) we outshot them badly again. But there is confident that if the Flyers, who outscored the Sabres 354 in their four years in the season meetings, "play good hockey, we'll do all right."

RICK DUDLEY

The Sabres won their first game over an incident in the 1971-72 season when the Sabres beat Philadelphia 9-3 with four second goals to go in last 7:30 of the regular schedule, knocking Philadelphia out of the playoffs that year.

"I don't mind losing with four seconds to go but they laughed openly at us," Dudley said. "I think a lot of our players still remember that."

The Flyers are coming off a rugged seven-game semi-final series against New York Islanders which concluded Tuesday night. The Sabres have been off a week after eliminating Montreal Canadiens in six games of the other semi-final.

Coach Floyd Smith of the Sabres says his club has matured since the regular season and is not worried that they'll be flat after their layoff.

"We have no reason to come to flat. The kids have been working hard in practice. If we come out and do our work when the time comes, we'll be OK."

One major addition the Sabres have made is goalie Gerry Desjardins, who moved back from the World Hockey Association late in the season.

Armstrong Not Looking For Job in Pro Ranks

It only confirms George Armstrong's theory that he wouldn't be worth a pro contract for any amount of money, let alone love of the game.

The Chief, as he was known for 20 years as wing for Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, doesn't need the aggravation that goes with the exposure of major league sports.

The team wrapped up the organization's seventh Memorial Cup Sunday with a never-to-be-forgotten 7-3 win in the sudden-death final with New Westminster Bruins at Kitchener.

"If I continue coaching, it will be with the Marlies," Armstrong said this morning after a reception for the Canadian champions. "I will not coach a part of a five home television doubleheader beginning at 8:30 EDT. The first loss will be a 13-round non-title match between Victory Galindez of Argentina, the World Boxing Association light heavyweight champion, and Ray Elson of New Jersey.

Rick MacLeish Top Shooter With a Western Flavor

PHILADELPHIA (CP)—Rick MacLeish's nearly goal-a-game shooting spree in the playoffs is the epitome of the talent-depth and the ability to spot flaws in the style of goalies.

The 25-year-old centre for Philadelphia Flyers looks more like a country-western star than a player with one of the deadliest shots in the National Hockey League. He's all wrist.

His goal production in three full seasons with the Flyers tallied 25, 32 and 34. In the playoffs, his total is 22 in 42 games.

MacLeish put the Philadelphia Quakers in the Stanley Cup final against Buffalo Sabres with a 4-2 victory Tuesday night that came the gutsy New York Islanders 4-1 in the seventh game of their semi-final series.

Rick has had a good teacher as far as "grueling" goalies is concerned—Marcel Pelletier, an ex-goalie. Marcel directs the Flyers' player development and keeps himself busy doing a little scouting of the playoffs on the side.

MacLeish put in two of his eight shots against rookie goalie Glenn Resch in the Islanders and scored into an empty net to complete the hat trick, giving him 18 goals in 11 playoff games since April 30.

And he has been the busiest Flyer at the rink with 47 shots.

"Resch is fast on the blue line side and not too many goalies are good on the side," Shero said.

ON DISABLED LIST

MONTREAL (CP) — Dale Murray, a right-handed pitcher with Montreal Expos, has been placed on the National League club's 21-day disabled list retroactive to Monday, a spokesman for the baseball team said Wednesday. Murray, who underwent hospital Monday, is suffering from hepatitis.

RICK MacLEISH

MacLeish said, "It's always a weak spot and I try to pick it. I scored maybe three goals on that side."

Rick said Resch should not be criticized for the way he played against the Flyers, ending with a 3-3 record. Over-all, Resch won eight of his 13 playoff starts.

Caribous Defeat Quebecois

QUEBEC (CP)—Pat Diffey and Jim Miller scored three goals each to lead Quebec Caribous to a 10-10 victory over Montreal Quebecois in a National Lacrosse League game Wednesday night.

Jimmy Higgs and Paul Cleci added two each for Quebec while Montreal's scorers, Nick Delmonico and Dave Lintzenberger, also scored two each.

Can BMHA Afford to Pass Up $2,000 - $3,000?

Well hockey fans, it's back to the Tom O'Hearn's kick. And kick is a good word to use because if somebody doesn't soon get moving in support of the school we'll all be kicking ourselves.

Gary Green, executive director of the fund a drive, has just about everything in his power to motivate the hockey people of the city. He doesn't mind the push to have to move, but if enough young stars from the immediate area don't consider Belleville's amateur hockey school is going to hit a thing of the past.

Green even went so far as to offer Belleville Minor Hockey Association $5 for every player registered, which, I figured they would get behind us and help us out. But the actual support within their own organization, and the black and it's the present to the future. Here are two of the reasons:

1. Registration: when the ice rental costs for minor hockey were showed up and organized, based on 1968 rates, minor hockey need the blues about budget to raise the price of registration fee to the sport.

2. Why not a chance to make a little money to other hobbies is to starve the BMHA right in the food and it looks like no

3. "Money's going to be pretty tight this year," said Smith, with all the cutbacks and help, GLOOMS — Now for all you baseball fans. Ever thought of playing baseball? Well, I've got your big chance. On Saturday, the Belleville Minor Baseball Association is sponsoring an employes softball league with the Ontario Baseball Association.

If you're interested be at Parkdale Ball Park, at 9 a.m., bright and early, on Saturday.

While on the subject of ball, the Belleville Minor Baseball Association is holding a coaches and umpires meeting at the lecture theatre at Centennial Secondary School on Palmer Rd. tonight.

The meeting is the prime organizational meet for the season as presided Don Smith would appreciate a good turnout to be in attendance. That's at Centennial Secondary School tonight at 7:30 p.m. (Sorry it took so long to get in Don).

Turning to the Ontario Football League, which belongs to the McDonald's boys gonna win it all this year, Ted Walsh and Ken Fox are picked up a 5-1 exhibition win over Toronto.

Leading the hit parade for Belleville was Tripp Carmichael with a home run and a double, Darrell Calkins and Tripp Smith with two singles.

GARY GREEN

Daytime students only pay $8 a week. They get their money's worth in education. But Green is taking $5 right off the top of the registration fee and pumping it back into the Belleville Minor Hockey Association.

How much more incentive does an organization need?

"Yes, he talked to me," said Ted Smith, president of minor hockey, "and I think it's really a good thing. As a matter of fact I was going to bring it up at the next meeting."

The next meeting happens to be May 26. Green had hoped to close registrations to the school by May 1. However that date is out of the question as the schools needs at least one daytime student to finish it.

Premier Teams Clash in Tonight's BQSA Game

By DOUG JEFFERIS

The Premier Soccer League is one of the finest leagues in Ontario, will have two Belleville representatives in the Belleville Olympics and the Quinte Greek-Belleville.

Mr. Donnelly has been very helpful in the new methods of training and the team should be in very good shape for the first game of the league in Quinte League tonight against the Hellenics in Trenton.

The Olympics do not play in the Premier League until June 1, when they play at home against the Kingston Portuguese.

The exhibition games, the Olympics have won them, but not all. Only one defeat. Although their defense has not conceded many goals, there has been trouble with the lack of goals from the forwards.

In exhibition play Brian Ford, who previously played for the team, has been a standout.

Charlie Hazlewood has also played well on defence, as has Ralph, high school player Dave Langman has added speed as well as good offensive play.

Gary Wood has been working hard to get in shape, and last year's leading scorer, Ted Fredic has been injured and the Olympics have severely missed his scoring ability.

Tonight's talent has come to the Olympics in Bobby Fraser, who played in Montreal Monarchs is expected to share in a bulk of the scoring.

The Belleville Soccer Club this year will be coached by Patrick Vitaldi, a former Olympic. Pat is a native of Athens, Greece, and formerly of Ottawa. He now resides in Belleville and is a teacher at the Harmony Public School in Trenton.

The Quinte Hellenic Club, a team in the Ontario Premier League, and the Bay of Quinte Soccer Association intends to promote soccer for the senior enthusiasts in the Quinte area.

The club will depend heavily on forward Ted Adams to be the leading scorer in scoring. Adams last year played for the Eastern Division of the Bay of Quinte League.

In exhibition this year, the Hellenics have dropped both of their starts.

The two Premier teams play each other tonight at 8 p.m. at Memorial Park, Trenton, in Bay of Quinte action.

McDonald's Finish Exhibition Play in Newmarket

Tonight the Belleville McDonald's travel to Newmarket for the final pre-season exhibition game. Saturday they open their schedule and Sunday they hold their official opening ceremonies at Alemite Park.

So far, the McDonald's have been a surprise to everyone but themselves. Coach Ted Walsh's record of exhibition contests against Ontario and the Canadian Senior A Football League champions, is 4-0. They dropped the first game 1-0 to the Tony's in the first game on an unearned run. They won the second game 4-0 over the Tony's. Mac's hit the score board twice more to win 2-1.

"It was rough," said Walsh,

JIM CLEMENT

"I had control trouble early because I had the jitters. I think everyone did and that's what cost us the game."

An understandable situation in anyone's first Ontario Football League game, especially with a young pitching staff with no veteran backing them.

The Mac's left eight men stranded in the second game, but Todd Aylard hit the ground, went the first five innings, but once the Tony's tied it up, Ted Walsh relieved Aylard pulled him and substituted Bob Ethier, the left-hander took credit for the win and drove in the fourth Mac run. Ethier was signed with the Mac's only a few months, but decided to pack it in for next year. He really wasn't ready, so. Perhaps after getting a taste of OFL action, Ethier will change his mind, hope so at not.

The Mac's played exceptionally well for our first time out," said Adams, "I know now that we're going to do alright in this league."

Guess Jim Jim Clement and Teddy (Waite) and Frank Ford have played super games," he added.

Clement did only get On first hit over as a McDonald, but also scored the first ever Belleville McDonald run in the Ontario Football League.

Ethier also took an another mighty toe, and once he's in shape, and Ted Walsh is confident he will be, he'll be a big help.

If that won't enough, Ted Waite fired another incredible game in the second half of the 9-0 win. He faced the Mac's a 1-1 draw. Waite issued 11 Newmarket batters, including the league's leading batter last season Dave Bonk.

The McDonald's pulled out of the slump in the seventh inning to score a run off Newmarket ace, Bob Dorak. While the Roy's Rockets were driving Dorak out, Dorak completed a 20-3 game, struck out 11 and racked up a stingy 1.67 earned run average.

Tonight's contest in Newmarket should be one of the most vital kind of contests the McDonald's are going to be.

Philly Fans Welcome Allen Back to Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dick Allen finally batted Wednesday night and Philadelphia fans gave the Phillies' first baseman a Brotherly Love.

The 7,000 members of that unemployable metropolis, who have been accused of booing Santa, booed Allen last year in baseball with three, standing ovations. But Allen's reception changed course through with a triple in his first time up for the Phillies blanked Cincinnati 4-0 behind Steve Carlton's seven-hit pitching.

They showered roses when Allen was introduced, and cheered when he ripped the first six pitches he saw for singles. "I'm glad to be back where they like me," said Allen, who spent the first six years of his baseball career in Philadelphia and was one of the city's favorite targets. "I'll try to see it stay that way, and I think it will as long as I produce."

DICK ALLEN

Elsewhere in the National League, St. Louis defeated host Los Angeles Dodgers 9-4, Houston Astros defeated Chicago Cubs 11-7, Pittsburgh Pirates beat San Diego Padres 6-3 in 11 innings, New York Mets defeated San Francisco Giants 5-1 and Montreal Expos defeated Atlanta Braves 5-4 in a National League baseball game Wednesday night.

Carlton, a sharp slider thrower, opposed Jerry Park's right field homer several weeks ago, may be back in his old heart talk with manager Gene Mauch before the game.

"I had a talk with Gene and he said, 'Just be yourself — be Gary Carlton'".

He killed a towering homer over the left-field fence in the second inning with Larry Hisle on base after a two-out walk. It gave the Phillies a 3-0 lead after Vic Correll's solo shot for the Braves, his fourth of the season, in the top of the inning.

Then, with the Expos trailing 3-2, Carter drilled a one-out double in the seventh. Barry Foote singled to right and as Carter tried the tying run was scored on Black-hitter Jose Morales's single.

Pablo Cano home on the second error of the game by shortstop Larvell Blanks, and Pete Mackanin, pinch-running for Morales, scored when Foye McDonald singled to extend his hitting streak to 11 games.

Clarence Gaston homered for the Braves and Hank Aaron tripled and scored on losing pitcher Willie Horton's single in the sixth. Atlanta pulled within a run in the eighth when a run was scored on Blanks's double-play ball.

Left-hander Woodie Fryman got the undefeated record saved by the seventh-inning rally and now is 4-0. John Montague came in to pitch the last two innings and recorded his second save.

Since leaving town, Allen has played for St. Louis, Los Angeles and the White Sox, who dealt him to Atlanta last December. But he refused to play for the Braves and they in turn traded him to the Phillies for three minor leaguers and an undisclosed amount of money.

Carlton headed the Reds their second consecutive loss. Greg Luzinski singled home the only run he needed in the first inning. Larry Bowa delivered an RBI single in the sixth and the Phillies got their final two runs in the eighth on a double by Garry Maddox, a single by Luzinski and Tommy Hutton and an infield hit by Carlton.

Ted Simmons' two-run double and Ken Reitz' two-run single highlighted a five-run St. Louis rally against the Dodgers in the third inning. Simmons' double scored ground-rule assault that bounced over the left field wall brought the Cardinals from behind against Doug Rau.

Houston's Doug Rader, his a two-run homer in the first inning and a three-run homer in the seventh against John Curtis. Tom Griffi won his first game for Astros decisions but was relieved in the ninth inning by Jim Ray Hall.

Bill Robinson singled home Pittsburgh's winning run with two out in the 11th inning off Bill Greif after Dave Parker hit a one-out double. The Pirates tied the game in the eighth on a run-scoring double by Dave Winfield and an RBI single by Willie McCovey, who got his 8th hit his fourth homer in the fourth inning.

Rusty Staub drove in three runs for the Mets with a home run and single and Dave Kingman delivered a two-run double while Jerry Koosman pitched his seventh five-hitter. Koosman got himself in trouble several times by issuing eight walks but the Giants managed to score only in the third inning on single by Darrel Evans and Willie Montanez and Gary Matthews' grounder.

RACE TRACK REOPENS

MONTREAL (CP) — Le Circuit Mont-Tremblant at nearby St. Jovite reopened its modernized race cars this year when the new-Canamt Grand Prix track entertains the $30,000 Quebec Formula Atlantic race July 5-6. Le Circuit Mont-Tremblant, one of only three tracks in North America on which Grand Prix auto racing is sanctioned, closed in 1970 because of safety race events four years ago due to a lack of spectator support.

Hughes Baffles Indians On Way to 3-0 Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitcher Jim Hughes of Minnesota Twins had Cleveland slugger Roger Powell baffled Wednesday night.

"I couldn't tell what he was throwing . . . it was some sort of a knuckle pitch," Powell said.

Hughes has been a shot in the right arm for Minnesota, since being given a chance to start because of the Twins' mound problems. Jim Perry and Dick Stigman, a pair of right-handers, have been sidelined for some time now due to illness and injury.

Since joining the starting rotation, the rookie has clubbed up a 3-1 record, including three consecutive victories.

In other American League games, Baltimore Orioles beat Chicago White Sox 14, Kansas City Royals defeated Detroit Tigers 6-1 and New York Yankees beat California Angels 4-3 in 10 innings.

The game between Texas Rangers and Milwaukee Brewers was suspended after 16 innings under the American League's 1 a.m. curfew rule with the league tied at 3-3. It will be resumed tonight before their regularly-scheduled contest in Arlington, Tex.

Hughes had help from Rod Carew who stole home for the 10th time in his career and Larry Hisle and Bobby Darwin each hit his first major league homer of the season as Gaylord Perry, 4-1, suffered his third consecutive loss for the Indians.

Carew's steal came with two outs in the first inning with Darwin batting. It was the first steal of home in two years for Carew, who led the American League record with seven steals of home in 1956.

Bobby Grich singled with one out in the ninth inning and Don Baylor slammed the next pitch from Chicago relief ace Terry Forster for a triple, hitting Baltimore over the White Sox. After being shut out for six innings on three hits by Wilbur Wood, the Orioles tied the score 3-3 in the seventh. Wood issued free walk to Tommy Davis, who scored on Baylor's two-run double. Brooks Robinson then greeted Forster, 3-3, with a game-tying single.

Vada Pinson drove in two runs with a home run single and also doubled twice as Kansas City Royals pounded behind Nelson Briles' five-hit pitching.

Bobby Hoyer hoisted a sacrifice fly in the 10th inning that lifted Cal Hunter and New York over California. The victory was Hunter's fourth in his last five starts and evened his record at 4-4.

The marathon game between Texas and Milwaukee was suspended under the American League rule that no inning can be started after 1 a.m. locally. The start of the game was delayed almost an hour and 13 minutes by rain and then it took more than 3½ hours to play.

Milwaukee took a 3-0 lead in the fourth inning off Texas' southpaw Cody Wright on Detroit Porter's two-run single. The Rangers tied it in the fifth. Willie Davis looped a double to left and Jeff Burroughs, another double off the right field scoreboard. Burroughs went to third on a groundout and scored on Ed Sprague's wild pitch.

CFL Game Of Week Proposed

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Football League will examine an old concept and a new theory at its semi-annual meetings in Hamilton next week.

The league will again discuss the addition of a Canadian to its 20-man roster, now comprised of 17 homebrews and 15 Americans.

Under new business, commissioner Jake Gaudaur said he would recognize a proposal calling a CFL Game of the West to be introduced for the 1977 season.

The game would be made available across Canada, at the same time, that is, all games would be played at that time each week, no matter in what time zone they are played—8 p.m. in Ontario and Quebec, 8 p.m. in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, 7 p.m. in Alberta and 6 p.m. in British Columbia.

Gaudaur said there are 25 items on the agenda for the four days of meetings, but a London application to join the Eastern Football Conference is not among them.

Gaudaur said he also will introduce a new formula for dealing with arbitration of player disputes, whether it be contract discussions or hassles with management.

Last year a three-man arbitration board was set up which included the president of the CFL Players' Association, the chairman of the players-relations committee and the commissioner.

Storm Warning for IOC Committee

ROME (CP) — The International Olympic Committee (IOC), having poured oil on troubled waters, still faces the possibility of a stormy journey next week when it again faces the issue of the 1976 Montreal Olympics.

IOC and Montreal officials held a news conference Wednesday to deny reports they were holding an emergency session to deal with the latest Montreal crisis.

"No emergency meeting of the IOC regarding the Montreal Games has taken place," Jim Worrall of Toronto, Canadian member of the IOC executive, told the news conference.

Simon St. Pierre, executive vice-president of the Montreal Organizing Committee, talked about the Quebec labor dispute which has halted construction of Montreal's Olympic Stadium and other facilities.

He said he was not in a position to say when the situation could become critical. "We will take all possible measures to complete the work in time."

Worrall said IOC executive meetings held here Wednesday were scheduled a year ago and were not held specifically to deal with the Montreal situation.

He said that the executive committee was being kept informed of developments in Quebec and an IOC meeting is scheduled for Lausanne, Switzerland, next Wednesday at which time Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau and Roger Rousseau, head of the Montreal organizing committee, will present a report.

If the work stoppages in Montreal are not resolved by that time, the IOC may be faced with having to start a search for an alternative 1976 site, but Worrall said as far as such moves have been taken.

Worrall also denied that there had been any consideration given to postponing the Games. "The Games will not be postponed. I repeat that the rules of the IOC are very clear on this," he said.

The work stoppages in Quebec came after Premier Robert Bourassa's government announced proposed legislation to put four construction union locals under trusteeship and to bar anyone with a criminal record from leading key union jobs.

Bourassa said after emergency debate on the legislation in the national assembly Tuesday that either the Games would be held in Montreal in 1976, "as I said earlier, they will, or they will not be held at all."

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE EDDE OROL

For Friday, May 16, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll be delighted to look back on the day when something you've been working on for a long time, toward evening, things work out.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't let careless mistakes in your work go uncorrected. Be particular. Stick with the task till it's done right.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You have a tendency today to say things which could be easily misinterpreted by others. Apologize in advance for thoughtless words.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Do risks carried in connection with your job today. If you buy something, be sure you get exactly what you want and for the correct change.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your first idea, won't necessarily be your best one. Before you proceed, determine a better way to tackle the problem.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you plan too much or imagine of your ideas today, you'll get nowhere. Be practical. Use every bargain possible if you're needed by the other party.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You'll be tempted to back down at the first sign of resistance today. Don't. Stick to your guns. You'll accomplish your objectives.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Accomplishment on your own goal will prove very elusive early in the day. Later, more serious factors will turn the tables.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If your prospect isn't buying what you're selling, don't take it personally. Tailor your presentation to his or her needs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20) Don't worry about decisions involving something that hasn't produced as yet. Delay action. Focus on facts. Dig a little deeper.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) You may attempt a task today that you're not familiar with. Be wise. Step out not advice of an expert. You won't get bad or god down.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't underestimate the value you bring to your job today. You'll get your terms. What you offer is bargain possible if you're needed by the other party.

Opening lead — Q♥

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

MacDuff is the best player in Scotland today and he knows it. The Laird of Inverness tells of it, was a long ride home from Edinburgh castle, 1513. In fact, it would be unworthy not to tell a story with MacDuff in the lead, even though MacDuff, his host, who sat North, couldn't have much of a hand.

When he saw the dummy he decided to play at least part of the contract as possible as he was the best player at the table and he trumps with four heads and had a low diamond.

West took his singleton king and shifted to a spade, which MacDuff ruffed. Now he led a diamond to dummy's ace, returned to his hand with the ace of hearts and won the last four tricks with his good diamonds.

Declarer's play is worthy of study. He had guarded against everything except bad breaks and he had the last two. However, his brilliant play didn't get him.

MacBeth the Thane of Glamis and of Cawdor and soon to be King of Scotland refused to quit.

He cried, "Play on MacDuff or one more rubber."

MONTREAL (CP) — Tension between organized labor and the Quebec government intensified on Thursday with a call by the Quebec Federation of Labor (QFL) for province-wide study sessions by its 300,000 members next Wednesday.

Most major construction sites in Quebec, including the Olympic Games project, are already shut down by walkouts involving about 18,000 construction workers.

The decision by the QFL followed a day of meetings by representatives of the federation from across the province.

President Louis Laberge called on all other unions in the province, particularly the 200,000 federation of National Trade Unions (CNTU), the Central des Syndicats Democratiques and the Quebec Teachers Corp., to show their solidarity by joining in the study sessions.

He said the work stoppage is to protest the government's repressive actions against un-

8 Kapuskasing Men Win $100,000

KAPUSASING, Ont. (CP) — Eight paper company workers invested a total of $20 and came away with the $100,000 grand prize in the first drawing of the Ontario lottery Thursday.

The men, who all live in the Kapuskasing area, about 100 miles northwest of Timmins, are employed at Spruce Falls Pulp and Paper Co. Ltd. With the $20 pool they bought 20 tickets at $1 each.

Kapuskasing also was a winners' area last February when the first prize winners in the two grand prizes in the Olympic lottery. Three women in Hearst, about 30 miles east of here, were joint winners of $1 million and two men in Hearst, about 30 miles west, shared $1 million.

Meanwhile, in Thorold, Ont., Peter Mandeville, 22, celebrated his 27th Birthday Thursday by winning the $10,000 second prize in the first drawing of the Ontario lottery Thursday.

There were 192 prizes of $1,000 for persons with tickets ending in the numbers 6765 and 1,364 prizes of $100 for persons with tickets with the last three digits of 365.

Seventy-four series of tickets were sold for the 2,100 tax-free prizes and 276,000 lots.

Selection of the winning ticket at the Ontario Science Centre in Toronto was televised through-out the province and the CBC network.

Forty-two series of tickets are on sale for the second Winnipeg lottery, involving 2,100 $1,000 prizes. Winners will be drawn May 29 in Winnipeg and later Ottawa.

Two $100,000 prizes will be awarded in each draw for each month of the series of 50,000 tickets each are put on sale. The Ontario Lottery Corp. said in a news release.

unlisted workers," specifically ate the United Aircraft of Canada Ltd., Longueuil plant, the site of a bloody confrontation between police and QFL workers who briefly occupied the plant Monday evening. Workers have been on strike there for almost 17 months.

Premier Robert Bourassa said in Quebec City that the planned study sessions are a "diversionary tactic."

He said he believes they are a political gesture to protest two bills now before the national assembly.

The bills are based on recommendations of the Cliche commission which investigated violence in the construction field.

The first bill would place four QFL locals, said to be infiltrated by criminal elements, under government-appointed trusteeship while the second would ban persons with criminal records from holding key positions in unions for five years after their conviction.

Workers have been waiting off their jobs since the release of the report last week.

But Justice Minister Jerome Choquette said many workers had left their jobs after receiving threats from QFL "goon squads" and he has ordered the Quebec Provincial Police in Montreal to conduct police questioning workers who wish to remain on the job.

When referring to work stoppages at the Montreal Olympic site and the possibility that the site won't be finished in time, Mr. Laberge said the workers "can't buy a damned ticket anyway."

He would not say if workers would be back to work on the site today.

Mr. Laberge said he did not want to hold the games for ransom. "We want them as much as anyone does. We sincerely hope the government will remove the (United Aircraft) situation by Wednesday."

On the postal front, about 300 carriers returned to work today following a one-day walkout Thursday. A spokesman for the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, representing the carriers, said the men left their jobs after the ventilation system in the sorting office broke down.

A backlog of about 10 million pieces of mail has built up in Montreal post offices as a result of walkouts and work stoppages by both inside and outside postal workers in recent weeks.

In Quebec City, Labor Minister Jean Cournoyer predicted that between 500 and 600 longshoremen workers in the province will be judged unfit to continue in their jobs after medical exams are made compulsory by new provincial regulations.

He said the new regulations will also deal with the amount of compensation to be paid the workers.

About 3,500 asbestos workers in the mills and mines around Thetford Mines, Que., 80 miles south of Quebec City, have been on strike since mid-March, seeking wage adjustments and greater protection against asbestos-related diseases.

Dr. Victor Goldbloom, municipal affairs minister, said Thursday there is no immediate danger to the health of the population in the Thetford Mines and Black Lake regions where the striking workers are concentrated with asbestos fibres.

The government, however, will continue to look for asbestos-free areas in the area but he said there is no proof that the fibres represent a danger to the dispositive tract.

Grape Boycott Picketing Postponed Till Next Week

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

A grape boycott picket line, intended for a number of Belleville grocery stores today, has been re-scheduled for some time next week, says Doug Dale, president of the Quinte District Labor Council.

Responding to the appeal of fruit harvesters in the United States, a number of Canadian groups — including the local council and Archdeacon Catholic College — have begun drumming up public support for demands the growers provide better wages and better conditions.

Mr. Sword said a public meeting will be held next Thursday, to meet with a representative of the United Farm Workers Union.

Mr. Sworchery said that time, we will stage pickets at grocery stores — particularly those carrying the union-picked grapes, he said.

No firm date has yet been set for the picketing.

Thailand's Ambassador To Washington Recalled

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Thai government announced today it is recalling its ambassador to Washington in protest against the United States using Thailand bases for military operations recovered the merchant ship Mayaguez from Cambodia.

The government said the United States had violated Thai sovereignty by disregarding Premier Kukrit Pramoj's request, said to send 1,500 marines to Thailand for use in the operation.

Meanwhile, the student coalition whose protests ousted the military dictatorship in 1973 demanded an apology from Washington and said it would hold anti-American rallies in all of the country.

Thailand also said it would demand a review of all economic and military agreements between the United States and its last day on the Southeast Asia mainland.

Kukrit, after a special cabinet meeting, told reporters that Ambassador Anat Panyarachun would be asked before leaving Washington to submit a protest note to the U.S. government.

The note would explain that Thailand considers a violation of its sovereignty the keeping of U.S. Marines at a U.S.-run Thai air base, more than a day after Kukrit's formally requested that they be withdrawn, he said.

He said it would add that "we will not allow the kind of incident to occur again."

There was speculation Kukrit would demand a speedup in the withdrawal of the more than 1,25 troops still stationed in Thailand. They now are scheduled to leave within a year.

In Laos, three U.S. aid officials remained under house arrest in the capital of Savannakhet as the U.S. embassy said they were in no danger.

The government sent a delegation to Savannakhet, 75 miles southeast of Vientiane, to negotiate for their release, and the embassy denied reports that their lives had been threatened.

About 900 of them were reported to have taken part in the attack on Koh Tang Island, off the Cambodian coast, despite Premier Kukrit's demands that no forces from Thailand be used against the Cambodian country.

Kukrit's brother, Seni Pramoj, leader of the Opposition in parliament, declared that the government protest the U.S. action to the United Nations, Government political leaders called for expulsion of all U.S. troops.

Canada Recognizes Viet Cong Regime

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada officially recognized the new Communist government of South Vietnam Thursday but it is expected to take several months at least to establish diplomatic ties and to reopen the Canadian embassy in Saigon.

The recognition announcement came in the Commons by External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen, follows the United States' policy of recognizing governments which hold clear control of a country.

The Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG) of South Vietnam took power April 30 when Saigon, forcing the former United States-supported regime to surrender unconditionally.

Mr. MacEachen said a telegram congratulating the PRG for the "new legal government of South Vietnam was sent in Saigon Wednesday.

He was a reply to an earlier message from the PRG saying it had taken control of the country.

The Canadian telegram to which PRG officials in open negotiations aimed at establishing diplomatic ties, but an external affairs spokesman said this might be a lengthy process.

Canada's embassy remained there up to two years to complete. This we feel, coincide with the People's Republic of China and again with North Korea they were almost as protracted, he said.

Canadian officials closed the Saigon embassy and fled the country about a week before the PRG took over.

The spokesman said there are no special barriers from the Ottawa side in extending diplomatic ties. He speculated that the process might be completed earlier than the case with China or North Korea.

Canada has a growing list of countries to recognize the PRG, including Sweden, India, Australia, Japan, the United Kingdom, France, Italy, New Zealand and Jamaica.

Wellers Bay Hunt Toronto Pair Feared Drowned

By AL ZARAS
Staff Reporter

GARDENVILLE — A Canadian Coast Guard Boston whaler and a provincial police boat are combing the waters of Wellers Bay today in search of two persons reported overturned and missing when 15-foot aluminum boat was found washed ashore unoccupied early today.

The two men believed to be father and 21-year-old son, were reported missing to Picton OPP late Thursday.

A Hercules aircraft from CFB Trenton is flying a shore-line patrol in search of the two men.

Names of the two men have not been released by police.

The search by the coast guard vessel and armed forces aircraft began early today after a request for help was made by OPP, Picton police. The OPP boat was dispatched from Belleville today.

An OPP spokesman in Picton said the boat was found washed ashore at Rercrean Beach, at the north end of Wellers Bay. A report from a fisherman at 8:30 a.m. today sent investigators to the boat was without a motor.

About 9 a.m. Thursday, the search for a fishing boat from the Gardenville area, which had been missing since early May living in a cottage. They were reported missing at 9:30 p.m.

About 10 officers from the Picton and Brighton provincial police detachments are involved in the search. A Picton police spokesman said seven local fishermen also have been searching on the bay.

As yet there are no plans to abandon the search, as search is being concentrated in a 3-square-mile area, however.

The coast guard vessel was said today search efforts for the two fishermen are being complicated by the rapid build-up of marl that abound in the bay. At present, the search for the two men is being concentrated in a 3-square-mile area, however, may have to be expanded to include the entire 16-square-mile area of the bay.

Problem at Oshawa

These Ottawa policemen were caught with the machinery but no oomph in afternoon traffic. The pair were on their way to a fire but someone else must have beat them to it.

Official Suggests Trenton Link with Northumberland

By AL ZARAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Trenton's present town limits should be pushed west and north one or two miles and there straightened to allow the town to chart its own development.

This suggestion is contained in a discussion paper released by Donald King, commissioner for the Northumberland County government restructuring study.

Mr. King suggests such a move is natural in light of expectations that Trenton will continue to grow. Servicing, both to the east and the north, can be provided from Trenton by the time the boom begins, he says.

The commissioner states in the paper that the study team expects Trenton "will become part of a county in the next few years". However, explanation continues into the possibility of the county being split directly with Northumberland.

In the preamble to the discussion paper, Mr. King says his comments are only administratives presented to spur public discussion and reaction.

He has previously said Trenton's plans for its future are significant to Northumberland since the town sits on the lip of the county.

For the county itself, various alternatives to the existing government structures are available, he says.

— Three to five municipalities could be created and the county government eliminated.

— All levels but the county government could be abolished.

— Existing municipalities could be consolidated into six or seven stronger ones within the present county organization.

Under such alternative structures, Brighton village and township and Murray Township would fall under one government. The three municipalities could also be included in a larger grouping including Haldimand and Cramahe Townships.

Mr. King, whose study is being funded by the county and the provincial government, will present recommendations based on a year-long study in December, 1975. Subsequently, his report will be open for discussion by all affected governments.

Trenton is currently preparing a brief to submit to commissioner King for his consideration prior to publication of his final recommendations.

Contract Let for New Senior Citizens Centre

PICTON — Construction of 68 low-rental housing units for senior citizens on a site at the corner of Spring and Mary Streets will begin soon, says James Taylor, MPP Prince Edward-Lennox. A contract for the project has been let to Hill Construction Ltd. of London by the Ontario Housing Corporation.

It is expected the project will be completed in about eight months time. Contract price is $1,189,151.

The accommodation planned is a two-storey structure including an apartment for the caretaker and his family.

Mr. Taylor says the average monthly rental for the units probably will be $45. The town of Picton will receive full taxes on the property.

All senior citizens in Prince Edward are eligible to reside in the housing units, not just residents of Picton.

Marmora To Repair Old Arena

MARMORA — At a joint meeting Thursday the councils of Marmora and Deloro villages and Marmora and Lake township decided to proceed with repairs and re-licencing of the Marmora arena.

The project will amount to an estimated $69,000 and will also include a new roof for the arena. The work is expected to get under way as soon as approval of a 75 per cent grant from provincial government is received, said Gordon Bennett.

Mr. Bennett, chairman of the six-man committee which investigated the possible replacement or repair of the arena following its closure here last December by the ministry of labor due to unsafe conditions.

A public meeting will be held in the town hall here on Thursday, May 29, at 8 p.m. for the purpose of acquainting people in the area with details of the work to be carried out. Also, Mr. Bennett will prepare a detailed report for publication.

Bridge to Get Repairs But Nature Not Clear

TRENTON — Work on repairs to the Dundas Street swing bridge will begin within the next couple of months, once town council decides what steps it will take to put the bridge on a safe footing, Arie Hoorweg, town works commissioner said Thursday.

Necessary minimal repairs to the bridge will definitely be made, said Mr. Hoorweg, but the extent and method of such repairs has yet to be determined.

He said the key to council's decision is a report being prepared by the Toronto consultants, Totten, Sims, Hubicki Associates Ltd. That report will outline costs the town would face if it opted to tear down the existing bridge and build a new one.

Consultants tabled a report before council in mid-April outlining the deterioration of the structure and estimated it would cost $1,200,000 to repair the bridge for periods of from 15 to 25 years.

Mr. Hoorweg said Thursday the minimal repairs will be made whether council decides to course of action will be, "to do it now or do it later, we will be faced with the same problem."

The commissioner said the consultants report will allow the town to weigh its alternatives.

Council could move to replace the bridge, at a still unknown price. Or, it could either decide to repair it with $75,000 already pledged, or opt for spending $1,200,000 to right the structure entirely.

Mr. Hoorweg said major repairs — such as revamping the motor mechanism from electrical to hydraulic power — will not be made if council decides for replacement.

He "smaller things" such as patching the bridge's bearing under the bridge deck, "we have to do that regardless of what's going to happen."

"If the town decides to overhaul," said Mr. Hoorweg, "we're not going to spend the $75,000. We'll go right into overhaul with the money."

Minimal repairs to the bridge will prolong its life by one to three years at opposed to the 15-year extension obtainable through an overhaul.

U.S. Government Has Opened Doors for Host of Gold Frauds

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Economic Affairs Analyst
Thurston News Service

When the U.S. government opened up the nation market to American citizens, it inadvertently opened up the doors to a host of fraud artists.

Perhaps it was inevitable. For 41 years, U.S. citizens were not allowed to buy or own gold. And for the several years preceding the removal of that ban on Dec. 31, 1974, Americans had been anxiously watching the price of the yellow metal rise and down—usually up—on his markets in other countries.

So when the ban came off less than five months ago, there was a substantial pent-up demand for gold from anxious buyers.

That substantial enough to prevent the price of gold from dropping by almost an ounce since then, but substantial nevertheless.

Predictably, there were also certain unscrupulous people ready to circumvent the government's efforts to benefit by the thought of owning gold at last. And they've eagerly parted with hard-earned savings without any adequate investigation of the "dealer."

vored a widow in Palmetto Park, N.J.—a suburb of New York City—who put her entire savings of $26,000 to a small-scale firm advertising precious metals and received nothing.

Then there was the Massachusetts electronics engineer who stalled $8,175 to a New York widower, in response to an imposing advertisement. Instead of the 50 Mexican gold pieces he thought he was purchasing he received worthless coins.

The persuasive ads were written by a Madison Avenue advertising agent—who is slack for his $30,000 fee. Even he didn't bother to check up on the "dealer" in question.

If the unfortunate customers or ad man had investigated, they might have found that three of the officials or employees had served jail terms for crimes of violence or fraud.

The police recently closed in on a "gold promoter" who, while convicted of one murder and suspected of several others, on financing, an startups fraudulent enterprises—but enough never to actually get behind bars. The promoter is now back in business and has reportedly netted over $1 million in the past few months.

Several other schemes have been uncovered by law-enforcement agencies, but these are probably only a small fraction of the number of fraudulent operations that have been set up.

Most of them rely heavily on slick, colorful advertising designed to appeal to the special aura of gold and the growing distrust of paper currency in inflationary era.

Even those people who bought gold from legitimate dealers around the turn of the year have fared poorly. Because of the market's subsequent decline.

But the trusting victims of the large number of newly established fraud artists have lost everything.

Many of those victims probably had begun feeling that bullion trading was dominated by public authorities. It's a business similar to the commodities or trading in stocks and bonds.

They found that there is no such thing as thousand gold and silver bullion and coins are not insured.

Anyone contemplating such an investment should check out a bank or with one of the reputable, long established retail coin dealers who deal almost entirely through the mail to a mail-order firm as fraud.

It's Unanimous

Here is an interesting footnote to the great debate over who supported and who opposed a $1,000 increase in honorariums paid members of Belleville city council.

Hastings MP Jack Ellis points out that the Municipal Councillors Handbook specifies that EVERY motion in council carries unanimously UNLESS a recorded vote is requested.

Mr. Ellis speaks with some authority on the matter, being a former mayor of this city.

That being the case, since no member of council asked for a recorded vote on the issue at council's budget session last Friday, the Municipal Act assumes the $1,000 increase received unanimous approval.

For all the time it takes, we would like to see more recorded votes in our council chambers, and presume that our aldermen will conduct themselves accordingly when their raise comes up for formal approval as a bylaw.

Seeing Canada Costly

The various provincial governments are spending a small fortune in television advertisements, many of them on northern United States stations, trying to lure tourists.

But Thursday, hot only will Pierre Elliott Trudeau be coming to the city, he will be placing himself at the mercy of local critics in a "town hall" style meeting at Centennial Secondary School and even staying overnight.

Mr. Trudeau's visit, which Liberals undoubtedly hope will add some spice to their recipe for the upcoming provincial election campaign, will give Quinte district listeners the opportunity to question him about his government's policies on everything from inflation to immigration.

The 800-odd seats in Centennial's auditorium will certainly be at a premium for the event.

Unfortunately, senior governments offer little in the way of incentives to Canadians who want to see more of their own country.

First of all, try finding a charter domestic package including air fare and accommodation. Then try affording it.

You can enjoy a week in the Caribbean for $225. That includes meals and drinks on the plane, belly, ways, guaranteed good weather, white sand, tennis, golf, and a welcome punch party.

The best Canadian charter these days is a $290 flip to Banff, with horseback riding listed as the main available attraction, unless watching mountains is enough excitement for you.

While it is investigating Air Canada for "irregularities", the federal government might also start coming up with ways to keep this country's planes and trains — most of which the taxpayers directly or indirectly subsidize in full and do busy as they can be.

A full charter to, say, the maritimes, is economically soundder than a half-full jumbo jet to London.

PM Visits

It is a rare occasion for Belleville when it has a prime minister spend more than a while in-stop here.

But Thursday, hot only will Pierre Elliott Trudeau be coming to the city, he will be placing himself at the mercy of local critics in a "town hall" style meeting at Centennial Secondary School and even staying overnight.

Mr. Trudeau's visit, which Liberals undoubtedly hope will add some spice to their recipe for the upcoming provincial election campaign, will give Quinte district listeners the opportunity to question him about his government's policies on everything from inflation to immigration.

Angola's Independence Bid Won't be Smooth Transition

By JOHN D. HARMON

Portugal's equivalent of the former British colony of Nigeria is Angola and like Nigeria it is 15 years ago, this large, rich and resource-rich Portuguese colony is on the verge of independence.

This will come next November when Portugal's largest former possession in Africa, whose gross national product exceeds Portugal's becomes a new state in Africa.

Already there are plenty of signs Angola will not move from colonialism as smoothly as did Nigeria in 1960, in that large, rich and resource-rich Portuguese colony is on the verge of independence.

Already there are plenty of signs Angola will not move from colonialism as smoothly as did Nigeria in 1960, in that large, rich and resource-rich state.

The reason is this issue is the same, with somewhat fewer participants, that has been the key factor as clearly defined as it is, in every white state of Africa, from Rhodesia to Angola, the political problem of the native blood assisted by Canada as well as Britain in forming a federal constitution.

Nigeria the Canada has huge geographical regions with populations separated by separate languages qualified languages, each of them with a strong sense of loyalty to its own region.

Nigeria is the case in point. The Ibo tribe, which is the largest of the three tribes in the new state.

A Nigerian class of citizens with a common bond of their background by the British colonial system. They are the people who the Queen family whose name they have been brought up at break-away Biafra, still dead-set on breaking away from the federation.

But in Angola a major white community, African-born like that of South Africa, will affect to a possible role in the new state or a disruptive one.

Rhodesia, which has not yet been a major factor from Angola of the 500,000 whites at a taking place with them in the conference on the issue talks of the continent.

Also within Mozambique, where a single black revolution will assume power, Angolan independence will be a key factor into Gran, each one vying for control of the big former colonial fief.

The movements are The Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola, the National Front for the Liberation of Angola and The National Union for the Total Independence of Angola.

Only the first of these is believed to be Marxist and is favored by Portuguese-educated African leaders since they will cooperate while Angolans then will have future administration.

Already there have been signs of the country's racial divisions between whites, blacks and between the various black tribes and language groups. The fighting between Portuguese troops and guerrilla forces has been intense.

Also, Portugal herself is going through a time of political turmoil and the Communist and Socialist groups and the Communist Party, which has gained control over a number of Portuguese colonies cannot be expected from the former "mother country" in keeping the Angolan blacks.

What the future Angolan black rulers will make of the strong over and above some kind of the Portuguese is not clear but they will cope with the economic problems of the country.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

25 YEARS AGO

Recently a new electrically-operated speed timing device was put into operation by city police and with it traffic officers can determine the speed of passing motorists to the exact number of miles per hour. First test of the device was made on Dundas Street near Bleecker Avenue, when motorists were clocked at anywhere up to 40 m.p.h.

A new industry is to be called the Chronic and Convalescent Hospital will be opened in Belleville at a cost of $200,000, it is stated. The Victorian Order of Nurses Association decided at a special meeting held recently, to accept the responsibility of bringing the institution. Finish will be derived from the Ontario Department of Health, the city of Belleville, Hastings County Council, and Prince Edward County Council.

May 18, 1901

Boat owners of the city and district will meet at the Bough Beech Athletic and Canoe Club rooms soon to formulate new rules of racing, which will guide the sailing committee in the regular weekly races during the summer.

80 YEARS AGO
May 18, 1896

There were up when Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Trade, is suggested forming a National Council of Education which would attract prominent men and women in Canada to his care. A Belleville committee has been formed in Belleville, which will settle the Women's Club rooms, to meet the distinguished speakers.

Teachers Seeking New Clause

Hastings County elementary school teachers are looking for a salary increase of about 30 per cent this year, the results of a survey of one-third of them apparently indicates.

They won't get it, but current negotiations with county trustees reportedly are more contentious on another issue — a cost-of-living allowance to be adjusted every six months according to the consumer price index.

Such clauses are becoming more common in labor contracts, and even the federal government has experimented with "indexing" its its pension programs.

The issue may decide whether the traditionally placid teacher-board relationship in Hastings is to remain constant.

PC Party Had One of Worst Political Feuds

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thurston News Service

As we all know, at least those of us whose reading has extended beyond Frank Merfield and the Rebecy Twins, even the best of families have their internal fights and clashes. In fact most of them have feuds.

The PC's we probably can consider as perhaps our best political family.

At least in the past 30 years it has been top dog.

And yet it had one of the worst fights in our history.

And strictly internal, at that.

Of all things it was one who should be president of the party specialists.

Sir I have mentioned here before, is the late Ryrie Osergo Doucett was a power in the PC party.

He had pretty well put Leslie Frost in office and had the title of deputy premier.

He also had the hats.

He couldn't stand what was known as "Big Bay St. Street crowd".

This was a bunch of officials who during the Drew days had largely run the party.

And though Frost had largely curtailed them, Doucett, who was a rural man, wasn't satisfied.

He in particular seized as an A.D. MacKenzie who was president of the party the chief organizer.

He figured that as long as MacKenzie was there Big Bay Street would prevail and he determined to knock him out of office.

At first he was going to run for the office himself.

But then he persuaded Jimmie H. Allen, at the time the MP known in the provincial field, but a long-time and respected man in Simcoe county, in Haldimand to go after the job.

There were intense lobbying that one normally sees at a leadership convention.

Doucett was in it up to his neck. So also was Frost, in his quieter way, by recognition in that Drew was down from Ottawa.

Certainly there was a day and a half of antagonism and bitterness.

Finally the vote was held and MacKenzie won. His margin was said to be 25 votes out of more than a thousand. And with talk of stuffed ballot boxes.

As Frost knows with these things the party was probably the big loser.

MacKenzie actually was an excellent man for the job and to that extent it probably was a winner.

But Doucett and Frost were never really friends again.

Jim Allen, of course, was brought into the house and then the cabinet in 1951 and his delegation switched to Frost.

There were other broken friendships which were never really made up.

And the most consequential point of all probably was that the whole thing was unnecessary.

For Frost really disliked the Bay Street influence as did Doucett did and he made sure that, even though MacKenzie stayed as president, their influence dwindled to practically nothing.

Canadian Wage Gains Reduced

OTTAWA (CP) — Wage gains have been limited in many settlements in larger bargaining units in the first quarter of 1975 but those of 1975 but those of Canadian construction workers have been above department figures show.

The figures show average wage rates in 1,000 settlements in which 500 or more workers are involved. The data cover the first three months of 1975 as three-year wage increases in U.S. contracts rose to 12.5 per cent from 10.3 per cent.

The gains in both cases do not include increases that will come through cost-of-living allowances which are more common now in the U.S.

Any narrowing of the gap between U.S. and Canadian increases might weaken Finance Minister John Turner's argument that Canadian industry will become less competitive in international trade because of rapid wage rises in this country.

The data of the two departments are not completely comparable because the U.S. figures are based on bargaining units with 1,000 or more workers but those in Canada include units with 200 or more workers.

The Canadian figures for the first quarter are based on 49 agreements covering 196,335 workers spread over the year, and of the total labor force of 8.8 million.

The statistics for the last quarter of 1974 included 113 settlements covering 347,270 workers—about 3.5 per cent of the labor force.

In the U.S., 88,000 workers—less than one per cent of the non-farm labor force—were included in the figures for the first quarter.

Shouted Down

TORONTO (CP)—Labor Minister John Munro was shouted down by cries of "scab" when he urged an end to strife against racism on the steps of the Provincial Buildings Thursday.

More than 200 persons, carrying banners and placards and chanting anti-racist slogans, marched to Queen's Park.

CN Has Loss

OTTAWA (CP) — Despite record revenues and increased movement last year, Canadian National Railways says the national "over-all financial results were disappointing."

The railway's annual report to the Commons Thursday, tabled in the Commons yesterday, showed the Crown corporation's deficit rose to $27.7 million last year from $12.2 million in 1973.

You can tell that Laura Bayne is a dancer when you first see her coming down the hall of Moira Secondary School where she's a Grade 11 student. She has the graceful, erect posture and toe-out walk of the professional ballerina she hopes someday to be.

Laura Bayne is on her way to that career after years of diligent study. She recently passed the first major professional examination, the Cecchetti elementary exam, a step that is taking her to ballet school in Britain.

Since her family is moving to London in September, Laura applied to, and was accepted by both the Royal Ballet and Elmhurst Ballet Schools, and has chosen the Royal in London. There she will take concentrated ballet instruction as well as academic options.

Born in Kingston, Jamaica, Laura moved to the isle of Jersey when she was three, the year her mother enrolled her in a ballet program "to help me find friends", she says.

"But I was so much younger than the other girls, I didn't really make that many friends. What happened was I decided to be a ballet dancer. I asked my mom if anybody ever danced for a job, and she said, yes, there was Margot Fonteyn, who really became my idol then.

"There's no one ballet dancer I want to be like', because bringing my own complete personality to your dancing is part of what it's all about — you can't follow or imitate someone else. But I still admire Margot the most, maybe because she is such a complete dancer.'

That total involvement is part of every aspect of ballet, practising at the barre as much as performing on stage. Dancers must be constantly in tune with themselves, minds and bodies working in harmony.

"When you're dancing, you're unified" says Laura, "but afterwards, when you analyze your dancing, you separate yourself from your legs and arms, and look at your faults. You have to be critical to keep getting better. But your faults keep changing as there's always something new to work on.

"With me, for example, extensions are difficult because my body is still tight from all those years of casual and improper training I had before I moved to Belleville five years ago."

Since then she has studied under the direction of Brian Scott at the Quinte Dance Centre, and is enthusiastic about how much she has learned and improved with his help.

"Really, if my parents weren't moving, I wouldn't want to leave Belleville at all," she says.

Laura's life, like that of the other senior students at the Quinte Dance Centre, revolves around ballet. Regular practice is absolutely essential and they spend up to four hours at the centre six days a week.

"It's hard, but I never get fed up," Laura says. "The more I'm pushed, the better I do. It's so stimulating. If I've had a good session practising, I can go home and just sail through my homework!"

Doing well at school is typical of dedicated ballet students, who learn that self-discipline leads to satisfaction. And that sense of discipline pervades all areas of Laura's life.

"As long as I'm dancing every day I don't need to watch my weight," she says. "But I have to be careful in other ways. I wouldn't go skiing for example.

"Most of the reading I do is about ballet, and I don't have any hobbies, really, there just isn't time.

"But I don't feel like I'm 'missing out' on anything. You have to remember that a ballet dancer's career time is limited, we have to work hard while we can. That's why dancers are so single-minded. We're all working for the same thing — to be the best ballet dancer in the world!"

Ann Landers

Relatives Put Him Out Regularly

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 14-year-old boy who has two people to love, my mother and my uncle.

They live 300 miles from here and come every month and stay for a week. I have to give up my bedroom and sleep on the floor. I'll say one thing for them, they are generous.

The aunt and uncle have two dear children who live in this town and I don't see why they can't go stay with them.

When I complain to mom and Dad, they say I am at "that age." I'm not sure what that means, but about a kid getting treated this way? — Displaced Person

Dear D.P.: If you were asked to give up your room for a couple weeks at Christmas or Easter, or for the occasional long weekend, I'd say O.K. But no one should have to give up his room and sleeping on the floor. I don't think it's fair.

How about a pull-out sofa in the living room? Your aunt and uncle since they are such dear people, should be reasonable and could see, (P.S. You might suggest it to them.) Then again, said. "Relatives, like fish, begin to stink after the third day."

Dear Ann Landers: I was bold amazed and infuriated when I read the letters from the guy who lambasted "In Bed," the 25-year-old virgin. They called her a "loser" and a few other not-so-nice names. You asked those men how "tortured" they were. I have all their addresses because I'm the girl who has been subjected to the same sales talk.

I'm no dog. I've had plenty of dates with great-looking guys and I'm not frigid, either. But I decided when I listened to those guys talk about how they scored with Alice the first night, Mary the second night, and Nell was a sure thing—that these girls were cheap creatures and I wasn't going to be added to the list. Quick research revealed that over half of my high grade class had "lost it at the Astor." This information came from the girls as well as the guys. It made me sick.

When the chicks get wise to the fact that sex for most teenage boys is an ego trip, they'll be able to say "no" a lot easier. As for those sex maniacs, don't sweat 'em. I'm the size of an adult and give three girls a ride home each week to see if they have to them is disgust.

Dear V.: You sound like a solid lady. I needs no advice from me. In fact, I thank you for giving mine. After all, you're 14. I'm a 29-year-old virgin. Want do I know?

Dear Ann Landers: Under what circumstances would it be proper to invite guests to attend a wedding and exclude them from the reception.

I know of a couple who drove 300 miles to attend a wedding and when they arrived they were told there was no room for them at the wedding. They had to go back after the wedding. They were not invited. What do you think of this second like to you, Ann? — Ida

Dear Frigid: It sounds like a gross misunderstanding. The rules of Emily Post and Amy Vanderbilt Goests are often omitted from the wedding (especially if it's the second time around for the bride or groom) but they are invited to the reception. I can't imagine inviting a couple to come from out-of-town for the ceremony and not offer them the hospitality and refreshments that follow.

Doris Clark

'Seed Money' Built Church

News Note: Recently it was announced on T.V. news that the New Hamburg New Life Church, Toronto, distributed several hundred 5 dollar bills to the congregation, following the theme of the parable about the servants who were given money by their master. Some invested, gaining interest, while the man who hid his talent in his mattress — a big one.

Well, Rev. Hodder's interpretation returned manifold, but more important, it built a true committed spirit in the congregation. I was much taken by this imaginative leadership shown by the Rev. Hodder.

Bob Lindsay.

Dear Bob: An excellent idea. Have it been tried in the United, we did the tiered money about 25 years ago, when we had to build a new church. We got the people interested and homemade bread which sold like hot cakes; and all who started with a project, were given 10 dollars as a seed money.

We've got another project going now, and I have bought some very beautiful African violets, from a retired native, and hoping to be our choir members with a green thumb.

Dear Doris: In reply to "Modern Christian." We have been in Canada for a few years now, and have not yet seen anybody very very much.

We have two children of our own and we have been foster parents for two years.

We have had in our care 5 children with ages ranging from newborn to teen-agers. After the children have left us I always have to have a good cry.

All of these children when entering our home had to be washed in, hand and foot, when they left, they had learned to do everything for themselves.

This child is 8 years old and a tin of soup. They are taught to think for themselves and make decisions that even an adult would find difficult to make. Like, should I stay where I am or go back to my mother, knowing that if they don't go back to their family they will cut off completely.

All our children have an allowance each week which they have to learn to manage among one week a month which we call "relief."

Two Europeans.

Dear Two: You love them, you give their personality room to grow and by teaching them how to do things you are also making it possible for them to take care of themselves if they go back to a home where things are somewhat less than perfect.

I can understand your hating to part with little ones to whom you have given so much love and consideration, in one of the noblest jobs there is. Orchids to you!

Dear Ann: Fanny things happen in fancy places — for some unknown reason I get a few vague, disjointed lines of a poem. Then I sit down and proceeded to scamper across my mind in double time. Long ago. Now I can't get rid of the whole stuff.

I can't know who wrote it. As I recall, it was written in the town in dawn was breaking. And I staggered in my nest, — softly shaking. From the cart-road to the creek-road. And it ends: "And I wept as children weep 'Till the dawn wind slowly, softly brought its burning eyelids, sleep."

— "There's mighty mischief overhead." — "The snow is dead." — "It's white and cold." — "It evidence for blamed?"

Maybe someone recognizes one of these. Old Timer.

Dear old Timer: I am intrigued. Who or what staggers in the town at dawn? Readers, can you tell us? I confess to agree with the writer's evidence of "mischief — when it snows!

New Organization Will Provide United Voice for Indian Women

OTTAWA (CP). An organization uniting native women's voice for all women of North American Indian descent was formed Sunday after after debate between native women's delegates under the Indian Act and those who have lost their Indian status.

The Saskatchewan Indian Women's Association, led by president Mrs. Isabel McNab, walked out of the two-day Indian Rights for Indian Women conference Saturday night. They said they were not truly representative of Indian women and could not claim to speak for their spokesmen.

However, two representatives from each of the seven provinces and the two territories remained, and conference organizers were hopeful that native women, including delegates not by Ottawa as being Indians, there would now be two.

Many of the non-status delegates were stirred by the role cast by the Indian affairs department on women who married non-Indians and still retained their Indian status.

"Does an Indian woman who marries a white man lose her color?" asked one delegate Saturday night.

"No wonder many of our Indian women are ashamed when they are raised to lose their 'year status,'" said another.

The new organization had its roots in 1974 when the Jeanette Laval case was before the courts. Mrs. Lavall who lost her status by marriage, wanted to go back to her reserve with her children.

The Supreme Court of Canada ruled that the Indian Act section on status were within the powers of Parliament to enact and did not discriminate against Indian women.

There were early signs of a split emerging among delegates at the Saturday workshops.

Saskatchewan delegate said women who married non-Indians "now should stick to what they believed in when they got married" and not be married the fact that they got married to the white people."

Mrs. Mary Two-Axe, who lost her status when she married, and also wanted to go back to Caughnawaga, Que., to help her people, and also wanted her children to spend time on the reserve.

Mrs. Two-Axe, like other speakers from the non-status group, referred to non-Indian wives of Indian men who they stated had no place on native reserves to their children.

All five of the officers of the new organization are women who lost status through marriage. They included Mrs. Margetts, elected first vice-president from B.C., and Mrs. Jeanette vice-president.

The president is Mrs. Doris Seaner of British Columbia, a non-status Indian of the confederacy.

Meet a proud Canadian.

Your first taste will tell you why we're proud of Royal Reserve—its smooth and mellow flavour. In fact, in actual taste tests, Canadian rye drinkers preferred its character and quality to one of the best-selling brands.* Make the Royal Reserve discovery yourself.

Matching Prices

No, tint's not a new shade of eye shadow. We've got enough of them, thanks. But it certainly is a concern for all of us on matching what we are about to purchase. Now you can be able to do much about spiralling prices, but we can do something about shopping around before we make any major purchase. That's where part of the problem lies. And when you shop around for optical service, you'll not find Trenton Optical wanting in any department — except the price category. Trenton Optical says their prices are competitive and they are. But you get more than just a good price; you get the quality of service to match right from the time you walk in the door. And you don't need an appointment to find out about eye exams. Optical hours are 41 84 Bridge St. East. You can't miss the big blue eye. And it's certainly "worth looking into".

Great Weekend, Great Clothes

Another high spot for you and your friends to visit this week-end, is the West Wind Boutique at Archibald on Hwy. 2. Whether it's for great sportswear, evening-or or summerwear, or special gift items, the West Wind has them. Fun enthusiasts will find golf fashions; sunbathers will find halters, shorts and sleepy swimwear; and the fashion-conscious will find high fashion in the best of materials and style from all over the world. Celebrate summer in style — Jean Shrimpton's Visit is on at West Wind Boutique, open Monday to Saturday from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Sundays until 5 p.m. Take a drive up to Archibald for a great favorite. And what rewards when you get there! Have a great weekend, with some great shopping at West Wind.

Cameron Gallery Notes

William Keats of Belleville was the lucky winner of a Donnah Cameron painting in the Knights of Columbus Art Show in aid of the Arthritic Society in Trenton. The name of the painting is "Lily Pond". Congratulations to Mr. Keats — more news about the Cameron Artists. Daughter of painters Allan and Donnah Cameron, Donnah Cameron Finnegan, graduates from the Ontario College of Art this summer. You may remember the write-ups about Donnah's outstanding performance and creativity in the Quinte Canada Arts Festival. The Cameron Gallery will be open this weekend, Saturday and Sunday from 12:30 to 5 p.m. And what a great place to go on a holiday! You can't show all your friends all the great things we have around here, but the Cameron gallery is a very good start.

Holidays With Holiday

If you're thinking of a trip — and who isn't! — then Holiday Car and Truck Rentals at 11 West Moira St. shouldn't be a hard name to remember. Holiday is the company who can make that car you get you on the vacation of your choice. They get you that truck to get all your belongings up to that cottage. And it's at Holiday where you get the car you're practically on the road. Holiday can help you with mileage estimates and rates and so on. The phone number is 962-8811. Hoover bags are 89c and bags for all other vacuum start at 79c a bag. Gibbs and Hall also make a thorough check of your vacuum hose and replace it if necessary. New hose can start at $5.50. An investment of your time to visit Gibbs and Hall in Trenton will be rewarded to the price of a new vacuum. Keep the old one in good shape.

Air-conditioning Weather

I bet you thought after all the snide remarks I made at the weather back in the winter months, that I would never have anything good to say about it. That's not it at all; it's glorious. But it's also air-conditioning time too. Ready Electric's Casanova, 28, Coleman 36, is ready for it too. They have Westinghouse units in 5, 6, 7, 8, 10 and 12 BTUs (Electrical Units — that's what I looked up this week, so there!) These units are all easy to install window units and can accommodate either vertical or horizontal placement. Come on the job kind of windows you use. So for your place of business, or your home, Ruddy Electric's Consumer Division is THE PLACE for air-conditioners.

Not Just For Softness

I think that sometimes I get so carried away on the rainwater effects of living on Lake Ontario Water Softner in your homes, that I don't emphasize the safety factors as much as I should. But one of the joys in rural or borderline conditions where the water is really bad, should read this column and follow it up with a call to Moira Schuster at 962-6994. After all, we are talking about a water refiner and that's just what air Aquafirst Water Softner does: refines your water so that the impurities and harshness are controlled. And there is no more vital part of our existence than our water. And that just isn't part of the dialogue of the environmentalists. It's your home, so you should protect yourself in it. And that means safe water. That also means Aquafined water.

View From The Terrace

Sounds like the name of a novel doesn't it? I think it is. But what I had in mind is the lovely view from the Terrace Lounge of the Four Seasons which you'll have when you have lunch in those relaxing surroundings. You can see the bay, complemented by the lovely widths of greenery in front of it. And now that the boys have switched to their early gifts, we are now most certainly in the fullness of spring. But while you're experiencing all of Nature's richness in the nicest dining surrounds around, your bill will remain surprise you. The Terrace Lounge luncheon features hot roast beef on a tasty bun at $1.85 and hot pastrami on a bun at $1.65. Have the lunch you deserve — at the Four Seasons, of course.

What You Can't Do

Undoubtedly, you're feeling pretty proud of yourself for getting the house looking spic and span. But what you can't do a good job on, no matter how ambitious you are, are the carpets and the furniture. You and your elbows just aren't adequate and that's no reflection on either of you. But ServiceMaster is another kettle of fish — or I should say, another reason for cleaning. ServiceMaster has the people and the elbows too, but they also have the equipment and the know-how too. ServiceMaster is an international company with an international reputation for getting anything and everything clean. They'll do a thorough job on your carpets and furniture and you and your elbows and hands will be very glad they did. Call for your ServiceMaster service at 967-1572.

Don't Let the Petunias Show You Up

This is traditionally the weekend for putting in the annuals. But if the house needs a new coat of paint, Nature's bounty is only going to show you up, and it up, not hide the situation. Why not handle the perpetual problem once and for all, with a little help from Highland Construction? Vinyl siding will solve your exterior decor problems once and for all. And for the next 30 years or so, all you're going to have to do outside is just keep the lawn cut and plant the flowers. Vinyl siding has far more advantages over aluminum siding, as you'll see when you visit Highland Construction's Home Improvement Centre at 257 North Front St. You can see exactly what it looks like on the display there, read the brochures and talk to the consultants. Then let Highland Construction get at it. Then all you have to do is to enjoy the flowers.

Health Unit Awaiting Queen's Park Decision on New Budget

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

Pending the provincial budget announcement, contract negotiations between the Hastings and Prince Edward County Board of Health and Local 21 of the Ontario Nurses Association is preventing the fulltime equivalent of 1395 budget requirements by the counties' health unit, says Clifford B. Cotton, unit business administrator-treasurer.

However, all budgets cannot be submitted until contract talks across Ontario have been completed, he said. The health unit has offered to submit an estimated budget, pending provincial health unit budgets before approving any single budget.

However, all budgets cannot be submitted until contract talks across Ontario have been completed, he said. The health unit has offered to submit an estimated budget, pending final contract agreement, but the ministry has refused to accept budgets which have not advised provincial units to supplemental budgets when agreements are finalized, he added.

"I'm getting a little fed up with the ministry officials' handling of it," Mr. Cotton commented. "That programs which require ministry approval.

(negotiations) could go on into the summer."

He pointed out the health unit is short-staffed at present and had budgeted for a dental hygienist and other public health nurses plus funding for new health

The health board has decided to send a delegation to the ministry in Toronto next week, Mr. Cotton and board members to convince the ministry to change its mind.

Mr. Cotton noted the board still planned to secure the support of both counties' provincial members of parliament for added clout.

As for talks between the health board and its 30 nurses, they have agreed to conciliation. Mr. Cotton said the provincial ministry of labor has appointed Paul G. Gardner as conciliation officer to confer with both parties and endeavor to effect a collective agreement between them.

Mr. Gardner will hold his first meeting on May 30 at 10 a.m. in the Four Seasons Hotel.

Re-opening of Mine to Inject $1.5 Million into Bancroft Area

By NAN WHITLAW
Staff Reporter

BANCROFT — The future planning, growth and development of North Hastings received the attentions of local secondary school students, members of the community and area politicians during a futures seminar held here Thursday.

The seminar, which had been organized by the North Hastings High School geography department, dealt with the housing developments at Sherwin, Deer Cee Hills and with the Faraday Heights subdivision in the village as well as with the Hastings County Plan, future commercial development within Bancroft, the opening of Faraday mine and provincial park and forestry development.

In referring to the Faraday Heights enlarged subdivision in Bancroft, Gordon Walwright of Bowes and Cecil Rasky said "75-100 additional houses will be built in the area in five phases with the first houses ready in four to six months".

Mr. Walwright indicated that the normal development of the village along with the expected influx of mining families indicate that there is a need for the subdivision.

Jack Hatin, former reeve of Bancroft, said the influx of mining families will put an other $1.5 million to the local economy.

Mr. Hatin said "The Bancroft area has to be concerned to be in the domicile area for the miners and their families. Any commercial expansion indicates that a subdivision has to be accessible to industrial sites".

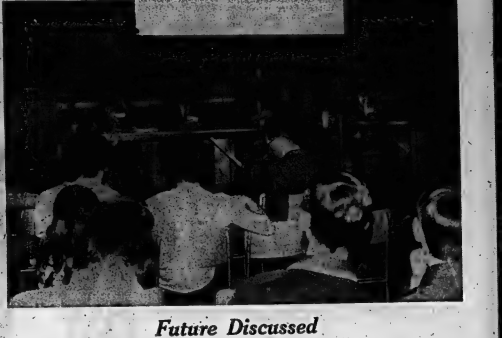
Mr. Hatin also said that the management of the Faraday mine had no intention of providing housing for their employees this time and that the miners would be encouraged to purchase or rent their own accommodation.

Also speaking at the seminar was Faraday Reeve Jack Rasky and representatives of the county.

Mr. MacKenzie said that S. is now time for the various municipalities of North Hastings to consider the needs of the municipal governments.

"What should the municipals be in the North affects them all," said the Faraday Reeve.

Also present at the seminar was C. T. Hunt, recent appointee to the Ontario Municipal Board, Lorne Council and Frank Walter of the ministry of natural resources forestry division.



Future Discussed

Guest panelists at a seminar held in Bancroft on Thursday included county planner Niall Carney, Ivan Fowler, member of the Land Division committee, moderator Ernie Carswell, North Hastings High School student Brad Doocy and local teacher Dave Hobson, who is also the provincial riding Liberal candidate.

Planner Warns County Tourism Shaky Base

BANCROFT — The planner for Hastings County, Niall Carney told a group of Secondary School students and community members at a seminar held here Thursday, that "I am not a prophet, and I don't know how well it will be doing in the next 30 years, but I do know that we can see from today what might arise tomorrow."

Mr. Carney was speaking during a seminar organized by the geography department of the local high school about the future growth of North Hastings within the setting of Ontario.

A great degree of interest is at work within the county, he said, with more and more commercially oriented persons with hotels and marinas.

"We must afford the development of land locked lakes," said Mr. Carney. "Lakes are part of the public domain."

Mr. Carney said Hastings is supposed to be a tourist area; however, industry is not providing jobs on a consistent basis nor is it improving the economy.

"The official plan for the county reads a tourist industry, but it is not," he said. "The figures show that's why there are certain lakes which are designated for commercial development."

Mr. Carney indicated to the group that the plan, although it must be reviewed every five years and can be amended as the need arises.

Society Screens Old Film

Members of the Hastings County Historical Society will have an opportunity to relive life in the Victorian mid-west era when they will view the Orson Welles classic, The Magnificent Ambersons.

Few people realize the Hastings County Museum (Glanmore House) at 232 East Bridge St., houses the showing will be held at 8 p.m., dates back to the same era as depicted in the film.

A post formal during meetings will be re-introduced for the 1978 season in order to prepare prior to the summer vacation period — a show-and-tell segment which will see members bring an object and be prepared to talk about it.

In other society news, heavy file searches have been granted to Dianne MacDonald and Barbara Ritchie for their contributions in the areas of Glanmore House.

Insurance Gets Check

The Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Board of Health will investigate the status of liability insurance for its members following news that the Toronto Board of Heath is in the throes of a lawsuit, says Clifford B. Cotton, business administrator and secretary-treasurer of the counties health unit.

Mr. Cotton told a board meeting this week he is checking with the board's insurance company. He said the board is covered with public liability and professional practice insurance.

Ald. Ann Smith of Belleville, a board member and newly-elected to the Association of Boards of Health of Ontario (ABHO), related the Toronto situation was discussed at length during the recent ABHO annual convention.

Police Urge Caution On Holiday Weekend

If 1974 Victoria Day statistics are any guideline, 9 people will die on Ontario highways over the long weekend beginning today.

And that's exactly 25 too many," states a provincial ministry of transportation and communications spokesman, who urges all motorists to "go safely" — not only this weekend but throughout the year.

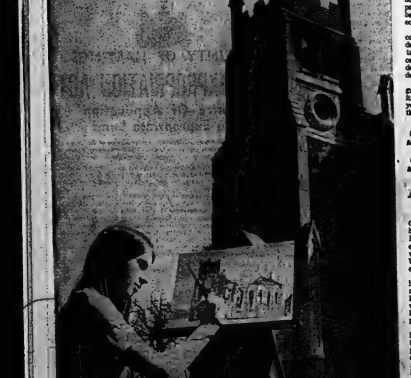
The Victoria Day weekend is the traditional opening of the summer season. And with it, a great many people begin driving to their cottages or start summer travelling.

Unhappily, it's also the time of year when ministry statisticians register big increases in the number of injuries and fatalities resulting from motor accidents.

Accidents are not simply accidents. Research proves conclusively, they result from poor driving judgement or errors driving mosts automobiles, even aggressive drivers who won't or don't yield the right-of-way.

If motorists would remember that they too could be victims, perhaps they would all drive to survive.

In addition the the 25 fatalities during the 1974 long weekend another 28 were seriously injured.



Still Attractive

St. Thomas' Anglican Church on the corner of Church and East Bridge streets stands damaged by fire but it still is attractive to artists, especially students who require a subject for their class. A Grade Nine student at Belleville Collegiate Institute found such a use this week with the church as a subject for her acrylic painting.

Nature Lover

Corby Park once again is emerging as the horticultural showcase of the city as the first blooms poke their r color through the greenery. Once who took notice of spring things is one and a half year old Bruce. Later this spring roses — the trademark of the park on William St. — will come into blossom, the result of a major re-planting program.

Teachers Plan Candidates Night to Express Views

County elementary and secondary school teachers will jointly sponsor an all-candidates night as a part of their policy to gather and present information to the voters at Hastings.

Representatives from the area division of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation (OSSTF) and the Ontario Public School Men's Teachers' Federation (OPSMTF) met with county political parties last night at Bayside Secondary School.

Hastings division president of the OSSTF Jodie Carty said both the liberal and NDP party organizers attended the meeting but Conservative party officials failed to attend.

Last week representatives from the Ontario Teachers Federation (OTF), the parent group for the other federations, decided not to support any one political party in the next provincial election but to act as an information gatherer-ing and dispensing agency for area voters.

Mrs. Carty said the meeting was held to inform all party organizers of the concerns of teachers in Hastings County. She said the teachers will be interested in non-educational issues as well. Bayside public school teacher Wayne Wickson represented the OSSTF.

Marksmen Frustrated, Sabres Fall 4-1

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — It was a weird night for Buffalo Sabres but it's something they should expect when they meet Philadelphia Flyers in the Spectrum.

The Sabres outshot the defending Stanley Cup champions by this first two periods but couldn't score against goalie Bernie Parent as he led the Flyers to a 4-1 triumph Thursday night.

The win, before 17,007 fans, gave the Flyers a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven National Hockey League playoff final with the second game here Sunday afternoon starting at 3:30 p.m. EDT.

Left winger Bill Barber scored two goals for the winners. His first came at 2:43 of the final period to stop a scoreless tie.

Goalie Gerry Desjardins of the Sabres was handcuffed on the play when defenceman Ed Van Impe fired a shot from the blue line that went past the left side of the net. Desjardins threw a left right, looking for the puck to come out on that side but it ricocheted on the left and Barber knocked it into the open net.

"Our forwards outplayed them, our defence outplayed them, but they outplayed us," Desjardins said. "Parent played a hell of a game."

Commenting on his saves in the first period, Parent said: "The toughest save was when (Gil) Perreault cut in front when they had the power play. You have to be lucky when it's five-on-three to stop five or six shots."

The loss kept the Sabres winless at the Spectrum since joining the league in 1970. Counting Thursday's game, the Sabres have lost 12 and tied two in Philadelphia. Buffalo hasn't beaten the Flyers at home or here in the last 14 league, exhibition and playoff games dating back to March 28, 1971.

Barber got the Flyers started and they added two more goals on power plays, one by Ross Lonsberry and the other by Bobby Clarke before Barber got his second late in empty net at 19:46 of the final period with Desjardins out for an extra attacker.

Rick Martin scored the only goal for the Sabres who were playing their first game since May 8 when they eliminated Montreal Canadiens in the semi-finals. The defending New York Islanders in the seven game of their semi-final here Tuesday.

Martin, shortest 20-21 over-all, received eight 13 minutes in the first 40 minutes, enabling the Sabres to use their power play several times. But in only 6 seconds at one point, Parent stopped Punch Imlach, Joseph Geoffrion twice and Anse Robert once.

Martin scored on a power play after Tom Bladon in the penalty box and the Sabres trailing 3-0 at 11:07 of the third period. However, Clarke made it 4-1 less than a minute later when he won a faceoff in the Buffalo end and beat Desjardins after pulling the goalie out of position.

"We weren't outplayed in the first two periods," said Philadelphia coach Fred Shero, "I'll show you the films. What they did do except win the power play?, Parent was the difference.

Philadelphia's Dave Schultz drew two minor penalties in a scuffle with Buffalo's Danny Gare in the second period and set a power record for playoff penalty minutes. He now has a total of 366 minutes in 41 playoff games over three years. The previous record of 360 minutes was held by former Montreal Canadiens' scraper John Ferguson in seven years and 80 games.

"We played pretty well in the first two periods but didn't get a good shot and going," said Barber, who leads the third period and that's what hurt."

Hawley Credits Work of Agents

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Sandy Hawley, who rides Native Trees in Thursday's Preakness on Saturday, says the work of his agents is responsible for his record-setting pace at Hollywood Park.

"My agents have done a really good job getting the mounts for me," the 26-year-old sausage, Oat., rider. "It's the horses that make the rider. You have to get lucky, but if you get some live mounts, you're going to win some races."

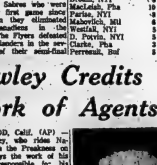
"I don't think I do anything that much better than anybody else," says the North American riding champion of 1970, 1971 and 1972 who has scored 37 victories in 83 days at Hollywood Park to threaten Laffit Pincay's record of 146 victories at the 79 day meeting.

"I just try to get a horse to relax as much as I can. I don't try to rush them into something they're not ready to do or that we'll both have more energy in the finish or whenever else we need it."

"He thinks very well," says Bob Redmond, Hollywood Park's publicist. "Willie Shoemaker says he isn't the best rider he's ever seen, but he's one of the best thinking jockeys."

"That's the key to his success. You've got to see it every day to understand it. He never gets flustered."

It was Hawley who first lured Hawley to the West. Until 1972, Hawley rode mostly on the Ontario Jockey Club circuit with infrequent visits to United States tracks. Then Benoit saw



SANDY HAWLEY

Hawley ride at Oaklawn Park in Arkansas in 1972.

"We couldn't promise him anything," Benoit recalls, "But I told Sandy that he'd have a chance for bigger purses out here than he'd ever raced for."

"And, frankly, we believed what we made it. He had talent, he was young and we felt that he could ride as light as 108 pounds. We knew he could ride and we knew what kind of guys we can do, and he was a perfect combination for the field." He was very likable.

At Hollywood Park he has ridden more than twice the winners of second place Jockey Fernando Toro with 83 and his multiple winning days have become frequently that writers and fans have dubbed the track "Hawley Park" instead of it's nickname, "Hollypark".

Mastine Leads Excelsiors

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Brampton Excelsiors won their third consecutive Ontario Lacrosse Association Major series game Thursday, defeating Brantford Warriors 11-9.

Steve Mastine led the Excelsiors with four goals and Frank Hebner added three. Art Webster, Rick Benett, Bob Haw and Barry Richardson then rounded out the scoring with one goal each.

Penalties Could Hurt Agree Philadelphia Players

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — Members of the Philadelphia Flyers agreed Thursday night that the club had better watch the number of penalties they take against Buffalo Sabres in their Stanley Cup final series.

The Flyers took nine of 15 minor penalties assessed by referee Art Skov but still managed to win the opener of the best-of-seven National Hockey League final 4-1 Thursday night.

"I think we've been successful this year without taking as many penalties as last year," said Flyers captain Bobby Clarke.

"I think they (Buffalo) have a tremendous power play. Anytime you take a bad penalty against them, it could cost you.

"We had to kill a few penalties tonight and that took away from our offence. We looked a little tired tonight, too, but with a couple of days rest we'll be stronger."

Philadelphia was assessed eight of their nine penalties in the first two periods and, for a 66-second span in the opening period, had two on the penalty box. But goalie Bernie Parent was outstanding, stopping five of Buffalo's eight first-period shots during the short span.

"We were a little bit tired after that seven-game series against Montreal," Parent said. "But then again, we came back strong in the third period. I think on Sunday, we'll play the same way in all three periods."

"In the first two periods we didn't forecheck. It's not our game to sit back. In the third period we came out and played our style."

Most people in both dressing rooms after the game thought Bill Barber's goal at 2:43 of the third period which broke a scoreless tie was a turning point for the Flyers.

But Philadelphia coach Fred Shero did not agree that his Flyers were playing badly in the first two periods when they managed a total of 19 shots, including only two on the net.

"Sure, we were outshot," said Shero, "but we weren't short handed a lot. I think we had our best chances in territorial play."

Top Draft Choice

Two Leagues Select 16-year-old Trapper

TORONTO (CP) — Gaston Gingras, a 16-year-old defenceman with North Bay Trappers of the Ontario Hockey Association Provincial Junior A League, was selected Thursday as the first-round draft choice by two leagues.

The midget-aged Temiscaming, Que., player was selected by Kitchener Rangers of the Ontario Hockey Association and later in the 11-team Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A series. Kitchener is the day Holl Festivals of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League also chose him.

A total of 288 players, the majority between 16 and 17 years old, were selected in the 1972 OHA midget priority draft. Gerrard Royal also chose him in the OHA draft—the only QMJHL team to do so because of the team residency rule.

The QJMHL draft was held earlier Thursday in Montreal.

Although Gingras' family lives in Quebec, league president Pat Hikki says the player is legally a resident of North Bay.

"As far as we're concerned he's Ontario property," he said after the draft. "We have his release from North Bay . . . and we have him on one of our contracts.

"I'm sure there'll be a lot of mud slinging over this," he added.

OHA commissioner Clarence Schmalz said a QJMHL representative contacted him Thursday "and told me that he knew there was going to be trouble over the double draft.

Meanwhile, Gingras said Thursday he would rather play in the OHA.

"I have always played hockey under an Ontario card," he said. "I played eight years of minor hockey in Temiscaming but we always compete in Ontario leagues.

"I feel the leagues in Ontario are tougher. Quite why I went to North Bay," said the six-foot, 180-pound defenceman.

"I'm very nervous about being picked No. 1 but it feels great."

Gingras had 11 goals and 37 assists in 56 regular-season games last season.

Seven other midget age players were drafted in the first three rounds Thursday. Under OHA rules, each club may draft one player who has five seasons of junior playing eligibility.

Frank Boucher, manager of the Memorial Cup winning Toronto Marlboros, picked up two centres in the draft—Scott Scarbrough of Sioux Junior C series and Robert Gartner of Barrie Midget.

"He's a good skater, manages and is getting Tim Stiller we've got a very promising hockey player," Harrison said.

"He'll probably be about the same size as his brother Derrick. He's got to fill out a little more yet but he gets a lot of goals and points."

Aaron Finds Range for Brewers

Milwaukee Finally Gets Past Rangers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It took Milwaukee Brewers 23 minutes Thursday night to accomplish what they couldn't do in three hours and 38 minutes the previous night—beat Texas Rangers.

After battling 14 innings and nearly four hours to a 3-2 standoff Wednesday night before an American League curfew forced a suspension of play, the Brewers and Rangers returned to pick up where they left off.

It took just seven innings for Milwaukee to emerge with a 2-1 triumph when Texas reliever Jackie Brown walked two batters, committed a two-out error to load the bases and then hit on Money with a two-strike pitch, forcing in the winning run.

Then, they went on in the regularly-scheduled contest and Milwaukee won that one too, with Hank Aaron contributing a three-run homer and a sacrifice fly.

Elsewhere in the AL, Kansas City Royals blanked Boston Red Sox 3-0 behind Steve Busby's four-hitter and Minnesota Twins edged Cleveland Indians 7-6 on Rod Carew's ninth-inning single.

In the National League, Philadelphia Phillies swept a two-night doubleheader from Chicago Cubs 6-3 and 5-3 while Cincinnati Reds downed Houston Astros 4-3, Montreal Expos and Atlanta Braves were rained out at Montreal in the fourth inning and Atlanta leading 4-1 on two-run homers by Darrell Evans and Dave May.

Aaron's 300-foot homer, his fourth of the season, capped a four-run fifth inning which included a run-scoring triple by Bobby Mitchell, who also homered and singled, and gave the Brewers a 7-1 lead.

Pete Broberg, dealt away by the Rangers last December following a 0-4 season, earned the victory with last our help from Ed Rodriguez.

Brown came on to start the seventh inning of the suspended game and issued a leadoff walk to Leo Lacano sacrificed and Darrell Porter was given an intentional walk. Pedro Garcia struck out, Brown bobbled Tim Johnson's grounder, loading the bases. Then he hit Money, ending the Rangers' five-game winning streak.

Kansas City scored an unearned run in the sixth off Boston ace Luis Tiant, 3-3. With two out, Hal McRae was hit by a pitch after his foot pop dropped between Boston catcher Bob Montgomery and first baseman Carl Yastrzemski for an error.

McRae attempted to steal second and appeared out by 30 feet on Montgomery's throw. However, shortstop Rick Burleson dropped the ball while applying the tag and was charged with an error. After John Mayberry walked, Harmon Killebrew blooped a single to shallow right center, scoring McRae.

The Royals added two runs in the seventh on a double by Al Cowens, a bunt single by Fran Palett and singles by Buck Martinez and Vada Pinson.

Cleveland reliever Jim Perry walked Don Baylor to start the ninth and pinch runner Dan Ford was sacrificed to second. After an intentional walk to Danny Thomas, Dave Duncan came on and fanned Tony Oliva but Carew then hit his game winning single to centre field.

Philadelphia's two-night sweep beat third baseman Pete Rose's throw to the plate on Gerry Moses' grounder in the seventh inning of the nightcap to break a tie. The Phillies won the opener when pinch hitter Ollie Brown's two-run double off Don Gullett with two out capped a four-run rally in the bottom of the ninth inning.

Cash opened second with one out in the seventh inning of the nightcap when shortstop Dave Concepcion threw his grounder past first base. He moved to third on Larry Bowa's single and slid under catcher Johnny Bench's tag to score on Rose's grounder.

Philadelphia also used a two-base error by centre fielder Cesar Geronimo with two on to open the scoring in the seventh inning. Reds scored single runs unearned.

The Phillies added a hit a tie breaking two run double in the eighth inning to back the three-hit pitching of Rick Reuschel. Both Phillies runs were unearned.

Bench's double off J.R. Richard drove in Jerry Morales, who led off the eighth with a walk, and Pete LaCock, who followed with a bunt single. Rick Monday hit a two-run homer tied the score 3-3.

Indiana Nipped 95-93 By Kentucky Colonels

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Artis Gilmore's basket with five seconds left in the game Thursday night carried Kentucky past Indiana 95-93 and gave the Colonels a 3-0 edge in the American Basketball Association final playoff series.

As time ran out, Indiana's Billy Keller fired one from outside the circle and connected, but officials ruled it was no good, touching off a dispute.

Indiana coach Bobby Leonard came to the floor, saying that the shot was good, that it had gone through before the buzzer. While moments, a crowd had collected around the scorer's table and police moved in to break it up.

Until Gilmore's final basket he had been held to 19 points by the Indiana defense.

George McGinnis fired in 30 for the Pacers and Kevin Joyce added 16.

The teams now move to Indianapolis to resume the best-of-seven series.

The scorers for the Colonels were Dan Issel with 23 and Marv Roberts with 18, followed by Louie Dampier with 12.

Indiana was ahead 45-43 at halftime and during those first two periods Kentucky shot 50 per cent from the polls. But he came back strong in the final two periods to spark Indiana's closing drive.

Brenner to Bombers

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats said Thursday they have traded the Canadian Football League's negotiating rights of defensive halfback Al Brenner to Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

In return, the Ticats received linebacker Norm Rochelleau, a rookie who signed with the Bombers this season after playing in 1974 with Detroit Lions of the National Football League, and another Bomber who "hasn't been told of the trade yet."

Although Brenner wasn't available for comment on the trade, Ticat general manager Ralph Sazio said he "tried to do what was best for the club" by sending the perennial all-star to Winnipeg.

Brenner, 27, who holds the CFL record of 15 interceptions in one season, currently is retired from the league, his latest move in contract negotiations with the Eastern Football Conference team.

By putting his name on the league's inactive roster list before June 15, Brenner could still play this season. He was facing the option year of his contract with the Ticats which expired after the 1974 season.

The former Michigan State grad was an all-star at both the Canadian and Eastern all-star teams in 1973 and was named to the Eastern all-star in 1974.

Stamps Sign Three

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders of the Western Football Conference annexed Thursday the signing of fullback-candidate Mark Green and veteran Rudy Linterman—a Canadian running back who graduated from Idaho—and Brian Lamoureux—a linebacker from Washington State—to the 1975 Canadian Football League season. Green, from Texas A and M, joined Calgary midway in the 1974 season.

2 Countries Fight To Stay in Olympics

HOME (AP) — Taiwan and Rhodesia, two little trading countries with political problems, faced the first stage today of their fight to stay in the Olympic Games.

Both were due to be discussed at a meeting before the executive of the International Olympic Committee (IOC) and the Assembly of National Olympic Committees.

Taiwan is in danger of being replaced by mainland China. The Chinese have applied to the IOC for recognition, on the condition that Taiwan be withdrawn from Taiwan.

Rhodesia is the subject of a long report by a three-man commission of the IOC which visited the country. The report speaks of lack of equipment and sports opportunities for black Rhodesians.

Both matters are due to be decided by the IOC at its annual congress at Lausanne, Switzerland, next week. The assembly of national committees has no authority to make a decision, but its views could influence the IOC.

Lord Killanin, president of the IOC, said China will be treated the same as any other country wanting to join the Olympics.

The IOC has first to satisfy itself that the All-China Sports Federation, which made the application, conforms to Olympic qualifications.

Rhodesia was the subject of a bitter controversy in the IOC at Munich in 1972. It was locked out of the Munich Olympics. And the Council of Sport for Africa takes the same hard line against Rhodesia now.

The Rhodesian problem first arose after the African country had rebelled against British rule and proclaimed its independence. The IOC tried to make a compromise by allowing Rhodesians to compete in the 1973 games with British passports.

At the eleventh hour, the African countries threatened to walk out in protest. The IOC leaders were forced to make a first decision on Rhodesia now and to avoid a repetition of the process at Munich.

Many observers believe there is enough in the report on Rhodesia to get it drummed out of the Games, as South Africa was five years ago.

Allen refused to play with the Braves and was traded last week to the Phillies.

Without Co-operation We're All in Trouble

With summer sports off and running it's time to get serious and about to get up a full head of steam in many others, now is as good a time as any (and better than most) to put our cards on the table.

The list of organized sports continues to grow. And with that healthy growth, there is more and more demand on the time and energy of the sports department.

Without dwelling on the problems we face, suffice it to say we're busy.

More than ever, there is the need for co-operation from all the leagues.

Because we have a problem with the Bay of Quinte Soccer Association.

Camp reports are slow to come in.

This won't do.

But for the moment, we'll take the excuse that it's early in the season and the press of wrinkles remain to be ironed out.

Next week, we get tough.

If game reports are not complete and on time, they don't want them.

If we don't have all fixtures reported, we don't want any of them.

All leagues are hereby notified that no changes will be taken when appointing those responsible for publicity. Many of the people who accept the job do a good job and doing much is corn the title. . . never mind a salary.

But there are with constituents when your league is mistaken for the fact that the main are who is responsible.

If you don't get any satisfaction that way, start a petition to have us replaced.

But before you do anything, remember that those organizations who are happy with this department are few since we realize that co-operation is a two-way street.

NEEDS . . . Seems to me, the Quinte Football League (QFL) open Monday. Still no schedule, man. How about it?

And the Belleville and District Ladies' Softball League gets another season under way, Monday. Can't post them. Thanks to the women himself and the other energetic members of the executive we've had that schedule for going time now.

Looks as if Ellis Juniors are ready to trundle them all up and take notice in the QFL. The word early exhibition wins was Dennis Mercer, Howard and Robert Printing.

The Bay of Quinte Senior Juniors are raising eyebrows.

Former Bobcat Champion star this holders David Laing and Danny Parrish are slated to return to the series which this weekend gets into the second round of the seven-race series for Formula 100 and 2.5 sedans.

But unregistrants play the dominant role with Steve Sharp, 18-007 of Bellingham, Washington, leading the two-wheeled fraternity. His lone appearance to date was by entered during the 1971 Watercress Grand Prix, of Canada.

Remember our discourse on youth in the National Hockey League? Well, now we're informed that the youngest player in the NHL is Minnesota right-hander Dennis Hilde.

Senior citizens in the league are St. Louis Cardinals' Phil Gagen and Detroit Tigers' Tony Taylor. Both are 36 years old.

How old is Blair?

Well, my dear, he'll be 21, June 3.

How about this for a theory? Chicago Bulls' coach Dick Motta, in first place in the NC, East, in case you hadn't noticed) has a theory. Let's say the theory issue: Locker's Law: "Keep in motion tend to stay in motion."

Cincinatti Red's Star Pete Rose on baseball: "The game presents, perhaps, the most challenges of any sport. It's the most individual sport there is.

In basketball, you have guys setting picks for you, in football, you have guys blocking for you. But in baseball, no one can help but hit the ball and no one can help you catch it."

Switch back to local, you say?

Glad to.

But reasons may be sorry.

Remember that exhibition softball . . . turned . . . baseball game featuring CJBQ-CJNH (they've got a name but who knows what they're using today?) and the executive and coaches of the Belleville Minor Baseball Association?

Well, remember it, too.

We couldn't be there.

And although organizers say it it was were armed with the necessary, the federal powers to compel the match, no one was bothered to let us know what happened now that it's history.

Crosby today, aren't it?

Thomas Maxwell, Ivanhoe Public School, Belleville Olympics breaks in on Quinte Bellboy goalkeeper Angelo Hagbirian is Thursday night's Bay of Quinte Soccer League contest in Trenton. Maxwell couldn't quite catch up with the ball as the goalie came out to scoop it up. The Olympic attacker didn't have to worry about putting any balls past Hagbirian who his teammates already had two anyway. The Olympians won the contest 3-0.

BISL First Innings Decisive

It was a night when first innings made the difference in games. The Intelligencer scored seven runs in the first frame and went on to defeat the Leaders 16-14 and the Independents rolled up eight runs in the first inning of their game and finished up on the long end of an 11-6 score over Canadian Tire. The third Industrial League contest scheduled to go Thursday night was cancelled.

Greg Bellis and Dallas Gayle did duties on the Independents mound. The pair combined for five strikeouts and two walks while giving up just three hits in the shutout.

John French and Andy Prentice threw for the losers. French took the loss in the first inning.

Ron Colledge went the distance on the Intel mound as his teammates cranked out 13 hits and took five walks off the losers, Marr and Wellman.

Bill Cooney gave Colledge all the support he needed with a home run and pair of singles. Fred Stotzke had a double and two singles and Tony Goncalves and Glen Reynolds added a single and a double each.

John Maloney was tops for the Leaders with a four-tacker and a pair of singles. Bob Hughes had a homer and a double and Minnaire had a home run and a single.

Harness Racing More Than Meets the Eye

By DOUG JEFFERIES

Harness Racing means much to many people. For most, it's a way of life.

Have you ever stopped to think about the sport?

It seems to be stereotyped into a spot of betting, for the sole purpose of collecting a gain. Some probably feel the sport as a whole is run by bookmakers whose sole interest is capital gain.

Not true. The Quinte Exhibition Raceway (QER) is a non-profit organization primarily interested in providing a community service. Officials are finding it difficult to meet legislative demands and operating costs totally unassisted.

For instance, $900,000 was wagered in the 1971 racing season. Of this amount, 5 cents of every dollar is returned to the bettor. Of the 95 cents left, the provincial government takes seven per cent, while the federal government takes seven-tenths of a cent. The track gets the remainder, a profit of only 13 cents-tenths cents on every dollar spent.

On a night when 2,000 are present, the raceway receives approximately $2,000.

In reckoning, North America can break even on the betting alone. They depend highly on their gate admissions, and concessions, to break even.

There have been a number of top class horses which have raced at the Belleville track. Al Vance's "Dream Command" is just one prime example. Others in the area such as the Wannaukers and the Zeboden's all breed top notch racers.

Harness Racing is known as an industry. Many people live off the sport. Farmer's sell their products, hay, oats, grain. The companies who make the harnesses and the reins and the blacksmith whose job depends on the sport. All help keep it in operation.

The QER last year payed out $34,000 for local maintenance help. They employed five full time helpers, and about 75 part time employees, who were mostly students in need of jobs.

They helped the community. The sport means so much to so many people that officials want to keep the industry alive in Belleville.

BCI Girls 2 for 2

Belleville Collegiate's A team picked up their second win in as many starts in Bay of Quinte Secondary School Girls' Soccer action during the past week.

In other girls's soccer games, Richmond shut out BCI's B team 3-0, Centennial blanked Glenlee 3-0 in an A game and in another A game Prince Edward Collegiate was awarded a default win over Centennial.

Wendy Donovan set up BCI's first marker by Rita Karver and scored the second herself. Shirley Colliver recorded the shutout in the absence of the season.

Olympics Blank Hellenics 2-0

TRENTON — Many soccer enthusiasts, looking forward to the first meeting of the season between Quinte Hellenic and Belleville Olympics, had to settle for a abbreviated exhibition match here last night.

Referee Bob Arsenault called the scheduled Bay of Quinte Soccer Association game off. He had no other choice when it was discovered that several poles of fill placed in Centennial Park were on the playing area.

Arsenault agreed to referee when the two team captains decided to play an exhibition game.

But in the second half, the referee called a halt to proceedings after sending a Hellenic player from the game. Olympics led 3-0 when the match was halted.

Chris Johnson opened the scoring in the game just before the interval.

Zdravko Pandic completed the scoring when he slammed in from the penalty spot, late in the second half.

Gary Donovan, in goal for the winners, wasn't called often but earned his shutout with a fine save early in the game.

Goalie Ralf Hilbig faces was a standout for Hellenic.

Wednesday, Belleville Panzers and Bata Shoe Wellingdians made their first league starts meeting.

Panzers opened the scoring in the second half when Joe Iannone's goal from the penalty spot gave Bata the lead.

After opening up a 3-0 lead in the first 15 minutes of play on goals by Nick Del Grosso and Sterling Wilson, Bata got an argument from the Belleville side which narrowed the gap on John Thompson's counter and remained in contention until Iannone wrapped it up with about 10 minutes to play.

BCI Dumps Napanee

Belleville Collegiate Institute put it all together on its home field, Thursday, coming up with a high-speed offence and an airtight defence to blank Napanee and District Secondary School 11-0 in Bay of Quinte High School Lacrosse League action.

Gord Wilcox and Steve Deinstadter each scored three times, Robert Thompson netted three assists and Gord Wilcox Vliet had two helpers.

Earlier in the week, Quinte Secondary School scored a come from behind 7-6 win over Centennial Secondary School. The Hornets are tied for the lead in the west division.

Hard Luck Joe was the dummy lead and wanted no time with the next couple of plays. They were a 4-3 trump fit and a club back toward his hand.

East played low and after a little thought Joe played the jack of clubs. West ducked on the queen and shifted to a trump, which left Joe with three clubs in his hand and only two losings in dummy's red suits, so he could and he wound up in his usual spot—ON each side.

"Drat, darn and dobbed," muttered Joe. "Each club lost—my wrong and West had to lead a trump. I'd play backgammon any day but bridge would probably be just as bad at that game."

If West's opening lead had been a trump instead of a diamond, Joe would have been entitled to complain. That would have been very hard luck. After the diamond opening Joe had no one to blame but himself. He should have a low club from his hand at trick two. After that play there would have been no way for the defense to get in two rounds of trumps—he would get to ruff his last three clubs in dummy and the rest would shine.

Baby's Slow Gain No Real Problem

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My baby daughter just had her first child. She is breastfeeding. The baby weighed 7 lbs. 10 oz. at birth, and last time I saw her she was three days old. She weighed 7 lbs. by the time he was 3½ weeks old he had put a total of 10 ounces.

He seems to be listless and drowsy most of the time. I feel the baby is dehydrated.

My daughter very breast milk can be tested to see if it is nourishing enough? I would also like to know why a baby doesn't need water. Doesn't everybody need water?—Worried Grandmother.

The first weight loss is to be expected. By the end of the first month of life, however, the baby should be gaining, at least an ounce a day. You didn't include the child's height and length in your letter, and this would be important in the weight is to be evaluating progress. An eight-pounder can be a "fatty" and a lot of that weight can be liquid. Breast-fed infants also tend to add weight at a slower rate than those on a formula, some chalky during the first few weeks, when the mother's lactation is getting established and do as well as anything else.

It is quite possible a good amount of catheter in your letter, and this can make you feel dry. The same is true, of course, of coffee.

The hot flashes are a result of a sudden change in hormone control (that affecting the rate of blood vessels). This also accompanies menopause.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Does swelling and some tenderness in the lymph glands in the case mean the same as swollen cancer, or can it be caused by other things?—L. S.

No, it doesn't have to mean cancer at all. It can result from a local infection or from a blood disorder or one involving the lymphatic system — Hodgkin's disease, for example.

You should be examined to see if there is evidence of glandular swelling elsewhere. That could indicate a generalized disorder. For the sake of precaution, a biopsy should be made.

So, in answer to your question, no, each lymph gland swelling is not presumed to be cancer, but statistically, the odds are it isn't.

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A 73-year-old youth who is alleged to have threatened the life of Steve Lawrence, Eddie Fisher's second Friday when he tried to collect a $18,000 anniversary present at a Western Union office, the FBI said.

The youth is alleged to have made the threats in the singer's husband, Jeff Wald, demanding the $18,000.

The FBI said they arrested Gerald Hall at a Western Union office yesterday after he had been told that the money would be delivered there.

Hall is being held at a youth correction centre for a hearing Monday, the FBI said.

NDPer Protests Judges' Pay Boost

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament returns today to their salary jobs with "disgraceful pay increases," but restricted post out window when asking wage for MPs and senior civil servants, Ralph Ingram (NDP—Nickel Belt) said Thursday in the North Ontario city.

He spoke just before the House gave approval-in principle to a bill that would give hefty pay raises to federally-appointed judges. Later, MPs started consideration of a salary increase for lieutenant-governors.

"There seems to be a difference when this Parliament proposed determining wages," Mr. Ingram said.

The government was asking workers to hold annual increases at 12 per cent, but there was certainly nothing ridiculously about the way Parliament went about setting its own pay.

MPs and senators recently voted themselves a 31.1-per-cent pay increase, bringing the basic MP salary to $24,000 a year plus a $12,000 tax-free allowance.

Government figures show the proposed increases for judges range from one cent to 70 per cent. However, some opposition MPs say the actual average is higher.

The judges' pay raise bill, retroactive to April 1, 1974, would affect the judges of the Supreme Court of Canada, Federal Court, provincial superior courts and county and district courts.

Chief district and county court judges would get between $40,000 and $45,000 next April 1 from the current $35,000.

All parties said judges deserve more money, but the New Democratic Party said the increases should be smaller.

Of the 746 federally-appointed judges, 325 are county and district court judges. They are the only ones for whom increases beyond 1975 are provided in the bill.

The 280 provincial superior court and 15 Federal Court judges would get an increase to $60,000 from $50,000.

Chief Justice Bora Laskin of the Supreme Court of Canada would get an increase to $65,000 from his current $57,000 and the other eight Supreme Court justices would get an increase to $60,000 from their current salary of $50,000.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) referred to the government's search for a voluntary consensus on wage and price restraints and said judges should exercise with those to agreed upon on the consensus program.

The government has suggested final wage increases be limited to 11 per cent a year or $2,400, whichever is less.

Pickering Buying Balloons

TORONTO (CP) — Property owners around Pickering Airport will see a balloon hovering—a tactic used by the British during the Battle of Britain—to stop airplanes using the airport as the People of Planes (POP) group.

The federal government has said it will take possession May 29 of 18,000 acres of land supposedly for the airport just east of here.

In a newspaper advertisement, POP—which opposes the airport—has called for leaders for 1,000 balloons with a minimum diameter of 15 feet.

Quebec Workers Trickling Back

MONTREAL (CP) — Some construction workers returned to their jobs Friday and Olympic Games officials announced that work at the Games site, halted since May 8, will resume next week.

But about 3,000 workers mostly members of Quebec Federation of Labor (QFL) affiliated unions, reminded of the big, crippling major building strike throughout the province, said that the workers are protesting the government's planned implementation of recommendations included in the Cliche report on the construction industry.

Games organizers said some workers ready to return to their jobs will be allowed on the Olympic Village site Monday and the main stadium site will reopen Thursday.

Returning workers will be required to show identity cards as they resigned to keep out the more militant members.

The Games chairman said police will be on hand to protect workers against threats from "goon squads" blamed for intimidating workers into leaving the job during the last week.

Games officials also said they remain optimistic that construction will be finished on schedule.

"If we can't pick up 14 days of work in the 14 months left before the opening ceremony, then we don't deserve to hold the games," one official said.

Meanwhile, there was no immediate support from key Quebec labor body for a call Thursday by the leaders of the 300,000-member QFL for a province-wide sixty - session next Wednesday to force the provincial government to step in and settle the Fraser-Bid strike at Pratt and Whitney of Canada Ltd.—formerly United Aircraft.

The rival Confederation of National Trade Unions said Friday support from its 180,000 members was "very unlikely."

"We will flatly leave the choice up to the individual unions," the spokesman said, adding he thought support from the QFL membership itself would be "sporadic."

The 22,000-member Quebec Teachers Corp. said it had not yet decided on its reaction to the walkout appeal.

The Pratt and Whitney plant was the site of a bloody confrontation between police and workers Monday evening when 34 demonstrators briefly occupied the plant, police said.

The 34 men have been charged with forcible detention, breaking and entering and causing more than $250,000 in damage to the plant.

Thirty of the 34 were released on their own recognizance Friday on five conditions set by the court including an undertaking they would not participate in any further demonstrations and were not to go near the plant in suburban Longueuil.

The other four were held in jail because of pending charges in connection with earlier violences at the plant.

The legislation to place four QFL locals under government - appointed trusteeship, which sparked the initial walkout, received third and final reading in the Quebec national assembly Friday and the government was reported concentrating its efforts on getting favorable candidates to fill the positions.

Labor Minister Pierre Cloutier and Premier Bourassa said they would name government choices next week.

The Cliche commission report on the Quebec construction industry released last week likened the four locals to "gangs" and particularly criticized with criminal elements.

Cases-by-cases study of a second bill aimed at preventing persons with criminal records from holding influential union posts for five years after their conviction is to resume Monday.

Andre Desjardins, former head of the QFL, committee which has been investigating a complaint against Premier Bourassa in Supreme Court Friday alleged the premier had made public the fact he had a criminal record.

Lawyer Michel Proulx said Mr. Bourassa violated Criminal Code provisions concerning persons who have been tried in a news conference last week that Mr. Desjardins had been granted a pardon in 1972.

Wage, Price Controls Remain Possibility

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau refused Friday to rule out the possibility that the government may bring in compulsory wage and price controls.

He told Patrick Nowlan (PC—Annapolis Valley) there is a difference between what is "effectively acceptable and politically viable."

Mr. Nowlan was asking about a statement by Finance Minister John Turner Thursday that "at least not for the time being" is he in favor of compulsory wage and price controls.

Mr. Nowlan asked if this meant Mr. Trudeau had been "intellectually elaborate or sophisticated" in his plain speaking when he agreed against controls in the federal election campaign last summer.

Mr. Trudeau said the nature of the problem has changed and that costs are pushing the rate of increase faster than international commodity shortages did all price rises in the last case a year ago. This still did not mean controls would be the necessary public acceptance.

The government's contingency plan of controls has been in place for four or five years, but no decision has been taken yet to proclaim it, he said.

Apology Demanded

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Thailand has demanded an apology from the United States for use of its bases in the Mayaguez crisis against the wishes of the Thai government.

Premier Khukrit Chatichai Chaophaya said today the expression of "regret" from State Secretary Henry Kissinger is insufficient, saying:

"Since Thais must give an explanatory statement to their people, they must see them."

More than 1,000 students gathered at a Bangkok park for a march on the U.S. embassy. Some held posters yelling: "Hey, Ford! You dirty pig."

Chatichai greeted three South Vietnamese diplomats who arrived in Bangkok for a two-day visit to look at their new embassy and hold talks with Thai officials.

Co-ordinator Proposes Ambulance Committee

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Belleville ambulance service may soon come under scrutiny and guidance of a standing committee of appointed officials, it was learned Friday.

Jerry Sale, regional co-ordinator for ambulance services in Ontario, is making this recommendation following a six-week study of Belleville ambulance services.

Earlier this year the provincial government came out urging Belleville is a "high cost" area for ambulance service and instructed Mr. Sale to do the task of creating a more "cost effective" ambulance service here.

"One of my recommendations is the province will be the formation of an advisory committee to monitor the performance of the two ambulance companies working in the city," said Mr. Sale, following an interview with The Intelligencer.

The committee, tentatively named the District Ambulance Committee, will be made up of operators, medical staff from Belleville General Hospital and citizens," said Mr. Sale.

He said such a committee would provide liaison between the three groups to form a more formal basis.

Recommendations from Mr. Sale's report must first be given municipal council before they can be implemented.

He said copies of his study will be in Queen's Park by the beginning of next week.

Operators Stand Pat

A provincial government study into Belleville's ambulance service drew mixed reaction from operators here Friday.

Neither owner, Stu Meeks of LaSalle Ambulance or Len Hands of City Ambulance, had heard word of study findings before they were called for interview today.

The study made a number of recommendations that included a central dispatch for ambulances in the Quinte area, formation of a local advisory committee to monitor ambulance service and a long-range plan to amalgamate the two Belleville firms.

Mr. Meeks said in a telephone interview: "I have no idea what he's (study co-ordinator) talking about," concerning the committee. "I don't see them moving into policy on a central dispatch system."

"The major factor for a study to be taken in the city on the province's verdict that Belleville is a "high cost area."

Mr. Steele said he had not seen the study and said he preferred not to comment deeply.

"I don't think there's anything I agree with except dispatch but they'll have to make some improvement in the existing system," said Mr. Steele.

Bill Support Slipping

OTTAWA (CP) — A Liberal backbencher suggested Friday that the government may back down on legislation to eliminate special tax status for Time magazine's Canadian digest.

"There are as awful lot of people on our side of the House who do not go along with it," Ralph Stewart (Cochrane) said in the Commons.

He speculated that the government may withdraw the bill, possibly as early as next week, if enough Liberal MPs speak against it.

Weather Ideal

OTTAWA (CP) — Farmers in eastern Ontario, plagued with too much spring rain the last few years, have had almost ideal weather conditions this season to date. An Ontario agriculture department spokesman says most seeding has been completed already, thanks to little rainfall in the last six weeks. But if dry, sunny weather continues, crops suffer from lack of moisture.

Turner Defends MPs' Pay Increase

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister John Turner defended Friday his right as a member of Parliament to a 23 1-3-per-cent pay raise while asking others to settle for no more than 12 per cent.

But his office had trouble explaining the arithmetic he used in the Commons to justify the increase that MPs voted themselves last week.

Mr. Turner, whose own pay will be increased, rose by $225 a week to $1,926, argued that the raise lagged behind the cost of living, but other calculations made the MPs outpacing inflation.

He offered his defence shortly before the Commons agreed in principle to raise the salaries of the 26 provincial lieutenant-governors by margins of 19.5 to 109 per cent, to $35,000 a year.

Mr. Turner said a group of businessmen told Thursday: "The timing was lousy" for the parliamentary pay raise in view of his current efforts to get business and labor to agree to a program of pay and price restraint to combat inflation.

In the Commons Friday, Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) asked whether Mr. Turner would arrange to tax away the money MPs are getting above 12 per cent or $1,680 a year, whichever is less, proposed for Canadians this year.

The annual salary for MPs went up by $6,000 to $34,000 and for cabinet ministers by $12,000 to $54,000, plus the tax-free expense allowance of $10,000.

To applause from Liberal and Progressive Conservative MPs, Mr. Turner replied that "the 23 1-3-per-cent increase, measured over the period since the last increase, was still lower than the rise in the cost of living during the same period, and, if prorated, would be lower this year or next."

From the pages of Nova Scotian history, Rhuenose II slipped quietly into Kingston Harbor Friday — its reputation making it seem larger than life for the crowd that wailed on shore or lobbed around in a tiny flotilla at the harbor's mouth. Toronto will be its main port with Detroit its final destination. The ship is promoting Nova Scotia as a tourist spot.

Education Beat

Don't Sweep Issue Under Carpet

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

It's been two months now since the Hastings County Board of Education nearly swept the special program for the pregnant students under the carpet. Their reason? Too much ado about nothing in the press.

The issue was relegated to the chairman's committee which is just another way of saying "let's get it out of the limelight and hope everyone forgets about it." Since then rumors have indicated the special class may be abolished due to too much publicity. Board officials, of course, deny this.

However, the fact still remains the subject has not yet been dealt with in open session since March with trustees giving their personal opinions. And likewise, the administration has done little to present the pros and cons on the issue in public.

For those who missed the early controversy, the program would have established a class for pregnant students to help them continue their education and prevent them from having to drop out. It has been estimated about 30 girls left the Hastings system last year due to pregnancy.

The program would have been an extension of the existing home-hospital instruction services.

In a later meeting it came to light that there was one elementary school student pregnant but for some reason the number was down this year.

There are some problems with this program, including transportation from the north portions of the county and how to find those girls who, under normal conditions, would just quietly drop out of school.

Since this time Ontario's minister of education Thomas Wells has publicly stated there should be more sex education in the province's schools. He put emphasis on knowledge of contraception would be a part of any mandatory course on sex education.

"Most of our young people are clearly in need of more sound information and perspective than they are receiving at home," said Mr. Wells. In view of these statements it does come as a surprise that the Hastings County Board of Education continues to ignore the issue. The name of the game is to put the best data available and then make a decision on it — to date it hasn't been accomplished.

How can we expect responsibility and maturity from students if the board itself can't come to grips with the merits of the case?

Looking over his shoulder at his new offices is student placement officer Sandy McDonald.

Arbitration Results Expected Next Week

TRENTON — Trenton firemen may have a long wait for the decision of the arbitration board (b.c.) heard a dispute with the town over their 1974 wage contract according to International Association of Fire Fighters representative Jack Jessop.

In a telephone interview from Ottawa Mr. Jessop said the award may be handed down as early as next week.

The award, normally handed down 60 days after a hearing, is over due by about four weeks. Town and fire department representatives presented their disputes over wages and their decisions were given to the board in Belleville in mid-February.

At that time, the town offered a 12% per cent wage increase that was computed by the 11-member Trenton department. The union asked for a 24 per cent increase.

Mr. Jessop said Friday the award hasn't been finalized. He said he believed the board is its announcement is likely to "cause a problem," but it would be of minor nature."

"It's probably the same language that hasn't been clarified," he concluded.

Town firemen continue to work under terms of a 1973 agreement which provides for the salary of a first-class fireman at $8,361. Town would the wage to jump to $13,661, all salaries would rise by a similar percentage.

Lack of the award has been holding up the start of talks between firemen and the town over the 1975 contract.

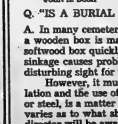
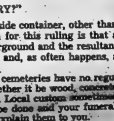
FUNERAL QUESTIONS



JOHN R. BUSH

WE ARE OFTEN ASKED



R. DOUGLAS RUSHNELL

Q. "IS A BURIAL VAULT NECESSARY?"

A. In many cemeteries, some sort of outside container, other than a wooden box is mandatory. The reason for this ruling is that a softwood box quickly disintegrates underground and the resultant sinkage causes problems of maintenance and, as often happens, a disturbing sight for visiting families.

However, it must be said that many cemeteries have no regulation and the use of an outside case, whether it be wood, concrete or steel, is a matter of family preference. Local custom sometimes varies as to what should or should not be done and your funeral director will be aware of these and will explain them to you.

Soil conditions and water levels are factors which have made the use of vaults commonplace in many areas.

These outer cases vary in price depending on material, scientific design and durability and for many families the investment is surprisingly small.

Q. "WHO ARRANGES FOR A FRATERNAL SERVICE?"

A. Whenever it is desired that a fraternal organization conduct a portion of the funeral service in accordance with the rites of that particular group, the funeral director should be notified promptly. He will make all necessary arrangements.

You will find that your funeral director is familiar with the rites of all fraternal organizations and is prepared to make all arrangements for these services and to properly cooperate in the conduct of such services.

Province Plans Museum For Farm Artifacts

By R. W. CARBERY
General Manager
Ontario Agricultural Museum

Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food:

The story of the evolution of Ontario's agricultural industry from pioneer days to the 1970s is a fascinating one, but it has never been placed in one document, or tied together in one comprehensive package. This is the challenge that faces the Ontario Agricultural Museum, a new project of the ministry of agriculture and food.

The Ontario Agricultural Museum had its origins in 1966 when 81 acres of land at Milton Heights was acquired by the province for the purpose of creating a permanent home for the artifacts and archives of Ontario agriculture. Now, in 1975, that dream is becoming a reality as the museum starts to take shape.

The main administration building will soon be ready for occupancy in honor of an exhibition hall, a reference library and conference room, office facilities, workshop and storage space. The total acreage is undergoing development, and the staff is involved in planning, herding and arranging the exhibits and displays that will bring the past alive.

Also planned for the site is a 45-acre Pioneer Farmstead Park where a half dozen complete sets of farm buildings will be assembled, each of a different era or a different part of the province, or a different type of architecture.

These buildings will be display areas, housing the furnishings, tools, equipment and machinery of the period.

The first set of farm buildings has already been acquired. The Lewis Farmstead, scheduled for demolition to clear the path for industrial expansion, was donated to the museum by the Steel Company of Canada. The 1825 house has been moved intact to the site and will be restored in 1975, while the two barns will be rebuilt, recreating as accurately as possible the Burlington North settlement of 140 years ago.

There will be a demonstration area consisting of a large amphitheatre with an oval track where machinery can be paraded and where competitions and exhibitions can be held. The grassy slopes will provide an excellent setting for a chance to rest tired feet. There will be a picnic area and eventually catering facilities.

This museum will let the people of Ontario relive some of the nostalgia of the "good old days" and it will also show the primitive tools, the back-breaking, time-consuming chores that occupied the lives of our grandparents and great-grandparents.

Since it will be a "people's museum" we want the public to play a role in its planning and development. Many of those have been influenced by an advisory board of private citizens dedicated to the preservation of the museum. We also want to hear what other residents of Ontario would like to see in their agricultural museum. We want them to be involved, to feel a part of the whole process already.

Young Farmers Get Credit

The Government of Ontario, has announced a guaranteed credit program for young farmers. Under the new program, young farmers or potential farmers between the ages of 18 and 35 will be able to obtain provincial guaranteed intermediate-term loans for farm development purposes.

The program will apply to young farmers entering farming for the first time; for farmers wanting to rent land or for farmers owning land and wishing to rent additional acres.

Each loan will be for a period of up to ten years, without an upper limit. The first two years may require only the payment of interest, depending on conditions and circumstances, with the remaining eight years requiring principal plus interest payments. The rate of interest will be prime plus one percent.

Nursing Home Needs Thought

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — The group of Picton residents who protested the expansion of the nursing home in their neighborhood are not as narrow-minded toward the elderly and mentally handicapped as some would make them out to be.

As controversy was sparked when the town's committee of adjustment approved an addition to Kenwood Nursing Home Although there was what was termed a "hardship variance" in this land use.

The area residents appealed the committee of adjustment's decision to the Ontario Municipal Board and at a recent OMB hearing the approval of the expansion was rescinded.

Now, several public-spirited citizens have decided the home owners who objected to expansion of the nursing home are the minority in the plot because they were against the project.

The protesting residents in their presentation to the OMB said that the residents of the nursing home were "a nuisance" and an "inconvenience" in the neighborhood.

On the surface these terms seem harsh and lacking in sympathy for the aged and the mentally handicapped.

Studies more closely they suggest not a group of bigots but a street of concerned residents who have some basis for their views.

When nursing homes, rest homes and convalescent centres become vague several years ago, many large private homes and vacant public buildings in Picton were converted to serve the needs of the sick and elderly.

Many of the residents of these homes are not elderly persons admitted to receive the care they can no longer give themselves but a large percentage are referrals from psychiatric hospitals and they are not necessarily old.

Since many are not old or bed-ridden, naturally they venture in the immediate area outside the nursing homes. Unfortunately, their special problems may not generally be understood outside the protective doors of the care centres.

Their behavior may be confusing and perhaps annoying to some town residents who do not want to cope with the occasional bursts of profanity or other petty disturbances that may occur.

One nursing home resident in Picton walked up and down the street in front of the home for years swearing a blue streak. His profane monologues went almost unnoticed by home owners on the street but for strangers who passed him on the walk it must have been slightly offensive.

The residents of Picton's nursing homes should not be victims of any sort of discrimination.

They are in care centres because they have special problems and require special care.

It is town council's responsibility to ensure that nursing homes are not constructed in the middle of heavily populated residential sections where the residents may object to patients' behavior.

Home owners who feel ill-equipped to cope with residents of the care centre should not be relieved as the bad guys in black hats. Their attitudes should be considered as more than just unreasonable prejudice.

What goes on in any of the town's nursing homes should not have a direct effect on any Picton home owner. These are in fine care centres and should not be expected to cope with the problems of proximity.

It should be the responsibility of the nursing homes to offer facilities with adequate lawns for ambulatory residents to enjoy. Those permitted on the streets should be accompanied by staff members at all times to ensure there are no unfortunate incidents for residents or area home owners.

Action Needed Now To Keep Industry

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

Trenton lost the big one this week.

Fabricon Manufacturing Co. announced that it will be opening a plant, potentially employing up to 800 people, in Belleville.

The news hurts Trenton because the town company, since the beginning of 1974, year, had been trying to find adequate siting on 30.9 acres of land in the town's southeast.

It couldn't be done and according to an estimate by the company, about $200,000 in tax revenue was lost to the town. Not good news, and not much better news is coming.

Fabricon's Trenton manager has indicated that the possibility exists that the company's plant here may be phased out over the next year or two as employees are moved from Trenton to fill the plant in Belleville. Trenton's 180 employees may be no more.

The reason for Fabricon's decision to move their operations simpler — not enough land, presently serviced, was available to hold the company in Trenton, where it first looked.

Although serious, the loss of the firm can be chalked up to bad luck. It's happened before. But it shouldn't happen again.

Sadly, the loss of a large industrial plant to another municipality is likely to happen again.

In releasing a report outlining Trenton's efforts to locate the new plant here, chief industry Sharp blamed the lack of large tracts of serviced land in Trenton as the reason behind the company's change in original plans.

What's happened once, it can all too readily happen again. And the town will lose a river of potentially large employer.

That prospect, for the eleven-hundred citizens in Trenton, can only be looked upon as next to sacrilegious. And those same citizens can, without feeling any pangs of remorse for attacking council, blame the town for what appears to be its inaction in attempting to find more land.

For indeed, that does seem to be the case. The industrial and economic Development committee had tentative plans to talk to Murray township over a possible land-services deal. Nothing has been heard from the committee to indicate that talks have been held.

Critics periodically come from councillors over the lack of industrial land in Trenton. Well and good. Worry. Councillors' cries are given credence by their fellow mayor. But besides bemoaning the situation, has council itself done anything to alleviate that shortage?

Has council followed the policy of talking, to indicate its good intentions, but not acting? It seems so.

To be fair to the town, it did beat over backwards, as the mayor indicated, to accommodate the new plant planned by Fabricon.

But such contortions are not enough. It must actively seek out a solution to the land shortage now, before another company comes looking for land and is turned away by an empty-handed Trenton.

Complaints, and briefs to various task forces and study teams in Northumberland County, are plainly not enough.

Fair Future Discussed

Members of the executive of the Quinte Exhibition and Raceway and Belleville City Council met Wednesday to discuss the future of the fair. Discussion centred around control of the land the fair occupies. Council committee agreed the fair board should have control of its property to allow it to make long-range plans and investments. At present the fair board leases its property from the city parks board, but other leases confuse the issue. First step, it was agreed, is to clean up and rewrite the lease on a long-term basis.

Conglomerate of Communist South East Asian Nations Emerging

By JOHN D. HARRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

It may be too soon to speculate about the forthcoming political structure of Indochina, except that it appears to be a conglomerate of Communist South East Asian nations is about to emerge.

When the still mysterious Khmer Rouge finally take Phnom Penh city and the re-making few achieves under Cambodian government control, a people's republic will exist that in North Vietnam will probably be proclaimed.

The titular head, (as he says) will be that paradox of leaders the Marxist Prince Norodom Sihanouk. The present leadership of the Khmer Rouge, from their background of North Vietnamese political and ideological liquidation, will run the country.

What we still call South Viet Nam will disappear entirely with its structures as we now know them, everyone hoping that this point in time that the victorious Communists will not butcher South Vietnam's American elite of military and civilian rulers.

Its economic state will probably be the creature of the people's movement formed in the south about 20 years ago, the Viet Cong, a third Communist Asian state closely linked with the 22-year-old People's Republic of North Viet Nam in Hanoi and the barely-emerging Cambodian Communist state.

Add the immense physical presence and substantial anticipated economic back-up of the People's Republic of China and for the Americans it presents frightful prospects.

In the historical sense, going back to the late 1940s and the failure to keep Chiang Kai-shek in power, it would represent a generation of American foreign policy failure in Asia.

At present, U.S. policy-makers, if they think such thoughts, are more concerned with how to forestall a final bloodbath in Saigon either by South Vietnamese conceivably even against Americans, all 6,000 of them remaining and about to be evacuated, or the terrifying one of a Saigon under Communist control as a place of mass executions.

We should not criticize President Ford for not making a quick decision in what is a frightful predicament for Americ. How can the Americans airlift out the South Vietnamese pro-American elite without bringing on a humiliation for Japan and end of it all in Saigon, thereby self-creating a massive blow to American prestige?

On the other hand, how can they and their allies in these terms if South Vietnamese loyal to America even up to this point, are left to the mercies of the Communist Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese with the former potentially the most unpopular?

Should we then, condemn prominent South Vietnamese for speaking their children into the exile of so-called orphans if they are classically fatalistic and already know they will die without American help but with the words of Communist victory?

The dilemma for everyone, Americans and South Asians, is staggering, immensely tragic and fraught with prospects of more bloodshed in our time.

We should be cautious in our thoughts and if possible understanding in this deep time of travail for the Americans," it Ms. Ford sounds as though he is delivering high school essays in political science as presidential policy statements, remember there is only so much he can say in casting a keynote to save what could be 100,000 lives in Asia.

Perhaps in the long run, if the Indochinese people's wishes all become client states of Peking and Moscow instead of Washington, Canada could find herself in a new and even more challenging role as a conciliator nation in the Pacific-an tradition of John Peace.

A contingency plan for this eventuality is something the department of external affairs (not given to such forward kind of policy thinking), should develop even at this early time.

Olympics at Stake

They are placed in the vortex of a labor dispute that threatens to cancel an event that would rival Expo '67, in enhancing Canada's prestige as a sophisticated member of the global community — the 1976 Olympic Games.

Circumstances place Mr. Bourassa's government in the unenviable position of trying to push through legislation to bring the violence-ridden Quebec construction industry under more stringent controls.

An "goon squads" reportedly roam the idle Olympic Games construction site, discouraging workers from returning to their jobs, Mr. Bourassa — with Prime Minister Trudeau's endorsement — tells Canadians that social order within this country is more important than any damage our reputation might suffer abroad if the Games had to be cancelled.

They are both, of course, correct.

Any egg that Canada might feel on its face if extended construction delays force abandonment of the Montreal Games would be nothing compared to the floodgates of anarchy that could be opened if government yielded to union intimidation tactics.

With all those Olympic coins already struck and sold, a special series of commemorative stamps due to be issued June 11, not to mention the millions of dollars worth of lottery tickets bought by Canadians to support the Games, the militant and defiant Quebec unions appear to be holding a good hand in their wait-and-see game with the national sovereignty.

Fortunately, the unions are not being permitted to decide what is trump.

Bell Business

Bell Canada has introduced free emergency call service in western Ontario pay phones.

The company precludes the necessity of anyone having to scour their pockets for change to report a fire or accident.

Closer to home, Ma Bell's representatives must have been more than a little chagrined to discover that their new blue 1975 directories mistakenly gave Trenton Township Fire Department's number to the Family Planning branch of the Hastings-Prince Edward County Health Unit.

We don't envy someone phoning for birth control information and having someone answer: "Where's the fire?"

Economy Full of Ironies

(With the way the economy is going these days, one must learn to take the bitter with the sweet.)

Thus, while shoppers may be elated by the fact that they can buy certain cuts of meat for what they were paying for hamburger a year ago, the fact they might shell out as much as 49 cents for a cucumber takes the edge off their meat counter glee.

And all those 20, 30, and 40 per cent wage increases we're hearing about is of little consolation to the one in 12 Canadians out of work.

Locally, the addition of Fabricon, Ltd., to our industrial community brings promise of more jobs for city workers, but, almost simultaneously, we are informed that more lay-offs may be in the offing at Belleville's beleaguered Northern Electric plant, where more than 400 have been given walking papers since November.

We live in a society filled with economic irony. Plumbers in London were recently awarded raises that put them over the $12 per hour mark, and some 27 per cent of Canadians are living below the official poverty line of $5,620 for a family of two.

Some elderly people in this country have been forced through their fixed incomes to add dog food to their diet, and Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan tells us that the average Canadian wastes 300 pounds of food per year.

There is much talk among economic experts about the widening gap between the rich nations and the poor nations.

But there is still plenty of room within the confines of our own country for government action to remedy some glaring fiscal disparities.

Some of Best Bars at Queen's Park

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Yes, you can buy a drink at Queen's Park.

Well, I don't know if you can. But I can. My guest or guests can.

And so can a considerable number of government employees whose function is directly connected with the operation of the legislature.

Two of the better, if not better known, bars in the province are being operated in the premises of Queen's Park.

For years it was one of the scandals, or laughs, of our public affairs that the most noted blind pig in the province was in handsome right in the legislative building.

Lord only knows precisely when it started. This was before my time, which is going into ancient history.

Anyway, when I first became a member of the press gallery you could buy a drink there, with the steward (and messenger) of the gallery selling it and available at any time of day or night when the steward was there.

Members also used to frequent this bar, as it was the only place in the buildings where they could get a drink, and it had some notable attendances, particularly on hockey play-off nights when the House happened to be sitting.

A few years ago the House went formal.

Members were given offices, a new dining room was put in, and it was time to give the members their own bar.

Deciding whether this bar should be open or not was one of the major internal problems of the day.

There were those who felt that it should "conform" and be licensed.

There were others who felt that any licence to the legislature itself was beyond the pale of the licensing agency (the Liquor Licence Board) and that if the government wanted a bar for its members it could simply start one.

Eventually, the rebels, the latter group, won out. A very posh lounge was put in for the members, and it had never licensed.

We in the gallery were also included. The lounge was legal, quite posh, was carried on without a licence.

But it isn't like the old days. It doesn't have that special flair of a bootleg joint, even if it doesn't have a licence.

Everything that could go wrong with it usually did.

Mackasey Losing Patience with Post Office

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — When Bryce Mackasey, that most fabled member of Prime Minister Trudeau's cabinet, begins showing signs of running out of patience with his own people something's got to be terribly out of whack.

Bryce Mackasey's people at this stage of his career are the 40,000 who work for the Post Office.

He is a colorful and compassionate man.

He, the cabinet department, the cabinet has had nothing to approach his fingernail breast the day he marched, in a green slipper and green silk, in Montreal's St. Patrick's Day parade.

In compassion, he displayed it in great magnificence and abundance when, as a price now topping $2-billion annually — when as Labor Minister he brought in Unemployment Insurance.

He argued at the time, with some skepticism in Parliament, that it was an investment in the economy.

And the current recession has borne him out.

The point of "pogey" this past long, hard winter was just about the only thing that kept a great many smaller, one-and-two-industry communities — not to mention uncounted thousands of hard-pressed families — from collapse.

In those three years, as Labor Minister, he was the great consolidator.

There was a strike — almost any strike — that defied the best efforts of the collective bargainers and the mediators to settle — so they called in Bryce Mackasey.

And usually, he settled it. Mackasey became a unique figure among labor ministers. Liberal and Conservative, as the master diplomat of the working world.

Then as Manpower and Immigration Minister, heading a department that took over Unemployment Insurance, he took the rap for its excesses in the chaotic days when everything that could go wrong with it usually did.

Bryce Mackasey's credentials as a politician understanding and sympathetic of labor's viewpoints and problems have been established beyond reasonable doubt.

Which makes it all the more ironical that he has to be the tough now with some of his people in the Post Office.

For if easy-going Bryce gets sore enough to read out a few of them publicly as deliberately, and as unprofessional (trouble-makers — "Maoists," he tagged them — the Post Office has got to be in frightening shape.

These "Maoists," he has charged, who have been disrupting the mails — what again, or more accurately, still, you ask — are concentrated in the Toronto and Montreal postal terminals through which passes the bulk of the nation's mail.

They have in part Bryce Mackasey hard for him to blurt out.

He has been the stoutest defender, among all recent Postmasters General, of the often postal service.

Sometimes it's slow, he says, but if you know a better and faster and cheaper way to get a letter for eight cents from one end of the country to the other, then feel welcome to try it.

And yes, he admits, mail does go astray, like that Christmas turkey which arrived three months late at the designated address and was forwarded, in some fury, to Mr. Mackasey.

But what really makes him mad is that the "Maoists" and their ilk, whatever Post Office fouled up the mails are costing the Post Office — and the taxpayer — some impressive money.

Like the millions of dollars the Post Office no longer gets for catalogues it used to deliver, that now are dropped off at your door by bulk delivery.

And like the $17 million to $23 million that Post Office says it is losing annually to special couriers. There are several hundred of these services, some of them using aircraft, operating now in all parts of the country.

They guarantee safe, sure, quick delivery at a price not so high that their competition isn't cutting deeply into postal revenues.

The ultimate result, coming sooner than later, will be an increase in mail rates.

How would you like to see it cost 15 cents for a first class letter hit you?

The clinic will house, apart from medicinal baths, a gymnasium, a workshop and a social centre. There will also be accommodation for relatives to help look after the patients in the final phase of rehabilitation.

The latest therapeutic treatment facilities and rooms will provide patients with a chance to regain bodily and mental health. This is regarded as an important contribution to curing mental and psychical defects and neuroses that have caused addiction.

No Programs Conserving Resources

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

The cancellation of the Belleville recycling pick-up for recycling, clearly demonstrates that the Ontario Government and the Ministry of the Environment have no effective programs to conserve natural resources in Ontario.

The decision is coming through loud and clear to Ontario citizens that their concern for the wasting of natural resources has little meaning to the Ministry of the Environment.

The pulp and paper industry is being allowed to pollute our water and air and degrade the natural environment. Their lack of processing results as good corporate citizens, decide they do not want to recycle paper, and it is more profitable to destroy the forests in our forests, than conserve a great natural resource for the future in Northern Canada.

It is evident that the people of Ontario can no longer depend upon the Ministry of the Environment to provide leadership for the environmental problems we face in this century.

The Bay Scouts, Cubs and Beavers from Belleville planted approximately 30,000 trees to help conserve energy and conserve waste land. This confirms that many people have known that the citizens of Ontario are concerned about the environment in which we must all live.

Paper recycling programs that had become a community effort in many areas of Ontario, have been wiped out by decisions about the increasing mountains of waste and the needless destruction of our trees, private camps in Germany. They are being run by Premier Bill Davis, Keith Smith, Pte. Raymond Clarke, Lands and Forests Minister, Pte. Harry C. Sprung. Upon his instructions, Englehart, Cochrane Terrell received news of his being awarded the Mother's Day Award for heroic service during the advance of his government's policies on the Halton front line.

Dickering For Pleas Common

Kitchener - Waterloo Record

Plea bargaining does go on in many provincial courts in Ontario. It may not be a technique of which anyone could be proud.It is not in the highest tradition of the system of British justice that this country has inherited and modified. It does happen, and there is no sense in blinking at the fact.

You can pick up any daily newspaper in the province and read a routine report of court proceedings which goes on something like:

"Richard Roe, defence lawyer, entered on behalf of his client a plea of guilty to the lesser charge of failure to yield the right of way. Crown attorney John Doe informed the court that no evidence would be offered on the charge of careless driving."

Between the lines of court proceedings of that nature you can properly guess that some kind of dickering has gone on backstage. The defence, not being content with a lesser conviction on the careless driving charge, thought it prudent to settle for a small fine. The Crown, not being content to get a conviction on the greater charge, was willing to settle for a small fine on something less...

The practical argument in defence of plea bargaining is that it saves time and money, that the courts would be hard pressed to handle all the cases, to a trial, the hearing of evidence and legal arguments, the courts would be more cluttered than they are. The mission of quiet dickering between lawyers may serve a couple of hours in court.

The argument against plea bargaining, of course, is that it bypasses the proper course of justice. Judges may easily find themselves registering convictions and deciding on sentences for offences of which they know little or nothing. The facts do not come out.

Article Lists Communist 'Rules'

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Enclosed is the copy of an article titled "Marxism" — a magazine done in Dearborn, Mich., by the Christian Fathers, originally taken from Congressional Rec. Canon City, Colorado, U.S.A.

MRS. E.J. MORRIN.

"Communist Rules for Revolution."

In May of 1919, at Dusseldorf, Germany, the allied forces obtained a copy of some of the "Communist Rules for Revolution", and now, nearly 50 years later, we are still being affected by them.

A - Corrupt the young; get them away from religion. Get them interested in sex, make them dependent, destroy their ruggedness.

B — Get control of all means of publicity, thereby:—

2 — Divide the people into hostile groups by constantly harping on controversial matters of no importance and destroy self-control, faith in the people's word, ingenious.

C — Cause the registration of all firearms on some pretext, with a view to confiscating them and leaving the population helpless.

That is quite a list, isn't it? Now, stop to think — how many of these rules are being carried out in Communist today?

Province Won't Add to Program

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government is not about to create more productive, make-work programs to provide revenues for the province, Treasurer Darcy McKeough said Friday.

Program Introduced

TORONTO (CP) — Union Carbide Canada Limited has introduced a program it hopes will save $2 million to $3 million a year in industry energy costs. The company, which expects to pay $65 million for energy this year, has set up a committee to advise on energy matters, and provide technical support for conservation program co-ordinators. Methods under consideration include ways of recovering waste material, and changing certain operating procedures so less energy is required.

Beer Alcohol Cut

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba Attorney-General Howard Pawley said Friday that major brewers in the province have agreed to produce a beer with less alcohol content than will cost 39 to 79 cents a dozen less than standard brands. He said the new beer will have an alcohol content of less than four per cent, and should be available by the end of June. Mr. Pawley said he hopes the new beer will lessen the dependence of young and casual drinkers on beer with a high alcohol content beer and the lower price might also benefit drivers who switch to it.

Soviets Visit

OTTAWA (CP) — A 13-member Soviet delegation has begun a three-week study of Canadian products and services in areas how best to utilize the $99 million trade credit established through the Export Development Corporation. The corporation's $600-million credit was announced last week by Trade Minister Alastair Gillespie.

Visit Planned

BRUSSELS (Reuter) — Patrick Hillery, European Common Market Commissioner for Ireland, will pay an official three-day visit to Canada starting Tuesday, the commission said Friday. Hillery, who is in charge of social affairs, will hold talks with Canadian Labor Minister John Munro, Health Minister Marc Lalonde and other officials. He will visit Ottawa, Toronto and Montreal.

Layoff Announced

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. said Friday it will shut four car lines, a truck plant and an engine plant Monday, laying off 14,000 hourly workers, for the week. The temporary cutbacks are the most extensive since the week of March 31, when Ford had eight plants shut and 27,500 workers on temporary layoff. Altogether, Ford will have 34,000 workers on layoff Monday, up from 20,000 this week.

"For negotiating committee hasn't been near the negotiating table for two weeks," Mackasey said. "I'm ready whenever you're ready."

The union has asked that per 100 inside postal workers be be-

Mail Volume Picking Up

OTTAWA (CP) — The volume of mail handled by the post offices has been showing an increase in recent years after a decline in the late 1960s and early 1970s, figures tabled in the Commons show.

The post offices handled about five billion pieces each in 1969-70 and 1970-71. In the last decade, the highest percentage increase in volume was in 1964-65, when it rose by per cent.

New Home Warranties Possible

TORONTO (CP) — Housing Minister Donald Irvine said Friday that Ontario might act on its own to provide legislation for new home warranties by the

He was replying in the legislature to Ian Deans (NDP-Wentworth) who asked when legislation might be expected.

The housing minister said he had been advised federal legislation in the field would not be ready for 18 months to two years.

He said he has consulted Shelagh Hutchinson, consumer and commercial relations minister, who would introduce the bill, and the province would try to have it prepared for introduction in the fall session of the house.

Psychologist Hits Lotteries

OTTAWA (CP) — Lotteries are a sleazy way for governments to raise money, says Dr. William Walther, an Ottawa psychologist and consultant on St. Patrick's College. He says they play on an individual's economic weaknesses and raise false hopes for quick riches.

People may go over their heads in debt while dreaming a lottery ticket will miraculously open the way to financial security, he said.

"Dreaming can be a useful way of getting rid of frustrations and anxieties but it prevents people from dealing with the real problem, which is defence mechanism."

Pointing to booming sales for Olympic lottery tickets, Wintario tickets and other games of chance, including horse-racing, he suggested that five years ago, when the economic future seemed more certain, gamblers were less eager to buy.

Institute to Move

CALGARY (CP) — The Arctic Institute of North America is now located at Montreal's McGill University, will be moved to the University of Calgary, says Robert Currie, institute chairman and vice-president of Pasarctic Oils Ltd. of Calgary. The non-profit institute was established in 1945 to encourage and support historical and scientific research in the polar regions. Its library of 30,000 volumes, regarded as one of the smallest but best collections of Arctic literature is expected to be moved to its new home by next spring.

Pension Increase To $300 Sought

OTTAWA (CP) — The government should increase the old age pension to $300 a month, Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg-North Centre) said today.

MPs and senators have approved themselves 2½ 3-per-cent pay raises and it is time they thought of people living on old age and various pension and social allowances, he said in the Commons.

The old-age pension is $113.45 a month, rising to $135.76 in July. There is also a supplementary maximum of $80.37 a month for eligible single persons under the guaranteed income supplement plan. A married couple, both pensioners, can receive a maximum of $152.76 if they qualify.

The Commons gave second reading, approval in principle, Thursday to a bill to raise the salaries of federally-appointed judges 21 per cent and to debating a bill to increase the pay of lieutenant-governors by $10,000 from $35,000 to $50,000 depending on the province.

Bargaining Plan Finds No Favor

TORONTO (CP) — Endorsed industry wide bargaining should slowly replace the race to nowhere and at an even heavier cost to the public, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association (CMA) said Friday.

R. P. Riggin, chairman of the CMA's industrial relations committee, said the CMA will "do everything within its power to ensure that, in the case of manufacturers, industry-wide bargaining takes place only where it will be of help rather than Federal Labor Minister John Munro has proposed an industry-wide bargaining law to forward such goals as industry-wide bargaining.

Opening lead—A♠

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

If West makes a normal lead South gets in, knocks out the ace of trumps, and is again master the last trumps and makes his contract without any finesse. He figures correctly that overtrick if a spade is led.

When we watched this hand played West was tricked enough to spot the play of clubs and continue the suit. After this start South would have come up a trick if he had good right after trumps. East would take his ace and give his partner a club ruff. West would get out with a diamond and ruff a spade trick.

South was well aware of this unpleasant possibility. He thought for quite a while and finally figured out a line of play that might bring home the bacon. The need was to bring on a partial elimination play.

Instead of starting on trumps he cashed Jimmy's ace and king of diamonds and ruffed a third diamond with a high trump so as to guard against a possible overruff.

Then he led a trump. East took his ace and gave his partner a club ruff but that didn't do the defense any good. The partial elimination had worked. West was down to spades and had to lead one right up to declarer's nice tenace.

Prehistoric Stone Tools Gathered Near Edmonton

RUSSEY, Alta., (CP) — The old Cree way of farming may still occasionally be used in certain areas.

The hooks, axe heads, digging and "feelers" are so realistic in this basement at they were under the sod. But Andrew Sopaline, an Italian-born neighbor who has his own private collection of relics, is seeking recognition for the find.

The 74-year-old farmer man was here at the dawn of history of nobody, and the artifacts are of interest," said Mr. Sopaline. "I wrote to Ottawa of the discovery accepted as such and Leroy Gibbon came to ward."

As archeologist from the provincial archives came to the site on George Lake last October, took a few photographs and described a type of arrowhead that may prove man settled there 20,000 years ago.

"We found it," said Mr. Sopaline, indicating an elegant white arrowhead that looked out of place among the dull grey, blue-streaked rocks. "And if that's 20,000 years old, the chances of it's much older because they're less refined.

"Only eight or 10 inches were uncovered by the plow who knows what is deeper down? But the archeologists say they don't have the staff to come out again for some digging."

Bob Kidd, chief archeologist for the provincial archives, said the men appear to have found "a site of the Indian occupation" and acknowledged it is impossible to tell who the buried further under the soil.

"But there's nothing particularly remarkable about what we've been doing. The 6,000 recorded sites in Alberta, mostly of native origin."

The provincial archives is not planning to send anyone else out to the site, although "if Mr. Sopaline turns up some material of considerable interest to antiquity we might have another look."

Meanwhile, Mr. Krisher continues to pick rocks from the harvest and handles that used by his native predecessors.

He began farming in northern Alberta in 1926, mechanizing dozens of Indian graves. "I always looked for them," he says. "The fellows had a tough life; we should let them sleep.

"After I bought my first tractor I was actually digging up graves and throwing back the bones when all of a sudden water flew into the cylinder.

"I said, 'Holy smoke, what the devil is in?' and went to look. I'd been over a test made of a hollow bone joint chipped like a knife. Ran clear through my hand. I showed it to one party $75 to get it fixed.

When the man pulled it out of the tire he slipped it into his hand and from there found about 100 pounds of bones which appeared to be of functional. Some of them appeared to have been used for hunting purposes, others, by nature, while others were polished geometrically or chipped into whirligs. Some eight arrow heads and a few eight have been held or that to wooden handles and healing

Mr. Krisher is particularly proud of a round stone which he said was used to pound pemmican, a mixture of dried berries and meat, and a 8-centimetre platter on which it may have been pounded.

A large, square "fire-starting" tool and a knife in the middle in which a stick was put and twirled to start a fire "shows the wisdom at night."

"I remember sitting at the bottom of a cliff south of Brocus, (Sask.), and compared my knife with the native parties," he said.

"Years ago I used to ride the Red Deer River where the big flood levels are. I could look up on the ridges and see a joint sticking out there as big as a watchtower."

Wagon Train Is Seen Giving Time for Dreams

ESPANOLA, Ont. (CP) — Overhead the wind rustles through the pines while 100 miles to the south cars and trucks roar along the hot, asphalt highways.

The scene in the field below this place is one of peace and quiet. Members of a wagon train heading for Alberta take a rest break and think about their dreams.

That's because you've got one job and security, that doesn't mean all dreams have to stop," says Canadian actor Fred Bradley. "You're not starting all over. All this means is that you're continuing another phase of our lives."

Mr. Bradley got tired of the trials and tribulations of that city (Toronto) and when Mr. Addis wagonmaster Gordon Robert.

Mr. Bradley and Mr. Roberts are two of eight wagon trains doses city folk on their way to the Peace River area of Alberta by covered wagon.

Like most of the 100 or so people on the wagon train hope to be homesteaded. Others, like Mr. Bradley and Mr. Roberts, are looking forward to starting businesses.

They had hoped to travel the 2,000 miles in six months, arriving toward the end of August after leaving the Toronto area on April 1.

But things have not gone according to schedule. In six weeks, the land portion of the train has covered barely 300 miles. The trailing section of newcomers to wagon driving have made a little more—they 200 miles.

They had hoped to be in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., by April 25, but that's still 130 miles away.

Originally, Mr. Roberts and Mr. Bradley had planned to make the trip last with their own families, but publicity resulted in 1,000 people asking to come along, Mr. Roberts said.

"We even got some letters from people in Israel who wanted to come along," Mr. Bradley said.

Most of the members of the train have arranged places to stay until they can get settled on their own. Those who want to homestead must put in a year's residence before being eligible to own their own place.

Mr. Roberts and Mr. Bradley have applied for a project lease so they can start their own cattle operation. Mr. Roberts says that there's no need for a year's residency if a grazing lease can be acquired.

The wagon train realizes that they might be turned down by the province.

If they do get the lease then they'll be starting their ranch from scratch.

"Whether it's a challenge or not, at least it will be peace," Mr. Roberts. "During all that time in Toronto I never had a chance to contact this for what we'll experience in Peace River."

"I think maybe it's quietness that were really after," said Mr. Bradley.

Former Actor and Friends Restoring Old Buildings

RICHMOND, B.C. (CP) — Former actor and singer Don Francks described the restoration venture on the bank of the Fraser River as "going back to the basics of life."

Mr. Francks, his wife Lil and daughter Jennifer have served with their friends Barry Lancaster and Drew Durkin into trailers beside the old Steveston cannery buildings. Most of the buildings, among oldest in the area of the century, have disintegrated over the years but a few stand in the shadow of planned expansion of the Vancouver International Airport.

The former Toronto-based actor and singer and his new "family" if they are willing to call it, said the two-year group His-style as a course in survival.

"Most people would know how to survive if they were put to the test," Mr. Francks said, and the ability to buy things," he said. "We believe the time has come to learn how."

The family project is to repair the old buildings with the help of friends. Eventually will become a centre for people to do crafts, paint, work, sing and play musical instruments or just to sit and talk.

The family met in Toronto, where they all were associated with the entertainment world. Mr. Francks came to BC coast late last year to visit Mr. Lancaster in Burnaby, B.C., and Barry and Drew decided to join them.

"I remember those nights when I was a boy and we were living in Richmond," said Mr. Francks. "I loved the look of them then, but I never thought I'd be happy to restore them."

The family installed, Carl Gregory's three next door and said he appreciates the work the family is doing. Mr. Francks plans Grutzer's General Store, part of a family business that began 82 years ago.

Mr. Grutzer and his brother Lester own half of the property and the family is repairing. The federal government has also appropriated the Brick Store and the Granters are part of a group of 75 Sea Island residents battling the government over the fate of the airport expansion.

Then for the family has first windows, mended roofs, cleaned away plaster from the interior, stripped down walls to the bare wood and covered walls with cedar shingles. They said the men in the buildings was unbelievable when they began their task.

"We have spent almost no money except for the rent we pay to Grutzer," Mr. Francks said. "We make use of things other people throw away. We collect things and we use them and know and where to use them."

The storage room is filled with things the group has received as donations or rescued from the trash bin.

There are chairs and tables, cans of paint, dozens of glass bottles and stacks of builders' wood, some of it of considerably pine.

For the main building Mr. Francks designed and built a wood-burning stove from an oversized barrel and made a stovepipe attached. In another room is another wood-burning stove, made in 1898 by a long-extinct firm called Pride of Vancouver.

Bees Into Beans

CHICAGO (CP)—Experiments in honey bee pollination in pollinating soybean crops are being conducted by a University of Illinois entomologist. The result could be inexpensive hybrid soybeans to help feed the world. Priscila Farnar, a rural magazine, reports that Eric Erickson has been conducting bee pollination tests in caged soybean plots.

The Consumer — Sharon Airhart

Will You Use Nutrition Labels?

The Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food has available a 15-page booklet called "Salads All Year Round." The new consumer publication is available free of charge from the Ministry, Information Branch, Parliament Buildings, Queens Park, Toronto, Ontario M7A 1A8.

It will be interesting, I think, to watch packages as a change to the metric system is effected. A litre is slightly smaller than a quart, for instance. When milk or other liquids are sold by litre, will the cost go down or will we just get less for the same price?

Some U.S. food products already bear nutrition labelling, a move long sought by consumer groups and long avoided by food processors. Now that it's becoming a reality, what will it mean to you?

The answer lies to many things in the field of consumerism, depends on you. Is the case of nutrition labelling it will be the purchaser's responsibility to use the information if it is to serve any purpose, since likely nutrition labels will tell you the percentage of the required daily allowance for example a product might contain eight per cent of your protein need and four per cent of your calcium requirement. Labelling will also indicate calories and carbohydrates.

Reservations currently being expressed, for example by Food Science people at the University of Guelph, are concerned with the value of the labelling.

As A.M. Pearson writes in a recent Agriculture and Food article: "The point of concern here is this: In the supermarket of the near future, items will be checked out by computer to speed up the process of buying food. How would this type of nutritional labelling fit into the scheme of more rapid food purchasing procedures?"

In other words, will you spend the time needed to read and digest label information or will you simply not bother?

A new system of naming beef cuts will be implemented on a voluntary basis in retail outlets.

It will end, hopefully, the 300 different names currently in use — handful and meaningless descriptions like Dominion steak or cowboy steak.

Standard names will be brisket, blank, chuck short rib, blade cross rib neck and shoulder cuts from the fore-quarter. Short ribs may come from the plate wholesale cut or the rib; ribeye steak is cut from the rib section. The hindquarter is cut into three wholesale cuts: flank, hip and loin. Retail cut from the hip are round, rump, shank and sirloin tip. The loin is cut into wing, tenderloin, porterhouse, sirloin, strip loin and T-bone.

Called names may still appear but the label will include the standard name "Beef Dominion Steak — Ribeye" for example.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rae

Rae Warren

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was the setting for the April 26 wedding of Debbie Denise Warren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Warren, and Robert Jeffrey Rae, son of Mr. and Mrs. G.C. Ellis.

Rev. Laurie Sutherland performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk jersey with a high mandarin neckline, long sleeves, a front bodice and featuring seed pearl trim, and a long slim skirt with an unattached train. The four-tier veil was caught in a crown headpiece of pulpure lace and carried a cascade of orange tea roses, yellow carnations and ne orchid.

Jill Warren, the bride's sister, was bridesmaid in an identical costume.

The groom's best man was John McRoss of Maidstone, and the bride's brother Scott Warren served as usher.

A buffet dinner in the Officers'Mess of the Belleville Armouries followed the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Rae will reside in Thompson, Manitoba after a brief wedding trip.

Can halt baldness Finnish scientists say

LONDON (Reuter)—Two Finnish scientists said they have developed a scalp treatment that can halt baldness and even start new hair growing in many cases.

The scientists, who are putting the treatment on sale in the form of a solution, say that among volunteers who applied it to their scalp for 28 weeks, hair growth resumed in 60 per cent of the cases and hair loss decreased within four weeks.

The claim, however, was greeted with labial reservation by some medical experts.

The product contains a synthetic oestrogen, which clears away dead hairs and other dirt clogging the follicles—the tiny sacs in which hair grows.

Another ingredient, a component, then sets in motion a process which allegedly results in the growth of new hair.

Ann Landers

She Just Takes Messages

Dear Ann Landers: My son-in-law is an independent fellow who is caught in a tight economic crunch like so many others. He is also a real pig.

The people who owe him money aren't paying and he is in a temporary financial bind which is troubling him. While I have it in my power to help him handle the problem, he is avoiding all phone calls from people he owes money. Previously he'd pass out of town on business and I take the messages.

May I say a word to his creditors?

Dear Ossie: I only suspect the phone ground him. I am not responsible for your collection problems, nor am I interested in your opinion of my employer who owns you money. I can only deliver your message. I can't put his finger in the dial and force him to return your calls.

Please save your four-letter words for HIM. If you don't get getting any results from your letters, cards and telegrams, don't yell at me. I only work here, I don't own the place.

Dear Ann: Here's your message and it's from "Bucks for Dear" take heed. You realize, of course, how merely an inviting off season when they yell at you. It's like the kid who loses in a game of marbles and comes home and kicks the cat because he's the one closest to the door.

Dear Ann Landers: This letter will be something of a "re-Ply" for you. I have a real problem. In fact, I've been blessed. I'm a mother who has worked with children, and come to know many young people well.

They need to know they are loved and cared about. They need someone to confide in. It is important that youth be listened to. Home should be a place to bring friends. A place to laugh and a place to cry.

I have a question for every parent who is reading this letter. Do you know where your child is? Do you know with whom he is spending his time? Do you care enough to find out? Who is his friends? What is he doing? Could you be reached if he needed you? Are you setting a good example for your child? Do you demand something of him that you are not giving yourself? Perhaps your problem is your message.

Children need at least one parent who cares.

Not a beautiful house or fine clothes. Take this heart heart - A Lover of Young People

Dear Friend: Thank you for a provocative letter. It made me uncomfortable glad. It means you delivered your message.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I like to go out to dinner once a week with two other couples.

I can't drink and neither can my husband. We like to dance. These two couples like their cocktails and they always order wine with dinner. The husband insists that we split the bill three ways. I do a slow burn when I figure the arithmetic in my head. We get stuck at least $5 every time we have dinner with them. Sometimes it might it was more like $8. Both couples ordered crazy drinks.

The other men have never suggested we reciprocate which I feel is wrong. They know good and well a three-way split is unfair. I do, too. What should we do? — The Suckers

Dear Sucker: Since your husband has already made it clear he will not ask for separate checks, leave the guy his dignity and forget the $3 or so "assorted tax."

Dear Readers: Every now and then I hear from a reader who spots himself in the column and asks to tell HIS side of the story. Today's column is truly extraordinary. Here's the original letter that prompted the follow-up:

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I accumulated $2,500 in a local bank by depositing $10 a week. Our 30-year-old son, who does not live at home, entered our home when we were on vacation. He stole our passbook and withdrew $100 by forging his father's signature to our joint account.

He then proceeded to forge his father's name at this bank and other branches in the city. Within two weeks he emptied the account of all but $5.

He requested a duplicate bankbook, returned the original to our home and kept the duplicate, in the hope that he could replace the money before we found out what he had done.

We might have been spared all this grief had one person been alert. Why did they give him a duplicate bankbook? We could so many people in the respected professions who would have used such poor judgment — I don't think so.

Dear Syracuse: I find it fascinating that your complaint is directed to the bank employee when the real tragedy is that your son is a criminal.

My Chicago banking consultant suggests that you contact the senior officer of your bank next week. He could be helpful in trying to get that boy into therapy at once.

This letter arrived today:-

Dear Ann: I am the 30-year-old son who got his father's bankbook and forged my father's signature.

First I'd like to tell you a little about my past. At age 16 my parents considered me a discipline problem and had me committed to a psychiatric hospital in Syracuse. After six months the doctor said, "This hospital is no place for you. I recommending a private school."

The day after my 17th birthday, off I went. I soon discovered it was no private school but a reformatory full of criminals. I learned every trick of the trade in that rotten place. Forgery, crime, flim-flam—you name it. You called me a crook. Ann, Granted I did some criminal things, but I didn't pick them up on my own, nor would I have associated with such people if I hadn't been exposed to that environment.

I've tried every which way to help myself. I've sought the help of professionals and things got rough. I'm now 21 and still as bad off as I was back then.

But I can't do it on my own. I lawyers cost money. I'm only age 18 and have had no relationship with my father. I am a scarper. It has been one hell of a struggle. If only I had parents I could talk to. But they've disowned me and I am running in circles. Can you help?—I Want To Stop

Dear Want To Stop: Your need for love is heartbreaking. But don't give up—you CAN be helped.

Call the Mental Health Clinic in Syracuse, N.Y. Ask for an appointment with the psychiatrist in charge. I've already phoned in your behalf and you are waiting to help you. Please let me know how you get along.

Doris Clark

It's Hard to Face Life Alone

Dear Doris: How do I again become a member of the human race? For the past five years I have been living by myself, and now when I do venture out among relatives and friends, I feel like a lost soul.

My husband died some years ago. My three sons are living in a city 300 miles away. My mother, also a widow, is living in a senior citizens' home.

My brothers and sisters fail to understand why I do not move to the city where my sons are. They know that Mom is well cared for. Why should I stay here by myself in order to visit me at the home?

They seem to forget that I have been a widow for 18 years and it is hard to face life alone whether it be here or elsewhere. Mother is in failing health at 84 and is gradually losing her sight. I thought I was making the right decision.

They all see me as Big Sister, and I am the one who keeps in touch, not only with my brothers and sisters but with my mother's family. I guess they appreciate what I can do for them, but shouldn't I receive as well?

At 48 I have learned to accept what I cannot change, but being an epileptic is hard to face at any age. When friends find out and say scary, that, you could forgive, but when family keep you at arm's length and you wonder why. "She might have a fit!", do you wonder why the invitations are few and far between, and you wait for times to retire from the human race? In this day when epilepsy is controlled, should there be such a stigma attached to it?

— Epileptic.

Dear Epileptic: Of course there should be no stigma — and any more than is any other disease — diabetes, high blood pressure, pimples! But there is a certain fear of the unknown which makes people recoil in their neglect of the sufferer.

Families ought to learn all they can about anything that troubles one of them; and should be the support the handicapped one craves.

Obviously you have coped with many difficulties, and your own estimate of the situation indicates understanding and intelligence.

At 67, and with a disease which is controlled, you may well have many accomplished healthy years ahead of you in which to achieve enjoyment.

My advice is to turn away a little from the family except your mother. Turn towards a new and healthy life, and fill-ise with your interests. Not everyone is lucky enough to near when a brief "blackout" happens to you.

What about seeking volunteer work for the hospital auxiliary? Here you can find human weaknesses in their stride if anyone can.

Another good thought is to commit the volunteer bureau or family agency in your own home town and offer what you have to give.

Black Women in Canada: 'Little Chance for Life'

TORONTO (CP)—Blacks are discriminated against everywhere, says a 33-year-old native of Trinidad who has chosen Canada as her home.

She is poet Liz Cromwell, mother of two children, who moved to Toronto from New York after she had been robbed twice at gunpoint in Bayright while living at Cooperwich Village.

Of particular concern to her now is "desperate loneliness of many black women in Toronto, women who are ready to open to exploitation by the unscrupulous."

And of discrimination, Ms. Cromwell said: "One of my friends visiting me from New York happened to be a white male. Nobody said anything openly, but when we got on the subway together you were conscious of eyes stabbing at you.

"Some of those little old white ladies are the worst. You see them physically freezing and turning up their nose as if there was a dreadful smell."

In Trinidad she worked as a journalist and radio commentator, travelling extensively throughout the Caribbean, Latin America and West Africa.

BIG APPETITE

To finance her travels, she worked at whatever job was said, wherever, anything that available — "dishwasher, allowed me to go to a new country and still let me enough time to write poetry and short stories."

The United States, where she obtained a BA in sociology from New York State University, at first excited her, but its attractions soon palled.

"New Yorkers are concerned with material things which they must have at any cost. Toronto is a pre-human city to me. It has yet to make a contribution to its development."

Her first job in Toronto was as a writer and associate editor for Contrast, a weekly paper which describes itself as serving the black community from coast to coast.

Canadian Jungle Tea, her first book of poems, was published in February. The dedication is to International Women's Year.

Ms. Cromwell said the basic problem of the preponderance of black women on welfare in Toronto has been compounded by a change in attitude of black men.

"They have deserted their wives and children. Many previously stable relationships have fallen apart.

"Maybe it is the culture shock, the social pressures, the desire of the immigrant to be accepted and integrate, that has got them into interracial situations."

She said white men seldom marry black women.

"New black women are being deserted and divorced by black men. Their chances of leading normal life are decreasing and this could mean more single-parent families and more dysfunctional black youngsters as the value system falls down."

Still, Liz Cromwell is not all pessimism.

"There is much in Canada that I love and want to see preserved. The pockets of racism and bigotry have to go."

Greek Wives Learn 'Equality' in School

In the Greek context, Maria Chorafakis's parents' school is a controversial institution, even if 1975 is International Women's Year.

"In Greece we are living through a period of 'machismocracy,' where the woman is only used as a filler when needed," Mrs. Chourdaki said.

Mrs Chourdaki, a doctor of psychology at Athens University, shut down her school in April, 1967, when the military-backed dictatorship took over. She said she would rather do that than operate under a censored curriculum.

Today, the school has about 400 wives attending classes. Next month they will be given courses in politics, economics and sociology "to make them more politically aware and active."

The school maintains close ties with Greece's newest women members of Parliament, record number for a country where women still are often regarded as second-class citizens.

Unlike the German, Italian and Soviet constitutions, for example, the Greek one offers no guarantees for women's rights, apart from a general article stating, "All Greeks are equal before the law."

The civil code specifies the wife as the head of the family and responsible for all major decisions.

The commercial code, forbids a woman to undertake any business enterprise without her husband's consent, while labor laws make Greece the sole western European country which bases separate minimum wages for men and women. The women's minimum is always lower.

Greek women total only 38 per cent of the labor force, the lowest in Western Europe, where the average is 35 to 40 per cent.

Recent surveys by women's organizations have attributed the phenomenon to the widely accepted view here that the woman's place is in the home, to bias of employers and to women's lower professional and educational qualifications.

Under the circumstances the Greek woman prefers not to work, Lena Doukidou said in one of a series of recent newspaper articles. When she does work, she either does it through personal or family necessity, but rarely to make a career.

Government statistics show male employees average monthly salaries in 1973 were the drachma equivalent of $336.30 as compared with women's $137.

The latest government-fixed daily wages for unskilled workers are $6 for men and $5.25 for women.

Statistics show that of a total 1.66 million Hellenic Greeks in 1971, 80 per cent were women. Of 2.42 million not having finished primary school, 69 per cent were women.

Dr. Helen Kosmopoulou-Condoulis, a Harvard-educated pediatrician, said she believes there is a substantial gap between the older and younger generations of women and between those in the countryside and urban centres. In both latter cases, women have made major advances.

Thirty-one per cent of entrants at higher educational establishments were women in 1971 and 41 per cent in 1973.

But, Dr. Condoulis said, good education is largely another means for women to secure a well-established husband, and early settlement of this pressing matter for most Greek girls often makes graduation unnecessary.

Only a quarter of the graduates of technical and other higher schools of learning in 1973 were women, and most of them specialized in housekeeping or professional assistantships.

Congregationalist Influence Strong in United Church

By

Dr. Gordon C. Smyth

On June 10, 1925, the inauguration service of the United Church of Canada was held in the old Mutual Street Arena, the largest building in Toronto available for such a service, and packed with 8,000 people.

In that part of the service dealing with the basis of church union, representatives concisely expressed the special contributions of their denominations.

The Presbyterian moderator brought "the manifestation of the Spirit in the witness to Christ's Kirk and Covenant, in care for the spread of education and devotion to sacred learning."

The Methodist general superintendent spoke of the "evangelical zeal and burning redemption, the fervour of spiritual experience, and the integrity of moral life."

The chairman of the Congregational throne brought "the liberty of preaching, the love of spiritual freedom, and the enforcement of civic justice."

Congregationalism had its rise during the Puritan Revolution in England. The traditional demand for uniformity in worship by all Christians was sternly resisted by the Independents, who called Congregationalists.

In due course, they were the first nonconformists to settle (1) what is now English Canada. They were also the original (2) many of their ministers returned in the New England colonies to fight under the banner of George Washington. Their growth was later fostered by their proportion in the emigration woven from the Old Country.

At the time of church union, Congregationalist represented about 1 in a half of one per cent in the population. But they made up for this in the influence of their convictions.

(1) They are to it that the new constitution provided as much liberty as possible for every pastoral, this included the right to "exit", the right to withhold membership, and the supreme in his pulpit, the right of every congregation to elect its own forms of worship and Christian education program.

(2) They are to it that not even the General Council can alter the statement that "no form of admission to membership shall be demanded other than that laid down in the New Testament."

These "first principles" were equipped to live in various climates of history. They exhibit a spirit of tolerance that our age so desperately needs.

It seems to me that one whom I was privileged to have as a friend, the late Clarie Hiltz Silcox (1886-1961), typified the best in the Congregational stream that flowed into union.

He was a scholar, pastor, administrator, professional economist. He collaborated in writing "Canada's Problem: Protestants and Jews". He shared with the famous "survivor birth control case", establishing the freedom of couples to endeavour to regulate the size of families. Queen's University bestowed on him the degree of Doctor of Divinity (Honoris Causa). He suddenly passed away during informal union discussions in a Toronto Anglican Church.

The whole Canadian church and nation have been enriched by principles that the late Dr. Silcox embodied. He was himself enriched by a favorite text. "The world passes away, and the lust of it; but he who does the will of God abides for ever" (1 John 2:17).

Sisters of Charity Formed By Young Widow in 1808

By GEORGIANE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Through open country the young widow travelled by wagon, carrying her children and all their possessions. It was a rough, hilly road and a hot one had been down Jane.

"We are obliged to walk the horses all the way and have walked sometimes nearly half the time," she wrote from one stopover. Warm villagers and animals were scarce.

"The dogs and pigs come and to meet us, and they all scratch their necks in token demand to be let in as well as any of their sort, to which we gave assent."

Such were the good-humored spirits of Elizabeth Bayley Seton as she left her wagon trip in 1809 to a wooded valley near Emmitsburg, Md., where she founded a community that was to grow into a vast network of Christian service.

That pioneering woman, the mother in America, was designated in Roman Catholic canonization procedures over the Vatican last December as the first native American citizen to become a saint.

She had once been a New York social figure, wooed by luxury, called Betty by her friends, popular in the city's theatrical and fashionable club circles. At 19, she married the heir of a shipping-banking fortune.

But her husband's health and fortune later collapsed. They went bankrupt and died shortly afterward, leaving her an impoverished widow of 29, with five daughters and two sons.

She went to work — a first for a lady, and then to boarding school "to cook, wash and mend" for the pupils, out of her letters relates. She had most providence that her own children but rejoiced to watch them eat "their bread and milk with good appetite."

It was a period of religious fervor, as well as economic struggle. She was an Episcopalian, but on a visit to Italy she had become attracted to worship in a mass Catholicism. About a year after the husband's death, she entered that church, despite sharp opposition from relatives.

In 1808, she moved her family to Baltimore and opened an academy for girls. Shortly afterward, she and four others women in the school test religious views, marking the start of the Sisters of Charity of St. Joseph, the first native American religious community.

Its handful of members and her children later made the wave trek to the Emmitsburg area, launching another girls' academy and a tuition-free school for the poor—a forerunner of the parochial school system.

Out of that beginning has grown the Sisters of Charity community, with branch houses in Maryland, Missouri, New York, Ohio, Nova Scotia, New Jersey and Texas, numbering about 3,000 members.

They serve in about 200 schools, 20 colleges, 67 hospitals, 55 nursing schools, 13 homes for orphans, 12 homes for child-care institutions, plus homes for the aging, day schools for retarded children, in addition to working in a half-dozen foreign countries.

Mother Seton left more than 700 letters and many other personal documents. She once wrote to a woman friend in Philadelphia: "Patience and a good tea visiting to 'send you a line by my brother-in-law, mind, no more, or you will be putting notions in the man's head."

Nova Scotian Professor To Work at Israeli Tell

ANTIGONISH, N.S. (CP) — An archeology at St. Francis Xavier University plans a trip to the politically troubled Middle East this summer on a journey that will take him to the site of a civilization that inhabited the Gaza Strip 5,000 years ago.

Rev. Morton MacDonald said none of the fighting in 1973 was in or around the Tell El-Ajjul location.

While the area as a whole is a politically explosive, he said, it's not in the middle of a huge wheat field, and what is all you can see for miles. Even the Israeli army number one "I don't think there is much probability of danger."

The purpose of the joint expedition, which is a second every year from the United States, is to train students and scholars in the fundamentals of archeological work.

In 1973 participants will represent 12 universities, institutes and colleges.

Father MacDonald teaches two courses in the St. Francis Xavier department, one of them dealing with the Biblical history of the Middle East.

He is interested in the Bible and understanding its historical as said. "Archeology is working as the Tell El Hesi is the best means at our disposal to understand the Bible outside of the text itself."

Tell El-Hesi is located in the Plain of Philistia, about 20 miles northeast of Gaza, and is believed to be the site of the biblical city of Eglon, which was destroyed by Joshua.

Christian Unity

United Church Faces Opposing Views

NARAMATA, B.C. (CP) — They don't push religion at the United Church Camp Valley centre here, but it is available for anyone who wants it.

The centre, one of four across Canada, includes in its year-long agenda trade-unionity ski weekends, workshops in guitar, country, training in arts and crafts and seminars in the women's movement.

Naramata, located in the Okanagan Valley, now is in its 27th year, and has grown to a tracted 8,000 persons to secular and religious events.

Nancy Jackman, staff secretary, says the centre's director has had to cancel religious events because of lack of registration, while some human relations courses get people flying in from Edmonton.

However, she sees a "great movement towards more spirituality in the United Church, perhaps brought on by the youth-led resurgence in charismatic worship groups "who are not afraid to express it."

She says the centre has begun to inject more theology into its year-round activities, but the question of how to balance religious and secular events is unresolved.

One faction deplores the apparently growing secularity of the centre, while the other wants it to be a counselling agency for "other structures," says Darryl Anston, staff associate.

"Should we program for the spiritual nature of adults and youth? Or meet the program needs for community agencies and groups? Or provide for the broadest choice of options?" he asked, indicating his support of the latter alternatives.

Nancy Jackman says people in the late teens and early 20s are often drawn to the secular activities in spring and winter, while most religious registrations are from church-going adults.

However, she added that many persons attracted to non-religious events come away with some sort of consciousness of super-ter being.

Facilities at the 30-acre centre include a cafeteria, a tent and trailer area and a 50-bed residence, with plans under way for seminar facilities and a new residence.

Some religious events come per cent registered, 10 per cent by the United Church, and the remainder by Catholics, Baptists and investment interest.

Cyclist Injured

A 19-year-old Belleville youth was sent to hospital Friday night when the bicycle he was driving was in collision with a vehicle near Bayside.

Jim Chalmers, RR 3, Belleville, was taken to CFB hospital around 11:40 Friday night with a fractured left ankle. Driver of the car Jim Argle, 28, 164 Bindy St., Belleville, was unhurt. The collision took place on Highway 2 near Allen Rd.

Tweed Tax On Rise

TWEED — Taxpayers here will pay more in 1976 than in 1975, immediate delegation from John Clemens, and when approved for the average home value in 1976, the mill rate will likely rise again, he said.

The residential public rate has increased 21.3 mills and the separate rate 13.4 mills. The commercial rate has risen 28.36 mills for public and 26.76 mills for separate school purposes.

Major factors in the increase are increased requirements of the Hastings County Board of Education and the county itself, said the clerk-treasurer. The separate school board requirement is slightly less than last year, and the assessment accounts for the increased to separate school supporters' taxes.

Trenton Police Form Scuba Unit

TRENTON — Police scuba divers from outside Trenton will no longer be used as frequently by the town police force with the introduction recently of the department's own underwater search and recovery unit.

Police Chief David Saunders said Friday creation of the two-man unit was prompted by the geographic location of Trenton. The town is spread along two rivers both with shores of the Bay of Quinte.

Foul Language Closes Some Picton Stores

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Boardrism and obscene language on Main St. have prompted several Picton merchants to close their doors on Friday night but other businesses say they plan to remain open as usual.

Donald Stewart of Mason's Department Store says he has worked on Main Street for 21 years and in that time has always heard obscene language.

"I find beer bottles in front of the store some weekends," he noted.

Mr. Stewart adds Mason's Department Store closes each Friday night throughout January and February when business is slow but remains open on Friday evenings for the balance of the year.

He said, however, he does not feel there is as much loitering on the streets now as in former years when a pool room operated close to the store.

He says he does not feel language heard on the streets is keeping customers out of the store.

George Fraser, owner of Fraser's Cover Room, says he will close Friday night because he feels most women shoppers hesitate to shop on Friday nights.

Mr. Fraser is backed by Mrs. Gordon Glover of Gordon's Men's Wear who says obscene language on Main Street is discouraging shopping.

Walter Fraser and his wife Sue who operate the Lennox Tree Boutique and a men's clothing shop, The Vest Pocket say recent incidents of vandalism on Main Street and strong language will not force them to a Friday night closing.

"You do hear some absolutely foul language," observe Mrs. Fraser.

She adds, however, that obscenities can be heard on Main Street any day of the week, not just on Friday nights and a Friday closing would serve no purpose.

Picton police chief Charles Fletcher says he is aware of a decrease in Friday night shoppers but adds this trend is province-wide and says he does not feel it is necessary for police to become language cops on Main Street.

Tools Taken

City police today reported the theft of automotive tools valued at $200 from an Alexander St. garage.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said today the theft from the garage owned by Michael Bernard took place sometime near Friday night.

Investigation continues.

All Townships Face Hike in School Costs

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

BLOOMFIELD — The Prince Edward County Board of Education has announced 1976 educational tax levies including $1,322,716 for the county's 10 municipalities this year in comparison with $1,117,849 in 1974.

Picton clerk Andrew Jarvis says the increase to town taxpayers to $235,945 from $201,549 in 1974 will reflect a raise of about 1.3 mills for town ratepayers.

In Wellington, the levy has been increased $39,972 from $31,387 this year.

In Ameliasburg township the levy will jump from $245,490 in 1974 to $291,388 in 1976.

Hallowell ratepayers will pay an increase levy of $364,331 in contrast with the 1974 levy of $190,385.

North Marysburg ratepayers this year will pay $76,919 in contrast with the $68,538 in 1974.

In South Marysburg the levy has increased from $41,308 in 1974 to $48,765 in 1975.

Prince Edward County's total 1975 levy totals $13,716 this year in contrast with the 1974 levy of $179,853.

Traffic a Concern, But Most Favor Mall

Would Front St. be made into a one-way road? The majority of people contacted on an informal Intelligencer survey thought it would be a great idea if it were not for the traffic problems that would be created.

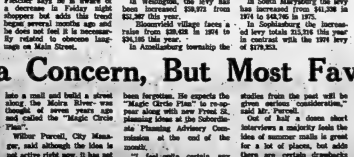
A plan to make Front St. into a mall and build a street along the Moira River was thought of several years ago and called the "Magic Circle Plan".

Wilbur Purcell, City Manager, said although the idea is not active right now, it has not been forgotten. He expects the "Magic Circle Plan" to re-appear along with new Front St. planning ideas at the Subdivision Planning Advisory Commission at the end of the month.

"I feel quite certain any studies from the past will be given serious consideration," said Mr. Purcell.

Out of half a dozen short interviews a majority feels the idea of numerous malls is great for a lot of places, but adds there are certain drawbacks in Belleville that would prevent its success.

Most did agree it would attract more shoppers to the downtown area and a more relaxed atmosphere would be created without the pressure of automobiles.

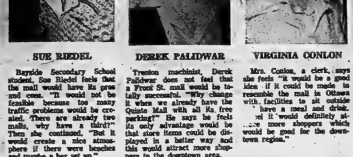


BILL CLARE

Bill Clare, a window cleaner, feels a summer-long mall on Front Street would attract many more shoppers to the downtown area. "It should have been changed to a mall years ago and it should get going the river. Make it private to be a success and I feel this will be done also." He feels the only drawback would be that it could not be climatically controlled like the Quinte Mall.

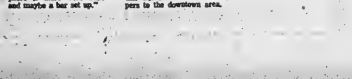
SUE RIEDEL

Bayside Secondary School student, Sue Riedel feels that the mall would have its pros and cons. "It would not be feasible because too many traffic problems would be created. There are already two malls, why have a third?" she commented. "But it would create a nice atmosphere if there were benches and maybe a bar set up."



DEREK PALIDWAR

Trenton machinist, Derek Paldwar does not feel that a Front St. mall would be totally successful. "Why change it when we already have the Quinte Mall with all its free parking?" He says he feels it's only advantage would be that since items could be displayed in a better way and this would attract more shoppers to the downtown area.



VIRGINIA CONLON

Mrs. Conlon, a clerk, says she feels "it would be a good idea if it could be made in reconcile the mall in Ottawa with facilities to sit outside ... have a meal and drink. ... et it would definitely attract more shoppers which would be good for the downtown region."

Talks Fail at International Hardware

Talks between the International Members and Allied Workers' Local 594 of Belleville's International Hardware broke down Friday, says a company spokesman. According to the release, negotiations broke down after eight days.

The company states its last offer for a two-year contract would have given employees $1.38 an hour over the contract period (in pay and fringed fringe benefits). This would represent a 21.8 per cent increase for workers.

Ray Ryan, chairman of the union negotiating committee, said in an interview that "we're not kicking at the fringe benefits but we want it an hour in addition to the benefits offered."

Mr. Ryan said the union wants the cap taken off the cost of living clause. The company offer has an eight-cent cap on the first year and nine cents for the second year.

A conciliation meeting has been completed and Mr. Ryan said it is likely the union will strike," — as labor then does it."

Study Suggests Central Ambulance Dispatch

By COLIN BRUCE

A provincial government study has concluded Belleville is "over serviced" with ambulance companies and that (two) companies are "overstaffed."

The Intelligencer has learned Friday.

Several months ago, the provincial government's department of ambulance services commissioned a study would be taken to determine "the cost effectiveness of the two companies in Belleville — Le Salle Ambulance and City Ambulance.

Though the study was originally scheduled to be completed within two weeks it finally stretched to six weeks with its findings still to be presented to the ministry.

Harry Rabe, regional co-ordinator for the department in Ottawa said a central dispatch centre for Belleville, Picton, Trenton, Madoc and Napanee is a major recommendation of the following study completion this week.

In all, Mr. Rabe said he has made 14 recommendations concerning the existing dispatch centre in Belleville and 39 recommendations aimed at the two companies.

The end result or the long range plan would be to amalgamate the two services," he said.

He said this aim of amalgamation is implicated in the report "but I didn't go into the details of the recommendation."

"There is a great deal of duplication of management, communications and administrative services in Belleville which could be eased through joining the two firms", said Mr. Rabe.

My general impression of the service in Belleville is that it is not operated as efficiently and effectively as it might be," he said.

"There definately a need for improvement."

Mr. Rabe said the balance while the study was being completed are the budgets for both companies. Local operators have submitted their 1976 budgets would not be approved until Mr. Rabe's recommendations are received by the province. The companies budgets are based on 1975 budget figures since the beginning of the year.

"It won't be long now before we get some word on the budgets," said Mr. Rabe.

A meeting has been arranged for the next week or so for ministry officials to sit down with the local operators to discuss the study and the budgets," Mr. Rabe said.

"There probably will have to be some changes or adjustments in staff numbers and patterns," he said.

Circus Coming

With all of the black magic of the demon world, Satan becomes killed as "the Fury, Hickory, fantasy prince of darkness" brings his sorcery to Belleville with the Carson Bros. Circus.

Carlisto DeGraaf, Satanic Demon to his fans, who comes from the Netherlands, has developed one of the most unique acts to appear in the circus world. Several persons in all three rings in a spectacle of fire and darkness, ending with a loop of spinning daggers and fire through which he jumps while blind-folded.

Satanic Demon will be appearing in the Memorial Arena with the Carson Bros. Circus on Monday, May 24.

Alarm Box

Friday, May 21, 4:36 p.m. — Cooking oil got on fire at, at home on Lexington Ave., with minor smoke damage.

Saturday, May 22, 7:38 a.m. — Some wooden child's fort at 44 Camilton Rd. got on fire this morning.

Search Continues For Missing Men

GARDENVILLE — The search for two Tweed fishermen, missing in Walker's Bay, and presumed drowned, continued Friday after an eight suspension of dragging operations by provincial police and Tweed volunteers.

Missing since late Thursday are Fred Millard, 58, and his nephew Fred Millard, Fred. Both men were staying in cottage at Young's Cove, near Gardenville, six miles southwest of Trenton.

A Picton OPP spokesman said today that a search party boat the men used was discovered ashore at Barcowen Beach, early Friday. Two oars were also found in the 16 square-mile-search area.

Search operations were carried out Friday by an OPP craft, a coast guard vessel, about six local fishing boats and a private aircraft. The short-lite patrol by the aircraft was taken over by a coast guard helicopter from Trenton mid-Friday.

The spokesman said OPP divers were brought in today when the search resumed at 7:30 a.m. It was called off Friday about 13-hours earlier.

Mavety Signs With Macs

Belleville McDonald's were looking for a utility infielder and they don't come much bigger or much better, around here, than Larry Mavety's. Thursday night following an exhibition game in Newmarket Mavety put his mark on a McDonald's card.

"I was really hoping Larry would come with us," said Mac general manager, Doug Adams, "He's one of the best ball players around and he'll undoubtedly help us in every department."

Mavety, a 22-year-old catcher, initially wasn't sure whether or not he wanted to play for the local Golden Gloves Little League team because of the time and travel involved. He just spent this past winter travelling across North America with the Chicago Cougars and the Toronto Toros of the World Hockey Association.

"You have to put everything you've got into a team like this," said the Toro defenceman. "I think all the time and the effort will be worth it."

Along with "Mav", the Macs have signed pitcher-outfielder Pete Harrison. Like Mavety, he too swings a big bat. Harrison, a two-year outfielder now resides in Oak Ridges. He also is capable of playing first base and catcher.

"Pete is welcome addition to the team," said Adams, "he's the kind of player who would be welcome with any team. He's a real leader and gives 150 per cent all the time."

Mavety has spent the last several years playing in the Ontario Hockey League. In 1974 he won the league's batting championship (for the third time) and was voted the league's Most Valuable Player (the second time he has received that honor). He did all this while playing for Major Minn's 'Weez' in the O'L. final. The Toronto native probably would have taken the league title if Mavety hadn't had to leave for the Cougars training camp.

"I think this team is going to surprise a lot of people," said the six-foot, 200 pound slugger, "that was one thing that crossed me mind. I think honestly believe that this club will be highly competitive."

"If I can't," he added, "I wouldn't be here."

LARRY MAVETY

Both Mavety and Harrison will be in the lineup when the Macs take on Wesdonck Saturday night and Kitchener in a doubleheader Sunday.

Sutton Goes from Perfect Game to Loss in Final Innings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Nobody's perfect. Not even Don Sutton.

The righthander came close to pitching a perfect game Friday night for Los Angeles Dodgers, but chalked apart in the last inning.

First he lost his no-hitter. Then he lost his shutout. And finally, he lost the National League baseball game to Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2.

"Pittsburgh is an explosive club", said Sutton. "When they hit, it's like an epidemic. It runs through the whole ball club".

For 7 1-3 innings, Sutton was in complete control with a 1-0 lead. And it looked like that was all he was going to need. He struck out seven, and allowed only two balls to be hit out of the infield. The Pirates got nothing resembling a hit.

But with one out in the eighth, Richie Hebner hit a ground-er just to the left of third baseman Ron Cey and into left field for the Pirates' first hit. Dave Parker followed with a line single to centre and Manny Sanguillen singled to tie the score.

Sutton gave up his fourth hit to Ronnie Zeuner, in the ninth and then his fifth, a run-scoring hit by Al Oliver. As the ball flew into the right field pavilion for Dodger Stadium, there went Sutton's chances of winning.

In other National League baseball Friday, Montreal Expos beat Cincinnati Reds 4-3, Philadelphia Phillies routed Atlanta Braves 12-3, New York Mets trimmed Houston Astros 10-3, San Diego Padres beat Chicago Cubs 8-3 and San Francisco Giants defeated St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 in 10 innings.

After Oliver put the Pirates ahead 3-1 in the top of the ninth, the Dodgers scored a run off Dave Giusti in their half of the inning on Steve Garvey's single, an infield out and a single by Cey. Bill Buckner then grounded into a game-ending double play.

Until the game-tying rally, Pittsburgh's hardest hit ball was Oliver's grounder to the left of shortstop Rick Auerbach with two out in the seventh.

Auerbach fielded the ball and threw into the dirt at first, but Garvey scooped it on the short hop as the crowd of 44,111 roared its approval.

Garvey gave the crowd more to cheer about in the ninth when he jog-gled Sanguillen's needle grounder behind first but recovered in time to beat the Pittsburgh catcher to the bag by a step.

Two-run homers by Mike Schmidt, pitcher Larry Christenson and Larry Bowa in a six-run second inning helped the streaking Philadelphia to its fifth win in a row.

Ed Kranepool's two-run double sparked a four-run first inning and Rusty Staub and Dave Kingman homered for the Mets.

Enzo Hernandez drove in three runs and Larry Whisenton two and Joe McIntosh pitched a six-hitter to lead San Diego over Chicago.

Darrel Thomas led off the Giants' 10th inning with a triple and later scored the winning run on a dropped Willie Montanez' fine drive in shallow centre.

McKeon Slips Wrong Order Past BoSox

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manager Jack McKeon of Kansas City Royals signed a lineup card Friday for Fenway Park in Boston. In fact, he signed several of them.

But the battle order he handed to umpire Jim Evans wasn't the same one the Royals used to beat the Red Sox 5-2.

On the lineup card McKeon turned in, he had Amos Otis batting third and Hal McRae batting fourth. In the game Otis batted fourth and McRae batted third.

And he came up with a key single in Kansas City's three-run third inning, with two runs scoring on the hit and an error, by left fielder Bernie Carbo.

"I made out three or four lineup cards," said McKeon, "I must have screwed up three times."

In Friday's other American League games, Milwaukee Brewers downed Minnesota Twins 3-2, Oakland As tripped New York Yankees 4-3 and Texas Rangers thumped Detroit Tigers 10-2. California's Angels stopped Baltimore Orioles 3-2 after dropping the opener to their doubleheader 1-0 and Chicago White Sox edged Cleveland Indians 3-2 with three runs in the bottom of the ninth.

The lineup card incident left the Fenway fans as red as the rooter. Had manager Darrell Johnson protested, Otis would have been called out and the runners ordered back to first and third.

And since Hal McRae followed with a ground-rule double, the Royals would have scored only one run in the inning instead of three.

"I didn't have their lineup card," Johnson explained. "I never get one in this ballpark. We make four copies. The visiting manager keeps one, the plate umpire one and two go upstairs to the press box.

"I don't know why two go upstairs, but I'm certainly going to find out. I've been taking the lineups off the scoreboard, but I'm sure glad they (the Royals' scribe) still would have been right. It's no fun, but you never know. It may have been a different ballgame."

The Brewers bunched all five hits off Dave Wilcox in the fourth inning. After Dave Goltz retired the first nine Milwaukee batters, Don Money opened the fourth inning with a single and scored the tying run on a double by Bill Sharp.

Bobby Mitchell's single made it 3-1 and George Scott also singled. After Rick Auerbach flied out, Darrell Porter delivered a run-scoring single.

Vida Blue became the first eight-game winner in the majors by hurling a seven-hitter for his sixth consecutive triumph for the A's.

Tom Grieve's two-run homer and Toby Harrah's three-run double paced the rest of Detroit's ace Mickey Lolich. Texas hosted Lolich during a five-run third-inning outburst.

Tommy Harper hit his first two homers of the season, driving in all the runs as the Angels won the second game behind Ed Figueroa's three-hitter.

The Orioles took the opener when Bobby Grich lined his 10th home run of the season off the left field foul pole with two out in the ninth inning to beat Jim Palmer's nine-hit pitching.

Cleveland's Jim Kern had a three-hitter and a 3-0 lead when he walked Mellin to start the ninth and Tom Hinkey relieved him. Singles by Doran Cadwell and Buddy Bell and one run home and a single by Dave Duncan finished the back.

Dave LaRoche replaced Sumberg and struck out Bill Stein but Dennis Eckersley took over with Buddy Bradford batting for Pat Kelly. Bradford was hit with a pitch, forcing in the tying run, and Jorge Orta walked, pushing home the winner.

Jack McKeon – Mistake Pays Off

Expos Edge Slumping Reds

MONTREAL (CP) — Right-hander Dennis Blair flirted openly with disaster but managed to keep in command long enough to give Montreal Expos a 4-3 win over Cincinnati Reds in National League baseball game Friday night.

Blair, who walked six batters in his 7 1-3 innings, has issued 36 walks in 41 innings this year. "As hard as he throws," said Expos Gene Mauch, "and as much as the ball moves around, he's had tough pitches to catch."

Carter started his third game of the season at catcher and found himself awed by the fact he was facing the Reds and not regular catcher Johnny Bench. "The margin of victory came in the eighth inning when the Expos scored twice on singles by Pepe Mangual and Barry Scott. It was Mangual's sixth game-winning hit and his fifth in Montreal's last six wins.

Darrel Porter had 2-for-3, needed help from Chuck Taylor to check the Reds in the ninth when Rose singled to score pinch-hitter Ken Griffey, who had reach base on Tim Foli's error.

Taylor collected his third save by striking out Joe Morgan and walking Bench before getting Tony Perez to hit into a force play with the bases loaded.

Larry Bittner's home run in the second and Scott's fourth-inning ground ball accounted for the other Montreal runs.

The Reds opened the scoring in the first when Morgan scored after Dave Concepcion hit into a fielder's choice. Carter was charged with an error when home plate umpire Rick Cuccia said he had failed to cover the plate.

"I've never done that before in my life," said Carter. "I know that I scraped it like that," he said, dragging his right foot.

He partially made up for the mistake in the next inning, standing his ground firmly and applying the tag as Darrell Chaney, trying to score on a single by Rose, barrled into and over him.

Starter Jack Billingham 3-3 took the loss for the Reds, who have lost six straight games, their longest losing string since 1971.

DENNIS BLAIR

San Francisco Giants of the National League have sent pitcher John Fuller to their farm club in Phoenix, D'Arcadia has posted a 1-4 won-loss record and has an 11.25 earned run average with the Giants this season.

If You're Betting Take Macs This Weekend

Belleville's Big Macs are under to roll into their first season in the Ontario Football League.

After five exhibition games against the big powerhouses of the league, the McDonald's open their home schedule tonight against Woodstock. Tomorrow night they take on Kitchener in a double header, also at Alumite Park.

After making up a 3-2-1, win-lost-tied mark in two outings with the Oshawa Twig's and Sarnia with the Newcomers' Rex's, the Macs should find Saturday's contest a bit of a let down.

Woodstock was the doormat of the league last season and it doesn't appear that that situation is going to change much this year. They were last in the Division I standings as 11-36, won-lost record. They opened the season with consecutive defeats of 30-6 to Guelph and 31-7 to Sarnia.

Bill, the McDonald's should make a clean sweep of their weekend action.

Sunday's doubleheader is the official opening of the Macs' home season. Coach Robin Jeffrey, MP Jack Ellis and Ronald McDonald will be on hand to bring in the new season. Bob Scott, manager of the local McDonald's Restaurant, has secured Ronald for Sunday's start.

Kitchener finished fourth in the West Division last season with a 5-6 record. Despite his team's finish, Keith Wagler compiled a 10-23 mark and a 1.79 earned run average last year and he might give the Macs a bit of a run.

In any event, if you want to see the McDonalds win the first three games of their OFL season, game time are, once again, 8:15 Saturday night and 7:30 Sunday night.

SLICES — McDonald's Season tickets are still on sale at McDonald's Family Restaurant on North Front Street, and McKnight Variety on Front Street in downtown Belleville. For $20 you get into all 37 of the Macs home games.

It's late, late, late, late but suppose it's better late, late, late than never, never, never. A while ago I came to think of it a long while ago Ron Gardner, one of Belleville's house league coaches, and not too bad a one either, let us know about his team's participation in the Lioness'/Servus/the Wrapper competition.

Well, the team did incredibly good by winding up in top 30 in the country. In the first period Gardner collected 1451 wrappers and won another 2000 worth of equipment.

Included in the equipment both times were 20 dozen baseball sticks and a stick bag.

The kid in the photo taking for the results of the, third period is not how he had collected.

If you give us a call Ron, we promise to get your third period result into Ellis sooner. It's nice to see a resurrection of the - EMHA with so much initiative.

Record Handle Set for Regular Night of Racing

Before the racing season even began Quinte Exhibition Raceway had its back to a wall. The Ontario Racing Commission dictated that the local oval either jump to B class-they were C; a class lower-or they would have their licence revoked and have to shut down.

Now QER is in a different position. It no longer has its back to a wall, instead it is on the bottom looking up.

We were a pretty high class C track," said Ev Gowsell, QER manager, "but we're a very poor B track."

One good thing about the raceway's position — it can't get any lower. The only thing that can happen is it goes good things.

One of those good things happened Friday night. The track, for some unknown reason, attracted the heaviest bettors in its history for a regular night of racing. The handle was $63,529 for Friday's 13-race card. The only other time the handle was greater was at last season's Breeder's Finals when it almost $67,000 went through the betting gates. However, the Breeder's was a very special feature night for Quinte's raceway as a regular card with no features.

The strangest thing about the $63,529 handle was that there were only 780 people in the stands. That attendance mark is the lowest one for the a regular night of racing.

"This handle is just a fluke night," said Gowsell, "you can't really tell anything by a night like this."

Gowsell is hoping though that the boom will continue. This is only the third race night of the season and the big statistics seem to be pointing to an increase in the track's handle.

In the opening night, bettors clicked out $23,000 and last Friday the handle reached $37,000.

"I don't know why people are betting more," said the manager, "maybe its because

Orville Chatterton keeps a watchful eye on the Quinte Exhibition Raceway's new mazi lots board. Chatterton has been operating tote boards for the past eight years and travels from Orono to run Belleville's every Friday night. This is the nerve centre of the tote (there are several other sections to it as well). If anything goes wrong with it, racing at QER stops until it is repaired. Belleville's mark Steele (background) is the man in charge of maintaining the $32,000 computer.

QER in Bind

Since the Quinte Exhibition Raceway (QER) was forced to move up to B class this season, the local oval has had to have a facelift.

Two weeks ago, when the track opened, the first of the new features appeared on the scene. A $33,000 electronic tote board. The association behind the track, the Quinte Agricultural Society, had to take out a $30,000 loan to purchase it.

"There's no way we should be a B track," said QER manager, Ev Gowsell, "we may have been over the regulatory limit per race, but we just haven't the kind of money that's necessary to bring the track up to Ontario Racing Commission's (ORC) standard."

Tracks are classed according to how much is bet on the average per race. The limit for C tracks is $6,000. Last year the local track averaged $5,000. Because it exceeded the limit the OCR forced it to jump to B class. Betting it on the same scale as the much larger tracks such as the one in Toronto or Ottawa.

By moving up a class, the raceway has to secure, in the neighborhood of, attractive odds board valued at $30,000 and video highway television cameras (A and B class tracks have all races videotaped). This is valued at $40,000.

"The main objective of this track when it was started was to give rural people a chance to associate with urbaners, and vice-versa, chance for leisure time people to entertain themselves, to allow older horses a place to finish out their careers and young horses a place to begin and give the hobby racers a taste of competition," said Gowsell.

"We just don't want to go B," added, "we're just right for C."

With an overall remodeling bill of approximately $100,000 staring QER in the face and pressure from the ORC to get the changes done or else, the track has yet another problem. The new Bay Bridge project is supposed to plant its right smack in the middle of the exhibition grounds.

"We don't want to make too many changes in the track or purchase too much new equipment because we may not even have track in a few years" said Gowsell, "but we still have to do what the OCR says or we could lose our license for good."

The track only averages an annual return of $1,000 and most of that goes into the upkeep of the grounds and building. Where the money to keep the track from having to close its gates for good will come is a million dollar question.

When QER can't even afford a 200 watt set of equipment, they can hardly afford a million dollar answer. But right now it's the kind of answer, Ev Gowsell might offer to pay the million himself.

In any event, Gowsell considers the large handle a freak, but he's got his fingers crossed that it's in anticipation of an indication of what's to come.

Kerik Goes Two for Two

Constellation Carpets is the early team in the Industrial softball loop to win in the week old season and both of them are in pairs of Ron Kerik. Friday night, Maud Johnson fell to the Blue Carpetmen in a 18-4 decision at Alumite Park.

In the other half of the twin bill, Black Diamond and UIC battled into a 2-2 deadlock.

With just nine players in the lineup, Constellation crashed out 10 hits and ran their total member of runs scored to 18 in two starts. As in their 15-3 win over Canadian Tire Thursday night, they fell behind early in the game. Maud's was ahead 3-0 going into the bottom half of the third. But Constellation tallied a pair in that inning and four more in their half of the fourth to take the lead, one which they never gave up.

Kerik fanned five and walked three while allowing just seven hits. Like his first victory, he stood out at the plate again. Friday pounding a triple and a single.

Neil Geyer gave him a home run and a short and Blaine Mullins added a triple and a single. Brad Mullins and Glenn collected a double each.

Maud's went through three pitchers, while giving up 12 hits and 10 walks. Tim Woods had a triple and Carl Hall had a double and a single to top the losers.

BAKE GROUNDED

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals have asked the National League for permission to place pitcher Bake McBride on the 15-day disabled list.

Black Diamond scored twice in the fourth inning, but UIC rallied with one in the bottom of sixth to earn the tie.

Black Diamond only had two hits, but they took advantage of two walks and a couple of errors to score their runs.

Bill Healy had the five-hit attack of UIC with a double and a single.

Ron Bateman went the distance for Black Diamond and Ron Scanlon and Rick-Gallant split the duties for the home team.

Waiting Is Part Of Ali's Game

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Claiming that at 33 he is a young man, Muhammad Ali says he wants to give Joe Bugner "Joe Frazier, Jr." tonight. Furneaux a shot at his world heavyweight boxing title because the year is on.

Ali did not look so young for 13 rounds Friday night, when 23-year-old Ron Lyle appeared to be winning the fight. But he was that ended in the 13th, when Ali unloaded a barrage of hard punches that left the exconvict helpless and, finally, his one shot at fame and fortune ended in a few seconds of speed and power.

Ali, who had a broken over his left eye, at he came out for the 13th round—one in which he said his handlers ordered more rounds he would finish Lyle—credited his new strategy of wearing down his foe for the swift ending to a dull fight.

"I knew I was behind because he had thrown the most punches, but I came out serious to win all the rest of the rounds," Ali said.

At 33-0-1, Ali was the heaviest he's been for his 14 title fights, and he gave a lethargic performance in the first 12 rounds.

All said he wanted Lyle to wear himself out pounding him on the ropes, but when Lyle refused to fall into the trap, he went to the centre of the ring for the "Mirage-like dancing" that has doesn't thinking they can see him and they can't land.

Lyle, weighing 219, decided he was behind, and he came out for the fight should have continued. But that is not the way it looked to others.

All caught Lyle with a hard, right, right combination on the nose and staggered Lyle, who avoided a knockdown by falling against the ropes. Then Ali belted home a long series of rapid punches and follow-ups—more than 25 punches—that Lyle could not evade as he staggered.

All signalled for referee Tyrel Hernandez to stop the fight, and later said, "The man was not unconscious. He wasn't defending himself. I cannot kill a man. I could see in his eyes he was not there to be hit."

Hernandez finally stopped at 2:00 of the 13th round.

A crowd of 6,675 paid $254,672 to watch in person as a nationwide television audience saw the bout at home, the first time Ali has been shown on home television since 1966.

All collected $1 million for his second victory since coming out of prison for refusing the draft.

Lyle got $180,000 and now must face charges of second degree assault and felony menacing, in Denver arising out of an altercation with his estranged wife. Lyle already has served time in the penitentiary for second degree murder although he was released on parole and then pardoned.

Since becoming a professional fighter on release from prison, Lyle built a 30-3-1 record to earn a shot at Ali, who was then the No. 7 challenger.

Ali, now 47-3 with 34 knockouts, next is scheduled to fight Ken Norton in Yokohama June 30. "I'd like to fight Bugner, Norton and Frazier all before the year is over," he said.

Ali admitted Lyle hurt him with a powerful shot that left his eye but he didn't remember he is which round that happened.

Foolish Pleasure Today's Favorite

BALTIMORE (AP) — Foolish Pleasure has been installed as the 1975 horse in history to win both the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, and he'll be the favorite today in the 100th running of the second leg of the Triple Crown.

However, if he wins the Preakness, the Belmont still looms ahead for the only beaten son of What A Pleasure in his pursuit of the Triple Crown.

Seven times that same 3,000 miles west of Louisville, Native Dancer was a winner, the last four as he put down Georgia Hartack, by three lengths in the Kentucky Derby at Hialeah Park.

Always ridden by Sandy Hawley, Foolish Pleasure, who has won more than 2,000 races in his seven years as a jockey, Native Dancer has captured his four victories in a total of more than 11¼ lengths.

Trained by Phipps' Sleph has won six of his last seven races. His last came in the Heritage Stakes at Keystone in December when Chris McCarron piloted him to victory.

Hawley rides Foolish Pleasure for the first time today

Dad at his gave rest and
God's pardon must be bestowed,
For he was the best of fathers,
But we shall meet him in God's abode.

Several Causes For Dried Skin

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have extremely dry skin on my hands and feet.

They feel have cracks in them through every layer of skin, and they are quite painful. My hands peel in spots, particularly the tips of my fingers. I'm sure it's some sort of illness, but you have any clue that would be helpful? Do you have any ideas on this subject?—Mrs. I. M. C.

There are several possible causes of your dry skin, and since you are only 26, we might rule out one common one—age.

Low thyroid function (hypothyroidism) is marked by a coarseness and dryness in the skin, so you might be checked for your thyroid state. In hypothyroidism there can be an increased production of the hormones needed to put carotene into use. Carotene is what is called a "pro-vitamin," and when it is metabolized in the body it becomes Vitam A.

Since Vitamin A is essential to skin health, you may wish to consult your physician about the possibility of taking it as a supplement for your skin.

Diabetes, too, can be accompanied by the same Vitamin A deficiency.

There are other obvious problems, cracked skin, require some immediate attention as it opens the way for other to be serious. It may or may not be secondary to an underlying condition, such as the one I suggest above.

Skin, as you probably are aware, can vary considerably in its natural texture and resistance to environmental factors—soaps; detergents, chemicals, etc. I presume you are very careful about these things. Stockings and gloves can be sources of irritation, especially if your skin is sensitive to certain of the synthetic materials. Try wearing white cotton gloves for your feet, and see if that doesn't help.

If you cannot find the sources of irritation from such methods, you would be able to be checked for some of the other potential causes of your dry skin.

You, your problem is not uncommon, is inconspicuous, and you may find this as a test of your skin disturbances.

NOTE TO N.M.—Your sudden aversion at sex after your pregnancy is not normal, but it does occur to some women. It is almost always psychological. I suspect you had a difficult pregnancy and delivery.

I can only suggest you find some psychiatric help, since it seems to be destroying your otherwise happy marriage. Why not discuss it openly with your husband and your doctor?

New Stoppage Planned

Quebec Building Sites Busy Again

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec construction sites hummed with activity today, two days before a planned province-wide work stoppage by some members of the 230,000-member Quebec Federation of Labor (QFL).

Federation leaders urged the workers to return to their jobs, ending 11 days of illegal work stoppages aimed at protesting the implementation of recommendations in the Cliche reports on the construction industry.

One of the report's recommendations is that four union local affiliate with the QFL be put under government trusteeship in an effort to eliminate certain criminal elements.

A QFL spokesman said workers were asked to return "because it was felt it would be best if the men were working again when the trusteeships are imposed."

The federation will consider other means to oppose the trusteeships in the next few weeks, he added.

The work stoppages saw as many as 10,000 men off the job by Tuesday morning down most major construction projects in the province including the Olympic Games site and the new Mirabel international airport north of Montreal.

Work resumed on the Olympic Village Monday but the neighboring Olympic stadium site remained idle even though some workers showed up for work at 7 a.m.

A spokesman for the general contractor said the site was still closed until further notice because preparations to resume operations had not yet been completed. It is expected to open Thursday.

The QFL has estimated that as many as 150,000 workers will stay off the job Wednesday.

Those who have agreed to take part include the 25,000-member Canadian Union of Public Employees, the 40,000-member United Steelworkers of America, unions representing about 30,000 construction workers, 15,000 pulp and paper workers and 15,000 workers in service industries, QFL president Louis Laberge said.

The Confederation of National Trade Unions, (CNTU) which has 180,000 members across the province, voted Sunday not to order its members to join in the work stoppages.

About 200 delegates to a CNTU meeting in Quebec City decided, however, to let affiliated unions support or reject the walkout as they see fit.

There has not yet been any official response from the Quebec Teachers Corporation or the Central des Syndicat Democratiques, the other major union centrals in the province.

The general walkout is aimed at protesting labor policies of the Quebec government, particularly its failure to resolve the dispute at Pratt&Whitney of Canada Ltd., of formerly United Aircraft in Longueil, Que., where workers have been on strike for 17 months.

Thirty-four men, who last week occupied the plant, holding 18 hostages for four hours, have been charged with forcible detention, breaking and entering and mischief causing $250,000 damage.

Premier Robert Bourassa Sunday told a Liberal party regional convention in Drummondville, Que., the planned walkout is pointless as a settlement to the strike is imminent.

But Mr. Laberge told a news conference Monday he does not believe the government is ready to take the necessary steps to end the dispute.

The company would have to reinstate 1,000 strikers with full seniority, he said.

The trusteeship legislation which sparked the initial walkouts followed recommendations of the Cliche report, is expected to let the Quebec construction industry which named QFL-affiliated locals representing members, electricians, heavy machine operators and elevator constructors as corrupt.

The legislation was passed Friday. Mr. Bourassa said the names of trustees will be announced this week.

Legislation barring anyone with a criminal record from union office, also recommended in the Cliche report, is expected to be given third reading this week.

Despite mped production schedules, Olympics officials maintain Montreal will be ready on time. They remain optimistic that Games facilities will be finished on time.

Mr. Drapeau said Sunday, however, that Olympics costs will increase as a result of the work stoppages. Self-financing schemes such as stamp and coin sales, the Olympic lottery, tourist sales and television rights should take care of the extra costs with no added burden on the taxpayer, he added.

The Games were originally estimated to cost $310 million. Official figures released last January showed the costs had jumped to more than $800 million with the 70,000-seat Olympic stadium alone accounting for $400 million.

Boss Greets Mayaguez Crew

Cambodians Who Took Mayaguez Mutiny and Flee to Thailand

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Cambodian naval crew says it seized the freighter Mayaguez, unstalled against its Communist captain and sailed to Thailand seeking asylum, sources say.

Initial reports about the crew's account remained sketchy because of conflicting reports from United States and other diplomatic and Thai military sources. However, there was general agreement that a Cambodian crew had sailed to Thailand late last week and claimed responsibility for the Mayaguez capture.

Meanwhile, the Pentagon said it hoped to end confusion about U.S. losses in the Mayaguez rescue today. A third revised casualty report Monday listed five dead, 16 missing and 46 wounded.

One account of the story related by the Cambodian crew members now in Thailand said their ship was under the control of four Communist officers when it seized the U.S. ship Mayaguez and 40 men May 12 in the Gulf of Thailand.

Three of the officers boarded the Mayaguez and the fourth officer later was overwhelmed by the crew and thrown overboard.

Another account said five Communist officers were on board the ship and all were tossed into the sea.

Some accounts said the Cambodian ship arrived at the Thai seaport of Satthahip last Thursday as U.S. military forces concluded an air, sea and ground attack to rescue the Mayaguez and its crew.

Those reports said the Cambodian crew was part of the old Cambodian regime's navy and it asked the ship without orders from the new government to prove its support to the Khmer Rouge regime in Phnom Penh. However, it has since had a change of heart and took over the ship and sailed to the Thai port of Sattahip seeking asylum.

Other sources said the Cambodian crew was not loyal too the Khmer Rouge government in the first place and that it feared U.S. counter-attacks. However, one Western diplomat said the Khmer Rouge in charge of the vessel also feared retribution from their government for having prodded the U.S. into massive retaliation.

Thai officials are reluctant to talk about the incident because they wanted to avoid offending the Khmer Rouge government in neighboring Cambodia, sources said.

In Washington, administration sources said there were several discrepancies in the crew's story, including the fact its vessel was a subchaser while the Mayaguez was a freighter and there were captured by two small gunboats.

Another smaller vessel with 30 more Cambodians aboard was commanded by a Lieut. Chain Phen of the former Cambodian navy arrived at the Sattahip port May 18. Reliable sources in Washington then said it previously had been pressed into service by the Khmer Rouge to ferry troops from the Cambodian mainland to the offshore island of Tang.

Troops Enter Town Where Americans Held

SAVANNAKHET, Laos (AP) — Pathet Lao troops, tanks and trucks rolled into this Mekong River town to cheers of welcoming people today, and a dozen United States prisoners held in house arrest by left-wing students were reported "just fine".

Sanford Stone, 28, U.S. aid coordinator for the area, said a report all five Westerners in the town were safe despite radio reports received earlier in the day by the U.S. Embassy in Vientiane that said two aid officials had been led from their homes by a crowd.

There was no immediate explanation for the discrepancy except poor communications.

"We are just fine," said Stone, who has been in the area nine years.

"We are confined to our houses, but we have food which came on a courier flight Monday," he said. "We have never been asked to leave and we have never been threatened."

The peaceful Pathet Lao takeover of Savannakhet, which previously had been under control of rightists, came after two weeks of political upheaval in which the right-wing faction of the coalition government surrendered political power to the Communist-led Pathet Lao and neutralists.

Observers believe the entire country will fall to the Pathet Lao, which was reported moving into Pakse, another Mekong River town in southeast Laos.

Columns of students and other residents of Savannakhet, cheering and waving flags, greeted the Pathet Lao liberators, Rightist troops, after 20 years of fighting the Pathet Lao, joined the parade as the victorious column passed a checkpoint 43 miles from the centre of this provincial capital.

The Savannakhet residents and demonstrators in Vientiane and Luang Prabang have demanded an end to U.S. aid, and the embassy today offered to "modify, reduce or eliminate" economic assistance to Laos.

It asked the Laotian government to "meet these requests" in a statement of its policy toward the aid program.

Pathet Lao officials have said they will not withdraw orders from the new government approve its support to the Khmer Rouge regime in Phnom Penh. However, it has since had a change of heart and took over the ship and sailed to the Thai port of Sattahip seeking asylum.

Other sources said the Cambodian crew was not loyal too

Big Crowds at Parks Result In Thirty Liquor Charges

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The annual Victoria Day invasion of Quinte-area provincial parks resulted in more than 30 police charges this weekend, with the bulk of trouble at Outlet Township Park near Picton.

A spokesman for the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said Monday more than 30 charges were laid during the weekend under the Liquor Control Act and two additional charges of assaulting peace officers.

There were also a number of thefts, particularly of foodstuffs, the spokesman said.

Charged with assault are Edwin Victor Blondin, 18, of RR 2 Belleville and William Thornton, 21, of Oshawa.

Blondin has also been charged with causing a disturbance and being drunk in a public place. Thornton also faces a charge of resisting custody.

The police spokesman said all those charged during the weekend have been released on their own recognizance.

Jim Ivey, assistant superintendent of the park, said "this year was about the same as any other, except a lot of people are taking their beer bottles home. They're worth a nickel now."

A spokesman for the Brighton detachment of the OPP said the weekend at Presqu'ile Provincial Park had been quiet.

He said 19 charges under the liquor control act had been laid against 19 sailors.

Vandervaeter Conservation area was described as "very quiet with no charges laid," according to a spokesman for the Madoc detachment of the OPP.

Air-only Role In NATO Likely

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is expected to decide on the shape of Canada's NATO commitment in Europe this year and indications now are that Defence Minister James Richardson is leaning toward an all-air contribution.

The decision is one of several tough, expensive and interrelated ones that face the government this year as it studies the most effective long-term use of its shrunken armed force of about 78,000 persons.

These decisions in part revolve around the need for millions of dollars worth of new equipment and around whether the Trudeau government will carry through on its 1970 proposal to drop the tank.

All this is shown in statements during the last few weeks by the minister and military to reporters and in the Commons and the Commons defence committee.

The NATO question is being discussed as part of an over-all defence structure review, ordered early this year after the functions of the forces were referred as a "continuing" one to cope with personnel reductions of about 2,000 men. The cuts were made necessary by inflation last year.

Mr. Richardson has mentioned the main NATO options: Leave things as they are with 5,000 men in a mobile land and air force; change to a wholly land force; change to a wholly air force.

No decisions have been made, minister says, but his remarks with the decision is the need to replace—in five years or so—the CF-104 Starfighters now in use at Baden-Soellingen and the CF-101 Voodoos now used in North American defence.

The military has said it is considering the possibility of acquiring an aircraft that can perform both functions as well as taking over the land-combat role of the armed force's CF-5s, which have about 10 years of life left.

Acquisition of long delivery schedules the government must make a decision on replacement aircraft this year. The decision will be affected by what the government will do in NATO.

If it decides, for instance, that troops in Europe will be strictly a land force then it will not need such a sophisticated aircraft. If it decides to go the way the minister apparently would like it to go, it would need a highly sophisticated aircraft and a larger number of them.

BC NDP Backs Full Picketing

VANCOUVER. (CP) — Despite opposition from Labor Minister Bill King, the British Columbia New Democratic Party passed a resolution at its annual convention Saturday and Sunday calling for unlistered organizational and informational picketing.

The resolution, backed by the party's labor wing, was one of the few issues to create a split in party ranks at the convention which confirmed Premier Davis Barrett as party leader.

Labor spokesmen said the right to peaceful assembly and to disseminate information was a basic right long advocated by the party.

One of the supporters, Colin Gabelmann (NDP Vancouver-Seymour), cited the sale of "no-scabbo" grapes by Super-Valu stores. "I want the right to be able to shut down a Super-Valu over that issue if I decided to do this."

Chief Wants Mo-ped Legislation Changed

City Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said this weekend, if no other agency brings in restrictions on mopeds, he will approach city council for local bylaws to govern the vehicles.

Speeding of a type that a moped is that motorcycle, half bicycle. Though equipped with pedals, they are used only for starting the engine which can then move the rider along at speeds of more than 30 miles an hour.

Though the moped is considered a motor vehicle by the Criminal Code, special legislation passed by the province exempted motorists from the Highway Traffic Act.

"Fourteen-year-olds may drive the machines on either sidewalk or roadway. Helmets, insurance nor licences are not required.

"And that's foolish," said Chief Crosbie.

"Several police and affiliated associations are tabling a very firm view of the special legislation governing the moped," said the chief.

There have been three accidents recently with mopeds. The most serious left the rider with a broken leg and the most recent on Saturday sent a 15-year-old Deseronto girl to Belleville General Hospital with hip injuries.

"I think you'll see the province change its mind on the legislation governing mopeds," said Chief Crosbie.

The chief said he will be attending an Ontario Traffic Conference in Ottawa next Sunday and that if nothing gets done there about mopeds, "we'll have to look into it further," on a local level.

He said, as chairman of the resolutions committee of the Ontario Police Chief's Association, that mopeds and governing legislation will be on the association's June 22 agenda.

Parents Requested To Give Opinions

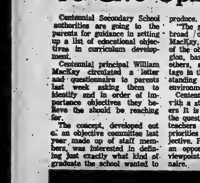
Centennial Secondary School authorities are going to the parents for guidance in setting up a list of educational objectives in curriculum development.

Centennial principal William MacKay circulated a letter last week asking them to identify and in order of importance objectives they believe the should be reaching for.

The concept, developed out o. an objective committee last year made up of staff members, was interested in defining just exactly what kind of graduate the school wanted to produce.

"The goal is a statement of broad direction," said Mr. MacKay, in the letter. Some of the objectives included religion, basic skills, concern for others, a knowledge of heritage in this country, an understanding of human needs and environment.

Centennial has 1,110 students with a staff of about 70 teachers. It is hoped the results of the questionnaire will help the teachers obtain a list of priorities for educational objectives. Parents will also have an opportunity to express a viewpoint on the questionnaire.



Motorcycle Crash Fatal

TRENTON — A Quebec man died Sunday night and two of his travelling companions were injured in Belleville General Hospital today — the result of a fatal collision on Highway 33, five miles south of here.

Dead is Wayne Rainey, 22, of Greenfield Park, Quebec.

In hospital are Peter Barr, 24, and his wife Wendy Barr, 24, of St. Lambert.

A spokesman for the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said Rainey's three were riding on two motorcycles when they came into collision, with an oncoming car driven by John Sabine, 21, of Consecon.

Mr. Sabine was taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital and later released.

Mr. Sabine was northbound on the roadway at the time, a police spokesman said.

Haggerty Wins Firemen Draw

Friday night a draw was held by the Thurlow Fire Department.

Corporal Peter Prins was the choice between a live steer, 960, or a propane barbecue with 20 lbs. of steak.

Couple Hurt In Collision

KALADAR — A single-car accident near here Monday sent an elderly Trenton couple to Belleville General Hospital with minor injuries.

The accident took place about 3.15 p.m. on Highway 7, about four miles west of here. The car, owned by Mary Burns, 67, of Trenton, went out of control, hitting several guard rails and came to rest in a ditch.

Mrs. Burns, her husband, Fred, 66, were taken to BGH. She was treated and released, and he is still in hospital in satisfactory condition today.

Damage to the car was $1,000 and no charges have been laid in the incident. Kalador OPP is investigating.

$458 for Fund From Society

On the Mark

Jim Graham adjusts the helmet of Kinmount Club soap box derby racer Allan Smith Monday before the youngster sped down King St. in Trenton during the club's 11th annual Victoria day event. More than 40 youngsters, both boys and girls under 15 years, participated in the derby, now an institution in Trenton.

Soap Box Derby Draws Big Crowd

TRENTON — Some hurt feeling and a few scraped knees and fin ever, but only for another year.

The Kinmount Club soap box derby ended Monday for the 11th straight year a success according to co-ordinators Jim Stone and Allan Russell.

All the ingredients for that success were there on a blockand-tackle hill on King St. Carry sparkled under the sun in candy orange and threatening black. Children and adults alike, an estimated 300 people, cheered for favorite.

Not one of some 40 entrants was an actual soap box, though some were close. Others were more sophisticated machines. Steering on the cars ranged from a sophisticated, welded steel mechanism, to the classic stand-by — a pieces of rope hooked to nails on the front axle.

The derby had its share of spills, but each hurt pride more than body.

It even had the right touch of controversy as several parents and contestants, ranging in age from 7 to 15, complained to derby officials over size of tires and width of cart bodies.

Officials let the rules slide this year but publicly announced that in 1976, specifications will be down for carts would be strictly enforced.

Car Hits Ditch

MARMORA — A single-car accident near here Monday sent the driver to an estimated day damage of about $2,000 to a car owned by Ian Robert Sutherland, 22, of Ottawa. There was no injuries.

Quinte OPP said the accident occurred at 9 a.m. about 2 miles north of Highway 401 on County Rd. 3. The car was northbound when the driver lost control trying to negotiate a turn. A charge of careless driving has been laid in the incident.

Soap Box Derby Results

After all, said Kinmoun Stone, the club tries not to be too strict. "We're stressing the fun aspect rather than competition."

Winners during the day's events were grand champion, Jerry Cannoe, who also took the best cart award and the junior class championship. Intermediate class winner was Tim Scaletti and senior class winner was Dick DeJong.

For the third consecutive year, Kim Scott won the girls' or Frender Puff competition. She competed in a field of 13.

Coins Stolen

TRENTON — Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville are investigating a theft at the residence of Robert Connell at RR 2, Trenton, which netted thieves $30 in coins containing in a box.

Police said today the break-in occurred sometime Monday afternoon or evening. It was reported at 11.35 p.m. Entry was gained through a window.

Constable Mike Demeitz is the investigating officer.

Pumphouse Vandalized

Cheshire Home To Get $150

Teacup reading and barrel organ music in conjunction with the Belleville Downtown Lions Club will net more than $150 to be donated to the Belleville Cheshire Home.

Gerry O'Shaughnessy, publication president, said the contributions from shoppers during both events will be turned over to the home this week.

Pickets Urge Grape Boycott

Picket lines will form at Belleville's east end plaza Dominion Food Store Thursday with pickets urging shoppers and the store to boycott the purchase of California grapes, which have not been picked by union workers, Doug Sweet, president of the Quinte District Labor Council said Sunday.

Some of the lunereast workers have formed the United Farm Workers Union but have run into bloody clashes with farm operators who have tried to break the union, Mr. Sweet said. The United Farm Workers have captured considerable sympathy in Canada with several churches and religious organizations including the Belleville Ministerial Association — supporting the UFW (United Farm Workers).

Mr. Sweet said Dominion was picked for Thursday's picket because, "it is the largest food store in Canada."

"We've had promises from other food stores that they would refrain from buying non-union picked grapes if Dominion did the same."

Visiting Belleville to participate in the day's activities is farm worker supporter Jessica Govea — a major figure in the union movement.

Miss Govea, along with Mr. Sweet, Sister Rose Marie of Nicholson Catholic College and at least one Nicholson student will approach the Dominion Store in Belleville Thursday afternoon and later in the day will move to Trenton Dominion outlet, said Mr. Sweet.

Miss Govea will speak twice during the day in the city — first to the senior classes of Nicholson College and later in the school auditorium at a public meeting.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m.

The same day, Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau will be speaking at Centennial Secondary School — a possible target from the grape meeting.

"Whether people come to our meeting is a question of social conscience winning over political conscience," said Mr. Sword.

Five Charges Face Driver

Glen Ross resident Jack Fraser, 21, has been charged with failure to remain at the scene of an accident. Failure to report the accident, careless driving, impaired driving and having alcohol content in his blood exceeding .08 following a hit-and-run crash on North Trent St., Frankford Monday.

Approximately $400 damage was done to a parked vehicle owned by Arthur Sumber of North Trent St.

The incident is being investigated by the Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Good Work Boys!

Trenton police commission chairman Hugh Campbell (left) presents Charles Dixon with a citation in recognition of the help he and three other young men gave police in the arrest of two men who broke into a Front St. store last November. In all, Trenton police presented civilian citations to seven civilians and an armed forces corporals.

Eight Honored For Police Aid

TRENTON — Seven civilians and an armed service's corporal were presented with citations Saturday for assistance each had given the Trenton police department in 1974.

Among civilians were four young men who played a significant part in the apprehension by police of two men who broke into a Front St. store Nov. 4 and stole three television sets.

Mr. Lidster saw the two men break the window and steal the television sets from the Ray McCauley Ltd. store, and informed Mr. Kotsovas.

Vandals Enter High School

Unknown vandals entered the new section under construction of Moira Secondary School at the corner of Farley and Victoria Avenues some time during the Victoria Day weekend causing minor damage, city police said today.

A police spokesman said the intruders forced plywood from two vent holes to gain entry on the north side into the new gymnasium where they bounced a fire extinguisher off the floor several times and spread the contents of a tool box across the floor.

Egypt Surprised World with Efficient Operation of Suez Canal

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

In the old days of the proud European empires in Africa, their local administrators sanctimoniously called Egyptian civil servants "Mickey Mouse" — deceptive, office shapers.

The prospect of Egyptians running the Suez Canal after the late President Abdel Nasser seized it from foreign owners in 1956, raised the level of Western opposition against Egyptians even higher.

The canal would silt up and the European shipping men and Egyptian pilots from a desert-bound, camel-riding tradition, would fail to steer the ships safely through the long Suez ditch.

But the old sneers and the world shipping industry were wrong, very wrong. The nationalized Suez Canal was operated by the Egyptians with an efficiency the European soldiers and former owners never developed.

This was because President Nasser picked an army classmate from the Staff Officers' College, logistics specialist Mahmoud Younes, as head of the new Suez Canal Authority.

By 1967, the canal's annual revenue rose to $140 million annually and had reached an outward of $300 millions annually before the Six Day War closed the canal in 1967 for eight years. This made the Suez Canal Egypt's largest single source of foreign earnings.

Canal Director Younes who admitted he never sailed so much as a rowboat, had a good deal about logistics and how to move ships. "I have no inferiority complex," he once said. "To me many present is a science anyone can master."

And now the Suez Canal, first opened with famfare by the Empress Eugenie in 1869, complete with an opera written for the event, is a reality. Younes' dream, "Aida", will open again June 5.

This date is the eighth anniversary of the outbreak of the Arab-Israeli War which closed it, silted up its channels and left about a dozen ships stranded in the Finger Lakes.

However, President Sadat may not do so well financially from the Suez Canal as his predecessors, Egyptian management has weakened during the closing. It became super-efficient which came along in strength during that event are just too old for the canal's ship size range between 60,000 and 200,000 dead-weight tons. The largest the canal can accommodate are about 70,000 dead-weight tons.

Nevertheless most of the world's shipping traffic is still made up of general cargo ships which will again be able to shorten their Asian and East African trips by going via the Suez Canal.

Initially President Sadat has forbidden passage of Israeli ships and presumably non-Israeli flag carriers which have cargo for Israeli ports.

One hopes in time the Egyptians will also raise this restriction. Egypt's prestige has risen to the reputation it once had for access to ships of all world nations.

Since rules charged for canal passage will be higher than in the mid-60s, President Sadat hopes to recover the same amount or higher from shipping charges, currency which his country desperately needs for economic recovery.

Meanwhile the Suez Canal's re-opening is filled with pageant. It was a U.S. Navy team of specialists in underwater clearing and dredging which has made possible the opening of a canal whose original construction was a major American achievement in give economic aid to Nasser.

And the canal bids by the European powers to shorten the sea routes to their former Asian colonies, has become the symbol of the Egyptian nationalism which the colonial powers long ignored.

Males on Way Out?

The male of the species — never mind male chauvinism — may be on the way out!

From Australia — birthplace of Helen Reddy (I Am Woman) comes another hammer blow at the ego and sexy existence of the increasingly embattled male.

An International Women's Year symposium in Adelaide was told that a world in which men were almost unnecessary now is possible.

Imagine . . . an almost entirely female world, with only a small bank of men as a source of semen. That was the possibility held out by a medical man at the conference.

Still, we doubt if women at large would want such a situation even if some might regard it as desirable.

Meanwhile, with everyone being so frank, we might mention another report on this general theme. A U.S. psychiatry researcher is reported as saying that women are turned on more by pornography than men. This being so, wonkin't it perhaps take much sexes to be around . . . for any number of reasons?

And here's another thing. A Trust personnel officer — a woman — has told a Kitchener audience that women are their own worst enemies.

"We have been individually competitive," she said, "since we were little girls . . . I honestly feel we have to learn to work as a team."

Stand up and be counted, men . . . you are not yet out for the count!

Poor Turnout

Remember a month or so ago when a teen-ager sitting in on a Royal Canadian Legion parade spotted the lack of things for young people to do in the community?

We remarked at the time there are a number of activities and recreations but that young people often want to be led by the hand to them instead of showing more initiative.

Well, last week the Quinte Arts Council staged a rock concert especially aimed at those young people looking for some form of entertainment.

Featuring Ian Thomas, one of the biggest names in Canadian music, the concert filled only about 200 of Centennial Secondary School's 800-plus seat auditorium.

Those empty seats speak for themselves.

Trudeau Government Appoints Pair of New Deputy Whips

By PETER LLOYD

OTTAWA (CP) — Two new deputy whips, including the 29-year-old freshman MP, have been appointed by the Trudeau government.

Appointment of Ralph Goodale of Assiniboia and Denis Pelletier (Gaspesy-Prescott-Russell) was announced last week to the Liberal caucus, but there has been no public announcement of the postings.

They join Charles Caccia (Davenport) and Lawrence Pennell to Tom Lefebvre, chief government whip. One of the chief jobs of a whip is to ensure there are enough members of his party in the Commons for votes and debates.

Mr. Goodale, a 25-year-old graduate lawyer from Indian Head-Wawota, is seen as a bright light in a Liberal government caucus that Prairie representation. The government holds only five of 21 seats in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

First elected July 8, Mr. Goodale is seen by Liberal backbenchers as eventual cabinet material. His new job is an indication of that.

A former special assistant and now a political protege of Saskatchewan Premier Allan Blakeney, he also is vice-chairman of the Liberal caucus transport committee and chairman of the Liberal caucus communications and constitutional affairs.

His ties with Mr. Lang are the cause for some jibes from the Progressive Conservative opposition.

"That's right, when Otto tells you to stand up, you stand up," shouted Jack Horner (PC-Crowfoot) during a Goodale question Wednesday. "When he tells you to talk, you talk."

Mr. Pelletier, a 34-year-old baker from the eastern Ontario constituency of Dalhousie, had been an MP since 1972. He succeeded his brother, Valeriy, as member for Gaspesy-Prescott-Russell.

The addition of two deputy whips came shortly after Mr. Lewis was the only Liberal to oppose publicly the 22 1-3-per-cent parliamentary pay increase proposed by the government and adopted by Parliament.

However, a government spokesman said Thursday the move was not connected with Mr. Caccia's newly stand amongst government MP's on that bill.

In fact, the Davenport MP had requested "two hard-working guys" to help in his job.

Deputy whips work mainly at keeping enough MP's on hand in committees and the Commons and in steering and refereeing Liberals do not lose any votes.

They also act as liaison links between the front and back benches, relaying any complaints by ordinary MP's about intra-party services in the office to Mr. Lefebvre and Government House Leader Mitchell Sharp.

Mr. Goodale is the youngest MP ever appointed government deputy whip, a post established seven years ago.

Ships Fall Victim to Planes

Recent years have brought news of the passing of many a fine ocean liner — victims of the heavy competition from the airlines.

Now a similar fate is befalling a smaller cruiser vessel in the shape of Canadian National Steamships' Prince George, known to many travellers on the Alaska route. One of the chief jobs of a whip is to ensure there are enough members of his party in the Commons for votes and debates.

The vessel, in service since 1946, cost a mere $3 million to build 27 years ago. To remain competitive in the market, a company spokesman says would require a new ship costing as much as $30 million.

And speaking of competition: CN now competes on the route with seven other companies.

The Prince George nevertheless has a busy last season ahead of it — 21 regular eight-day sailings from Vancouver up the coast, plus a special charter sailing at the end of the season.

After that, well presumably the other operators are making a go of things, and open sea, plus a view of one of the world's great coastlines will still be there for the enjoyment of tourists.

Mayor Willing To Step Down

Now that's what we call economizing!

When it was suggested that an escalator might be in order for that steep trip up city hall steps to the second floor, Mayor Robin Jeffrey had a cheap and practical solution.

Just move her office downstairs, offered the mayor, to bring her a storey closer to her constituents.

That's known as bringing government to the people.

Netherlands Facing Immigration Flood

By JOHN HAY

THE HAGUE (CP) — Imperial chickens are coming home to roost in the Netherlands, as thousands of colonial subjects are moving to the mother country in search of the good life.

Up to 1,000 a month, by the jetload, the immigrants are flying in from Surinam, which is scheduled to gain independence by the end of the year.

The influx from the South American colony already numbers about 90,000, government officials say. And the inevitable problems of housing, jobs and outright racism are cropping.

Some already identify similarities in Britain, another former imperial power where Asians and Africans have settled.

The Netherlands, with a population of about 13.5 million crammed into an area smaller than Newfoundland, the frictions are beating up the politicians.

The Netherlands government has years to go to unload the burdensome people mother-country citizenship complex with Dutch passports. Like other Dutch citizens they have a legal right to live in the Netherlands, and no independence appears likely to end that right.

Dutch officials argue that the migration is bad both for the Netherlands and Surinam.

The Netherlands already has a jobless rate near five per cent—high by its own standards—and the new arrivals often end up on the dole, deepening their rights to free housing and income support.

The immigrants are mainly East Indian, Creoles and Javanese-descended. Many were imported to Surinam decades ago.

As a result, complaints in Dutch newspapers and in parliament are rising. Might the Indonesia call incompatible habits of dress, diet and religion, references that seem barely to conceal hostility based on skin color.

Three Maritime MPs Voted Against Commons Pay Bill

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — New Brunswick is not a wealthy province, but two of its 10 members of Parliament, independent Leonard Jones of Moncton, and Conservative Robert Jarvis of York-Sunbury, voted against the pay increase that raised their salaries from an annual $36,000 to $44,666.

They, along with Andy Hogan, the New Democrat from Cape Breton-Scotia's Cape Breton-East Richmond, were the only MPs from the total 32 MP's from the Atlantic Provinces to at least go through the motion of voting — with their Commons votes — that like rules, which by 27,000 to $9,000 back-pay windfall, its last commission boosted salaries and privileges was just too much.

The vote set the Atlantic Provinces apart.

There wasn't a single "no" vote from any of Quebec's 74 MPs.

Only 12 of Ontario's as voted against the raise.

And but two of British Columbia's 22 voted in the negative.

So proportionately, the Atlantic Provinces stood out.

Here comes, on the next disadvantaged region of the whole country!

And Andy Hogan, like the good and faithful New Democrat he is, simply voted the party way.

That left the Tory, Bob Howie, as part of the loser in the Atlantic Provinces' representation the region among the 25 Honorable Members who voted "no" and lost hopelessly against the 291 in the "yea" column.

So how did he rise it up?

"I've been horrified" he reports, "since I began coming to Ottawa three years ago by the way the Members of Parliament sweep money like tomorrow's the last day of spring.

"I figured that if I voted against the raise, I'd be the only making an honest and conscientious — if quite pointless — effort to show my present masters how I'd oppose and vote against this kind of shoveling. . . .

It wasn't really the idea of an increase that he was opposed to, it was the principle, lack of proportion and his other disagreement with the bill.

Bob Howie would have been "happy," as he puts it, with a "catching up" raise that made the inflation gap since the last increase four years ago to be something like $3,000.

That would have brought parliamentary pay to $38,000, with no increase for the tax-free expense allowance, and no back-crying for the $9,000 slice of the $27,000 to $9,000 windfall.

Then, Bob Howie would have pitched the pay-increase issue to parliamentary pay to whatever the going rate might be for his old age pension.

That way, he says, "we could have been comfortable about it, knowing the taxpayers might go along now."

But now.

"Not," says Robert Howie, "with this $36,000 plus the retroactive windfall that averages out to $2,500, and in my case, makes me one of the highest-paid — along with a few professionals, bureaucrats and academics — Canadians people in my riding.

"It's an decidedly uncomfortable position.

"I think it's altogether wrong that we should vote ourselves this increase with other people's money."

And if his constituents think?

"I was being the other weekend to get a bush friend," he relates, "and I was worried about how many folks stopped me on the streets in Fredericton to say they think I did the right thing.

"People noticed. Maybe they'll remember how each of us voted."

Maybe they will — although, barring unforeseen political developments, the election is still three years away.

And memories are short.

Council Lacking Credibility

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Belleville's municipal taxpayers stand revealed for the first time as the ones who have to raise their salaries by $2,400 annually to keep them in the style of credibility they had built. One only has to listen to the level of debate and the often demonstrated lack of knowledge of their own procedural bylaw to know they are not worth it.

Congratulations, Mayor Jeffrey. She had the commendable courage to vote against public feelings in such a massive matter. Likewise, a tip of the hat to Councillors Vance Kandiko and Wally Dever — they know the electorate's money necessary in such matters is "hell hath no fury."

As usual, Alderman Meeks is quoted as making the most ridiculous effort to justify the increase. He says he feels that by raising salaries to this level perhaps the people will be encouraged to run. What rot.

Now what is all this nonsense about the city taxpayers having to bail the hall of vision and cheese party in Lake? Are these boys are going out to the bush or going as holiday makers? If not, I for one, will be most unhappy if this trip was an official visit on behalf of the people of Belleville. The place of worship is not only morally wrong, I believe, but also financially ill-advised.

My information is that many going on this trip do not reside in, or pay taxes to the city of Belleville. It is a shame and sin to underwrite this trip with such money as is going collectively to a hall for men when I visit what is left of the YWCA. If I had a choice between the bigger fish or this bush soon for years if I got the call, I'd choose the bigger fish in Lake.

Hydro Commission Has Its Own Way

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — There are some people, perhaps a good many, today who feel the big bank cannot get a break from government.

Such thought, of course, is prevalent in the NDP, Both its national and provincial policies centre around the big-business brent and "ripoffs."

But the feeling is not confined to the NDP.

In the other parties there are also those who react ostensibly and adversely to what they think is a government's political reading of a big-company balance sheet.

It might do well if some of these people talked to representatives of an organization called AROC—The Association of Direct Customers of Ontario Hydro.

It was formed in 1961 and since then has had one main objective.

That has been to get a voice, one small but yet a voice, in the operations of Hydro.

But has it been able to get anywhere?

No, despite its strength it has got nowhere.

The Association is made up of some 37 large companies, "big business".

Such companies as Du Pont, Abitibi, Dulco Carbide and Ford.

What makes them unique is that they buy their electrical power directly from Ontario Hydro.

And what makes them particularly impressive is that among them they consume about 40 per cent of all power produced by Hydro.

And yet they can't have one word in its management.

The present Hydro Commission is made up of 13 people.

None of these are supposed to represent any direct interest except two members who are elected by the Association's own Electric Association.

Donald Tisdale, minister of energy, says he wants it this way. That is to protect small people representing specific interests.

Yet wouldn't this be one hell of a way to run a battleship? You would get all your advice from the crew, two from the government and nobody from the engineers.

Nobody who really knows the battleship, particularly the engineering end.

This is one of those shortcomings of government and politics that are prevalent but that normally don't come to light. They add up to inefficiency.

New Arena Ice Plant In Stirling Tax Bill

By CHRIS ALMEY
Intelligencer Correspondent

STIRLING — There is a double surprise for Stirling taxpayers in the bank of fathers. Municipal clerk Robert Hulin has revealed in an interview that Stirling Council has decided to raise $51,000 this year through taxes for the arena ice plant and at the same time the village's levy has been reduced. However, with the county 5% rise in the education levy, the total tax bill will be up about $60 on a home assessed at $15,000 in the village.

The commercial rate set by Stirling council is down 3.88 mills, and the residential rate dropped 4.84 mills the clerk noted. Last year council raised $25,000 through taxes for the arena, another $27,000 capital for a backhoe and renovations to the new municipal offices.

Council would not commit itself earlier this year toward the arena fund until it knew the county and education levies, one reason being the probability of having to raise tax money to pay for new sewers and work on the lagoon system.

Stirling has commercial assessment of $2,198,325 and a large residential assessment of $4,397,385, for a total of $6,595,710. Mr. Hulin said that Stirling's assessment has increased by about $300,000 this year to date over last year.

Mr. Hulin said that council considered the $51,000 for the ice plant to be its contribution toward a new arena, since the ice plant would be moved from the present structure to the new district arena when it is built.

Council recently has a two-man delegation from the Stirling and District Business Association urging it to make a $25,000 commitment toward a new arena. Council was told that the business community wanted the arena built, and the matter could be finished in a short period of time and was not a 20-year project. The business men regarded the arena as an investment in the future of the community not an expense, council was told.

Marmora Hydro Billing Changed

MARMORA — Rural residents in this area have received notice from Ontario Hydro of a new billing plan which provides for payments on an accounts each fourth month on a meter reading basis.

In 10 years cover the next hydro bill will be issued on July 15. Thereafter Ontario Hydro will be reading meters every three months and have been in practice in the past, but will send a bill each month.

The first and second bills in each quarter will be for an estimated amount, with the previously non-metered of the Marmora Township area.

The third bill will be based on the meter reading and will show the total charges for the three months period less a credit for any payments made. Each quarter Ontario Hydro will prepare statements sufficient to cover any balance outstanding in each area.

A new meter reading schedule is also being introduced in order to further facilitate the meter reader's time. This change will result in the next bill being for a period of one or slightly shorter period. The regular quarterly billing will go into effect on the bill issued the next one.

Further details, if required, may be obtained from J. E. Stephenson, P. Eng., Manager of the Trenton Area.

Holiday Accidents Kill 86

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Five persons killed in a head-on collision near Victoriaville, Que., were among at least 86 persons who died accidentally in Canada during the Victoria Day holiday weekend.

A provincial total by Canadian Press at 6 p.m. Friday is subject Monday night showed 36 in traffic deaths, 16 drownings, four fire fatalities.

The survey also showed one girl killed when she was struck by a train, one boy scalded to death by steam from an exhaust heater safety valve, one electrocution, a boy killed by a bolt, two deaths involving power-driven tractors, an accidental shooting by a gun, and two deaths in "other causes" and four not specified.

The 86 traffic deaths with 20 during the week, bring the unofficial total since Dec. 27 start on Canadian roads so far this year to 464.

The Canada Safety Council estimates that between 90 and 94 persons would be killed in traffic accidents over the holiday weekend depending on traffic conditions.

But last year, 86 persons died in traffic during the Victoria Day weekend. The worst Victoria Day weekend was in 1973 when 97 persons were killed in traffic accidents.

No Junc Vote

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Hinde and his family were at their cottage in Georgian Bay Monday but had no idea which he could cast a vote when and if an NDP motion of confidence did not go before midnight. Family First OTTAWA (CP) — Family life will continue to be the first concern of women but their contribution to society do not have to be sacrificed for that cause, Grace MacInnis, NDP MP for Vancouver-Kingsway, said Monday. Mrs. MacInnis said in an interview that Canada has a great deal to offer the world in establishing women's status in public life. She cited Scandinavian countries that women first received the vote, where women first obtained the office of premier.

Fewer Migrate

WASHINGTON (CP) — The flow of Canadians migrating to the United States has dwindled to 3,500 from 6,000 within the last 10 years, figures in the annual report of the state department's visa office show.

The report, released Monday, says Canada, which has about a quarter of a million immigrants into the U.S. in the last 10 years, is among only 13 countries that sent fewer immigrants than the number during the same period.

Teachers Restless

TORONTO (CP) — The chief negotiator for Ontario's 28,000 separate school teachers says province-wide strikes or confrontations might be necessary if they fail to protect their rights.

Cocaine Popular

TORONTO (CP) — R.C.M.P. drug investigators say the popularity of cocaine is increasing and the drug is being used by business and professional people.

Staff Sergeant Tommy Hind of the RCMP drug section in Montreal says the police agencies have moved into cocaine because the profits are as high as heroin, the chances of being caught considerably less and cocaine is easily available to almost anyone who wants to buy in South America.

Trustees Want Migrants Culture Taught

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto school trustees' work group report on multi-culturalism says the study of history, heritage and contributions of immigrant and racial groups should be prominent in the Toronto school curriculum.

The report, to be presented to the Toronto board of education tonight, says that ethnic and racial groups believe their cultures have been ignored in the curriculum, especially in social sciences.

The school system developed to meet needs of an English-speaking majority but new demands have been put on the institution by the number of immigrants settling in the city, the report says.

Dandelions: Live with Them

By ROSS HAWKINSHAW

Today I'd like to review one of the issues I've received quite a few letters about. Dandelions in your garden, a plague on a global basis, have become a complete paradox of opinions.

Millions upon millions never get it and do nothing about it, except by it. Millions of dollars are spent each year. In fact one estimate said 30% (yes 30%) of every lb. used, mostly packaged, will find its destination in the garbage.

It's confirmed the world over as a "weed" and yet it's the "cuisine" of nations since Hannibal and Leif Ben Jon Jon ate other vegetables in the garden.

Still I'm sure you haven't guessed, I'm referring to the common dandelion!

Now you may be among the kind of gardeners — but for gosh's sake don't tell anyone I'll just happen to survive — who will not be bothered by the few opposition that will appear in my corn but my hand rake which will be used to free the dandelions from their buried heads. And what a protection they have established. Their roots are so bitter that practically nothing seems ignore them like the plague. Try to dig them up with the lawn mower they won't produce. Spray with chemicals and that the mower can't touch them, but it will grab, they'll just shatter it and then but if they haven't it, to polish the lawn. Well there is everything they have to do to reproduce their kind and they'll do.

Apply a weed killer and I guarantee you they'll give up their seeds before they'll die, never give up. And then when another crop appears in the fall, you'll remember that they are the seeds that germinated in the spring. Dandelions are the perfect weed. Then during the following spring and then you'll have to tackle them again. The fall crop is a direct relative of the spring dandelion with the name of the Fall Hawkbit, August Flower or Fall Dandelion.

Now, for the dandelion gourmets, we'll have some recipes later for its use in food preparation. But if you're starting the dandelionwars, all you want to do is dig out or pull of them, and stay rid of them, you'll have to do it before the flower then staying rid of them.

A good herbicide applied in late May is a start. Also, there other applications in the fall like the Fall Hawkbit. And that doesn't mean you can't dig out all. As long as you have dandelions around it is the best method, even the hand-rake of years ago, you're going to get some, but after two or three years of regular herbicide applications you'll find they will likely be enough.

Now, if you don't want work in digging them out by hand, fill it will do it, give you some satisfaction, and save money. Admittedly, it's not easy, but forewarned and heading, not a bad job. Now for the recipes I promised you.

Dandelion Greens: Select young leaves, fresh and crisp. Wash well in several changes of cold water. Drain well and cut into bite-sized pieces. Serve with your favorite dressing or dress with vinegar, salt, pepper, chopped onion and crumbled bacon. Cook the greens quickly with a dash of olive oil. Drain well and season with vinegar and pepper as an accompaniment to fish, the Greek Orthodox way. Boil the roots, mix the boiled leaves with butter, chopped onion and garlic, add salt and pepper to taste. Delicious!

Dandelion wine: All flowers are removed and will be preserved. Please do not spray them or later may be used in a future column. Simply address your queries to Ross Hawkinshaw, The Intelligencer, Belleville.

South African Park 'Sold' Conservationists

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (CP) — The whole country is getting involved in an unusual conservation scheme set in the Cape Province.

Through the private, non-profit Kaross Foundation, anyone can "buy" a share in the conservation of part of the national heritage.

For as little as 10 cents, purchasers can become "owners" of the Karoo Park in the southwestern corner of Cape Province. For $25 they get 250 acres.

Instead of a receipt, the foundation hands out one of a set of 20 art stamps at a "price" of 10 cents — every 10 cents invested in Karoo.

The effort to save the Karoo for future generations comes none too soon. Once, it is estimated, about 100 million springbok inhabited the area. Now it is a protected animal surviving in small herds on farms. The hartebeest, which used to number in the thousands, has become rare. The zebra has been wiped out.

On top of this, the Karoo is a naturalist's dream, with unique flora and fauna. It is also said to be the only location where a complete record of prehistoric animal life, both plant and animal, has been found between 200 and 300 million years ago.

As part of the reconstruction animals such as springbok, eland, springhaas and Cape mountain zebra will be released in the Karoo, nature conservation is being combined with the preservation of historic buildings and the Karoo's traditional Cape-Dutch design can be found there. The town has about 7,000 people, three may be Johannesburg.

STAMP ISSUE SPECIAL

LONDON (CP) — The British Post Office has announced special issue of stamps to mar European Architectural Heritage Year, the culmination of a three-year campaign promoted by the Council of Europe to awaken the interest and pride of Europeans in their common architectural heritage. Five stamps will show scenes of Britain's finer architecture and go on sale on April 3.

Maple Syrup Could Be Important N.S. Product

HALIFAX (CP) — The maple syrup industry in Nova Scotia, currently valued at about $60,000 annually, may become an industry worth millions, says Lands Minister Marvin DeLay.

"That would happen if the 30 million acres of sugar maples in the province are developed to the point where they are producing their potential of more than one million gallons of maple syrup annually," Dr. DeLay said.

At current prices, the industry would constitute a great "dainty 'of tremendous proportions and importance," he said in an Oct. 1971 when 3,300 gallons of maple syrup and 8,9 pounds of maple sugar were produced.

A study was recently carried out under supervision of the lands department by Timberlands Woodland Services of St. Agathe des Monts, Que., a firm that specializes in forest management and development practices.

The report embraced all phases of the industry from preparation of the sugar bush and tapping trees to manufacturing and marketing the product.

The firm also detailed the economics of the industry following 30 months of work studying potential in five municipal counties and all of Cape Breton Island.

TRACES PRESIDENCIES

LONDON (CP) — Burke's Peerage Ltd., the acknowledged authority on the family histories of British royalty and aristocracy, is bringing out a new edition of Burke's Presidential Families of the United States of America. Covering the lives and backgrounds of American presidents from George Washington to Gerald Ford, it traces the lineages of the presidents from earliest recorded ancestry.

New Cancer Drug Undergoing Tests

KINGSTON (CP) — A new drug which may kill certain cancer cells without poisoning destruction of normal tissue is being tested at Queen's University.

Unlike many other anti-cancer drugs, Alpha TGH is only activated by certain cancer cells, said Dr. G. A. LePage, director of the university's McLaughlin Cancer Laboratory and the scientist who first developed the drug almost accidentally before coming here three years ago.

"We have an unusual situation in which we can poison the cancer cells with no toxicity to the normal body," he said in an interview.

Dr. LePage said he has not been able to explain why the drug affects some cancer cells but not others. It may relate to differences in the cellular makeup of certain individuals.

"It is common for anti-cancer drugs to be quite toxic to normal tissues," cells bone marrow where white blood cells are produced, the lining of the gastro-intestinal tract and skin and hair follicles.

The drug is being tested on 15 to 18 patients at the Dr. W. W. Cross Cancer Institute Dec when all conventional therapy has failed.

Since the tests are just the first phase of studies required before the health protection branch will approve the drug for general therapeutic use, Dr. LePage said he could not be given to the patients in search of a cure to improve their condition.

"This isn't therapy, it's carefully preliminary testing to determine levels of what happens to the drug when it is metabolized," said Dr. LePage.

"The tests are to determine if any harm is done and so far there is no physiological evidence of that."

The researcher said another three or four patients must be put through the tests, be which they volunteered, before toxicity results are presented to the federal health protection branch.

But studies on human breast, leukemia and hyperchoma malignant cells indicated the drug might be effective in treating between 10 and 30 per cent of cancers of the blood-producing organs and a smaller percentage of breast cancer cases.

Quinte Cuisine

Gladys Tesseron is one of the teachers at Belleville's Special Nursery, and is enthusiastic about her work with young children who need extra attention and guidance. A graduate of Loyalist College's Early Childhood Education course, Mrs. Tesseron, her husband John and young son Jeffrey moved to Trenton from Alberta in 1972. This recipe, one of her mother's favorites, is also from "out west" and a new twist for rhubarb lovers.

Rhubarb Relish

one quart rhubarb
one pint vinegar
one tbsp. salt
one tsp. cloves
one tsp. allspice
one tsp. curry powder
one quart onions
four cups brown sugar
one tsp. cinnamon
one tsp. ginger
one tsp. cayenne pepper

Chop the rhubarb and onions quite finely. Add vinegar, brown sugar and spices and simmer together for about three hours. Care should be taken that it doesn't scorch.

This relish makes a great Indian dip if it is put through a sieve or pureed in a blender just before serving. Like many relishes, it improves with age.

Do you know any good cooks? The Intelligencer is looking for cooks in the area willing to share their recipes with our readers. If you're a good cook, or if you know one, write The Women's Department, The Intelligencer. Be sure to include his or her address and phone number.

Engagement

The engagement is announced of Linda Ivy Coleman daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Coleman, Trenton, to Wallace Harry Cosick son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cosick, Belleville. The wedding will take place Saturday, June 7 at 2 p.m. in Grace United Church, Trenton.

Today's Child

by Helen Allen

NORMIE

Normie seems to live in an atmosphere of smiles. A happy-go-lucky boy, he often looks as he does here and it's infectious. Just looking at the picture you're bound to smile back.

Normie, 8, is a handsome lad with lovely dark eyes curly, almost black hair and brown skin. He is of black and white parentage but information on his background is limited.

In excellent health, Normie is an active fellow who loves rough games. He is big for his age and well co-ordinated, so he may be a good athlete. He likes wrestling, playing ball and swimming. He is taking lessons and has no fear of the water.

Normie is in kindergarten. He joins in all the activities but is happiest in a language development class where there is one of only three students. In this setting where the teacher has a lot of time for each child, Normie really blossoms. He becomes quite talkative and reveals a good sense of humor.

At present Normie is considered in the low learning range but is expected to do better when he has parents to encourage him and spend a lot of time with him.

Though he doesn't appear to be unhappy in a crowd, he looks a bit lost. A mother and father prepared to be loving, sharing companions for him will find him responding warmly.

An easy child to care for, Normie eats well, sleeps well and is amiable and co-operative.

Heart-touching Normie needs parents who like younger children and preferably not more than one or two older ones. Surrounded by love, stimulation and much individual attention, he will quickly reach his potential.

To inquire about adopting Normie, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station X, Toronto M4P 3E3.

Handicapped Kids Get Pool Time

A donation from the Knights of Columbus, Order of the Alhambra Caravan 169 in Belleville, has given the Parents of Handicapped Children the assistance they needed.

Now they are able to provide one hour of swimming a week for their children at the YMCA, thanks to the funds that pay for pool time and two instructors.

Helping the instructors during the swim period are the parents themselves, and several volunteers, many from the First Adventure Nursery. Each Thursday afternoon these adults give one-to-one care for each of the handicapped children, for whom the water activity is excellent physical therapy.

The donation, raised mainly by Knights of Columbus bingo games, has given the newly-formed parents' organization the boost it needed to get the swim program going, says Janice Mangan, one of the active members.

"We are so happy about this, we're hoping that it will expand and continue throughout the summer," she says.

Parents of Handicapped Children is a group especially concerned with the welfare of young pre-school children.

Ann Landers

'One Shot, You're Shot'

Dear Ann Landers: I was so pleased to receive in your advice column the letter from Bob, because I was a drunk for many years. I'm 45 now and sober. I'm not an alcoholic even though I was hooked for three years. I started to go to A.A. at 27.

I have every reason who has a drinking problem and thinks he doesn't can control it. I can't say that it was so bad I couldn't stop, but I know I couldn't control it. I'd start out straight on Friday and stagger home Sunday. Period.

I'm a 16-year-old high school junior and male. I babysit for two families who have met. The little boys would much rather have a big girl around than a girl when their parents go out.

I've had experience taking care of baby brothers, so I can even diaper and feed my young set "client" who is right months old.

Apologize, will you?—Anti-Bias

Dear Anti: I'll do more than apologize. I'll RECOMMEND male sitters to parents who have adolescent sons. I did several years ago, and it turned out to be the ideal solution.

A mother wanted to hire a boy to sleep by 10-year-old son who insisted on a certain 16-year-old red-headed sitter. No one else would do. So she started to nag his parents to "please go out and enjoy yourselves." My suggestion was: "Hire a GUY." They took my advice and wrote to say it solved the problem.

Dear Ann Landers: I think your advice is crazy but I'm writing anyway.

I'm a girl 16 and not sorry if I prefer girls or boys.

It all started when I was 12 and my parents were divorced. My mother was always stronger than my dad and she treated me more decent. He was a weakling and I actually hated him.

Dad drank heavily. When I started to date he used to beat me up a lot. Now I have a hard time liking boys, or trusting them. Almost every guy I go with begins to remind me of my father after a while. I enjoy girls much more and am comfortable with them. Especially one. What's with me, anyhow?—Gay Or Not.

Dear Miss M: Although you think my advice is crazy, I'm answering anyway.

I believe you have a strong preference for girls and it started long before you began dating.

If you want to be straight, which I doubt, intensive therapy might help. I advise counseling in any event. You need to talk out your feelings about many things that came through in your letter loud and clear.

Trustees Want Immigrants' Culture Taught

TORONTO (CP) — About 300 Toronto feminists and their supporters marched from a Queen's Park rally Saturday to protest what they describe as the federal and provincial governments' lack of support for the women's rights movement.

Demonstrators in co-ordinator Sandy Stoughton, a community worker for the Young Women's Christian Association in Toronto, said the march was "a response to the sexist attitude of the federal government's International Women's Year program.

"We want to bring together people who can see through the phoniness of the Why Not campaign."

He accused the Ontario government of discriminating against female civil servants and suggested Premier William Davis "clean up his own backyard."

The rally was organized by the May 10th March Committee, a coalition including representatives of the Mayor's Task Force on the Status of Women, Daycare Reform Action Alliance and Abortion and Contraceptive Committee of Toronto.

Anna Fasken, 78-year-old president of the Congress of Canadian Women, told the gathering they should fight for their rights.

"Women's liberation is a concern of society as a whole," she said.

Demonstrators carried placards demanding support for a variety of causes—equal pay and opportunity for all working women, free daycare centres and free abortion on demand.

Several banners called for the release of Dr. Henry Morgentaler, the Montreal doctor recently convicted and sentenced for performing an illegal abortion.

Women Must Learn to Use Power

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Flora MacDonald says women in Canada need more to grow with their reluctance to enter the power structure of politics.

The Progressive Conservative minister of Parliament for Kingston and the Islands was speaking Sunday as a panel member at a political awareness seminar.

She said politics is not the only field where women must learn the structure of power as well as of service. She cited labor and corporate fields as some areas into which women must break.

Many people, she said, would rather have a female as prime minister than as finance minister because control of finance is where the power is.

Miss MacDonald said women had been isolated too long with "the Florence Nightingale syndrome."

To serve was good, she added, but it wasn't enough.

Miss MacDonald, a potential candidate for the national leadership of the Progressive Conservative party, criticized the media which, she said, reported trivia but failed to analyze major plankments by women when dealing with women's political roles.

"It's a case but game where the rules are totally unclear," she said. "I don't know how women can try for positions they haven't tried for before and be treated by the media. I'm sure they will be treated in a different way than male politicians."

Brazilian Comedy Deals with VD

By MICHAEL ARIUS

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuter)—A new Brazilian comedy about venereal disease is raising laughs from Rio de Janeiro to Copacabana.

But behind the laughter generated by The Venereals Make Some Consent the grim fact showing a sharp increase in the incidence of VD.

European health authorities have called the health ministry with the names of Brazilian partners said to have passed on syphilis to foreign tourists during visits to the country.

Syphilis seems to be widespread in Brazil with some reports putting number of cases in the provincial capital of Salvador at 1,200 cases.

In view of the alarming statistics the federal health ministry is studying a campaign to combat venereal diseases.

The play, by one of the country's leading comic writers, Jose Bethencourt, deals with a husband who has a sexual adventure when he is on a month's provincial tour.

On his return, he is sure he has contracted gonorrhea but does not know how to break his wife's advances and they make love.

Subsequent tests confirm that he has VD and with typical South American machismo his contrition turns to jealousy as he imagines his wife going with every man in town to avenge herself.

As his jealousy grows, he imagines his wife has already contracted the disease from a sundry and cries out in anguish: "And now she's the only man in town who slept with her without paying."

In the final act he forgives. The man whom the husband imagined as his wife's paramour turns out to be a transvestite.

It is impossible to get reliable statistics on venereal diseases in Brazil, because many cases are treated privately and not reported. But Brazilians also have great faith in the idea of self-cure and will often buy from a pharmacist drugs he believes suitable, for whatever disease he thinks he has.

Prescriptions are not properly required in pharmacies, in these cases also go unreported. But some delay in face Brazil, the country's biggest city, have reported increases soaring by hundreds of per cent from year to year.

In Rio de Janeiro in 1968, fewer than 1,000 cases were reported. In 1973 the number approached 10,000 and it has steadily increased since.

There has been no major publicity campaign to combat VD because the health ministry is planning to start one now.

Newspaper columnists have attacked the lack of public education programs and facilities for treatment. Doctors have ascribed the sharp rise in VD to the general relaxation of sexual taboos in the permissive society.

Doris Clark

She Tested Date's Motives

Dear Doris: I am married for 39 years to a wonderful man who loved and respected me for being me. When married he let his hair grow "civilized."

A few fellows took me out for the sweet reason until I confessed how to test their motives. The Christian Youth Centre where I spent much of my off-work time gave membership for social work, recreation and Bible study without a need to be attached to anyone.

When I was asked out, I laughed the fellow to scorn at the Youth Centre at a specific time for a specific activity. If he didn't show, I was not stood-up, but if he did he could see my standards for a date activity. It was there that I met and was courted by my husband.

If a person had other interests — drama, classical music, etc. — he probably won't. The main thing is to enjoy developing yourself as a person.

My husband-to-be and I agreed about this. We found that if we kept our interests we concentrated on each other as individuals and developed a firmer base for marriage when it was mutually agreed to go ahead. The real temptation, but there always will be in some, is to learned to counter it with positive thinker and, of course, much prayer. Now we have no regrets in that area to haunt us.

A Reader.

Dear Reader: It seems to me the very best marriages are built on long-term friendships and mutual interests.

Physical attraction is a transient thing, the inevitable excitement on which many a marriage has eventually foundered.

Scientists Dismantle Hay Fever Protein

FULLERTON, Calif. (CP) — The battle against hay fever caused by ragweed pollen has been advanced by two immunologists, one in Canada, the other in the United States.

Dr. Lawrence Goodfriend of McGill University, Montreal, and Dr. J. D. Capra of Southwestern Medical School, Dallas, Tex., reported in Biochemistry magazine that they have succeeded in sequencing—chemically dismantling—one of the proteins which causes hay fever.

Knowing the sequence of amino acids — the chemical building blocks of proteins — which make up the hay fever allergen protein allows researchers to study the parts of the molecule which cause hay fever's runny nose and itchy eyes.

Proteins are made of strings of amino acids. One protein may contain as many as 100 amino acids or more.

"The real problem," Capra said, "was getting a small amount of pure allergen from ragweed pollen."

It took Goodfriend one year and about four pounds of ragweed pollen to get 1/2 of an ounce of the pure substance, Goodfriend says — techniques have improved; obtaining pure Ral allergen today isn't quite so difficult.

Now that researchers know the sequence of the allergen protein, two tasks remain.

The first is to determine the three-dimensional structure of the allergen molecule. The second is to determine which parts of the structure are active sites. The active sites are responsible for hay fever's symptoms.

In a telephone interview, Capra outlined the current line of research he and Goodfriend are pursuing.

"Only a few of the amino acids on the allergen are probably responsible for the hay fever symptoms. If we can discover which ones are 'active,' we can substitute, similar, but non-reactive amino acids in a synthetic molecule. These substitute amino acids would duplicate the molecule in every way, except for the hay fever symptoms.

"The new, non-reactive allergen would be mass-produced. . . . Such synthetic . . . could potentially be [illegible] into hay fever victims. These modified allergens, which would be harmless to the body, might stimulate production of protective antibodies and neutralize the (hay fever) allergen. In the future, any time the individual encounters active hay fever allergens, they would be destroyed by the antibodies.

"The whole procedure would be like getting a smallpox or any other common vaccination."

How far away is this type of hay fever cure?

"We should see this kind of cure within the next five years," Capra said.

Seniors Enjoy Songs

Austria Headquarters For Hashish Smugglers

VIENNA (Reuter) — Austria, poking like a long thumb into Communist Eastern Europe, has long been a convenient base for spies, smugglers and gun-runners plying their risky trade between East and West.

But in the last few years, Austrian authorities have had a new illicit traffic to contend with—hashish smuggling.

Austria lies directly in the path between the hashish-producing lands of the Middle East and the pot parties of Southern Europe.

Police have known for a long time that the route from Lebanon, Iran and Turkey to the lucrative evening grounds of West Germany, Holland and Scandinavia cuts across the centre of the country. But only in the last three years has there been an organized effort to stop it.

In February 1977, Austria established a central police force fighting drug abuse and smuggling throughout the country which has formed close links with the International police organization, Interpol.

The main target was to plug the Austrian connection in the hashish trail. The Lebanon has also had many problems with hard-drug smugglers. But the heroin handlers rarely touch Austrian soil except elusively in transit at Vienna's Schwechat airport.

The initial effect of the department was impressive. Whereas in 1971 less than 220 pounds of hashish were confiscated, in the year the department was set up 4,840 pounds were seized.

"Until the bureau was formed, Austria was regarded as an easy thoroughfare," said Ernst Hoffmann, head of the Vienna-based drugs department. "People would just drive in and out with no fear of being searched."

Hoffmann, an alert, white-haired professional detective with 32 years of police work behind him, seems to enjoy thoroughly his cat-and-mouse game with the smugglers.

He was chasing small-time dealers in Vienna for seven years before the national squad was set up. His delight is the growing success of his young department which forced the hashish transporters to change their methods as soon as it was established.

Until then one vehicle and one driver were used to bring the drugs in, across and out of the country. Hoffmann's squad introduced rigorous border checks on cars and trucks with certain number plates and the smugglers were forced to adopt a more complex and costly chain system.

Under this method one vehicle brings the goods in, another takes them in a storage depot and another delivers them to West Germany, the investigators said.

Hoffmann's department, which numbers 60 men spread throughout the country's nine provinces, was temporarily fooled by the more complex method and the police catches decreased in 1977. Since then its grip has tightened again.

More than 3,300 pounds of hashish have already been seized in a series of highly publicized cases this year.

Bees Seen Hazard To Alberta Drivers

EDMONTON (CP) — With nine trillion bees buzzing around Alberta, there is growing concern about their relationship with the automobile during the summer.

Dr. Ulf Soehngen, supervisor of apiculture with the Alberta agriculture department, says he has received several complaints regarding the apparent lack of concern by some beekeepers about the possibility of honeybees flying from beeyards that are too close to roads.

Dr. Soehngen said there have been documented cases in which an accident has been caused when a bee suddenly exploded against a car windshield leaving a sticky, opaque mess several inches in diameter. This could be deadly when the vehicle was cruising at 90 or 70 miles an hour.

In other cases, drivers had been stung by a bee that had been sucked into their cars through open vent windows.

Dr. Soehngen said the problem is that beekeepers need ready access to their beeyards, so placing colonies near roads is an advantage.

At the same time, beekeepers know that the mortality rate in colonies — there are about 180,000 of them during the peak summer months in Alberta, each with about 30,000 bees — is high when they are located near highways and roads.

The solution suggested is that beekeepers locate apiaries on high ground overlooking roads. This means that the bees will fly over passing traffic rather than through it, except perhaps on windy days when they stay close to the ground.

Another suggestion has been to place bee colonies behind a screen of bush or dense trees so that the bees have to fly up before crossing the highway, or to make a barrier out of snow fencing.

Mill Effluent Can Be Cleared

SASKATOON (CP) — University of Saskatchewan researchers have developed a method of removing color from pulp-mill effluent by treating the effluent with fly ash and hydrochloric acid.

The acid releases chemicals in the fly ash which react with the coloring material, causing it to settle out. The residue then can be used for land fill.

The method has worked well in laboratory tests. If it proves feasible on a large scale both the pulp and power industries benefit since huge quantities of fly ash are accumulated by burning coal to generate electricity. The economics of the method are being studied to see how it compares with other ways of color reduction.

Government Tries to Reduce Strikes

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is moving, but slowly, to modify the collective bargaining process to try to cut down on the number of strikes.

Some labor leaders are calling for federal action to promote industry-wide bargaining as one means to slow down industrial strife.

Ontario lost a record 9.5 million man-days in 1974 because of strikes and lockouts.

Finance Minister John Turner has singled out labor as prime contributor fuelling inflation because of large wage settlements. Several major unions affiliated with the Canadian Labor Congress (CLC) have turned down government proposals for voluntary restraints of wage rises of 18 per cent or $2,400 a year.

Commenting on the current federal drive for a voluntary restraints program, the CLC said the government should try to remove political roadblocks that forbid bargaining on a national scale.

Last time is generally made up by higher end wage settlements. Mr. Turner says the economy's ability to compete is declining because wage settlements are running much higher than in the United States and other major trading partners.

He warns Canada could be on the same path as Britain. There, hourly wage rates have shown a 23-per-cent rise over the last year while prices have gone up 21 per cent and industrial production gained just under two per cent.

Arab Image Said Wrong

TORONTO (CP) — Ralph Stewart, Liberal member of Parliament for Cochrane, says the Canadian image of Arabs as terrorists results from misrepresentation in newspapers, radio and television.

"I believe this has been done purposely and that most Canadians have been seduced by the media into believing that an Arab, whether he is a Palestinian, whether he is the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), whether he is Al Fatah or whether it is an Egyptian, no matter . . . if it is anything to do with Arab, the whole thing is put into the same little bag and that is equated with the word terrorist."

Beach Riot Is Quelled

SAUBLE BEACH, Ont. (CP) — Provincial police charged one man with attempting to incite a riot and public mischief and laid more than 200 charges under the Liquor Control Act during the weekend as 10,000 persons jammed into this resort area.

About 25 provincial policemen used riot sticks to break up a disturbance Saturday night in the community about 30 miles west of Owen Sound after a group of campers approached a police roadblock, throwing stones, beer bottles and sticks.

Sgt. Len George said no one was injured, except for one policeman who received a bruised leg after being struck by a rock.

About 1,500 persons camped along a village road as both private and provincial park campsites were filled by late Thursday.

Police said nineteen accidents, six involving motorcycles, were reported during the weekend. Eight impaired driving charges were laid.

Six drug related charges were laid, five involving marijuana and one involving hashish.

Sgt. George said after the local Saturday, the regular police force of 13 was increased to 28 by Sunday night.

The sergeant said 15 police cruisers were damaged during the weekend, including four with cracked windshields.

Police said many persons left the area early because of the disturbances.

Four Face Liquor Charges

ALLISTON, Ont. (CP) — Alex Robertson, spokesman of nearby Earl Rowe provincial park said Monday that overcrowding by young people created a tense situation at the facility during the holiday weekend.

"Sometimes by young people made it miserable for the rest of the campers," he said in an interview. "It is a bad situation all around. This year it definitely worse than last year."

About 40 persons were charged with liquor and "theft over" offences, he said.

How Ontario Pork can add a delicious new dimension to these famous dishes, as well as your own.

The fact is, because of the subtle, rich taste of Ontario Pork, you can substitute it in almost any meat recipe and the result will be a delectable change. The dishes below are succulent examples of that, since each of these international favourites has taken on a delicious new dimension just by adding pork instead of the meat that is normally used. It only goes to show that with a little imagination and Ontario Pork, today you can enhance your favourite recipe and tomorrow the world.

Pork Stroganoff

1½ pounds pork tenderloin
salt and pepper
3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons butter
2 medium onions, chopped
½ pound mushrooms, sliced
1 can (10-ounce) condensed consommé
1 cup dairy sour cream

Cut pork tenderloin into thin strips, 1½ inches long, ½ inch wide. Season with salt and pepper and dredge in flour. Melt butter in a hot frypan and sear meat until it is no longer pink. Put meat to one side of pan. Sauté onion and mushrooms for about 4 minutes. Stir in consommé; simmer 15 minutes. Mixture will thicken slightly. Add sour cream; stir until smooth. Serve immediately over fluffy rice, buttered noodles or mashed potatoes. Makes 6 servings.

The secret of great stroganoff is to use very tender meat like pork tenderloin.

The Star-Spangled Porkburger

1½ pounds lean ground pork
1 medium onion, finely chopped
½ teaspoon celery salt
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons oil or bacon drippings

Combine ground pork, onion and seasonings. Shape into 6 patties, ½-1 inch thick. Heat oil or bacon drippings in heavy frypan. Cook patties for about 6 minutes on each side until golden brown and meat is done showing no trace of pink. Makes 6 servings. For flavour variations: use ½ teaspoon dry mustard; or ½ teaspoon garlic powder; or ½ teaspoon each of oregano and savory instead of the celery salt.

Serve porkburgers in heated crusty rolls with mustard relish or apple sauce or chili sauce and crisp lettuce. For a change try serving your porkburgers topless on a toasted bun half with apple-horseradish sauce (made by blending together equal parts apple sauce and sour cream and sharpening with horseradish to taste); or top pattie with hot pork and beans, mustard, Waldorf salad, sauerkraut or dill pickle. There simply is no end to the flavour combinations that go with pork.

Pork Cacciatora

¾ cup olive oil
1½ pounds lean pork cubes
2 medium onions, sliced
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
1 small green pepper, chopped
1 can (28-ounce) Italian tomatoes
1 can (7½-ounce) tomato sauce
1 chicken bouillon cube
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground thyme
¼ teaspoon ground oregano
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 bay leaf
¼ pound fresh mushrooms, sliced in half

Heat oil in large frypan. Brown pork cubes on all sides. Remove pork and keep hot. Cook onions and garlic until tender. Add remaining ingredients and stir to blend. Cook 5 minutes. Return pork cubes to frypan. Cover and simmer slowly for 40 minutes until sauce seems well blended. Remove bay leaf. Add mushroom halves. Simmer, stirring occasionally for 15 minutes more until mushrooms are tender. Serve very hot with well-buttered spaghetti. Makes 6 servings.

You Can Breathe Easy Again Jimmy

Jimmy the Greek I ain't. I figured the Macs would win Game 3 in Belleville Football League start this weekend. I had them 3-0, I had the numbers right — just in the wrong order.

However, I forgot to leave a margin for the fact that the guys bought played any official games together before. And that they are still feeling each other out. My mistakes.

"It was mental mistakes that did it to us," said coach Harold Reid. "We just have to work them out of their systems."

"Once they settle down we'll win our share," he added.

Based on that prognostication Harold I will eat crow and not mind too much. After all there are 21 games left in the season. The Macs have got the sticks they just have to get rid of jitters and get used to playing with each other and the mental lapses will disappear.

Belleville lots three games this weekend, but U they had of played Rawleas ball, or cut their errors in half they likely would have won three.

Oh well, that will come with experience. In any event, Jimmy the Greek won't have to worry for a little while yet — I haven't quite perfected my system.

SLICES — A little apology is necessary. I stated in my column last week that Wood-stock forfeited the last 10 games of the season. Not so. They simply played and lost them. Sorry. Warriors have weeded out the old boys this year and brought in young blood.

That's why they pushed the game last Saturday back and eventually won 2 Saturday night. Not that I'm complaining. I just think it's funny.

Another apology is necessary. I stated in my column last week that Harold Reid would be the third man in the Macs ball pen.

Wrong — Tim Isler is the man.

In a recent meeting of Bay of Quinte Soccer Referees Association, it was decided that all league games will operate under one ref and linesmen. The association is 25 strong, but most of its members do not have enough experience and by putting them on the line it is hoped they will improve.

Another major decision brought about by the meeting was to clamp down on the fouls — both playing and verbal — in order to help them clean up the league.

President of the Bay of Quinte Soccer Association (BQSA), Peter Crevits, stated on behalf of the league that the referees would have to cut their toes down if BQSA teams are going to be able to afford them. He said that the $19 paid to a ref and $4 for linesman was far too much. He said the league is in the red and 32 travel expenses paid by league teams to referees going to Cobourg and Port Hope respectively, eliminated.

Crevits said that in the future, the association should start looking for soccer boys to help out officiate their games!

Errors Cost Macs First Three OFL Games

When Belleville was accepted into the Ontario Football League (OFL) the question everyone was asking was if we be able to hit the pitching in this league?

That question was answered most adequately in the first game and when the McDonald's opened their regular season with three losses. What no-one had anticipated was the Macs' batting games because of defensive lapses.

"It's the last thing I expected," said general manager, Doug Adams.

figured we'd lose games because of mistakes. All these guys have proven because of times that they can play great defense."

Nevertheless, the Macs lost

to Woodstock 6-5 in 11 innings Saturday night and 1-0 and 8-2 to Kitchener Sunday night all because of errors.

"They were mental errors," said coach Harold Reid. "There were a couple of fielding errors, but mostly they were mistakes that could've been avoided."

"It's the case of settling down," added Reid, "they just need time to jell. Once they get rid of the jitters and get used to each other then mistakes just won't happen."

Saturday's game was a heart-breaker. Everyone in the ball park, Belleville and the losing club, figured the Macs had it shoved. Woodstock tallied four runs in the first inning because the Macs were playing their worst defensive and two pass balls were the ball gatekeeper was the Macs' undoing. Woodstock's first inning. The Warriors panicked out a couple of singles and after that, all hitting it was 5-0.

After three or four innings, the locals appeared to have settled down and in the fifth Steve Ing connied their first run after crashing a triple to the centre field fence.

The Macs added two more in the fifth and sixth and appeared to have the game under wraps until the top of the sixth.

Woodstock used three designated hitters and two designated runners in their half of the ninth to score three runs and send the contest into extra innings. The tying run came across the plate on a wrong ball hooper by Pat Hardy and an error — the second one of the inning.

The Warriors catcher, Doug Cain belted a triple in the 11th and scampered home on Ben Hamelin's long fly to centre field. That did the Macs in.

Wake lost the loss fanning 12, while waking five and giving up 10 hits. Bill Fields was the three free hurler and 10 Mac hits.

Kelly Wagler was the winning hurler. He struck out seven, walked none and gave up three hits.

Terry Gallemore took the second game for Belleville as Reid pulled Bob Ethier. The Evergreens cracked up two runs in the fourth inning on a single, a triple and two Belleville errors. The visitors added another in the sixth. Hoffman scored the winner in first game and made his presence felt in the nine by driving in the winner with a triple.

Belleville McDonald's first baseman, Frank Robinson, stretched a long way for this catch, but K wasn't quite far enough as this Kitchener Evergreen outfielder beat out the infield drive. Robinson was flawless in his play on first and hit well for the Macs, but even his efforts weren't enough to stop the hot Oshawa Kodak Orioles. Bob Ethier was the loser as Kitchener touched him for seven hits. He gave up three free passes, issued seven. Ted Wall came in in the sixth and surrendered a hit while fanning three in the first inning and a half.

The Macs play again this Thursday in Newmarket. The two leaves at 5 p.m. from Al-exville Park and spectators are welcome to make the trip.

Saturday Belleville plays Burlington in a doubleheader at Alexnite Park and Sunday they are at home to Hamilton in a single contest.

Yardmen Lose Three to Scarborough

Purinaettes Win BDLSL Opener

Striking for five runs in the top of the seventh and final inning, Purinaties broke up a close game to record a 9-2 victory over Ellis Construction in the opening game of the Belleville and District Ladies' Softball League, Sunday.

Playing at Centennial Park, Purinaettes found themselves trailing by a 2-1 after four innings but got three runs on the board in the top of the fifth and wrapped it up in the seventh.

Jane Sally slammed a lower left fielder row, and three singles to pace the winners at the plate. Sandra Claus belted a triple for the Ellis entry.

Sandra Fleming got the win, going the distance on a six-hitter. She struck out two and walked three. Claus was the loser, allowing 12 hits, fanning one and walking seven.

Other Belleville ladies, Scarborough Juniors scored three exhibition wins over Belleville Yardmen Beauts' Final of the Belleville and District Ladies' Softball League.

Scarborough fanned 7-2 and 4-1 wins, Saturday, and completed the sweep with a 6-4 decision, Sunday.

In the opener of the set, John Sexton pitched the win for Scarborough. Jean McFarlane and Cheri Smith collected two apiece for the winners.

Sunday, Reid again chalked up the win as Clem and Colliver shared the Belleville pitching. Sharpe and Reid led the winners' hit parade with three each. Dorothy Trevis notched two singles for the home side. Donna Lucas checked in with a double.

Tyreman Brothers Take Shakedown

TRENTON — As shakedown races go, Saturday's Trenton Yacht Club race co-ordinator Dieter Bennewitz could not have asked for better conditions.

With the single day event. It was fresh. It had good strong winds from the south.

The only trouble in the race was rather — one boat capsized, but in skipper was able to right it, and go on to place second at the finish line from among the 28 competitors.

Placing ahead of Lazer skipper Peter Orr from Bells-ville was Trenton sailmak Yacht Club were Dave and John Tyreman from Trenton placing first among sailboats with boats was Belleville Dick Ritter in a Viking.

Obviously, then, the race was run under a handicap system. Mr. Sweck said the handicaps are set in such a way as to encourage a variety of boats as possible to come out to the sailing scene for first local event.

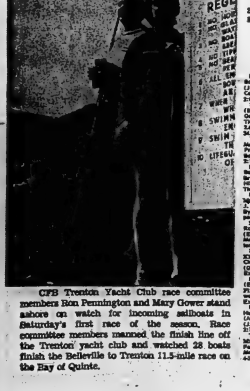
The shakedown race is not highly competitive, he said. For many sailors, it's the first time this year they have been out on the water, as the regatta is structured rather than the competitive aspects of the race are emphasized.

Ron Pennington, race committee chairman, said the organization is to insure that some boats cross the starting line but not to worry about who wins.

All the fields line, for example, the Tremton, two forgot to finish last out in the Bay of Quinte. However, as the strange markers are dropped in the course of the approximate two hour race, the markers shifted and the boats became only by the change, continued to mark finishing boats, but not the course itself.

In this the third annual shakedown race, the number of three courses was chosen for coordinator Bennewitz. Sweck said the course, chosen at the minimum of the race, the race Saturday, was restricted to the Trenton area.

Placing third over-all were Trenton's Thompson brothers in an Alleycat; fourth was Dick Ritter in the Viking; fifth was Freeman Burrows of Belleville in a Cowells, and in the Lazer Chester's did was Dr. Ken Douglas of Belleville, also in a Viking.



CFB Trenton Yacht Club race committee members Ron Pennington and Mary Gower stand ashore on watch for incoming sailboats in Saturday's first race of the season. Race committee members manned the finish line off the Trenton yacht club and watched 28 boats finish the Belleville to Trenton 11.5-mile race on the Bay of Quinte.

Newcomers Look Good

Both new entries in the South Hastings Baseball League opened the season on the right foot, Saturday.

Playing at home, Deseronto shaded Melrose 3-2 while Frankford downed Stirling 5-1.

For their opener, stopped Plaine's Concrete 5-1. In the other Saturday game, Latta scored a 9-5 win over Read.

A fourth contest was cancelled when Reserve dropped out of the league.

Complete details on the Deseronto-Melrose game are not available.

Spencer Says Sabres Will Square Series

BUFFALO — Brian Spencer says the Buffalo Sabres will not play well in the first two games of their Stanley Cup final series against Philadelphia Flyers.

But the Spencer, in contrast to the Sabres, says they will battle and in the series this week on their home ice.

The Flyers took the opening game of the best-of-seven National Hockey League final last Thursday and won 2-1 on a goal by Bobby Clarke's goal at 16:48 of the third period providing the only scoring punch.

The rookie centreman bought at Buffalo's War Memorial Auditorium and the fourth game is also scheduled here Thursday.

"They were not hitting us after the Clarke goal," Spencer said. "They were not letting us shoot. So we just have to outhustle them which we haven't been doing.

Personally, I'm disappointed. I don't think we played well at all. I'm not going to change my mind about that. I don't think we played the way we can."

Spencer said the Flyers had given the Sabres a thorough job of battling up the Sabres' attack in the first two games.

"We've just to having to find to get going to the puck. They were not letting us do it. They wouldn't give us any room. We've got to play a little tighter and we've got to press them in their own end.

"They are a very well disciplined club. They play a hard checking game and good, fundamental hockey. They pressed us in our own end and we made mistakes."

Spencer, 27, acquired early in the third period Stanley which tied the score 1-1. Rogatz Lund had scored the opening goal for Philadelphia in the second period.

Spencer, considered a good defensive player, now has four goals in playoff games and had 11 goals and 18 assists in regular season play.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Rookie Bruce Lyons and veteran Tom Bigelow qualified Sunday for next weekend's Indianapolis 500 auto race, bumping Al Loquasto and Rick Mather from the 33-car lineup.

Lyons, a Scotsdale, Ariz. race driver, averaged 187.466 mph. a little more than 3½ mph. faster than last year's qualifying field.

The leader was A.J. Foyt, the four-time winner who, last year, won his fourth pole position, but he's standing for an unprecedented fourth victory.

Joining him in the front row for the start of the 500-mile race here on the first race at 11 a.m., EDT, will be Gordon Johncock, winner in 1973, and Bobby Unser, 1968 champion and runner-up last year to Johnny Rutherford in 1974, who will be in the third row with Billy Vukovich and Mike Mosley. aircraft after Nick Dudley lost control of his plane in the middle of the semi-final series against Philadelphia.

"There's no way I can accept playing for somebody named Bud. I can contribute to this club. I want to play. I've got a family to feed.

"It's up to the coach, but I didn't let him play last. I'm not happy when I'm not playing."

Defence coach Floyd Smith said Monday that Dudley, a 31-goal scorer during the regular season, would not play in the Rangers' game here tonight. Dudley hasn't left his home since he was told his contract terminated the Montreal set in the second period of their semi-final opener on April 27.

He missed five games of the semi-final and the first two games of the final.

"That hasn't the right now," Smith said. "He'll play regularly."

Smith did not say who he would sit out to make room for Dudley's return.

Tonight's match will be televised in Canada on the CBC network, starting at 8 p.m. EDT.

Rangers and last coached in the minor leagues for the last two seasons, became the 16th man to coach the Rangers and the third hired for the job by general manager Emile Francis. The others were Alain Cauderon in 1965 and Larry Popein in 1973, each lasted three months before they were replaced behind the bench by Francis.

"I don't know the reasons for the first two departures," said Stewart, who has a clause that I'm not here as a three-month hockey."

Stewart has the security of a two-year contract, but then, so did Cauderon and Popein.

"I'm here to do a job. I'm where I wanted to be and I'm going to do the job to my fullest."

Stewart comes to the New York organization with a dedication to defensive hockey—the kind of defensive hockey he insisted to have gone out of the Rangers' game last season in the organization. Stewart, who they succeeded 236 goals, third highest, will be in the third goals conference.

"They have a strong defence corps," he said. "I'm not setting anything they can't do. All they're to do is believe in the system. I'm not asking that they win every game 1-0, but I believe the team has to play more defensive-minded hockey. And just because it doesn't work in the early goals, I don't mean it won't work most of the time."

After 12 years with Toronto Maple Leafs, Stewart moved to Boston, the Rangers, St. Louis, Vancouver and Detroit before retiring after the 1972-73 season with 236 career goals and 519 assists. He was a part in the Los Angeles organization, Springfield in the American Hockey League played 1973 after a fourth-place regular-season finish.

Goodfriend and Popein, who were fired at the start of the season. What makes Stewart feel so sure?

"I got along with everybody from the organization," he said, "I have an understanding that I have with the organization for the running of the team on the ice. If things go wrong, blame me."

That's exactly what happened to Goodfriend and Popein.

Records Dive at National Swim Championships

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian records shattered 30 times and four Commonwealth records at the 10th National Swim Championships ended Saturday with the swimmers, coaches and officials unanimous in their praise for the facilities provided by the city of Winnipeg.

"This is the greatest setup we've had anywhere," said Bill Yorzyk, executive director of the 1978 Olympic Games in Edmonton.

"Only in the greatest setup could you expect records to be set," said Yorzyk, who was also chef de mission of the Canadian team at the 1976 Montreal Olympics.

"Canadian swimming is now ready for Moscow," said Talbot, a former coach of the Canadian national team.

He said he would train a team here for the 1980 Olympics if he had to, but certainly hopes the team has to be but certainly shows promise of being a great Olympic team, particularly in the women's events.

"Even the men's team, which I'm usually very critical of, has the quality very evident at last night's session," he said. "I'm pleased to see the men's team coming back to get down to world standard."

Many of the credit nods go the feature of two-and-three-metre diving boards, which were used for the first time in a national swim championship.

Paul Ellis and Canadian Olympic veteran Debbie Brock starred in capturing five and three gold medals, respectively, in the 10-metre and 3m-metre individual and synchro events. Ellis also won the 200-metre backstroke and 400-metre individual medley events.

"There is probably the most versatile male swimmer in the world today," Tracy Fraser, coach of the Carabelle Swim Club, Vancouver, said in the 200-metre backstroke, 400-metre individual medley and 200-metre butterfly events.

In total, 15 of the meet's records were set by Canadians.

Cathy Carr, 15, of Calgary, Olympic veteran competing in her first national meet, set records in the 100-metre and 200-metre individual freestyle events.

Hemmeter Still Hopeful Namath Will Sign with WFL's Winds

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)— The yearling World Football League franchise may whether big free-agent quarterback Joe Namath will make the jump from the National Football League New York Jets to the WFL's Chicago Winds.

But WFL President Chris Hemmeter said Monday that it will be a while before the decision is made public.

Winds owner Eugene Pulliam said his first face-to-face meeting with Namath here Monday night, after day-long discussions among league officials and backers of the Winds and Namath's lawyer, Jimmy Walsh.

Hemmeter told a news conference in Birmingham that the meeting in Tuscaloosa, where Namath owns a popular restaurant, was a big step. "It's important that Joe meet people he is going to work for.

The WFL has been reported to have offered Namath a five-million, multi-year contract with the Winds, including $100,000 a year for 20 years.

The Jets, with whom Namath has played out his option, are reported to have offered him a $1 million pact. The quarterback signed with the Jets in January 1965, fresh off the University of Alabama team, for a then-fabulous $400,000.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the Jets said Monday night: "We have made Joe a substantial offer. I guess like everybody else, we just have to sit and wait for Joe to make up his mind. That's all we can do."

Namath's decision, Hemmeter said, would be known internally by the league, "but we'll keep it confidential unless he wants to make the announcement." That probably would come in Chicago, he said.

Asked if he thought Namath might be playing the WFL after all, Hemmeter replied: "I don't think so. The NFL is reasonable and conservative, they know Namath's value to that league, and we know his value to ours. Our offer is reasonable as far as this league is concerned.

"I am optimistic. Our offer is substantial, and it is hopefully unlikely that it would not be given full consideration.

"It's almost an emotional offer. Namath and his advisors feel comfortable with its security. Negotiations are complete at this time. Namath relies on Mr. Walsh, he will make the ultimate decision."

Drapeau Faces Firing Squad

LAUSANNE, Switzerland for non-cense recities to accusations that the Canadians are in deep trouble.

Under IOC rules, the committee cannot "take" the Games away from Montreal, nor can it violate terms of the contract with Montreal by approaching other centres with contingency plans. Only Montreal can voluntarily withdraw, and the apparent consensus among IOC delegates here is that Lord Killanin has not reached during the current deliberations.

Worrall, a strapping, silver-haired man of 60, who once captained Canada's bobsled at the Olympics, said after emerging from a four-hour meeting of the nine man IOC executive board that "I'm not going about as planned."

He also denied reports here that the Canadians had appealed for a 24-hour delay in presenting their report Wednesday, the day a general strike is planned in Quebec.

Mayor Drapeau, who left Montreal Sunday night, stopped off in Paris and was due here today, as was Jacques Rousseau, president of the Canadian organizing committee.

Other IOC delegates take great comfort in recent assurances by Canadian spokesmen that they would do "the honorable thing"—that if Montreal found it could not cope it would announce its withdrawal in time for organizers to look elsewhere for a suitable site.

In that event, Mexico takes top place among speculation as the 1976 Games, successful host to last year's Asian Games, also is mentioned.

Master Derby Wins Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) — The 100th Preakness went to Master Derby over this best race Master Derby ever ran, but it sure was the biggest purse I've ever won," trainer W.E. (Smiley) Adams said.

"I guess the Louisiana Derby was his best race, but this one wasn't bad . . . not bad at all," Adams said.

Held 1½ to 2 lengths off the lead in the first half mile, Master Derby moved on Native Coast—ridden by Sandy Hawley, Canadian champion, Oxo—in the turn and won Saturday's race by a length.

"I told my rider (Darrel McHargue) don't get back," Adams said. "He was a little closer than I thought he'd be, but I wanted him to have a horse to look at."

"You know, it be gets out to trainer LeRoy Jolley said. "But I could tell he wasn't handling the race track."

The first three finishers along with fourth-place Prince Thou Art, fifth-finisher Avatar and sixth-place Sleuth now are expected to head for New York and the Belmont June 7.

However, the Cincinnati Enquirer quoted Adams as saying Master Derby may skip the Belmont for the $150,000 Ohio Derby because Mrs. Verna Lobman, the horse's owner, originally is from Ohio.

Adams flew Master Derby back to Louisville, where he finished fourth in the Kentucky Derby two weeks ago and said he'll decide about the Belmont later this week. "But probably be there for it."

Jolley was still stalling today about the condition of the track and the carnival atmosphere that surrounded the 100th Preakness.

"Master Derby won it because he runs good on a bad track," Jolley said.

CANADIAN TIRE

. . . Canadian Tire still makes your Tire Dollar GO FARTHER!

A. CONTENDER—Similar in construction to tires on new cars 1965 to '69, except our Contender is 4-ply Polyester instead of the usual 2-ply. A stable fibre for less tread-squirm, longer tread-life, no-thump' starts.

B. STANDARD—for economy linked with quality. Like new-car tires of the early '60's, but instead of the rayon used then, now made with twin-ply Du Pont 66 Nylon. Meets or exceeds gov't safety standards. (Insurance, $1.00 a tire).

C. THE WHIPPET—Shaped like a Radial and best-suited for high-speed highways. Twin-ply Du Pont 66 Nylon body-cord, 50% stronger than that used in regular 4-ply tires—for a cooler running, cushioned ride.

D. SAFETY 99 CONVENTIONAL—Built for speeds you'll never need! Constructed of Nylon—the mainstay of aircraft and racing car tires—using 4-ply stronger-than-ever Du Pont 66 for double safety. (See Nevada Test results in our stores).

E. SAFETY 99 LONG CORD—High performance 4-ply Nylon in Du Pont 66, with low-cord angle-plies like racing cars. A great replacement for belted tires, capturing most of their handling and mileage. 22,000-Mile Treadwear-Rated.

F. TURNPIKE WIDE-TRACK—4-ply Polyester, cool-running, long-wearing... the smooth-riding fibre with great stability, no overnight thermal set and extra durability.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

ARIES (March 21 - April 19) For Wednesday, May 21, 1975: Don't assume today that what is good for you will also benefit your associates. Their interests and yours will be miles apart.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You won't trust responsible matters with the sweetest they deserve today. A problem that could have been solved will stay with you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You tend to be extravagant today. Guard against foolishly squandering the part of your budget earmarked for necessities.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't expect more from family members than they're capable of displaying for reason or perform like actors.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll be wonderfully fruitful today that you won't get the credit you deserve. Tooting your own horn too loudly may offend some.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Procrastination in attacking an old problem will only magnify its effect in the future. Be wise. Work it out now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You have a choice today: Decide your course of action or others will do it for you—not to your best advantage.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't be too free with your advice today. You'll end up doing the whole job for one who is smart enough to give you his worries.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Traveling in the wrong company today will prove expensive for you. You're in top form for free-loading friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20) Proceed with caution today where an ambitious project of yours is concerned. The foundations are beginning to show a few cracks.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19) Waste no time trying to sell a person who is negative at your ideas. Find yourself a more-receptive prospect.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be wary of slick salesmen or con artists today. You could buy something you don't need for more than you can afford.

Win at Bridge

Make 10's and 9's work for you

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Anyone can take a trick with an ace. Almost anyone can put his kings, queens and jacks to work. The expert goes further and works with 10's, nines and sometimes even lower cards.

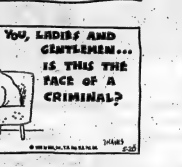
South's normal technique is to play the king or queen of spades from any of his three. East will take his ace and undoubtedly will shift to the king of clubs. Later South will get to discard either diamond or club on dummy's other high spade. But that one discard will be completely useless and the defense will score another ace or ivory.

South can make the contract easily by just putting the 10 and 9 of spades to work.

He plays dummy's three of spades at trick one. East wins the cheap trick with the jack and shifts to that same king of clubs.

South takes his ace; plays the king and queen of trumps. He overtakes the queen with dummy's ace and leads dummy's king of spades.

East can do no better than to play his ace. South ruffs, enters dummy with a third trump and discards two clubs on the two good spades. He still loses two diamond tricks, but he has made the contract.



The bidding has been: 3S

Hot Bath Fails To Stop Births

By G. C. THORTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have heard that if a cellular membrane of birth control is a hot bath directly after intercourse. Is this idea being to raise the body temperature to the point of the germs needed to kill the sperm.

Would you please comment on this H.S.

It will not work. Within a few seconds after the semen has been deposited, the sperm have found a safe haven from such attempts.

I advise you not to join other disappointed women who have succumbed to this bit of folklore. The same applies to douching. The post-intercourse douche as a "contraceptive" procedure.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My thyroid glands have been giving me trouble for the last six months. I have to clear my throat so often. I do not smoke or drink.

Outside of this I am very healthy. I am 25 years old, am 5 feet, 11 inches in height. I am 75—R. S. R.

Except that the thyroid gland is in the throat area, I cannot see why you suspect it to be the cause of your throat-clearing. An enlarged thyroid might cause some difficulty in breathing or swallowing, but this would be obvious from the most cursory examination.

It is more reasonable to suspect a mild lung congestion. An x-ray would reveal this as well as a thyroid enlargement.

An even more likely possibility is a sinus problem. A post-nasal drip frequently can be caused by excessive smoking. The smoke irritating the membranes, causing them to secrete more than the normal amount of mucus. Abstinence, if you are a non-smoker, this might be a factor. If there are any heavy smokers in your home.

Another thing, if your coughing seems to increase at about the same time of the year, you can suspect an allergy as a factor.

And since you are not exceptionally tall, I wouldn't call you extra healthy with that 225 pounds of weight.

Obesity can be another cause of this throat-clearing, too.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My annual checkup included the following: blood count, urinalysis, serology, sedimentation rate, ECG, chemistry profile, lung x-rays, triglyceride count and a proctosigmoidoscopy test.

Do you consider this complete? Too much? Will you advise briefly?—H. D. M.

That's a lengthy list to be brief about.

However, it is a comprehensive one and considered very good by the majority of laboratory procedures.

The chemistry profile screens a dozen or more items—sugar, nitrogen, uric acid, cholesterol, and certain enzymes. The blood sedimentation-rate test can be interpreted as detecting infections and be procto-sigmoidoscopy for establishing the condition of the rectum and the lower colon. All of this, plus the test to your heart and lungs, should give your doctor a good overall impression of the patient (and breasts for women) rounds out a very effective examination.

It is too bad that all this cannot be included in every physical. However, most physicians may not have facilities to store all of the specimens that would be needed. And the cost of such examination is often prohibitive. Thus, a history and examination and a general physical must suffice.

Despite all of the advances in laboratory techniques and instruments, the problem becomes one of evaluation of the results. This can be quite time-consuming, and most physicians cannot easily find the time to devote to it.

In some areas of the country, many physicians are taking on highly trained young men and women as assistants to help care for patients. These are called "physician assistants," their duties are distinct from those of nurses. They are trained to interpret such sophisticated test readings, recording them for the doctor's perusal. If such programs as this one are successful, examinations as extensive as yours might become available to millions at—three to five years ahead.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My hair has been the same length for five years. It just does not seem to grow. Could this b due to a hormones deficiency? — Mrs. P.K.

Frankly, it depends pretty much on the individual. Here are some apparently little understood facts about hair growth in general.

—It grows fastest between the ages of 12 and 25.

—The longer hair gets, the more slowly it grows.

—Hair grows more in summer than in winter.

—The life of a hair is from three to five years.

—We lose about 100 hairs a day.

All of this applies to normal healthy hair.

But in answer to your question, yes, hair growth is influenced by hormones activity, but this is more of a factor in such problems as excessive hair growth or abnormal distribution (undesirable hair).

A glandular deficiency thyroid can be involved.

If your hair is reasonably abundant (not with regard to length), I doubt that there is much you can do to affect things, since hair abundance in most instances is a matter of heredity.

A simple test is to examine the end of a hair under a microscope, and a regular magnifying glass can suffice for this. The end of the hair should be pointed. If it is blunt or split, this is a clue that it has been broken, probably because of vigorous brushing or because of exposure to an unfriendly chemical in the form of soap.

Many women fail to rinse the hair well made of hair after washing, thus contributing to the splitting-off process. You might try a bit of extra care in this, and see if it doesn't help.

A good deal of our mail concerns hair and nail problems, both of which could be alleviated with more attention to common sense methods of hygiene and cosmetic care.

Old Strathcona Foundation

The Old Strathcona Foundation has been formed to preserve the "historical flavour" of Strathcona, a section of the city that once sparked bitter rivalry when the railway arrived in 1891. The rivalry persisted between Strathcona and Edmonton until the cities amalgamated in 1912.

The tracks and present railway station are a focal point of the 13-block area that the foundation is concentrating on. (CP Photo)

No Smoking Signs Appear All Over

By IRENE MEELEYEDE
The Canadian Press

An anti-smoking sign appeared in every train and subway car in Toronto today, and there are promises it won't be removed for months.

Remember the 15-minutes-per-hour commitment, an impossible promise of smoke-free travel where smoking is forbidden or banned in places of work?

A Gene-Canada Survey by the Canadian Council on Smoking and Health in 97 per cent of passenger space on many buses, trains and airplanes is reserved for non-smokers, it says. Besides, theatres and many stores limit smoking to a few designated areas, and many designated smoking areas have been banned.

Ban Stirring, said he recognized there would be some difficulty in enforcing the new rule that prohibits smoking "but it was just good business to provide what is a true service to the smoking public and to the non-smoking public as well."

Peter Hewitt, a Toronto restaurant and tavern owner, decided to call up a non-smoking section after his restaurant was filled with cigarette smoke. Other restaurant owners have established smoking areas and the government has set up areas where smoking is forbidden or banned in places of work.

NEW YORK (AP) — Goddard Lieberson, who joined Columbia Records in 1939 as a $50-a-week clerk, retired Monday as president of the firm he helped build into the CBS Records Group, one of the industry's top firms.

Lieberson, 63, also retired as senior vice president of CBS, Inc.

CBS chairman William Paley and president Arthur Taylor announced that Walter Yetnikoff, president of CBS Records Group's national division since 1971, will take over from Lieberson as the top job.

Lieberson first gained prominence by building up Columbia's classical record division, long overshadowed by RCA Victor, pending sales of long playing records which Columbia introduced in 1948.

He made theatrical history—and a lot of money for CBS—when he persuaded the company to put up $400,000 to back My Fair Lady in return for the original cast recording rights.

Lieberson also boosted the Columbia Broadcasting System, the record arm of the parent company.

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — Ernest F. W. Alexanderson, a broadcasting pioneer whose work led to the first radio broadcast in 1900, died Wednesday at his home. He was 97.

During the First World War, he perfected a 200-kilowatt alternator which was used by Federal Wireless Station on Oct. 30, 1918 to transmit Wilson's admission to Germany, which brought the war to a close.

When Wilson later appealed to General Electric to organize an American company to use the alternator, the Radio Corporation of America was born, with Alexanderson as chief engineer in 1919.

Alexanderson advanced in mechanical television and the transmission of picture by radio. Using a perforated scanning disc and high-frequency lamps, he staged the first radio television reception at his Schenectady research in 1927. The television system developed by Alexanderson and his coworkers transmitted pictures nationwide throughout 1928.

However, it was not until after the Second World War, in 1946, that electronic TV completed popular acceptance.

ROME (outer) — An open heart operation on an eight-year-old girl brought Italy to a virtual standstill for 30 minutes Wednesday.

The operation, carried out by a leading cardiologist, was broadcast live by Italian television.

Italians crowded around television sets in homes, cafes and offices to watch a team of surgeons skillfully sew up a hole in the heart of Cinzia Rossi.

In a series of clear closeups, they saw the surgeons slice through his patient's breastbone with a mechanical saw, expose the heart, connect the aorta to an artificial heart and lung machine, and then probe into the child's heart itself.

Doctors said afterwards the operation went well.

Water Depths Off Britain Are Changing

LONDON (CP) — British hydrographers have discovered that the underwater contours of Britain's coasts is changing, a fact which might be dangerous for big jet-powered passenger ships or even regular ships.

The navy hydrographer reports that off Great Yarmouth, eastern England, underwater banks had changed so much that it would require the Royal Navy to resurvey the area. Tests charted it also says 43 uncharted wrecks have been discovered in the North Channel.

The report says: "The national need for the comprehensive study of the entire United Kingdom continental shelf area, to assess total energy potential, led to the formation of a working party representing the departments of energy, the Institute of geological sciences and the hydrographic department."

The hydrographer was called upon to prove safe routes for the movement of the concrete production platforms from their construction sites in west Scotland to the oil and gas fields east of the Shetland Islands.

Previously activity has been limited to Fiji, the New Hebrides and Maldive Islands, the Caribbean and Antarctica.

Bisexual Behavior Analyzed

The Canadian press

Sexual behavior in human beings has been scrutinized in detail by a number of writers since Freud began his investigations into the aspect of life.

Now two writers have collaborated to provide some insight into people who are bisexual—that is, by customary definition, those who have sexual relations with members of the opposite sex as well as with members of their own.

Their findings are presented in Bisexual Living, by Julius Fast and Hal Wells. Fast is the author of Body Language, What You Should Know About Human Sexual Response, and The Incompatibility of Men and Women. Wells is a New York psychologist who has practised clinical psychology for more than 25 years.

The book takes the form of interviews with bisexual couples or individuals by Fast with Wells contributing an analysis of the persons interviewed and an explanation of the reasons for their conduct. Also included is an interview with Dr. Wardell B. Pomeroy, co-author with Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey of Sexual Behavior in the Human Male.

Wells, in one of his analyses, defines a bisexual person as one who engages in and enjoys sexual relations with members of either sex.

At another point, he discusses the question of normal and abnormal behavior, contending that what was considered normal sexual behavior a few decades ago has changed radically and that most sexologists believe anything between two consenting people is normal.

Bisexual Living, by Julius Fast and Hal Wells; 348 pages; $7.95; M. Evans and Co. (distributed in Canada by McClelland and Stewart).

Belleville Collegiate Institute and Centennial Secondary School are involved in a three-way battle with Prince Edward Collegiate Institute for first place in the Bay of Quinte Girls' Soccer League A division.

All three schools boast undefeated records in the early going. But in the next few weeks, the race for top spot could be settled when the contenders for first meet in head-on confrontations.

BCI blanked Quinte Secondary School 5-0 for its latest win. Rita Karver took care of three BCI goals and Norma MacQuarrie had the other two.

In the B section, the James Whitney School and Centennial appear to be making determined runs for first place. The division has been cut to five teams with the loss of Quinte's entry.

Hornbeck's fell prey to their own inexperience jobbing Auger to their runs with five errors. The miscues combined with Al Ferguson's single and home run and Joe Theriack's triple and single gave Jamie Hunter the win.

Hunter fanned 13 Hornbeck batters while walking one and giving up three hits. Wayne Casselman vs the loser giving way to Gary Kistenleider in the fifth. The pair combined for six strikeouts and four walks while giving up eight hits.

Bob Ethier went the distance for Howard and Robert scattering five hits, fanning five and walking one. Larry Griffin was the loser allowing two runs while striking out five and walking five. He gave way to Don Holloway in the fourth. Holloway allowed the other H and R run.

Griffin gave up two runs in the first-inning when he walked three batters and fired a couple of wild pitches.

Ethier drove in the third H and R marker in the sixth to put the contest on ice.

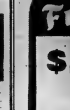
REAL ESTATE:

GETTING STARTED



Mr. Hathaway
A. E. Hathaway Realty Ltd.

Although 70% of newly married couples start out by living in rental housing (primarily apartments), some thought should be given to the other side of the coin — home ownership. Sometimes the solution is buying low-cost income property, a duplex for example. The down payment requirement is usually comparable to a single family residence, but half the property is supplying income from rental, which helps in making the payments. Financing is generally higher, and there are some added responsibilities of ownership.

In a few years, however, it may be possible to use both parts of the duplex for income, and buy a single-family home. The income will probably pay for the duplex with some left over to apply against the home payments. At the same time, you will be building an estate for your family with no strain on your budget.

Before making your first housing decision, why not consult a Realtor and have him show you some possibilities?

Davis Annoyed

Northland Transport Chairman Is Ousted

TORONTO (CP) — Ed Havrot (PC—Timiskaming) says he'll seek renomination for another legislative term despite being asked to resign as chairman of the Ontario Northland Transportation Commission (ONTC).

Premier William Davis asked for and received Mr. Havrot's resignation Tuesday after reports were published of derogatory remarks Mr. Havrot made about Indians in Northern Ontario.

Mr. Davis said a new chairman would not be named immediately.

Mr. Havrot also was asked to step down as parliamentary assistant to John Rhodes, minister of transportation and communications.

The Timiskaming Progressive Conservative Association will hold a nominating convention Sunday to determine who will represent the party and the riding in the next provincial election.

Mr. Havrot, nominated by the association in 1971, was the only announced candidate prior to Tuesday's resignation.

His replacement James Jessiman (PC—Fort William) as ONTC chairman last March 21.

The resignation and a hotly-debated government decision to change the site of a hospital in his riding have cast doubts on Mr. Havrot's political future.

Besides the political setback, Mr. Havrot, 47, is out of pocket the $5,000 a parliamentary assistant earns annually—over and above the $30,000 paid a member of the legislature.

An article in The Globe and Mail May 16, on the government's tourism project at Maple Mountain, 25 miles west of Hallesburg, sparked the premier's action.

The Temagami Obiwa Indian band has filed a caution on Crown land in the area which includes the Maple Mountain site.

Mr. Havrot, commenting on the caution, was quoted as saying the Indian claim was "just a damn nuisance. I could buy the Indian chiefs off with a case of gout. Half of them don't even know where Maple Mountain is."

He was also quoted as saying: "These damn Indians have gone absolutely wild. We should have given them a bunch of teepees and some corduroy and that's all."

Brandishing copies of the article in the legislature Tuesday, opposition members called for Mr. Havrot's resignation.

Allan Grossman, provincial secretary for resources development, told them Mr. Havrot's views "very definitely do not reflect the views of this government."

James Breithaupt (L—Kitchener), asked whether the government intended to take disciplinary action and was told it was up to the premier.

Seconds after question period expired, Mr. Havrot entered the House, walked to his chair and slammed a pile of folders and papers onto his desk.

The premier followed him into the chamber.

"Does the Hon. Premier wish to make some remarks?" asked Speaker Russell Rowe.

"Yes, Mr. Speaker," Mr. Davis said as opposition members quieted and a hush descended.

"On Friday, questions were raised in this House in regard to remarks attributed to the member from Timiskaming about native people and the land claims they have made which affect the proposed Maple Mountain project.

"I now have had an opportunity to speak to the member about these matters and he admits in all honesty that the reported comments are contained with what he indeed said.

"Under the circumstances and so that there can be no misunderstanding as to the attitudes of this government in regard to Indians or any of our peoples, I have asked for and received Mr. Havrot's resignation as chairman of the Ontario Northland Transportation Commission and parliamentary assistant to the minister of transportation and communications."

Iran Terrorists Kill U.S. Airmen

TEHRAN (AP) — Terrorists shot and killed two United States Air Force officers as they were being driven to work today in this capital of Iran.

The assassins escaped. The Iranian government said they were Marxist guerrillas, and the action will be spared to find the murderers and bring them to justice."

The U.S. embassy said the victims had been assigned to the big U.S. military assistance advisory group in Iran.

An embassy communique gave this account of the shooting:

"Two U.S. military officers were assassinated by terrorists at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday, May 21. As the officers were being driven in their duties, a car pulled out in front their progress on the street. Another car rammed them from behind.

"According to an eyewitness, three men got out of the automobiles and, after ordering the Iranian driver of the car carrying the officers to get down on the floor of the car, shot the two officers several times as they fell to the floor. The terrorists then got into the third car and made their escape.

The embassy identified the dead men as Lt.-Col. Paul Shafer, 45, of Dayton, Ohio, and Lt.-Col. Jack Turner, 45, of Carbondale, Ill.

Shafer, a graduate of Ohio State University, was married and the father of two children. Turner, a graduate of the University of Nebraska, was married and the father of three children.

Unofficial sources said the victims were Lt.-Col. Paul Schaefer and Lt.-Col. J. Turner.

Similar sources also reported an Iranian murdered by terrorists today.

They said he was an employee of the government radio-television company, Ebrahim Nushirvani, but had no other information about this killing.

A woman telephoned The Associated Press office anonymously at noon and said:

"The execution of American officers today was a reply to the execution of nine Iranian revolutionaries in prison last month."

Identifying herself as a spokesman for the Iranian People's Warriors Association, she said Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi is a "stooge of the American, therefore we murder Americans."

Quebec Walkout Response Tepid

MONTREAL (CP) — A call by the 300,000-member Quebec Federation of Labor (QFL) for a province-wide walkout to protest provincial government labor policies received sporadic support today.

Inside workers at the main Montreal post office walked off the job at midnight Tuesday and the day shift did not report for work. But trucks, mail vans and truck drivers were reported on the job though a post office spokesman said "there isn't much mail to deliver."

In the construction sector, where support was expected to be strong in light of a strong response to a similar call last week, most major sites were reported to be operating near-normal.

The Olympic Village site, which previously had been closed with the downtown Place Desjardins office complex and Old Montreal's Expo 67 and old harbor area.

Police and private security guards were reported at major construction sites.

Forty radio broadcast reports referred to "goon squads" at construction sites but a Bell spokesman said any such incidents are usually reported promptly to police and so far we have had no problems of that sort—none at all."

The general walkout was called by the QFL last week to protest the Quebec government's labor policies, specifically the lack of a settlement of the strike at Fruit and Vintners of Canada Ltd., formerly United Aircraft, in nearby Longueuil, now in its 17th month.

The site was the scene of a bloody confrontation on Friday last week when workers briefly occupied the plant with hostages.

Pickets circled the waterfront-area plants of Canada Metals Ltd. and St. Lawrence Sugar with placards reading "Free the guys at United."

Pickets also were seen at the plants of Canada Cement and Weston's bakery and workers paraded at the headquarters building of Hydro Quebec.

Social workers were reported picketing some municipal welfare offices.

Meanwhile, spokesman for the Montreal Builders' Association said loudspeakers were used to order crews that the work stoppage had been "illegally ordered by the QFL strike."

"We arranged previously that the men could hold a union meeting today between 8 a.m. and noon. They are back on the job at 1 p.m.," the spokesman said.

Municipal buses and the Montreal subway were running normally but a spokesman for the Montreal Union of Public Employees, Marcel Laplante, said 85 per cent of 9,000 city blue-collar workers were off the job.

Elsewhere in the province, work stoppages were also sporadic.

A spokesman for the James Bay Energy Corp. said reports from the site of the giant hydroelectric project, site of a disturbance which gave birth to the Cliche commission inquiry into construction violence, indicated the normal work force of about 2,000 was on the job.

"We have no reports of workers not showing up for the job, he said.

The province's major daily newspapers, considered vulnerable to walkouts by mechanical department personnel as well as other workers affiliated with the QFL, were in production and going almost normally.

Bride Is Promised Corby Rose Garden

By HARRY MULHALL

A marriage proposal caught the fancy of parks and recreation authorities Tuesday.

The proposal, from two young betrothed Bellevillians: That their wedding be held in Corby Park, the city's official rose garden.

No confetti would be thrown to spoil the park's cultivation, the couple assured.

Any damage caused would have to be paid for, a committee member cautioned.

But, said Ald. Wally Dever: "I think it's a great idea — and quite original . . ."

Davis Asks Time to Study Immigration

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis has asked the federal government to give Ontario residents until the end of 1975 to express views on immigration policies.

In a telegram to Prime Minister Trudeau, Mr. Davis said the July 31 deadline for special Commons-Senate committee study on the federal immigration green paper is inadequate.

He said several organizations have complained to him about the short time to prepare briefs for the public hearings.

"Because the government of Ontario agrees fully with you on the importance of immigration policy and the need for public consultation, I would urge you to postpone the schedule of the joint committee to the end of this year," he said in the telegram.

One Air Control System Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — The defence and transport departments and treasury board are in the midst of a study aimed at putting the surveillance of civilian and military aircraft under a new single control system.

Planners say it is hoped that as early as 1977 or 1978 the defence department will start taking control of all aircraft flying between miles while the ministry of transport (MOT) will control those over cities.

The modernization and merging of surveillance, also being done in the United States, will end duplication of radar and other facilities across the country and get all aircraft under one modern military-civilian system.

The merger became possible recently when the North American Air Defence Agreement (NORAD) with the U.S. was renewed for five years.

The new agreement, co-ordinated by the military of western Canadian airspace with the U.S., allows the U.S. to a new $25-million centre in the Edmonton area. Similar work is in progress will determine whether the MOT and defence can share that facility—and its cost.

A new surveillance system and military radar network.

Defence officials say the merged system will improve efficiency, end duplication and make the most of available labor and capital.

Anybody Can Get into Act

Hastings Liberal Association — calls for no set political speeches.

Instead, the prime minister will be asked to engage in debate with the audience and answer questions.

"It's an open forum and anybody interested is welcome to attend," says Frank Chapman, association president. "It's strictly a community affair — nonlining like the old town hall meetings where the audience quizzed those on the platform."

After the debate, members of the audience are lodged in meet with Mr. Trudeau over coffee and personally talk with him.

Mr. Chapman said his association has been attempting to organize such an event for about a year "with the idea that people in the community have comments to make to the prime minister — and they're entitled to make them".

As a result it should produce "a fairly open and honest kind of discussion," hoped the Liberal official.

The discussion is set for Centennial Secondary School at 8 p.m.

Prince Edward County Taxes Up 58 Per Cent

PICTON — Prince Edward County council Tuesday approved a 1975 budget of more than $2 million, reflecting a tax increase of approximately 58 per cent.

A mill rate of 7.1988 has been struck, in comparison with the 1974 mill rate of 4.5666. Value of a mill is $258,972.

A by-law has been passed for levy a total of $1,536,000 this year among the ratepayers of Prince Edward's 10 municipalities. In 1974 the total amount levied was $949,251.

In a breakdown of the 1975 mill rate it was noted 1.7927 mills will be levied for county road purposes and 5.2031 mills for general purposes.

The county budget, totalling $3,363,511, will raise $234,500 in revenue through trade, $25,000 through administration of dogs and $539,916 from county home paid maintenance and general grants.

Section 45 of the Assessment Act provides for an additional $8,000 and revenue from wel. fare totals $213,776. Land division has been budgeted with a revenue of $19,000 and the county museum with $12,800, resulting from grants and donations.

Also listed in revenues is $1,800 for tax certificates and a support grant of $535,541 based on a net dollar levy.

The 1975 Prince Edward roads department budget totals $788,000 with an allotment of $736,800 from the ministry of transportation and communications.

The county's share at 1.577 mills is $364,000 this year, in comparison with $350,000 in 1974.

The new budget's total for general purposes in 1975 is $788,686, in contrast with $419,321 in 1974.

Prince Edward County clerk Thomas Walker, in an interview following the county's council session, said council under-levied approximately $179,000 in 1974.

It will require a three-year period to compensate for this under levy.

He said in the past two or three years Prince Edward County has enjoyed relatively cheap taxes largely because of stabilization grants to the municipalities.

Mr. Walker observed a comparison of this year's budget with the budget of about three years ago would reflect a true picture. He said a contrast with the 1974 county budget figures.

In 1974 the mill rate was lowered in error, raising less revenue than was required to repay bank loans for construction costs for the new county home for the aged.

Since 1971, funds have been levied and raised at a rate of $150,000 annually for the cost of the home's construction.

On 1975, about $360,000 was used toward the payment of a balance of about $42,000 remained from the $360,000 originally raised.

A provincial government grant of $170,000 toward the home was paid and this grant was placed in the general account as it was not needed immediately. It was used as part of the county surplus in 1975.

The money was used to finance county operations in 1974 but only $147,000 of the $217,000 surplus should have been saved in 1974.

EMO representative, the county levy last year was about $200,000 lower than it should have been.

The mistake did not increase the cost of the county home project for the taxpayer.

Ameliasburg Tops County Tax List

PICTON — Prince Edward County council has passed its 1975 budget calling for $1,536,000 to be raised through local tax levies.

Of the township's ten municipalities, Ameliasburg will pay the largest share of this amount with a levy of 22.86 per cent or $227,796. The figure includes $772,990 for general purposes and $63,250 for roads.

Ernestown — up in the town of Picton with a levy of $266,226 or 19.76 per cent of the total budget.

Of this amount, $135,963, is for general purposes and $48,263 for roads.

Hallowell township will pay a total levy of 18.79 per cent or $225,000 and Sophiasburg a total levy of $123,881 or 11.86 per cent.

Hillier township will pay a total levy of $63,272 or 4.94 per cent and North Marysburg $59,767 or 4.5 per cent.

Wellington will pay $48,936 or 4.79 per cent and Athol's share $30,000 or 2.81 per cent.

South Marysburg will pay $42,764 or 3.01 per cent and the 1975 levy and Bloomfield a total of $37,135 or 2.63 per cent.

Total amount of money to be raised for general purposes by the municipalities in 1975 is $788,686, in comparison with $419,321 in 1974.

Total amount for roads this year is $344,000 in comparison with $238,980 in 1974.

Plots Prove Popular

The city parks board's plan to have garden vegetable plots now has not rapid response.

But there's been one unexpected development.

There's a "surprising lack of response" from elderly folk living in nursing homes for whom the project — between Wellington and Sidney streets was seen as big attraction.

Ald. Reid, stead, reported Gene Gemmell, parks department superintendent, told the board and recreation-area committee Tuesday, lotholders include many young couples now busy raising young children and elderly homeowners.

At first it was assumed that senior citizens would respond in greater number since many of them have a history background of wartime.

However, first encouragement for the project came from those who had experienced similar undertaking in other municipalities.

Lloyd Syer, parks director, said the project mainly had caught the fancy of those interested in gardening a revival common in other communities.

Some 48 plots were made available with the board to survey this month and more applications since, said Mr. Syer.

Pool Gets $10,000

PICTON — Prince Edward County's 1975 budget passed Tuesday night in council approves a $10,000 grant to the Prince Edward community swimming pool committee.

Grants of $1,000 each this year were approved for museums in Ameliasburg, Hillier township, Picton and North Marysburg in comparison with grants of $1,000 in former years.

The Prince Edward Centre Committee this year received a grant of $10,000 in comparison with a 1974 grant of $14,000.

Bursaries across, granted $250,000 in 1974, this year reduced to $15,000.

The Quinte's Isle Tourist Association will receive a grant of $2,500 this year in comparison with $2,000 in 1974.

The Prince Edward Agricultural Society will receive $1,000 as in 1974 and the Milford agricultural society $300 as before.

Grants this year totalled $60,800.

Welfare Budget Down

PICTON — Prince Edward County's 1975 budget approved Tuesday shows a decrease of $25,360 in the welfare budget in comparison with 1974 figures.

Last year the welfare department's budget totalled $323,000 in comparison with $297,640 this year.

County clerk Thomas Walker said the decrease is the reflection of 1974 expenditures. The welfare department last year operated with an actual budget of $346,953.

The budget figure for the welfare department is based sharply this year with an increase from $23,473 in 1974 to $75,095. Reason for the increase is the fact that welfare dairy plans are in preparation for several Prince Edward municipalities.

In 1974 county council gave a total of $30,000 to welfare in comparison with the 1975 figure of $45,000.

Child welfare costs this year are budgeted at $71,615, in comparison with $58,157 last year.

The warden's honorarium this year has risen to $4,000 from $4,000 in 1974. Similarly the warden's travel allowance escalated from $3,000 to $3,500.

The budget for the county museum this year is $12,800 in contrast with the 1974 figure of $10,000. This rise covers the salary of the new curator and other expenses.

In 1975 a total of $495,000 has been budgeted for operation of the county home in comparison with $370,895 in 1974.

Council Questions Convention Costs

PICTON — Members of Prince Edward County council and county engineer have been authorized to attend a Roads and Transportation Association convention in Calgary this fall but Picton reeve Larry Richardson objected.

He unsuccessfully introduced a motion to limit the number of delegates present to its two representatives.

Reeve Richardson felt that because of the cost involved only one member of the roads committee and county engineer Donald Clark should go.

Guards Ask Pay Increase

TRENTON — Trenton's 19 school crossing guards petitioned council Tuesday night for $2 raise that would put their crossing salary to $40 up by $3 from September 1976.

Included in the petition was a request for payment of half-salaries to those over 70 years during vacation periods.

Crossing guards now earn $37 weekly and have received no rises since 1974.

Trenton council took no action on the guards' requests after councillor Roy Price Suggested the petition be tabled.

"I'm not sure if I haven't had time to think about it," he said.

Some disgruntled Prince Edward County residents gave the impression the Royal Theatre's Circus that played the

Trenton Delays EMO Decision

TRENTON — Trenton will await the results of a Quinte Emergency Measures Organization (EMO) budget later in May before it decides whether to support the EMO, or withdraw, providing the government funds as of December, 1975.

Council's action Tuesday came after confusion was shown by several councillors over the costs the town would have to support the disaster-preparedness organization till the end of the year.

Peter De Groot, Trenton's EMO representative, told councillors an estimated $1,000 would be needed to fund the EMO.

But the possibility of the extra expenditure drew objections from councillor Pete Aziz. The councillor reasoned the provincial government must have had considered the need before it decided to cut off funds.

The suggested council investigate Queen's Park's plans before embarking on supporting the EMO.

Discussion Tuesday was sparked by a letter from

Pay Boost Approved

TRENTON — All hands went up and some councillors broke into applause Tuesday as Trenton council gave itself a 10 per cent raise, provided for in last week's 1975 budget.

With unanimous approval of the pay hike, councillors will see their honorariums jump by $600 this year to $3,760. The mayor's pay will go up by $1,000 to a total of $5,460.

Justifying the raises when the town's 1975 estimates budget was passed, Mayor Bob Patrick said the increases were "deserved" considering the work performed by council, and "incredible" duties laid brought Trenton is line with pay scales in other Ontario municipalities of similar size.

Expansion Plans Call for Meeting

TRENTON — Mayor Bob Patrick told councillors Tuesday he intends to call a special meeting of council to discuss town plans for a possible future involvement with Northumberland County.

Mayor Patrick assurance came during discussion of a report from Donald King, commissioner of works, touching ongoing restructuring of government in Northumberland.

Earlier this year Mr. King asked council to chart its current expectations for growth in the coming years. He requested council be prepared to report, that he said he would consider in making recommendations for county government changes.

Recently, Mr. King released a discussion paper in which he suggested Trenton expand its town limits west and north up to two miles and there straighten them. Such a move, mostly into Murray township, would allow Trenton to control its own destiny, he suggested.

The commissioner requested the town to submit a report to his Colborne office by July 15.

Mayor Patrick told council

Cemetery Survey Grant OK

TRENTON — Trenton council agreed Tuesday to give the Murray township Cemetery Board $1,000 as half the cost of a major survey to expand the number of burial plots in the cemetery.

Council's move ends a threatened action by Murray township to withhold from Trenton Trustees the privilege of using the cemetery. According to an estimate by councillor Bob Wannamaker, about 75 per cent of cemetery plots are now taken by Trenton citizens.

Murray said that it felt any support it would give the board to pay for the survey should not go toward providing burying ground for non-residents of the township "as has been the case heretofore."

Already steps to exclude non-township residents have been taken by the board. In a letter to council, township clerk Ken Rose indicates the board has discontinued sales to those outside Murray until the survey is complete and more plots are available.

Murray argued that since it has a large percentage of burials are residents" of Trenton, the town should share in the cost of the survey, estimated at $2,000. Murray has agreed to provide the other half.

In supporting the move to help Murray township, councillor Ed Todd said the percentage of cemetery use by Trenton citizens would warrant financial help.

Money for the survey will come from a miscellaneous account, rather than from an account for roads. Of the $2,000 figure $700 remains in the "first-come, first served" account.

Earlier this month, council cut a check for $1,000 to Consecon, north of Trenton, from its budget.

New Park Planned

TRENTON — Trenton's parks board will spend $6,000 to develop a park in the new subdivision on Dundas street in west Trenton. The park is expected to be named Bayview Park, after the late mayor of the town.

With Prospects of Another 'Vietnam' Anytime N. Koreans Flaunt Their Ideology

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

The Canadian press in the last few weeks has been filled again with curious fulmsome ado from the people's democracy of North Korea, all of them an extensive ideological and practical repudiation of non-alignment from Marshal Kim Il-Sung, the mysterious ruler of that still isolated nation.

No one is sure why the North Koreans made these bursts of self-adulation in the papers of western countries they consider to be unreputedly "imperialistic."

And they do not seem to be associated with any kind of trade drive or encouragement to sell to the isolated and chauvinistic Communist state in the northern half of Korea.

The Republic of South Korea, even though it is a harsh dictatorship for its own people, is an isolated Asian state, but remains now the most important U.S. client state in Asia, even with Taiwan.

South Korean industrial development (the first of Thailand, Taiwan the Philippines, and to a lesser degree hampered by the war of South Vietnam, are not very inland on logics of U.S. cash and technology.

Backing of American investments and other interests in South Korea are about 80,000 U.S. troops, now the largest American military establishment left on the Asian continent.

But their presence reminds us of the important difference between North Korea and almost anywhere else in Asia. The bitter Korean War ended barely 20 years ago next month ended in an armistice at Panmunjon in the spring of 1953.

This means Dr. Korean War, otherwise called "a police action"—and an "emergency operation," has never ended. At any time it could be resumed and the 23-year-old armistice broken.

The inference is that North Korea would be the offender as it was on June 25, 1950 when it invaded the south. But this is an eager necessarily so. South Korean President Park is just as dictatorial and unpredictable as his avowed enemy Kim Il-Sung in the north.

His country will soon have the basic technology to make an atomic weapon, thanks to a large decree to both received and the United States for selling him nuclear reactors.

The South Korean armed forces bolstered by the latest in U.S. weaponry, used to be called the "Koks" during the Korean war, talked of the "army of the Republic of Korea" and held in about as much contempt by some Americans military brass as the recently-defeated "Arvns" (Army of the Republic of Vietnam).

The two Koreas like the two Vietnams were artificial products of postwar agreements of the great powers. The northern half of the Korean Peninsula like the northern half of Indochina, was largely in the hands of Communists when the two countries were divided. At any time it could be resumed and the 23-year-old armistice broken.

Algonquin Park Motor Ban Said Likely to Be Lifted

BANCROFT — Definitive attitudes about the implementation of the Algonquin Master Plan were expressed by Hastings MPP Clarke T. Rollins and Dave Hobson, riding liberal candidate at a meeting of the Bancroft Fish and Game Club last week.

The question of the plan under discussion was the use of small outboard motors on some of the interior lakes of the park.

The local sportsmen's club has expressed strong objection to the proposal that all outboards be banned from Algonquin, with the exception of Opeongo Lake.

Several briefs have been submitted by the Bancroft club to Leo Bernier, Minister of Natural Resources, regarding the proposed plan. Hastings - Peterborough Liberal candidate Dave Hobson said the present master plan and park policy results from a clash between the urban purists, who expect to use canoes and snowmobiles and those local sportsmen who love the park as a way of life and a place to fish".

According to Mr Hobson, the voice of the local sportsman is not being heard at Queen's Park.

Mr. Hobson said the Liberal party had not established a policy on the small motor issue but that he personally was in favor of their continued use.

"The use of small motors is not to help the inland lakes but to destroy the environment or destroy the fishing," said Mr. Hobson.

In order to appease our opponents, I propose that we develop in the Bancroft area a number of fish hatcheries in order to restock local lakes and also to Algonquin Park," said Mr. Hobson.

Also speaking on the master plan was Hastings MPP Clarke Rollins, who indicated that he had been working on the issues of the plan for a number of months. "I can accept the wishes and feelings of the people of this area, who are used to using Algonquin Park as a way of life."

In announcing that a ban on small motors had been lifted for the summer of 1972, Mr. Rollins said "We are trying to find legislation that would be acceptable to all people.

"There's not concerned about keeping the cancers out of the park," said Mr. Rollins. "The only want to make sure that the small motors are left in. Perhaps there is one much most from outside the area coming in and telling us what we should or shouldn't do with Algonquin.

"I have no doubt there will be fishing with small motors in Algonquin in 1972," said Mr. Rollins. "I will say this without any hesitation that if our party is re-elected, the park will be open for boats and small motors in 1973.

"I can't see why we can't have a working arrangement with all groups in the park," said the present MPP. "I'm sure you people don't want to do anything to the detriment of another group."

Mr. Rollins cited Ministry of Natural Resources figures for 1973 that indicate that 17 percent of the people using the park that year had watercraft of some sort. Of these campers, six percent brought boats and motors and nine per cent used canoes.

According to John Stark of the Bancroft Fish and Game Club, Mr. Rollins' efforts on behalf of the club had resulted in several meetings with Mr. Bernier as well as the appointment of local residents. Charles Hunt to the Ontario Provincial Parks Council.

Motors Supported

Hastings MPP Clarke Rollins at a meeting of the Bancroft Fish and Game Club last week, gave his support to permitting small fishing motors in Algonquin Provincial Park. Proposed planning for the park would ban the use of any boat motors in the conservation area.

Flexibility the Key to Life If You're a Politician's Wife

EDMONTON (CP) — The secret to being a politician's wife is "to be flexible," says Jeanne Lougheed.

"You can't hope to have a rigid routine. You have to be willing to pack a suitcase and go somewhere any time, whether you've finished the laundry."

The wife of Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed did just that a few days after Valentine's Day, when her husband launched his election campaign that resulted in a smashing victory. The Progressive Conservatives captured 69 of 75 seats in the legislature.

She enjoys the political events she is drawn into as the premier's wife — door-to-door campaigning. "No two are alike, you know. No two districts are alike. . . It's fun"—but is glad to be home again.

Home is three children—Jeanne Loughe[illegible], 20, Stephen, 20, is studying commerce at Queen's University in Kingston, Ont.—a family dog, Nerunka, and a comfortable Victorian home which Mrs. Lougheed decorated with the talent of her own rich imagination.

She plans to get busy weeding in the summer vegetable garden—"I just go crazy when I get into it, fairly short, . . . I have to put the blinders on."

Mrs. Lougheed is also back to cooking although her husband's addiction to plain meat dishes robs her desire to try more exotic fare. She had better luck converting the premier from the non-entity Benny Goodman records he favored when she married him 23 years ago to classical music.

In the last six weeks of campaigning, Mrs. Lougheed had a permanent babysitter-cum-housekeeper living in. Now, she would prefer to have the house to herself and wants her two teen-aged daughters to learn how to cook—"that's a lot easier to do when they think they're helping Mummy." Not quite a reliable, babysitter is a problem when she has to take off somewhere at a moment's notice.

She feels it's her duty to keep the household running smoothly to avoid being "a burden to the premier.

"I suppose I'm supportive. One thing, politics is people. Because it isn't technical or legal conversation, it isn't something that a woman is left out of."

Mrs. Lougheed said she doubts her husband will enter federal politics but isn't frightened by the prospect or perhaps some day being the wife of the prime minister—"he has had good training."

She is not one to take herself too seriously.

"You can become a bit stiff and cold if you do that. Then you're not flexible.

Mrs. Lougheed says Mr. Premier, I sort of look up in surprise. Oh, that's Peter they're talking about. That's my way. It is at home.

Politics is a very talkative family.

Politics is a frequent subject at the dinner table and Mrs. Lougheed considers it healthy for the children.

Mr. Lougheed imparts his views; he also plays basketball and the flute as well as the piano, sings a bass and Andrez, 15, who plays the flute and studies ballet, adds

"Sometimes Joey (9) will dig in his ear and say, 'I don't like it.'"

"Daddy really gets teased. The kids get a big kick out of his lack of domesticity. He's not mechanically adept at all. He even has trouble changing a light bulb."

Mrs. Lougheed discusses her husband in glowing terms.

"When he walks in the door at night, energy seems to walk in with him. It's like opening up the door and letting the sunshine in."

She doesn't feel swamped by the strength of his personality. "I'm just as much stronger through the appreciation and respect that he gives me."

The move to Edmonton from Calgary three years ago when her husband became Alberta's first Progressive Conservative premier meant that she had to give up the volunteer work she was doing there. And the immediate attention of their lives in politics has kept her from pursuing university courses she would like to have taken.

Having studied music in her youth and participated in operas and musicals at University of Alberta, she has involved herself in the Edmonton Opera Society. She would like to do other things but, being the premier's wife has held her back.

"I don't want one group to think that I'm favoring another."

But she has her own hobbies and, now that the children are growing up, "I think I'll branch out a bit."

She plans to take private painting lessons and is considering studying interior design and eventually will open her own studio.

"I've always felt it was extremely important to maintain your own interests.

"In order to give to your husband and to your family you have to have something within yourself to give. And you only have yourself. You have to be a little bit selfish to remain yourself."

Doris Clark

She's Growing Up Gracefully

Recently, a certain 16-year-old, let's call her Marjorie, gave a party. She received arrivals, kept their first and last names in her head, introduced boys to girls, and then found places for them to sit. She hoped to get conversations rolling. There were no awkward pauses. Soon all of the young folks were comfortably chatting and laughing. Very phenomenal, in case you're forgotten what it can happen in this age group.

How did Marjorie do it? Her mother could answer that. It didn't happen overnight. It took long training and patience — and some discipline. But now Marjorie is a poised young lady and she thinks her mother is too.

Contrast this with the teenager who, in his ignorance, introduced a girl friend to a visiting aunt with, "Hi, Gal. "This is my aunt." (He names mentioned at all.) He acknowledges an introduction with "Hi!"

Dear Doris: I need your help in writing a letter — to my 27-year-old grandson who was married last week in a distant city to a fine girl.

Frank has always been dear to me, and when he and his wife to know how happy I am for them and that I would like to get to know her.

Now, one of my own daughters was to be married she told me, "Mother, im just going to try to make my husband happy, then I know I'll be happy, too." I see she has accomplished this.

I am at the age of age and finding writing letters more difficult, so I am grateful to anything you or your help.

Grandmother

Dear Grandmother: Yet your letter to me was so smooth and friendly! Surely you can say to Frank what you have written to me — or do you get self-conscious when you write to him?

You may be sure he looks forward to that letter from his loving grandmother. Project yourself into the chair's feet words from you, and you will lose your self-consciousness.

Tell Frank how dear he always has been to you and what wonderful things you have heard about his bride. That you look forward to meeting her, that you are happy for them, and will them all the best in the life ahead of them.

Rare Moment of Relaxation

The secret to being a politician's wife is "to be flexible," says Jeanne Lougheed, wife of Alberta premier Peter Lougheed. "You can't hope to have a rigid routine. You have to be willing to pack a suitcase and go somewhere any time and not worry whether you've finished the laundry." Mrs. Lougheed, shown with son Joey, accompanied her husband on his latest election campaign that resulted in the Progressive Conservatives capturing 69 of 75 seats in the Alberta legislature.

Ann Landers

Teaching Sunday School 'Sentence' for Murderer

Dear Ann Landers: If some-nights and I need to know "to something."

When a mother suspects her son is "on something," how can she tell for sure if her bunch is right? If it is right, how can she help him?

In this case, the son is not a minor, he doesn't live at home, and he avoids his father and me as much as possible. I've tried to talk to him to learn what's bothering him but he is very uncommunicative.

I might be mistaken, Ann, but he has undergone such a complete personality change—he isn't the same kid we once knew. Help us, please.—C..M.

Dear C. M.: Personality changes can be caused by something other than drugs—an organic problem, for example. There's no way an observer can tell for sure whether someone is

Your son should see a doctor at once for a complete physical checkup, and this is what you ought to suggest. If he turns out, you can do nothing but let him know you're there if he needs you. Good luck, dear.

Working Women: Older is Better

CHICAGO (AP)—Older is better.

"And particularly so in the case of many of the 34.6 million American working women, 40 years of age or older," says the financial services arm of Encmark Inc., in a study of the work history of women.

In 1974, a shade under 41 per cent of all working women in the United States were over 40, "proving that older women are not an endangered species," the study says.

Almost 57 per cent of those involved in the study—more than 1,400 working women over 40—have worked for the same employer at least three years. Twenty per cent worked for the same two to three years and nine per cent for 20 years or more.

"The unemployment rate for working women 45 or over in 1974 was just slightly more than half of the rate for all out-of-work women in the same year," the study says.

"Employers today are more aware of the value of older women's dependability and stick attitude are as sought after as experience."

Older women had more time to devote to their work, were more conscientious and settled. Many had grown children, therefore, fewer distractions.

Some 47.1 per cent of the women surveyed were married, 24.4 per cent single, 17.5 per cent divorced, 11 per cent widows. Slightly more than 41 per cent had children.

Eleven per cent held college degrees. Median income for a woman over 40 with some college study was $8,709 in 1974; those with elementary school education earned a median of $4,500. Only two per cent of the women earned $15,000 or more.

Film Depicts Her Story

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian film producer Beryl Fox has begun work on a 90-minute film for International Women's Year which will be a documentary on the history of women's rights in Canada. It is being sponsored by the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario.

Still Waiting

TORONTO (CP) — Angela Kondrak, the teen-age girl who came within a dime of winning Lake Ontario last summer, still has not received all the gifts she was promised after the feat. The upbeat promises offered: a ball call—a trip to Acapulco, a sports jacket. Dreams for the family house and wallpaper.

The Search Is On

TORONTO (CP) — Approximately 25 Ontario women will be honored this fall as the province's outstanding women to mark International Women's Year. The search for nominations is being conducted by the Ontario government which is asking for names of women who have contributed to the cultural, social, educational or public life of the province.

CN Spokesman Expects 100 Per Cent Passenger Subsidy

By COLIN KRUCK
Staff Reporter

Keith Hunt, Canadian National Railways vice-president for the Great Lakes Region, said in Belleville Tuesday, his company anticipates a major federal policy statement within six months aimed at 100 per cent subsidization of passenger rail transport.

"The last thing we have proved in transporting passengers is the higher the volume the higher the loss," said Mr. Hunt, speaking at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

Before the meeting during an interview, he said, because the government deems passenger service necessary and because passenger service is a losing proposition, we think it would be equitable that that loss be subsidized 100 per cent by the federal government." At present the government picks up 80 per cent of the loss which in 1974 totalled $140 million.

"On an annual basis, no passenger train in Canada or in the world for that matter makes money," said Mr. Hunt.

He said the federal government is expected to make a major national transport policy statement and that either in this statement or within the next six months, the 100 per cent subsidy will be recognized."

Mr. Hunt said the deficit and the government's 80 per cent subsidy, Mr. Hunt said during the interview, "we don't think we should be hurt by the deficit." Belleville.

An annual report on Canadian National's operations in 1974 shows the company completing the year with a deficit of $57.7 million — more than $15 million more than for the previous year.

Mr. Hunt said the national economy is in a slump and that it is affecting the railway industry. He predicted the slump or "softening" will continue through the remainder of the year and possibly the first quarter of 1976.

Mr. Hunt said that he said CN is "sharpening up" on the staff count with layoffs and supervisory cuts being made across the country, reviewing freight rates to increase revenue against operating costs and waiting for the increased subsidy with all three areas expected to ease the deficit.

Because of the downward trend in the economy, Mr. Hunt said CN has seen a four per cent increase in business in the last three months as compared to company predictions.

A major item of his address was the brief mention of main line expansion between Toronto and Montreal.

He said more lines could be laid besides the existing two lines and this expansion "is being studied and taking place in the next decade and would enable the handling of a higher volume of high speed traffic."

Mr. Hunt said CN is getting past the point of buying more cars and bigger engines and now must consider, enlargement of the rail network is said.

"Rail building as major enterprise has been dormant for the past 30 year," said Mr. Hunt.

"There will be major rail expansion in the next five years with the mountain region and western Canada being the priorities," said Mr. Hunt.

Now It's Home Chores

After more than three years in Laos working for international development agencies, Robert Burr, 31, is back again in his native Belleville. His current activity fits more placid surroundings of home town . . . he's painting family house.

Belleville Man Recalls Laotian Experiences

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Robert Burr's home again.

After several years with international development agencies in Laos he's now engaged in the more prosaic pursuit of painting the family home on Foster Ave.

It gives him time not only to ponder his experiences but the coincidental timeliness of his own departure.

This week, Robert picked up a newspaper to discover the United Nations officials assigned to replace him in Laos was under house arrest.

Robert doubts if the official is in "any immediate danger."

But the happening was one of the personal sequels to broader events as the south-east Asian nation submits — often forcibly — to its political structure.

The situation has involved royalist forces with the leftist Pathet Lao.

The 31-year-old native Belleviliian takes a philosophical stance on the events. What's happening is a corner of the world daily watched by Westerners is that the Pathet Lao are militarily in the ascendancy. They're now adjusting the political situation to military reality.

These and other impressions are the result of fairly-lengthy first-hand experience for Robert.

He was studying post-graduate English when his interest in Buddhist culture — and in the wars and disputes wracking South Vietnam and its neighbors — led him to sign up for a year with a voluntary service agency.

The first year he taught English; the second, with no other voluntary agency, he was involved in a farmers' training centre. Last year, on a UN contract he went to his final assignment — a handicraft project, mainly involving refugees in the Laotian town of Souvanna Khet.

He departed Souvanna Khet in March, making it out of troubled Laos by Royal Air Force plane since the airport at Phnom Penh — the only one — was under rocket siege.

He is not surprised at the turn of events leading to the reigners in Southeast Asia.

During his travels he always felt "there was quite a feeling of under-the-surface resentment against a foreign presence." It took the "fall of South Vietnam to bring it out into the open."

The Laotians, much as they dislike Americans, also are strongly anti-Vietnamese.

Yet, present conditions may not be conducive to any foreigners working effectively in projects like those Robert was engaged in in Souvanna Khet, he believes.

However, the development work he and others helped direct will still produce benefits "no matter who takes over."

And whatever power eventually takes over in that part of Asia, there is one aspect of life that should remain untouched — one which the Bellevilian came to respect.

The village culture on which the countryside's lifestyle hinges is still viable, a close complex than appreciated, he says. So much so, its benefits are being re-appraised by anthropologists.

But village life could be destroyed by Communist or Western-style philosophies, geared to industrialization, he believes.

Sidney Tax Rate Up

Sidney Township council Tuesday night approved its current budget meaning an average tax hike of about 14.5 mills for township residents this year.

Public school supporters will feel a 13.5 mill hike which will mean an additional $13.96 for each $1,000 of assessment. With average assessment set at $2,000, the increase in taxes this year will be approximately $46.

Separate school supporters will pay about the same in taxes this year — the result of a 14.7 mill hike.

Due to unusually large increases in county and school board levies, the township actually lowered its general levy (the third component which makes up the mill rate) to keep the increase to the

Stained Glass Panes Broken

City police are investigating an act of vandalism at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church at 316 Victoria Ave., which occurred sometime between noon Sunday and 4 p.m. Monday.

A police spokesman said that three stained glass panes were broken. Value was estimated at $50.

Potter Property Input Requested

All interested groups will be asked for comment when the town considers submissions on development of the Potter Property.

The suggestion was recommended — and approved — at a meeting of the city's parks board and recreation arena committee Tuesday.

Up for approval of the board were tentative terms of reference for proposed development of the big recreation area west of Belleville.

The terms include analysis for the area's characteristics and capabilities, a call for recommendation on ultimate development.

There also is to be co-ordination of ideas between the Moira River Conservation Authority, the city's and Sidney township's parks boards.

Development is also to be tied in with the current Bay of Quinte Study now underway for the Authority.

The park's board staff recommended that when the time comes for it to make submissions other "interested agencies" including recreation and tailor organizations and the Quinte Exhibition and Raceway be requested in comment.

City Committees Concerned Over East End Arena Plans

There is renewed official uneasiness over lack of definite plans for more arena facilities in Belleville.

The anxiety surfaced Tuesday at a meeting of city ball committees directly involved with such projects.

Such was the degree of concern that members of ball groups — the parks board and the recreation-arena committee — agreed on a course of action: They will investigate the possibility of reintroducing construction of a new arena like the city's five year recreation capital works budget in 1976.

Such a project — for Sidlerville's east end — was dropped from capital works budgeting some time ago. It would have given the city a second facility now in addition to the downtown Memorial Arena and the west end Dick Ellis Rink.

The committee members decided on their action in a debate that also have concerned apparent over lack of any concrete indication of progress or cessation of the long-awaited Belleville Yardmen's sports complex on Cannifton Road in northeast Belleville.

Aside from local needs, a possible new pressure is emerging in the background.

The city already is sounding out chances of playing host in its 1978 centennial year to the winter or summer Ontario games. This might put an added, if temporary, premium on sports facilities.

The issue was first broached by city councillor George Zegouras, recreation chairman, who believed recreation authorities should be concerning that a new arena is not 18-five-year works budget.

As yet, he said, there has been no apparent action on the Yardmen's facility.

Ald. Zegouras proposed a meeting with the yardmen organization to discuss "where they're going." There was "definite demand" for another arena project in Belleville, he said.

But city manager Wilbur Purcell said no decision is to start the Yardmen's complex had not yet received provincial government sanction.

As a result, said Ald. Paul Russell, parks chairman, no building permit could be issued for the development.

He said council had removed the east end project from the works budget because — among other reasons — it found it could not be built for $2,500,000 originally estimated.

"I'm not sure council would have voted any differently if the yardmen were going ahead or not" he said.

Ald. Jean Smith said council had believe another sports facility was needed in the city. But "in the back of our minds we felt the Yardmen" were going ahead."

"People in the community, the citizens, want to know where this (Yardmen's) complex is going," added Ald. Zegouras.

But, continued AM. Wally Dever, regardless of any other reasons, "there's a definite need for another arena in the city.

"I don't think we should be fooling around waiting to see what the Yardmen do," he added, calling for the committee to investigate what steps could be taken toward another arena.

Ald. Russell agreed.

"No matter what the Yardmen do, I think we should consider another arena from the five-year capital works budget," he added.

Thurlow Budget Is Highest Ever

Thurlow Township Tuesday night approved a budget of $1,211,000 — the highest ever for the municipality and boosting most of its residential-farm tax rate by 13 mills.

Inflation, higher waste disposal and county school board costs were among major pressures demanding the bigger budget, said Clare B. Horton, township clerk treasurer.

On an average assessment of $3,000, the new levy will mean about an extra $40. So estimated.

A mill in Thurlow raises $7,-000.

Of the total budget revenue almost $898,870 must be raised by taxation.

The general township rule is up to 21.5 mills from 1974's 8 mills on residential and farm assessment and to 25.31 from 12.5 on commercial and industrial.

Major expenditures earmarked for the year are education ($698,000) and public works ($253,650). Smoke $208,500 of the public works budget is for roads.

Assessment in the township has dropped in the past year with the shutdown of the big Canada Cement — Lafarge plant at Point Anne now undergoing demolition.

Residential-farm. Public school, 122.16 mills (13.73); separate school 121.61 (11.31). Commercial - industrial Public school, 128.38 (15.53); separate school 127.82 (13.11).

The only decrease was a minor one — the county rate, the amount paid to Hastings County government was slightly lower on residential-farm assessment at 62.83 compared to 22.27 in 1974.

Reason for the lower county levy was the drop in Thurlow's assessment.

Other expenditures: General government, $69,500; fire protection, $42,360; Sanitation and waste, $19,150; Planning and development, $26,284.

Station St. Fire Damage Extensive

Fire of undetermined cause extensively damaged the third floor of a building at 98 Station St. early today.

Chief Leo Culhane of the city fire department said the fire began on a stairway leading to the third floor, an attic which was undergoing renovations.

He said evidence shows the fire was burning for about one-and-a-half or two hours before the alarm was raised at 2.04 a.m. This is indicated by the amount of burning of the joists in the attic, he added.

There was extensive water damage to the second floor, the third floor apartment and the first floor which housed Tip Top Cleaners Belleville Ltd., Bell Canada Cleaning and Cox Laundry Village and Tip Top Dixie and Bloor Ltd. Service.

Chief Culhane said most of the water damage was to dry cleaned clothes and carpets. He said a minor damage estimate would be between $50,000-$75,000 but could be higher depending on the amount of damage to the carpets.

TAKE U.

The blaze was first spotted by a youth walking along Station St., who attempted to rouse residents in the area but left unable to get in. He tried to get in an entrance to the building and with the aid of a neighboring youth ran upstairs to investigate before they were people inside. Flames driven back but fortunately there were no fires there.

The building is owned by Earl Ellis of RR 1, Cherry Valley.

Rollins Only PC Candidate

MADOC — As yet no other candidates have publicly declared themselves to oppose the nomination of Gordon Rollins, MPP Hastings, at Sunday's convention here.

Mr. Rollins has represented the riding in the legislature since 1959 and early declared his candidacy bid for the new riding at the May 3 meeting here.

Liberals president Ken Smith said today he had as yet heard of no other candidates in the field.

Seminar Off

Due to low response from the invited employers to the one-day seminar on training being offered by the Belleville and District Employment Committee, the seminar for Thursday, May 22, has been postponed until a date in October.

Pools Must Be Fenced

Thurlow Township council Tuesday approved a bylaw calling for fencing of swimming pools in the municipality.

Pools must now be fenced by galvanized steel wire or wooden structures six feet but not less than four feet.

From now on township permit will also be required for pool excavations.

The measure does not apply to farm ponds used for agricultural purposes.

Truck, Car Collide

PICTON — Two motorists escaped injury early Tuesday in a collision on Main St. West near the Prudential Church.

The accident occurred when a pickup truck, driven by Ken Kimball, 22, of RR 2 Consecon, was in collision with a car driven by Paul Gerard Dufferin of Belleville.

Total damage was estimated at $700 in the mishap which occurred at 2.15 a.m.

Cleanest Motor in Town

Jacob Rozema, from Pembroke, shows off his 283-cubic inch engine in a custom built 1953 Chevrolet last weekend at the Belleville Road Angels Custom Car Club exhibition. Jacob says he spends three hours a week polishing and cleaning the car.

School Board Questions Community School Use

Claiming to be Ontario's most liberal board toward community use of schools, the Hastings County Board of Roman Separate School Board now wonders whether it has gone too far and can it reverse its policy.

The policy committee, headed by chairman Paul Fleming, recommended Tuesday night the board reverse its present policy on community use of schools to allow only the use of schools during Christmas or winter breaks, or on the eve or day of a school closing, with the exception of educational or religious use.

Earlier the committee rejected a move to increase rental fees from $20 to $100 per night for alcoholic beverages at school social functions. Requests from natives were rejected as contrary to policy.

During discussion it came to light that the major reason for the amendment was vandalism by students indicated on a survey they did not want to work New Year's Eve. Trustee Mrs. Ann Tweed, the local school principal, said the school is large enough to hold dances or entertainment.

Maynooth trustee Rev. L. F. Smith argued the board is right "the matter back to the policy committee for further study. He suggested that alternatives to vandalism and damage could be found.

Trustee Canatelli suggested that a cleaning service could be hired to replace the janitors if they did not want to work. Belleville trustee John Granville also wondered if the board was in charge of janitors or vice versa.

Mr. Fleming claimed the policy proposed would not find a solution to the problem. He personally objected to entire communities suffering for a few problem areas.

Right to Challenge Censorship Upheld

OTTAWA (CP) — Reporter Gerard McNeil said Tuesday he will return to Nova Scotia to pursue his challenge of the province's movie censorship law.

In an unanimous judgment earlier in the day, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled that the former Dartmouth, N.S., newspaper editor has the right to question whether Nova Scotia went beyond its powers in enacting the law.

Mr. McNeil contends the provincial law is criminal law because it imposes penalties and therefore is within federal, not provincial, jurisdiction.

Should his challenge succeed, movie censorship boards across Canada also could be struck down.

Chief Justice Bora Laskin, who wrote the high court's judgment, said Mr. McNeil had raised "a serious substantial constitutional issue" and the lawyers for N.S., Ontario, Alberta and Saskatchewan who opposed him at the Supreme Court hearing in late April had not disputed this.

The chief justice dismissed Nova Scotia's argument that only those directly affected by the law—namely theatre owners, movie exchanges and industry associations—could take the provincial board of censors to court.

Chief Justice Laskin said there was public interest in the wide powers given the censor board "to determine what members of the public may view in theatres or other places of public entertainment."

The chief justice also said there appeared no other way for the public interest in the matter to come before the courts without allowing Mr. McNeil the right to challenge the movie censorship law.

Mr. McNeil, now a reporter on the Ottawa staff of The Canadian Press, was editor of a weekly paper in Dartmouth when the board of censors banned the showing of Last Tango In Paris.

After several unsuccessful attempts to have the board review or explain its decision, he started a court case challenging the validity of the law.

Dief Calls For Protest

OTTAWA (CP) — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker said Tuesday that Canada should lodge a strong protest with Jamaica over remarks by its high commissioner to Canada.

He said in the Commons that the high commissioner, W. C. Isaac, has accused some members of the Metropolitan Toronto police force of being "extremely racist, uncultured and inhuman."

Class at Pioneer Village

Crime Rate Increase Brings 'Willing Victims'

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Mounting crime rates in American cities may be producing "a nation of willing victims" too afraid to stand up for their rights, a psychologist said.

Dr. Thomas Moriarty of New York University says his research indicates Americans are tolerating assaults on their rights with increasing passivity.

The research indicates that young Americans are less willing than their elders to accept psychological assaults, possibly because they are continually advised by authorities to avoid potentially dangerous situations.

"In cities where crime is a daily threat, the fear of getting involved in a battle may have made us unwilling to protect not only the rights of others, but our own as well," Moriarty said, reporting his research in the magazine Psychology Today.

In an interview, Moriarty said he undertook the research "because I've lived in New York City all my life and I've noticed some subtle changes in the way people behave."

Moriarty enlisted 13 students to determine the effect of direct challenges on strangers and businessmen in the New York area.

"The efforts were psychological rather than legal, involving neither life nor property, but one's rights as a human being."

In one of the most direct challenges, adult males emerging from a telephone booth in Grand Central Station were approached by a student who asked them whether they had found a dime ring in the booth. When they said they had not, the student would reply:

"Are you sure? Sometimes people pick up things without thinking about it. Would you empty your pockets?"

Although one of the 26 males tested brushed the student aside and said, "You're crazy," 85 per cent obligingly emptied their pockets.

Thinking that the subjects might feel threatened because there was no one else near, Moriarty repeated the experiment, adding another student to the scene to protest. "You have no right to ask that" when his confederate asked the subject to empty his pockets.

But the difference was minimal—76 per cent still emptied their pockets.

Other tests involved playing rock music at top volume during subway/car tests and loud talking in movies and libraries.

In nearly all the tests, some 95 per cent of those involved did not object or ask for silence.

For Moriarty, the results showed that "the great majority of subjects proved willing victims when others violated their rights.

"To me, such passivity indicates a serious social problem."

He added: "I believe that many of us have accepted the idea that few things are worth getting into a hassle about, especially with strangers. And I believe this is particularly true of younger people.

"In the laboratory studies, our young man felt the violator's behavior was improper but few were able to explain why. In our field studies, those who defended their rights were generally alone."

Asked why the older subjects might be more likely to resist, Moriarty suggested that they remembered an earlier society where such assaults were less common. They steadily advised to avoid difficult situations or escape them if not resolved.

"The successful city dweller must learn, he says with a grunt, many stresses, both physical and psychological. Robberies and muggings occur frequently enough for police departments and newspapers to offer the public advice on how to be a successful (i.e., live) victim.

"Although more and more people have begun carrying defensive weapons and signing up for lessons in various martial forms of self-defense, most experts advise, 'Don't resist.'

Although resisting assaults may not always be the best answer, Moriarty said continued surrender to all personal assaults may lead city-dwellers to ask, "Is it worth living at all?"

In his report, Moriarty added that some may feel that "yielding is simply the safest and most rational way to cope with such situations."

But he added: I cannot agree. The quality of life for all of us may be at issue. I have not enforced cease to be laws and rights not defended may slide away."

SEQUEL INEVITABLE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fred Astaire and Gene Kelly will dance again in the sequel to That's Entertainment, MGM announced. A sequel to the hottable in the wake of the studio's successful compilation of its past musicals. It is called That's Entertainment Two, and Kelly will direct new musical aces with himself and As-taire.

St. Mary's Students Labor in Cemetery

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — What a delightful group of girls, and such hard workers," said W. L. Meyer, the perpetual care director for Belmont Cemetery. "We're thrilled with their work at Woodland cemetery and are looking forward to having their assistance next year."

That was just a sample remark from satisfied clients who used free services from more than 1,000 St. Mary's high school students.

It was the school's second Community Service Day, run in conjunction with Education Week.

The cemetery venture was a first for the students.

"It was their first time to work there," said Helen Gelinas, convenor of the Community Services Day committee. "We've noticed this year the students are thinking up their own projects and applying to work at them."

The teen-agers not only had a waiting list of clients, there was a wider scope of endeavor being covered this year, with many firsts added. Also, the high school got an audit for the first time.

The Central Mennonite Committee saw a story saying the school was swamped with calls and came to the conclusion. Twenty of its youth members volunteered to assist with housework.

Some of the high school students joined forces with Grade 6 students of the St. Agatha separates school. The 36 class members went out in teams of two with a St. Mary's high school student heading each team.

Chores included cleaning garages, painting fences, housework and raking yards. Any donations the Grade 6 students received were given to an organization to help the underprivileged.

Coachloads of the high school students piled into cars chauffered by teachers and volunteer parents and were delivered to various destinations in the area.

Teachers aides' jobs were the most popular, with 40 students assisting in both public and separate elementary schools.

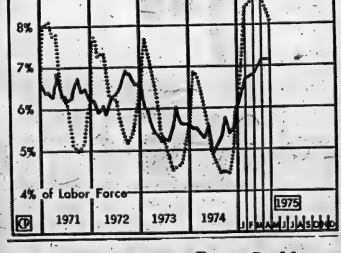
"Last year there were applications from four public schools this year there were 15," said Mrs. Gelinas.

Students listed their preferences for types of jobs and the organizational committee tried to comply.

Fifty girls signed up to assist in schools for the retarded. Other students provided entertainment at a home for chronic apartment house.

Survey work was another first. One group assisted with a survey of architectural barriers for the physically disabled in neighboring Cambridge, while another group canvassed for a local horticultural society.

Youngsters at local nursery schools and hospitals bowled with delight at the antics of high school puppeteers.



Unemployment Rate Stable

Unemployment continued last month at its highest rate for the last 14 years, Statistics Canada reported May 16. The seasonally adjusted rate was unchanged in April from the 7.2 per cent recorded in March. Actual unemployment rate was 8.1 per cent. A total of 795,000 persons were out of work out of a labour force of 9.8 million. (CP Newsmap)

A GOOD TIME TO ENJOY FROZEN FOODS

It may sound strange when we're on the threshold of seeing home-grown fruits and vegetables on our markets. But because growers are preparing to make room for new crops, now can be an advantageous time to buy frozen foods. Prices on many are lower than during the past winter, and then they are likely to be in coming months.

If you re-stock your freezer now, rotate supplies so that food bought in your freezer is used first; date all packages; and don't fill the freezer with foods that won't be used in time to leave enough room, if you want to freeze some home-grown favorites later.

All frozen foods are safe indefinitely at zero degrees F. However, the quality of fruit is best if used within 12 or 18 months of freezing; most vegetables 12 months.

THE BARRYMORES — Hale Alpert.

The saga of the Barrymore begins with the marriage of Maurice Barrymore, a young English actor, to Georgiana Drew, sister of the 19th century matinee idol John Drew. Their son was the famous Lionel, and with the tragic death of Diana, the brilliant career of John Barrymore, Jr., in many ways, the story of John and his two brothers and Ethel, Queen of Broadway and in Hollywood is the story of the most temporary theatre in the U.S. Driven on a wealth of previously unused material, the author paints a picture of the various members of the two great families that were given the name — THE ATLANTIC DYNASTY — Thor Arnfeld.

This story of the Royal House of Bernadotte, the Cinderella who will become the 2nd richest family, particularly in Europe, is a unique story about the ordinary folk about the throne of Belgium is that it never came to be so-all; created in 1830 as a result of an imported German Prince, it was home to, and together with one another, widely disparate and sometimes opposing Hapsburg and Hohenzollern. Anyone gave it a chance of survival, but it has persisted to the present in a era that has seen much more ancient dynasties vanish.

Christians Can Live With Unexplained

Written for CP
By PEGGY TRACY

The question of whether a Christian can live content-nicely with the unexplained is posed, answered and re-answered in the affirmative by an Episcopalian priest, Rev. William J. Nimmo, in his new book The Spiritual Frontier.

Writing in collaboration with Rev. Ellen Sprague, a United Church clergywoman whose share in trade is the inspirational, Canon Nimmo cites numerous paranormal events in the Bible, from Joel's latter—23ish whirling, upward in a chariot of fire and Moses' ability to make—to Jesus communicating with the dead on the Mount of Transfiguration.

The canon's interest in psychic phenomena began when he was a boy, and when he went to his first parish in Florence, N.J., he discovered many of his flock had ghostly and unusual psychic or spiritual experiences. He invited them to deal with them, to put the question, Does the experience help or hinder the individual to lead a happier, more fulfilling life?

There are chapters on faith healing, possession, exorcism, prayer and reincarnation, and one on Arthur Ford, the controversial medium who claimed to be in touch with the late son of Bishop James A. Pike during a TV seance arranged by Tuesday by Sprague, several years ago. When Remember and Spectator were later doing research for their biography on Ford, they came to the conclusion that he had in this particular case, and perhaps in others, cheated in his seances.

An agnostic deals with another Ford claim, that he had managed to contact the spirit of President Roosevelt. Nimmo doubts this as well, and both he and Sprague include fascinating reading.

Food Costs Up

The food price index rose to 204.3 for April up 1.9 from the March index of 202.3 Statistics Canada reported May 9, that higher prices for dairy products caused the rise in the food price index. Higher prices for milk, fresh fruits, cereals and bakery products were partly offset by lower beef and sugar prices. (CP Newsmap)

Blushing Bridegroom

SUTTON COLDFIELD, SALTERTON, England (CP)—Lively Ann Goodman, 88, is thinking of an unusual gift after discovering on her recent honeymoon that her husband, 71, was incapable of sex. "I'm not ashamed to admit that I could do with a good, hot man," said Mrs. Goodman.

Co-founder Honored

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. R. B. Osler, co-founder of Canadian Girls in Training and president for 15 years, has been elected honorary chairman of the organization. Canadian Scene is an information service for the country's ethnic press.

Gambling a Virtue?

OTTAWA (CP) — Gambling once considered a vice, may actually be a virtue, if a study of the psychological makeup of Toronto horse-race fans is any indication.

Igor Kuryluyn, a York University psychology professor, says preliminary results of the study indicate those of gamblers show less hostility, have lower tension levels and happier home lives than non-gamblers.

In short, gambling might be good for the mental health of society.

The image of the gambler as a manichet punishing himself is being re-examined, Dr. Kuryluyn told a group of faculty and students at Carleton University.

"Through losing, he is supposedly punishing himself for some sexual inadequacy," said Dr. Kuryluyn, himself a blackjack expert and horse-race fan. "That's the standard Freudian theory."

He feels, instead, that the average gambler is playing with money, rather than for money, and that gambling provides a way to "confirm our own existence" and worth.

"People don't gamble for profit: they gamble to win money so they can keep on gambling. They gamble for fun."

Professional gambling can be profitable, but it demands concentration and self-control.

"A successful gambler doesn't drink while he's playing. He won't play when he's tired or hung over. He won't go at a full stomach or on drugs. He won't play if he doesn't like the dealer or there are distractions. And he won't play if he's losing."

Dr. Kuryluyn claims black-jack, because it has been analyzed so thoroughly, is the only game offering the player a chance scientifically to maintain an advantage over the house for long periods of time.

Computer-produced charts which can be memorized by most people in about eight hours, offer the best game plan for any combination of cards, he said. More specific charts based on the number of cards already used, are accumulated by serious gamblers.

Counterfeiting is important, Dr. Kuryluyn said, and casinos try to distract the gambler, often offering drinks, entertainment and even call girls.

"They're very happy to let you do whatever you like in Las Vegas—except win."

Irrigation Equipment Is Plentiful

EDMONTON (CP) — The declines in housing starts and the cancellation of automobiles has led to a vastly improved supply situation for equipment to irrigate southern Alberta fields for 1968 production.

Les Ring, irrigation systems engineer with the Alberta agriculture department, says last year's extremely bad situation has been reversed with prices relatively stable.

Almost every type of sprinkler equipment is in good supply this year and some machines are being delivered one week after being ordered.

He said the decline in housing starts and car production has released large volumes of aluminum and steel for irrigation equipment manufacturing.

Sabres Come Alive in Steam Bath

BUFFALO (CP) — Thanks to Rene Robert, Buffalo Sabres are back in contention in their Stanley Cup final series against Philadelphia Flyers.

Robert, who had an overtime goal in the Sabres' second-final playoff against Montreal Canadiens, got his sixth goal of the playoffs at 18:39 of the first overtime period Tuesday night to give Buffalo a 4-3 win over the Flyers.

Philadelphia's lead in the best-of-seven National Hockey League championship series has been cut to 3-1 with the fourth game here Thursday night.

Danny Gare, Rick Martin, Don Luce and Bill Hajt, were the other Sabres marksmen. Gary Dosher, Don Saleski, Rick MacLeish and Reggie Leach scored for the Flyers.

Robert's goal ended a game that had stretched almost five hours in the steamy War Memorial Auditorium. Play was stopped 14 times late in the game as referee Lloyd Gilmour ordered both teams to ground to clean the fog which hung low over the ice surface.

And it was the fog that caused Philadelphia goalie Bernie Parent trouble on the game-winning goal.

The play developed when Gilbert Perreault shot the puck into the Flyers zone to the left of the Philadelphia net. It came out to the front of the boards sharply to Robert who beat the Flyers goalie from a sharp angle.

"I didn't see the puck until it was on Robert's stick," Parent said. "I couldn't follow it coming in from the red line."

"I think he was really ready for it," said Robert. "He hasn't been beat on his goals. I think it went between his legs."

The Sabres dominated play in the second period, outshooting the Flyers 19-6, but Philadelphia staked off the lice with a 2-2 lead, thanks to some shaky goaltending by Sabres starter Gerry Desjardins.

Dornhecker opened the scoring in the first minute of play after Bill Barber got the puck off Buffalo defenceman Jerry Korab. Barber's shot hit the post and bounced backdoor poked in the rebound.

Saleski's shot from outside the Buffalo blue line looked an easy shot for Desjardins to handle but he bobbled it.

Gare and Martin scored within a 17-second span to tie it at 2-2 before MacLeish's 18th goal of the playoffs at 16:51 put the Flyers back in front.

Buffalo coach Floyd Smith admitted that Desjardins was "fighting the puck" and agreed when Desjardins asked to leave the game after the first period. Roger Crozier took over in goal in the second period.

Luce tied the score at 3-3 with 29 seconds gone in the second period, and Mike Kaszycki and Martin both had chances to put Buffalo ahead before Leach scored at 18:39.

"It was beginning to look like we were getting all the bad breaks," said Martin. "It looked like they were getting all the breaks."

Martin drew one assist on Hajk's tying goal at 9:36 of the third period when he broke in on Parent and fired a shot, then fired another off his own rebound. Hajk picked up the second rebound and lifted the puck over the sprawling goalie.

Both teams had good chances to break the tie before the period ended and shots bounced off goal posts at both ends.

The Sabres had 46 shots on goal while Philadelphia managed 28 at Desjardins and Crozier.

The victory was the first for the Sabres over Philadelphia in 12 games dating back to March 30, 1975. The Flyers had 16 wins and a tie in the 11 previous games.

The victory also enabled Buffalo to extend its home-ice playoff streak to seven wins.

Maybe Now, Hex Gone

BUFFALO (CP) — Buffalo Sabres got rid of a jinx Tuesday night in a Stanley Cup playoff game delivered 14 times because of fog.

"It breaks the hex, if there was such a thing," said defenceman Bill Hajt of the Sabres. "We hadn't beaten them in a long time."

"It's a good feeling to get that hex, or whatever you want to call it, out of the way," said Sabres coach Floyd Smith. "Now, hopefully, we can just keep it going."

The Sabres didn't need a spell to help them, only Rene Robert. He scored at 18:39 of the first sudden-death overtime for a 4-3 Buffalo win over Philadelphia Flyers in the third game of their National Hockey League Stanley Cup final.

The Flyers, defending cup champions, lead the best-of-seven final 3-1.

It was Buffalo's first victory over Philadelphia since March 28, 1972. During that time, the Sabres lost 10 and tied one in regular-season and played scoreless ties also in the Stanley Cup competitions.

The third game of the series was a steam bath for 15,260 fans and the players. The temperature in the arena at the start of the game was around 30 degrees Celsius.

Players from both benches were called on 14 times in the clear way the fog by skating around in circles in the hope

"It was a lucky shot, nothing special," Robert said of his winning goal. "It went between his legs."

Robert, who now has three game-winning goals in this year's playoffs, said he called to team-mate Gilbert Perreault when the play went into the Flyers' end. "He didn't even look at me. He saw the puck. He shot it to the opposite side and it came back beautifully."

The Flyers held a 2-1 lead after the first period, a wide-open 20 minutes. Goalie Gerry Desjardins of the Sabres asked Smith to replace him after the first period. Roger Crozier took over for Desjardins in the second period and turned in a strong performance after not having played in more than two weeks.

It's tough coming off the bench," Smith said. "It's a tough, long night, especially for a guy who hasn't played that much."

Flyers coach Fred Shero said he was pleased with all his first four lines in the series, "You could say that they've proved to be a tough team to beat. I've said that all along. Buffalo is somewhat like ours. That's why Buffalo got into first, because of their defence. And, because of the Sabres had superior talent in their forward lines. The Sabres play the game the way it's supposed to be played."

Hit Dead End on QFL Co-operation Trial

The Quinte Fastball League has, unfortunately, decided not to co-operate with the Belleville McDonald's of the Ontario Fastball League. The QFL put into effect as early signing date specifically designed to eliminate any conflict of interests from the local OFL squad.

"We wanted to work with them," said Doug Adams, general manager of the Macs. "But if they don't want to work with us then I guess we'll just have to do it without them."

Originally the Quinte League had its final signing date coinciding with the Ontario Amateur Softball Association (OASA) closing date, — July 15. They moved their league date ahead to July 1, but to accommodate any problems with the Macs they introduced a special signing date that states any player may stay with the McDonalds until June 15, after that, he is not retained from the Macs and signed with QFL club he may not play in the Quinte League.

"The Macs, on the other hand, do not have to establish their final lineup until the 15th of August — two-and-a-half months later.

Because of the rule established by the QFL, Brian Gariepy, Dave Loti and Ted Cordell were cut from the Macs roster on the weekend.

"They might have come on and really helped us later in the year," said Adams, "but there's no way I'm going to sign a guy and hold him for two and June 1 date. I don't want to see anybody have to sit out a year of ball and if you don't let them know that there's nowhere else they can play around here except the QFL."

George Rutledge, president of the QFL, said the main objective for the league to initiate the new set of date is in order to eliminate the Macs from picking and choosing through the regular season.

"We have to protect our selves as well," said Rutledge, "we can't have them pulling players off teams halfway through the season."

Still, it was cut and dry with the Macs. They could pick up whichever players they wanted. The guy could participate in the club for a few games and if he had it for the QFL he could quit on them and they'd be didn't? Well, he would be cut from the club, he was cut for the rest of the year. A player may only sign once with the Macs according to OFL regulations.

This being their first year the club has been in the OFL they would need time to sort out the men from the boys, so to speak, and establish their best roster.

As it stands, Doug Adams doesn't want to see anyone sit out the year and he wants to get the best team together he can. The QFL has simply said you have 14 days from the first of your season to get your man, although officials aren't quite sure how long the league has been in operation as the QFL and the Commercial Softball League, 15 years has been suggested as a nice number.

This year the QFL faced its first real crisis in that it had, like so many other leagues, difficulty in getting off the ground. It has been the premier league in the area for as many ball seasons as anyone can remember, but this year there was difficulty in scraping together six clubs to fill the schedule.

Augur Mon's Wear, Trenton, Howard and Robert Printing, Picton, Barry's Barber Shop, Picton, Gary Rorabeck Real Estate, Wellington, and Gilbb Motors comprise the members and guild of the loop.

George Rutledge and Bill Short share the major duties of the league (president and vice-president) of the QFL.

Ellis Juniors Shape Up As Strong OASA Contender

The Ellis Juniors look as though they are ready and able to win an Ontario Amateur Softball Associations (OASA) championship this year.

For the past two seasons, the best the Juniors have finished in regards in the province is being beaten out twice in quarter-final series.

This, however, is the year. The local squad is combining the experience of a three to four year junior veterans with the talent and ability of the 16 and 17-year-old rookies.

"I'm not going to make any predictions," said head coach, Russ Soule, "I think we have the makings of a strong contender; but it's too early in the season to tell how strong."

Heading up the list of players with the Juniors are Steve Campbell and Wayne Andrews. Both have four years experience under their belts which should count in handy.

A big plus in the pitching department is John Spracklett. The right-hander fired the majority of Juniors contests last season and will certainly help them in their bid for an OASA title this year.

"If we have anything above the rest going for us," said Soule, "it's more balance and more depth."

Ken Vos, Bob Campbell, Dave Dulac and Jim Richardson are other players returning to the Ellis Rosup. Some new faces include Doug Jefferies, a third baseman who played senior ball in Gananoque last year; Dwayne Dunstaer, a second baseman with a big stick, John Heidstra, a short-stop with great hands; Eric Powell, Mike Crawford, Pete and Paul Wilson and Bruce Sutherland. Paul Wilson, right out of midget last year, is one of the greatest young pitching prospects in several years in the city.

Along with Soule, Bob Boyle is the coaching duties with the young squad. Manager Bob Ellis will not the decision making end of the Juniors' guides.

"We'll probably need a few games to get going," predicted the coach, and he wasn't far wrong as the Juniors dropped two to Bonnie Fastball League opener to Howard and Robert 16-5. It wasn't their pitching or hitting that stopped them it was their sloppy errors.

"There are quite a few new faces this year," said Soule, "they'll need time to get used to each other before they start playing like they can."

The Ellis Printing team will prepare for OASA playoffs by attending the Oshawa and Bowmanville tournaments, along with participating in the Quinte League, and they hope to make it to the Markham tourney which is strictly for Junior A ball clubs — Belleville's classification.

Some figures the addition of the Belleville McDonald's of the Ontario Fastball League to the city's system will help the Ellis Junior team.

"It gives the kids something to shoot for," stated Soule, "it gives them some incentive."

With all this going for them, the Juniors have to be one of the top seeded clubs in Ontario.

Juniors, Rorabeck Trounced

Miscues By the Mitful

It was a comedy of errors in the Quinte Fastball League Tuesday night as the Ellis Juniors played a 10-6 decision to Howard and Robert Printing and Gary Rorabeck Real Estate, of Wellington, was walloped 11-7 by Picton's Barcon Supply.

Bob Ellis picked up his second win in as many nights, throwing the first three-and-two-inning relief of the contest. Ron Hill worked the last half of the game and the pair combined to fan nine while giving up nine hits and one walk.

John Spracklett was the victim Paul Wilson telling the final two innings on the Juniors mound. They struck out three, walked five and gave up eight hits.

Terry Pore topped the H and R attack with three hits while Ken Beaumont and Rick Grabsen added two each.

Swim Team Taking Aim on '76 Olympics

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian swimmers may not be ready to take over the world champion-ships this summer but they are in an excellent position for the 1976 Montreal Olympics, Don Talbot, one of two national team coaches said Tuesday.

Talbot, a former coach of the Canadian swimmers at the Commonwealth Games in Edmonton in 1978 and Montreal in 1976, said the team is in Australian national team now being built, will join Daryl Stanfield at Vancouver to coach the 21-member team named Monday for the 1978 Commonwealth championships in Cali, Colombia, July 19-27.

"Canada is really in a first class position now," Talbot said. The teams are headed by Nancy Garapick of Halifax, backstroke world record holder, and Stephen Pickell of Winnipeg, holder of nine gold medals at the spring nationals that concluded Monday.

"The team certainly shows promise of being a great Olympic team, particularly in the women's events. Even the men's team, which I'm usually very critical of, has some great potential . . . "

Stanfield and coaches the Calgarian Dolphins Swim Club that makes up almost half the national team, said the women's team "is an absolutely fabulous team . . . It's the best team we've had by a long way."

"I feel we're not going to be ready to settle down to the individual medley events. The Canadian team will gather in San Diego, Calif., July 5 for a series of long-course, outdoor training. In preparation for the Cali competition, They will go to Colombia July 12.

With Bob Barberstock and S. Kemp combining pitching talents to spin a solid shutout, the home team held Latta to a single run in the second and sixth innings.

John Hill and Bob Reid split the pitching chore for Latta and turned in a sound performance in defeat. They were touched for only six hits.

Top hitter for the winners was W. Brant with a pair of singles.

Stirling Softball Organized

Last summer the Stirling and District Men's Softball League took a turn for the worse and died. However, the league has been reincarnated and Tuesday night held its first official deadebanker of the season at Stirling Public Park.

The only change in the league this year is that there are no longer restrictions. In past years the league had an additional residence rule. This year signings were wide open and it seemed to be just what the doctor ordered.

There are eight teams in the league — Stirling Motors, Stirling Mens, Stirling Juvenile, Tucker Farm Supplies, Franklin Concrete, Rideaway Hotel and B Precast, Springbrook and Trend Sawyer Mill.

Doubleheaders will be played every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at Stirling Park from May 30 to June 3 and every Tuesday and Thursday after the 30th for the remainder of the summer. Game times are 7 and 8.30 p.m.

CFL Favors Weekend Games

HAMILTON (CP) — Canadian Football League general managers reached general agreement Tuesday on a proposal that the league restrict its schedules to weekend games next year.

The scheduling proposal, which defines weekends as covering Friday, Saturday, Sunday and some Mondays, will receive further consideration at the separate Eastern and Western conferences meetings today.

Earl Lunsford of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, acting as spokesman for the general managers, said he expects the likely draw heavy debate throughout the four days of meetings.

He said the proposal had received "general approval" from most of the nine general managers. The idea was first proposed by Hamilton Tiger-Cats at the CFL annual meeting last February.

Lunsford said it was hoped that the weekend scheduling would condition fans to attending weekend games. Some clubs such as Hamilton, Toronto, Vancouver and Winnipeg, are worried that they may lose some fans who normally leave town to spend time at their cottages on weekends.

The weekend scheduling would mean the season would have to be extended to 18 weeks. It now takes the league 15 weeks to complete a 16-game schedule.

Cats Sign Wide Receiver

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats announced Tuesday the signing of wide receiver Don Rich, 22, giving the Ticats John Gofton's high-scoring Grambling College in Louisiana.

Rich, who has size and 185 pounds, produced eight offensive record which still stand at Notre Dame, including career receptions (102), career yardage (3,182), career touchdowns (40) and a single-game record of 15 catches and 227 yards last year, was with the Montreal Alouettes of the World Football League.

Jim's signing with Hamilton was one of the reasons Ralph Sazio, Ticats' head coach, was "When you go to a football camp as a receiver, it says things to have supreme there who knows your style."

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders announced Tuesday the signing of defensive end Jesse O'Neal for the 1973 Canadian Football League season.

Work with CAHA Is League's Aim

QUEBEC (CP) — The chairman of the recently-formed Canadian Major Junior Hockey League (CMJHL) says the new league hopes to operate under the umbrella of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association (CAHA).

Paul Wilson, owner of Regina Pats of the Western Canada Hockey League and newly-elected chairman of the board of the CMJHL, said Tuesday night the league hopes to solve some of its internal problems before it applies to reach a working agreement with the CAHA.

Formation of the new league was announced two weeks ago. It comprises teams from Ontario's three major junior leagues, the WCHL, the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A series and the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League.

The CMJHL is meeting here in connection with the CAHA's annual meeting.

In addition to the election of Wilson as chairman, Gus Bodnar of the CHA Flin Flon Bombers assumes the role of vice-chairman while Paul Dumont of Quebec Remparts of the CMJHL will act as secretary-treasurer.

Earlier, the WCHL had indicated it would withdraw next season from the CAHA, governing body for amateur hockey in Canada. But the CHA and CMJHL had indicated they would remain within the framework of the national body.

Wilson said the CMJHL was meeting with the CAHA in an effort to resolve this and other problems that exist between the two groups. The WCHL had decided to withdraw from the CAHA because the latter would not permit it to cross over branch (provincial) boundaries in its recruitment of players from Tier 2 Junior A clubs in other provinces.

The CAHA had maintained that the major junior teams of the CMJHL could recruit within its own provincial branches.

"In clear words, we could not cross over the current branch boundaries," Wilson said. "This problem must be resolved with the CAHA."

The new league features a standard across-the-country contract that will keep players from signing with their birthday.

Wilson said the CMJHL could deal directly with the professional leagues—the National Hockey League and World Hockey League—in the drafting of players from its league by the professionals.

"But we wouldn't forget the CAHA," he said. "Somebody has to run minor hockey in Canada and that's the job of the CAHA."

The CAHA currently is involved in discussions with the NHL and the WHA and has failed to bring the two leagues to the bargaining table. It had hoped to negotiate a renewal of a pro-am agreement whereby the two leagues paid the CAHA for amateur players drafted to professional ranks.

The CAHA had been without an agreement with the two leagues since the end of the current playing season. The WHA has steadfastly refused to negotiate a new agreement and the NHL has said it will not do so as long as the rival WHA remains.

Last year's draft of amateur players cost the NHL $1,360,000 while the assessment in the WHA was $576,000.

While the NHL paid in full for the players it received, the CAHA is still owed $180,000 owed by the WHA. If no pro-am agreement is signed, the CAHA stands to lose more than $80,000, the sum it received as its share of the $1.6 million assessed on the two professional leagues last year.

Seals Promote Evans

OAKLAND (AP) — California Golden Seals of the National Hockey League promoted Jack Evans, 47, to the team's head coaching job Tuesday. Evans coached the Seals' Salt Lake City farm club which was the Central Hockey League champion last season. Before that, the former NHL player coached San Diego Gulls of the Western Hockey League for two seasons.

$7 Million for Pele

NEW YORK (AP) — Brazilian soccer superstar Pele is set to sign a $7 million contract package with New York Cosmos of the North American Soccer League, the New York Post reported in its Tuesday editions.

Quoting a source close to Prof. Julio Mazzei, Pele's personal adviser, the Post said Pele, 32, has agreed to come out of a seven-month retirement and start with the Cosmos when they meet the Hartford Bicentennials on June 4 in New York.

Bob Bayer, Pele's close friend in the United States, is reported to have talked to Mazzei for 15 minutes Monday by phone from Santos, Brazil, and Mazzei was said to have confirmed reports that Pele reached a settlement with the Cosmos.

"He's coming to play," Bayer told the Post. "The professor told me that as far as he was concerned it's all decided. The financial terms have been settled and he told me that there was only one problem still to be resolved."

PELE

The financial terms are rumored to include a $4.5 million three-year contract, plus an agreement whereby the NASL owners will pay the approximately $2.5 million in taxes, as well as such items as a private jet, yacht, home and exclusive Manhattan office suite.

Pele put pro soccer on Oct. 4, 1974, after an 18-year career in which he scored 1,216 goals in 1,253 games. The only player to play on three World Cup winning teams (1958, 1962, and 1970), he refused to postpone his retirement and play in last year's World Cup competition even when asked to do so by former Brazilian president Emilio Garrastazu Medici.

Wilson Sparks Thistles

FERGUS, Ont. (CP) — George Wilson set the pace with five goals as Fergus Thistles overwhelmed Brantford Warriors 23-11 in Ontario Lacrosse Association Major series action Tuesday.

The victory for the Thistles broke a four-way tie for second place and put the winners 10 within two points of the front-running Brampton Excelsiors.

Make Trade

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Indians traded pitchers Jim Perry and Dick Bosman to Oakland A's for pitcher John (Blue Moon) Odom and an unspecified amount of cash, the Indians said Tuesday.

Tomahawks Whipped

LONG ISLAND, New York (CP) — Philadelphia Wings defeated Long Island Tomahawks 19-11 in National Lacrosse League action Tuesday.

John Grant of the Wings, who scored one goal, led a record with his 10 assists. The previous mark was also held by Maclonus, Sandy Fleming, Gord England and John Lovell.

Other leading scorers for Philadelphia were Jim Wasson, with six goals, and Jim Rickbell with three.

For Long Island, Dave Wilson scored two goals, Ian Treal Quebecois' John Davis. Long Island outshot Philadelphia 57-

GLASGOW (Reuter) — Scotland, with goals from Ted MacDougall, Kenny Dalglish and Derek Parlane, scored a 3-0 victory over Northern Ireland in a British soccer championship game Tuesday. Scotland, with six earlier in, heads the four-team championship on three points after two games. England and Wales, each with a win, edged Northern Ireland on the strength of an earlier tie, have also point apiece.

Bernadette Back With New Beliefs

BELFAST (AP) — Bernadette McAliskey is back in politics with a new set of beliefs.

Six years ago, as Bernadette Devlin, she became the youngest woman ever to sit in the British Parliament, elected after leading Roman Catholic civil-rights marchers to the barricades against the Ulster government.

She lost her seat in 1974. Since then she has been reorganizing her political beliefs and raising her three-year-old daughter, born before her marriage to schoolteacher Michael McAliskey.

Last December she formed the Irish Republican Socialist Party with Seamus Costello, who had been expelled from the "Official" Marxist Irish Republican Army. Now Mrs. McAliskey's new party and the Officials are in hot dispute over the future course of troubled Northern Ireland.

Mrs. McAliskey said she fears that she might be boycotted, but not by the Officials.

"The danger is that plenty of other forces will be happy to see me out of the way. They'll have excellent cover in blaming the Officials."

Despite these fears, she cheerfully brewed coffee during an interview in the kitchen of her cottage home at Derrycrossan, a sprawling country village not far from the blind Irish call a townland.

Mrs. McAliskey is 28 now but physically the same slender dynamo who emerged from student politics to international headlines. Only her blond hair's changed.

The blazing row with the Officials is basically a row between Stalinism and Trotskyism, she said. Her Irish Republican Socialist Party is on the Trotskyite side.

This is the first time she has identified herself with one political group, "reviled" she was a political free-lance, speaking for the political platform of both the leftist Official and the nationalist Provisional versions of the IRA, the ran for Parliament as an independent.

She said she supports the "anti-imperialist" struggle of the Provisionals against the British Army—a struggle in abeyance since the Feb. 29 ceasefire.

But the Provos, she hinted, are devoid of ideas as to what to do once the British leave Northern Ireland.

The Officials she accused of abandoning all struggle. They have observed a ceasefire since May, 1972, believing that armed anti-British action is counterproductive.

Her analysis is that 800 years of Ireland's national struggle have ended in failure and that something therefore must be wrong in nationalist thinking.

Nor is the mere recent struggle for socialism any nearer success. Therefore, she argues, the answer is to combine nationalistic fervor with a fight for leftism.

"The Republican tradition has always embraced differing philosophies and thus different tactics," she said.

"As a result, it has always split and it always will split until we get our organization and principles clear from the outset, combining the anti-imperialist and socialist struggles from the start."

Four years ago she was calling herself a Marxist while admitting she had never read Marx. The deficiency has been remedied with surprising results.

"Karl Marx as an individual was a bad-tempered pig. I can't stand neurotic Marxists who think they have to accept not just his ideas but his attitude to arrogance and lack of patience.

"Marx is not God. He talked much sense, but the things he wrote have never tried them out on the ground or at the factory gate. The task is to relate his analysis to what's happening now."

Flexibility is her new watchword.

"I started out from a bitterly position, demonstrating and agitating for reform.

"But I discovered the system was incapable of reform. So I took a back entrance, to read and learn. I may change again. People who never change their politics are either fools or some kind of robot."

"Over-all I am not an atheist. But the church progresses a lot of nonsense, like the sacred nature of property, in its acquiescence to law and order in opposition to the struggle of the poor oppression."

Some estimates have put the strength of Mrs. McAliskey's new party at around 700. She said she would be aware the mark her that she's worried by support. Discipline and political structure were more important than size.

The party task: "A serious attempt to define Irish republicanism and to relate it to the international struggle, which is an international struggle." The party has already formal overseas contacts but would support the Viet Cong, the Palestinians and "those elements working against bureaucracy in the Soviet Union."

She looked back six years to 1969, Bloody Sunday, the civil rights movement and its fight for self-defense against Roman Catholics in Northern Ireland.

With more than 1,130 dead, has it been worth it?

"Yes," she said. "Some people accused the civil rights movement of moving too fast. We said it went too slow.

"But the side-effects, the shootings and bombings, would have come the same whichever way we played it.

"The idealism is still there, too. Only talk about war-weariness. But that's a concept I don't believe in. Some will go on fighting."

Her instructions for returning by car to Dublin had an Irish flavor: "Get back to the bottom of the road and there's a signpost for Portadown. That's the road to Belfast. The Lagan pulls the wrong way."

Reunited With Mother

SHEFFIELD, England (CP)—Graeme Spencer, who thought his mother died in an air raid here 34 years ago when he was aged three, was tearfully reunited with her in Australia.

Spencer, now 37, was told his mother died in an air raid here 34 years ago when he was aged three, was tearfully reunited with her in Australia. Spencer, who thought his mother died in an air raid here 34 years ago when he was aged three, was tearfully reunited with her in Australia.

Trend to Modernism Disturbs Minister

EDMONTON (CP) — The trend system in First Presbyterian Church in downtown Edmonton is pressed up full blast on Sunday services for the Derby, who form the bulk of the congregation.

Like many downtown churches, First Presbyterian suffers from a lack of interest in the sportsmen buildings that surround it. Most members of the congregation travel in from the suburbs, loyal to the area they lived in before urban growth demolished the area around their downtown homes.

Rev. Ed White, who has served the church for 35 years and will retire to a small suburban church in British Columbia this summer, hopes they will preserve their "affection and trust" to the new minister.

Prison Stars

DARTMOOR, England (CP)—Men from the prison in this Devon community showed a high average of skill against a York University soccer team recently. But it turned out the three of the prison team, who beat the students 6-4, are former professional footballers who served with famous city.

Born in Prince Edward Island 47 years ago and educated at McGill University in Montreal, Dr. White has worked hard for the 600-member congregation and the church, which is approaching its centenary.

A recent troop used to use his farm for a campground. There were girl guides and Brownie camps as well as a young people's group.

Only the Women's Missionary Auxiliary is left now and Dr. White is one tired to beat the drums of enthusiasm any more.

"I've reached the stage when I'm rejoicing to give over the time to someone else.

"There was a time when I thought I had to upset God's world to put it on an even keel. Now I'm glad I have time to sit back and enjoy it the way God made it."

Dr. White is deeply concerned about the trend towards modernism in the church. "If the church gets through to young people at the expense of the old," the resulting schism could destroy more than was gained.

A firm believer in careful research, analysis and democratic decision, he said young people should listen to the elders who "still have a lot to contribute."

But he granted that old people tend to regard young adults as "still too young to take on responsibility" in church work.

Dr. White said he feels sorry for children brought up in families without religious training. "They just don't seem to have any moorings or anchors.

"In religion there is mercy and pardon, both received and shared. When you learn that out of life, there isn't much to hold

Unorthodox Thinker Unable To Get His Theories Tested

CHICAGO (CP) — Albert Einstein, a scientific genius, admired your investive power and logic- mity," said a 1945 letter signed A. Einstein.

"There is, however, a tragic trend in your struggle. Your powerful talent is hampered by a lack of sufficient factual and theoretical knowledge and you have—in the intellectual respect—a solitary life, without a friend who has enough knowledge to help you with his understanding."

Knowing this to be true, Mr. Horne, a former plumber, boat builder, service station owner, weatherman and inventor, sent letters to universities across Canada to ask them to test his hypothesis.

No one ever did, and today he sits in his apartment combread over since I've known him, but I don't understand what he's talking about," said his wife.

Mr. Horne explained that he had written to Einstein about the possibility that the position of the moon has an influence on the solubility of water.

He also experimented with the influence of the moon in a more practical vein — fishing.

At the same time, he wrote an article, The Oxygen Theory of Angling, which was published in the now-defunct Game Trails.

A friend used to rent Mr. Horne's self-made boat to use for fishing on Lake Minnewanka. After he returned from several expeditions without any fish, the friend consulted Mr. Horne.

He confessed to the slide rule and the two men conducted further experiments which culminated in Tim's Thresholds for Anglers.

"I gave up fishing at that time," said Mr. Horne. "It was no fun going fishing when you knew they'd be biting."

For a time, he was a weatherman for one of Calgary's newspapers. A reporter called one day to ask him to predict the weather for the following Wednesday. The official forecast predicted mild weather.

"You'd better have your woollies on," said Mr. Horne.

A blizzard arrived Wednesday and the thermometer sank below zero.

"I got a write-up in Maclean's over that," said Mr. Horne. "God forbid, I had beaten the official weather offices at their own game."

Mr. Horne contends that gravity is a result of electrical activity caused by mechanical interaction between the surface of the charged particle and its core.

Perhaps one reason people are unwilling to accept this is that it is too simple and they believe theory must be complicated, he suggested.

World Depression Hits Swiss Watch Industry

BIENNE, Switzerland (Reuter — The alarm bells are ringing in Switzerland's famed clock and watch industry.

Switzerland produces more timepieces than any other country in the world and the export-oriented industry is vital to the economy. But it is going through its worst crisis since the Second World War and the depression is seriously worrying bankers and government officials as well as employers and workers.

About half the industry's 70,000 workers have been put on short time work schedules since the start of this year, it's in a tumbling. But production has dropped by almost one-third.

At the heart of the trouble is the Swiss franc, which has risen by an average of 40 per cent against other major currencies since fixed parities were abandoned four years ago.

Consequently, the 84 million Swiss timepieces exported each year—80 per cent of total production—are more expensive to buy overseas, Switzerland's 1,300 manufacturing firms are complaining that their competitors, chiefly in the United States, Japan and the Soviet Union, are gaining a lucrative advantage.

"There is no doubt this is the gravest crisis the industry has faced since the war," said Enrico Pievani, economic counsellor of the Bienne-based Swiss Horology Federation.

The problem is, in a sense, symbolic for Switzerland. The small alpine republic, with a population of just over six million, relies on its people's manufacturing skills to make up for a lack of raw materials.

Although the watch trade is not the only Swiss industry currently in difficulties, it is generally regarded abroad as the country's standard bearer.

"Traditionally, our watches are regarded as the image of our country; as our visiting card," one executive said. "Now the industry is suffering serious problems and the image is getting faded."

The industry, whose production (more than $2.38 million) last year accounted for 10 per cent of total Swiss exports, is centred in this area around the rolling Jura hills of northwestern Switzerland, close to the French frontier.

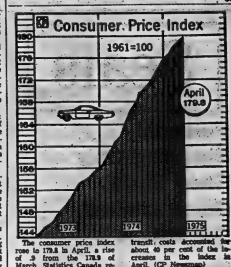
Its 70,000 employees represent eight per cent of all Swiss workers, in terms of output it is the third-largest industry after machine tools and chemicals.

Its importance is national economic affairs is consequently vast. Ruling sources in Zurich said the problems affecting the watch makers have been one of the main pressures on the government to take firm action to curb the franc's climb.

The businessmen have said: "We have poured millions of francs into research to enable us to develop watches accurate to within a few seconds a year. But what is that worth to a buyer trying to fight inflation?"

Half the industry's employees' work week has been cut up to 30 per cent since the start of the year when the franc began its steepest climb, particularly against the dollar.

In June hundred employees have been fired this year. The situation is getting worse and there is no light at the end of the tunnel," said an official of the Horology Metalworkers' Union.



The consumer price index rose to 179.2 in April, a rise of .9 from the 178.3 of March. Statistics Canada reported May 9, that higher transit costs accounted for about 40 per cent of the increases in the index in April. (CP Newsmap)

Peach Brandy Production Dying Craft

PRETORIA, South Africa (CP) — A little piece of South African folklore is slowly but surely dying out.

To find it one must travel to the northern provinces.

There a band of 180 people still are licensed to distil mampoer (peach brandy), provided they do not sell it or even give it away.

But when they do their concoct, which are not transferable, will die with them.

"I've been making my own mampoer since 1937," he says.

He was hovering busily over the bubbling pulp inside his handsome copper still, preparing his 1975 "vintage".

"In the old days people used to drink a lot of beer [at the co-ulator collecting the mampoer," Oom Gert says. "If the fat rose to the top the beer was not strong enough. To check, I sometimes take a little in a teaspoon and throw it in the fire under the still. If it burns with bright red flames it is not right, but if it burns with a large blue flame then it's the real McCoy."

Hunger and Reds Combine To Push Peasants to Action

SANTIAGO DO CACEM, Portugal (AP) — The people who used to work Henrique Barreira's cork plantation for $1 a day have taken it away from him and are running it themselves as Portugal's first collective farm.

Hunger and the Communist party pushed them into a kind of self-made agrarian reform here in the Alentejo region where the "patrons" of life hadn't evolved much since the Middle Ages.

Women who swear they used to hate field work now stay on the job.

"With what we were paid in the old days, we could hardly live," said farm chief Manuel Joaquin Zarrinho, 43.

Now, he figured, he and the other 128 people working the Red Star Collective Farm will reach not the equivalent of about $56 a week when the cork, pigs, tomatoes and wheat are sold.

The way the collective is organized, everyone from Zarrinho down to the women clearing an irrigation ditch gets the same wages, based on units of an eight-hour work day. Until the end of the year, when the work days are counted up, members can borrow from a farm fund to obtain each meal.

The co-operative has the government's blessing, a loan from the Agrarian Institute, technical help from Romania, East Germany and Russia and 8,231 acres of the region's best farmland.

Zarrinho's 23-year-old son Jose estimated the income from the cork alone will be $200,000 a year. In addition, they are planting rice, tomatoes, barley, wheat and vineyards where before there was only dense undergrowth good for rabbits but few farmers.

President Americo Tomas cuts twice a year to hunt here.

Unlike most properties in the Alentejo, Red Star is irrigated, considerably raising its value. Jose said the farm is probably worth millions of dollars.

"But Barreira is no rich he won't even miss it. He has 38 other farms almost as good."

Efforts to get Barreira on the telephone in Lisbon produced a secretary who said: "Senhor Barreira has nothing to declare."

The experiment at Red Star has significant implications for future agricultural reform in a country with a long growing season and a shortage of farm output.

The Communist party, strongly implanted in the Alentejo, said big landowners like Barreira are not putting their farms to the best use, and that "land to the people who work it" is a program that will not only reduce unemployment but help make Portugal agriculturally self-sufficient.

The men who occupied the plantation Feb. 17 and got the government to nationalize it a week later say the land was overgrown with weeds and they found the corpses of nine cows and 30 calves which had starved to death.

Part of the work force is clearing underbrush from between the hundreds of thousands of cork trees to sow wheat and forage for the planned herd of 3,500 cattle. "Within three years we will be exporting beef," Zarrinho forecast.

Need Integration

CALGARY (CP)—Concluding that a better integration of the various agencies dealing with young offenders is needed after intensive study, the Calgary police branch is setting up a youth bureau. It will replace the juvenile delinquency squad.

Liquid Gas, Frozen Oil Proposed for Pipeline

EDMONTON (CP) — Research on a pipeline which would carry both liquefied natural gas and frozen crude oil from the Mackenzie Delta has been stalled by the federal government's reluctance to support technological innovation, says E.G. Jensen, head of engineering for the Alberta Research Council.

"Maybe they consider it a crackpot idea," he said in an interview. "But we've taking it seriously. And we don't think Ottawa has given us a fair hearing."

Researchers at the council can back the combined pipeline concept with some observations and certain scientific assumptions but they need more data, such as the accessibility of crude oil, before they can claim to have a "viable technology."

"There are people in Canada who are competent to create a data bank but a request for $171,000 from federal coffers to finance the research was turned down, Mr. Jensen said.

"It's very difficult to get new technology introduced. You can get the engineers on your side but not the bankers. Why should they take a risk when they can put their money into just about anything and get a 10-per-cent return?"

Under the council's plan, crude oil would be poured into semi-spherical indentations on two vertically-mounted, parallel conveyor belts. The belts would meet closely together, forming a series of spherical moulds that would be moved downward into a tank of liquefied gas (LGN) at —162C.

The spheres of oil would freeze and become almost immobile in the gas, drop out of the belts and pass through a special pump into an LNG pipeline with a diameter slightly larger than that of the sphere.

The 1,320-mile pipeline would end near the north-eastern Alberta oil sands development, where the two components would be recombined and transferred to existing conventional pipeline systems.

The refrigeration effect created when the liquefied gas is returned to gaseous form could be used as a coolant in thermal power plants and to condense ice fogs at the airstrip, said Mr. Jensen.

The combination gas-oil concept would take advantage of Mackenzie Delta oil reserves, estimated to last 14 to 18 years, and would allow a 48-inch pipeline to be built without relying on carrying Alaskan gas to markets in the United States.

The Americans may decide on an all-U.S. route for their gas and "without Prudhoe Bay gas a 48-inch pipeline for Mackenzie Delta gas (proposed by Canadian Arctic Gas Ltd.) is not justified," said Mr. Jensen.

A smaller, all-Canadian pipeline is being proposed by Alberta Gas Trunk Line Co. (AGTL) to deliver natural gas from the Mackenzie Delta to Canadian markets. But both the Canadian Arctic and AGTL proposals ignore Mackenzie Delta oil reserves, which are too small to warrant a separate line.

The cold pipeline concept, which "eliminates any dangers of melting the permafrost and thus eliminates a major ecological concern," was sent to Canadian Arctic and AGTL but met with negative response, Mr. Jensen said.

Costs for a combined line are competitive with conventional pipeline costs but "not spectacularly so—not cost-each or 20 per cent—because you have to liquefy the gas and need special steel."

"Insulation is another bugbear; what will you insulate it with?

"Between the lab and the field there are a lot of headaches, a lot of questions. There's a colossal exercise ahead."

But the pipeline relates to federal interests more than to provincial concerns and it is "outside the Ontario's responsibility to see that research is continued, said Mr. Jensen.

Austria Tries to Give Vienna Vital Role Again

VIENNA (Reuter) — Disturbed by Vienna's waning international prestige, the Austrian government has embarked on a multi-million-dollar plan to help restore the city to its former role as an international capital.

The project, to build a satellite city between United Nations agencies on a site overlooking the Danube River, accompanies UN moves to give the Austrian capital a greater role in its operations.

The new site will house the two UN organizations already based in Vienna—the UN Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO) and the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA).

The General Assembly decided last December that the world body should look into the possibility of transferring other departments to Vienna from New York.

The project due to be finished in the autumn of 1979, certainly will have room for other departments. Its four office towers are designed to hold 4,700 people, UNIDO and IAEA expect to move in with little more than 1,000 although the estimated demand on development in the next two years.

The assembly also agreed to make Vienna the third city on the UN calendar for regular conferences, after New York and Geneva.

For this, and in the hope of attracting other major international gatherings, a vast conference centre to house about 7,000 delegates is to be built.

Now a city with an elderly population and a habit of living in the past, Vienna considers itself best by UN organizations and grand conferences as a means of rejuvenation.

The city is in danger of becoming isolated after centuries as a pivot on the European continent, a conference meeting ground for powers from East and West and, until 1918, the ruling seat of an empire.

It is, of course, still the administrative centre and economic capital of Austria. But tourism, particularly from the United States, has been hit badly and the city has no solid industrial base.

The government and city officials have been trying to persuade UN bodies and international organizations to set up home here since the Second World War. The IAEA came in 1957 and UNIDO 19 years later, when Vienna overcame sharp competition from other cities.

Building began on the new centre a year ago. Now, on the flat left bank of the Danube, vast concrete pillars jut into the sky, surrounded by spindly, whining cranes.

The first of concrete, steel and steel eventually will turn into four tall towers with concave, V-shaped ground floors. They will be grouped around a central circular reception area and another building with smaller towers containing services for UN employees, including shops, restaurants and libraries.

The UN city, as it has been dubbed unofficially, will have parking space for 2,500 cars, besides six cents a year.

Sixty-five per cent of the 736 million cost will be borne by the federal Austrian government, the rest by the Vienna city administration.

The government is convinced this huge expense will pay future dividends. Critics, led by the opposition People's Party in Parliament about the cost of the plan, Finance Minister Hanes Androsch of the ruling Socialists limit the benefits the project would bring.

The concept that flows into the city will make the project worthwhile, the finance minister argued. In 1971 the 28 international organizations in Vienna, including UNIDO, IAEA and the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), brought about $84.15 million into the city.

Androsch added that the presence of UN facilities is also of great importance for the security of neutral Austria.

Chinese Find New Planets

NANKING China (Reuter) — Chinese astronomers say they have discovered two minor planets between Mars and Pluto.

They told a British news delegation visiting the Nanking Observatory that the tiny planets, spotted last January, are rarely visible because of their position in the solar system.

Instead of following the Western tradition of naming such planets after their discoverer, the Chinese astronomers have christened them Purple Mountain One and Two.

The observatory, founded in 1934, is set on top of Purple Mountain.

TV Newcomers Produce Series

TORONTO (CP) — When television viewers catch a new CBC series called Pop Show next fall, they will see the product of personal Broadcast and enterprise rarely found in the hallowed halls of network corporation.

They will see at least 11 half-hour shows, each of them complete, all written and filmed by a Canadian newcomer in the field of television.

"We have given a chance," said executive producer George Bloomfield, "to writers that not even he say 'renaissance' among them, but there is a definite feeling that there is something to be said, the stories they tell.

"Most of them are comedies—some black comedy, some perhaps some chop-stick—but there is one heavy drama, one a drama-documentary, and the like."

Pop Show is one of the results of the increased freedom given by CBC-TV to develop new writing, writing and directing talent under John Hirsch, head of the drama department. Last winter's shows on the Sunday night Performance series were a sampling of the new artistic freedom in the corporation.

Bloomfield was producer-director of the popular CBC Festival series in the late 1950s and, after working primarily in live theatre and film, as a director, has returned to the corporation to produce some of Bloomfield's ideas.

They are to bring onto TV screens a lot of the talent that has been working in Canadian films and theatre without much chance to work in television, Bloomfield thinks. He also wants more TV drama to reflect Canadian issues and situations.

Bloomfield started almost a year ago by inviting stage and film directors across the country to work experimentally and learn television techniques. In CBC studios here.

From more than a score he has selected eight—and will produce three more—in five half-hour shows specially written and tailored for the Pop Show series. Two, directed by Stephen Katz of Vancouver Playhouse and Paul Thompson of Theatre Francais Marcelle, have been taped and the others will be shot during the summer and fall.

Working with Thompson, in particular, appears to have been a novel experience both for CBC executives and the corporation's technicians. For Thompson, as a rebel in the theatre world, almost never working with a prepared script or much in the way of detailed plans.

Thompson improvises, and that isn't normally done at the CBC. He had an idea for a play about a young man caught in the fantasy world of television, in love with Mary Tyler Moore.

After two weeks of improvising, rehearsing and letting his imagination roam, Thompson got his seven actors together and his seven actors before the cameras for two days and Bloomfield said the story jelled.

Straddling stage and movie directors into television has the advantage of widening the CBC's area of search and picking talent as well, Bloomfield said in an interview. Most of the directors brought their own writers and actors. In fact, the series will use 22 writers who have not previously worked on television.

Stage directors, in particular, are used to working with an audience seated "out front," and on a broad stage. To work in television, they must adapt to the narrower focus of a small screen and for an audience watching in their homes.

Bloomfield said that with Hirsch in charge of TV drama, directors have been given more opportunity to use personal initiative and entertainer. More decisions are made by individuals, rather than by corporate committees.

"We now can make the decision, and we know that if we don't deliver, we might be out—not just transferred sideways into some other job," Bloomfield said.

Leslie Nielsen Versatile Actor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Its Leslie Nielsen, Leslie decided, is a hard-nosed conservative who teaches his son how to handle guns, with tragic results.

Earlier this season he appeared on Hawaii Five-O as a dictatorial participant and on The Streets of San Francisco as an alcoholic cop.

Nielsen has finished a four-part Kung Fu as a nonarmed amateur sensei on Barbara Stanwyck's Cast of San Francisco.

He is television's favorite villain and he finds the work enjoyable and—sometimes—enjoyable.

Nielsen, 50, is a big, handsome, congenial Canadian who seems an improbable candidate for a hard-working heavy.

The work provides him an income of well over $300,000 a year." And that doesn't include his TV commercials (Ford, Philadelphia Electric, Bank of America), his narration (National Geographic specials).

The actor pursued to discuss his craft before taking off for the Philippines to star opposite Nancy Kwan in a feature film, The Guardians—as a hero for a change.

"I got onto this kick of playing heavies eight years ago and after I did one of the first World Premiere movies, 'The Lonely Profession,' " he said. "The character was a tough, up-standing bastard and he was fun to do.

"I told my agent: 'From now on I want to play heavies. Not sneaky heavies, but guys who are mean and bad to it.' I've been doing it ever since. I'm thrilled to get a great appearance per show and each season but there are a couple of them to keep me busy.

"For instance, I usually do all of the Quinn Martin shows (Streets of Sag, Francisco, Barnaby Jones, Cannon, etc.).

Nielsen was born in Regina, son of an RCMP officer. After a stint in the RCAF, he studied film at UCLA, then broke into acting during the explosion of TV drama in the early 1950s.

He served a stretch at MGM as a leading man (Forbidden Planet, The Opposite Sex and his best role ever in movies—The New Breed and Bracken's World as well as the salad-series Swamp Fox for Disney and The Bold Ones.

He served 16 weeks on Peyton Place during its TV heyday.

"The only reason to star in a series is money," he said. "Under the right circumstances, I'd do it again, but I can make enough money playing heavies and that's heavy in a TV series is the best part."

Showbiz Short

CARDIFF, Wales (AP) — A pop concert by Scotland's Bay City Rollers was abandoned on Saturday night after a near-riot in which police said more than 70 young girls were injured trying to storm the stage.

It was the second wild disturbance in two days involving the Scottish group, the biggest pop craze in Britain since the Beatles. On Sunday they also had to cancel another performance.

The Rollers gave up at Cardiff's Capitol Theatre after a half-hour as screaming teen-age girls fought security guards in repeated attempts to reach their idols. Police said none of the girls was hurt seriously.

BRUSSELS (AP) — Jacques Stehman, musician, composer and journalist acknowledged as one of Europe's top music critics, died of a heart attack at his home Tuesday. He was 61.

Today's hand is of little interest to rather hidden bridge players since South's four-spade contract is knocked. In fact five is laydown after the diamond lead while any other opening makes six a cinch.

South was hit with the diamond lead, but with help from expert opponents managed in make six anyway.

He took the first diamond, cashed the ace of spades and ruffed the deuce of hearts and called for dummy's king after West followed with the five.

East ducked quickly. He assumed that West would have selected with an even number of hearts and therefore felt threatened that can the duck couldn't hurt and might bother South later on in case one of West's doubleton spades ducked. South's jack won the trick. After that it was easy to lead a trump to dummy's ace, play the queen of hearts, ruff East's ace, go back to dummy with the king of trumps, discard the losing diamond on the ten of hearts and make six for a top score.

Hearts was the luck.

The bidding has been: 2♠ — 4♠ — ?

Lower Domestic Price For Crude Oil Backed

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal government policy still favors a lower domestic price for crude oil compared with international markets, Energy Minister Donald Macdonald said Tuesday.

He was commenting in an interview on a published report that federal government policy seems little interested in a lower domestic price and that the Alberta government disagrees.

The government believes prices should increase to bring on additional supplies of oil, but that "does not mean we will be going to the international price," the minister said.

He repeated it is his objective is the removal of price differentials with the provinces to hold an increase in less than $2.50 a barrel on the current price of $6.35.

The international price currently is between $10 and $11 a barrel. Libya, the shah of Iran, leader of one of the world's major producing countries, said during the weekend he expects another world price increase this fall.

Mr. Macdonald said only one domestic operation—the Syncrude Canada Ltd. oil sands development—has been given permission to charge world prices for its oil after it goes into production in 1978.

Higher prices were needed for Syncrude—owned by a consortium of seven private companies, Ottawa and the provinces of Ontario and Alberta—because of high development costs.

Treasury Gets Leave To Prosecute Strikers

OTTAWA (CP) — Treasury board has received permission from the public service staff relations board to prosecute 1,200 members of the Public Service Alliance's General Labor and Trades group in Ontario for illegal strike action last year.

The 176 workers are included in an application by treasury board for prosecutions dealing with walkouts in December.

Majority of the workers are employed in the Toronto area with the transport ministry and the defence department.

Under federal law, treasury board must first seek leave to prosecute from the staff relations board before proceeding with court action.

On April 11, 1975, the federal government for the first time ever—began laying charges against employees who have allegedly engaged in illegal strikes when notice was served on air traffic control assistants in Moncton, N.B.

To Your Good Health

Many Failures With New Livers

By C. C. THOMPSON, MD

Dear Dr. Thompson: I know they have done several heart and kidney transplants, but whatever they have done with liver transplant—Mr. P.

The bulletin of the American College of Surgeons in a recent issue carried a rather complete rundown on all organ transplants performed worldwide. The figures are gathered periodically by the Organ Transplant Registry.

As of January of this year, the registry had recorded a total of 189 liver transplants, only a fraction of the patients have survived, however—24 for more than a year, 13 for two years, and six for three years. One recipient survived five years.

Kidney transplants have been by far the most successful. There have been 19,907 transplants incessful attempts. Bone marrow transplants number approximately 6,000. The longest-surviving recipient who received a kidney from an identical twin-brother has lived 18 years after surgery.

There have been 36 pancreas transplants made, and of these only one is alive with a functioning graft. He has lived 8.9 years after surgery.

Much progress is being made in this challenging field of medicine, but many more lessons are to be made. The biggest problem remains that of the failure of the tissues of one body to accept the tissue of another. In liver transplants, the problem of complications in the biliary duct following surgery remains as a particular drawback.

Dear Dr. Thompson: I have been bothered with chill blains for the last few winters. Can you give me information as to how to get some relief before next winter rolls around?—Mrs. C. M.

The term is "chilblain," an itching and, often, pain resulting from exposure to the cold. Extremities are most often affected. It differs from frostbite, which is a local tissue destruction to the tissue by exposure (usually prolonged) to extreme cold.

Poor circulation is usually the most contributing factor in chilblain. For relief, you should warm the area gradually but avoid using very cold or hot compresses. Handwarmers and an extra pair of thin dress socks under your regular socks can be helpful.

CBC Backs Program Dealing with Cancer

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC said Tuesday it stands "completely behind" a television program on cancer which has been criticized by Dr. Bette Stephenson, president of the Canadian Medical Association.

Dr. Stephenson objected to what she called the "favorable treatment" given the Sunday night program to a drug called laetrile which is banned in cancer treatment in Canada and the United States.

Cec Smith, a CBC information officer, said "the program provides useful information about the treatment of cancer and we continue to stand completely behind both the quality of the research and the integrity of the journalism that went into the program."

The hour-long documentary was first broadcast in January and was the Canadian Cancer Society objected to it, but the CBC decided to rebroadcast the program Sunday.

Mr. Smith said producer Larry Gosnell worked more than a year on the program and added that the producer "dealt with the controversial drug (only in its) ultimate effects."

Dr. Stephenson said the program incorrectly left people with the impression that laetrile was a drug that cures cancer, and added there should be a certification of independent review of the CBC's policy on medical programs.

Can't Interfere

TORONTO (CP) — John Clement, acting solicitor-general, said Tuesday the government has no right to interfere in the management of regional police forces and commissioner Murray Sorby is reverse a decision of the Sudbury regional police commission to cover expenses of commissioners' trips to police chiefs' conference in Denver, Colo.

In Ottawa, the health department said it supports Dr. Stephenson in her criticism of the early treatment of the drug.

Health Minister Marc Lalonde said Tuesday in a news release that his department supports the position taken on the drug by the CMA and the National Cancer Institute of Canada.

Both bodies consider the drug worthless or even harmful if used to treat cancer patients.

PM's Home Costs Top Million

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau's two government-owned residences have cost the taxpayer $1,252,118 since the present prime minister moved in 1968, figures presented to a parliamentary committee showed Tuesday.

The amount, which includes about $1 million for the official residence at 24 Sussex Drive and $250,000 for the summer residence at Harrington Lake north of Ottawa, is about three times the amount spent under prime ministers Lester Pearson and John Diefenbaker, figures presented in the Commons miscellaneous estimates committee by H. R. Stewart, director of administration in the privy council office.

They showed that the average annual cost of the two residences so far in the Trudeau administration was $170,874, compared with an average annual cost of $67,800 under the Pearson and Diefenbaker years.

The amounts include the operating costs for a nine-member household, now up to grow to 16, and capital costs for repairs and alterations. Trudeau has said the estimated $250,000 cost of the swimming pool under construction at 24 Sussex, being financed by anonymous donors,

Simma Holt Raps Time, Digest Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — A second Liberal MP broke ranks Tuesday to denounce the Time-Reader's Digest bill in the House after another Liberal said that the issue has split government members.

Simma Holt, Vancouver-Kingsway, joined Ralph Stewart (Cochrane) in publicly opposing the plan to strip the two magazines of special tax status.

She released to all MPs and senators a letter calling the bill "repulsive" as a concerted effort to eliminate an old and strong ally and Canada's closest friend, the United States."

It followed an earlier Commons speech by John Roberts (Toronto St. Paul's) who criticized Mr. Stewart for saying last week that the bill was to be debated over the objection of many Liberal MPs.

Mr. Stewart said at one point the government might back down on the Mr. enough Liberals openly criticized it.

Mr. Roberts said Mr. Stewart's comments were "simply not true." By far the majority of Liberals were "in agreement to proceed."

He also expressed concern that Mr. Stewart's comments might mislead officials of the two publications. Both have said they will be forced to fold their Canadian editions if the 10-year-old tax privilege is removed.

Advertisers using the two publications are allowed under the special privileges to deduct advertising costs for tax purposes.

"They could be making a mistake if they think they can wait for withdrawal of this legislation," Mr. Roberts said of the two magazines.

Mrs. Holt said in her letter the bill is discriminatory and unjust.

"As citizens, we all have the right to choose the magazine we want to buy. I appreciate the fact that Reader's Digest provides Canadians not only with a good balance of national material but with universal and sensational subjects.

"I also prefer Time over Newsweek, U.S. News and World Report, also, for the same reason."

Time's Canadian edition carries less than 15 per cent Canadian content. Reader's Digest is about 25 per cent Canadian material.

Tainted Meat Seller Told to Keep Quiet

MONTREAL (CP)—A meat merchant, who testified peddling more than 700,0 pounds of tainted meat destined for human consumption, said Tuesday he was warned not to mention "big names" to police.

Andre Picard, 33, told the Quebec police commission's inquiry into organized crime the warning came from Gilbert Masse, a former meat director of Rogatis Foods, a meat processing firm operated by Vincenzo Cotroni and two partners. Cotroni was been described at the inquiry as a leading underworld figure.

Testifying under the protection of the Canada Evidence Act, Picard said he supplied between 1,000 and 1,500 pounds of meat to Mr. Masse every week for the last "several eight years." The meat came from farm animals which had died of natural causes, but was supposed to be shipped to firms for pet foods.

He said he received between 30 and 40 cents a pound for the meat. Most pet food manufacturers would have paid only seven or eight cents.

He admitted he knew the meat was being resold for human consumption. "At those prices, it wasn't going to dogs."

Judge Jean Dutil, inquiry chairman, also heard charges that tainted meat was stored in refrigerators owned by the Quebec government and served at an immigrants' centre run by the provincial immigration department.

Chief prosecutor Rejean Paul told Leo Produtis Limitee, owned by Gilbert Masse and located beside the centre, rough animals which had died of natural causes from A. Picard Ltd., a rendering plant, for resale to the centre.

He said centre officials complained often about the quality of meat but did not know the meat came from animals which had died of natural causes.

Cabinet Approves Montreal Pipeline

OTTAWA (CP) — The long-delayed extension of an oil pipeline into Montreal was finally approval from the federal cabinet Tuesday, allowing construction to start.

The cabinet ratified a National Energy Board decision to grant Interprovincial Pipeline Ltd. approval for construction of the 230-mile extension from the pipeline's existing terminus in Sarnia, Ont.

It marked the end of 18 months of delays over routing of the pipeline and federal financial guarantees for its own users.

Interprovincial says it hopes to begin work on the $185-million pipeline by September, completing it by mid-1976.

Initially, the pipeline will provide 250,000 barrels of domestic oil daily to the Montreal market, now totally dependent on foreign suppliers.

The energy board also said the pipeline will be reversible, allowing foreign oil imported through Montreal to be pumped back to customers in Ontario and the Western provinces if domestic reserves run too low to meet demands.

Wife Abducted

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Court of Appeal has ordered the former wife of a Toronto man to pay him $5 a month for each of their two children so long as the children live with him and until they reach the age of 21.

David Leonard Hilan had received a divorce from his wife, Elizabeth Anne, but she received custody of the children, aged eight and five.

Mr. Hilan successfully appealed the custody judgment. He received custody of the children and his former wife was granted access privileges.

Names Revealed

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario's ministry of health has violated the rights of uranium miners in Elliot Lake, Ont., Ontario NDP Leader Stephen Lewis said Tuesday.

The ministry's industrial chest disease branch released the names of miners who are suffering early signs of silicosis and the names turned up in the hands of the Rio Algom Mining Co., he told the legislature.

The Workmen's Compensation Board and the union representing the miners, the United Steelworkers of America, have attempted to keep the names anonymous for the last four years.

Labor Minister John MacBeth said he was upset after learning the company has obtained the names of the pre-silicotic miners.

U.S. Tactic

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario police forces are emulating riot squads when there is no need for them, James Renwick (NDP—Toronto Dresdale) said Tuesday.

Speaking during debate in the legislature on spending estimates of the attorney-general's ministry, Mr. Renwick said training of riot squads in Ontario is an example of increasing Americanization of police forces.

"The Americanization of the forces is extremely evident," he said.

Hydro Profit

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Hydro recorded a profit of $128 million—about 23.5 per cent on sales of just less than $1 billion in 1971, says its chairman, Robert Taylor.

Wife Must Pay

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP) — Police are holding two men in custody following the kidnapping of a local Royal Bank of Canada manager's wife Tuesday.

No charges have been laid and the investigation is continuing, police said.

Mrs. Roger Forget was abducted at about 2 p.m. Tuesday and released about three hours later, police said. She was described as being in a state of shock.

Police told Mr. Forget received a telephone call from an unidentified caller who said, "We have your wife," and demanded an amount of money to be dropped at a specific location.

Police declined to say whether the unspecified amount of money was paid or whether it was recovered.

Wants Tax Cut

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Labor (OFL) has called for a "massive housing program" and has repeated its demand for the removal of sales tax from home building materials.

In a brief presented to the Ontario cabinet today, OFL president David Archer told the provincial housing ministry has been unproductive.

Churches Ask Parks Be Dry

TORONTO (CP) — The Inter-Church Committee said Wednesday that family camping in Ontario will be ruined by the proposed changes in liquor laws governing the definition of a residence.

The committee, which represents Anglican, Baptist, Lutheran, Presbyterian, Roman Catholic, Salvation Army and United churches, made its views known in a letter to Sidney Handleman, Ontario minister of consumer and commercial relations.

In reaction to disturbances at Seaside Beach and East Rowe Park during the Victoria Day holiday weekend, the committee said it wants the law better defined.

The letter states that the section (in the law defines "residence" in addition to its usual meaning as "a place where occupied and used as a dwelling is at least, that it includes the land immediately adjacent."

"Few people are anxious to have us endure this invasion of privacy," the committee said. It recommends that the section be revised to omit any reference to a tent as a place of residence.

Ad Agency Head Buddy Of Allmand

MONTREAL (CP) — The Gazette says the president of a Montreal advertising agency which handled an RCMP recruit admits to being a friend and a former campaign worker for Solicitor-General Warren Allmand.

The newspaper says Denton Ogilvie, president of Denton Ogilvie Advertising Ltd., was awarded the RCMP contract in January, 1974.

Mr. Allmand is the federal minister in charge of the national police force.

The newspaper quotes Mr. Ogilvie as saying a suggestion by Dr. Morton Shulman, NDP member of the Ontario legislature for Toronto High Part, that the company was too inexperienced for the RCMP contract.

Americans Released

VIENTIANE (AP) — The United States embassy in the Lao capital said today Americans held captive in Savannakhet for nine days by student demonstrators has been flown to Thailand aboard U.S. air force planes.

Twelve Americans, most of them employees of the U.S. Agency for International Development, and six other foreigners had been held under loose house arrest in Savannakhet.

The Communist-dominated Laotian government said today that it decided to ask Washington to pull the agency out of Laos and hand over all aid material in the country.

The U.S. announced earlier today it has agreed to close its aid mission in provincial Laos as a first step toward abolishing the whole U.S. aid mission in the country.

U.S. Stands By Friends: Kissinger

ANKARA (AP) — U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger told the opening session of the Central Treaty Organization (CENTO) conference today that "only by standing by our friends" can the U.S. fulfill its responsibilities to world peace.

Kissinger was addressing the other CENTO ministers following visits to Austria and West Germany.

"As we strive for peace we shall never give up the principles or abandon our friends," he told the other four ministers.

"We will," the secretary pledged, "make every effort for further progress in restoring the normal defence relations with Turkey."

He did not mention the vote this week by the U.S. Senate to restore that aid.

Kissinger also told reporters that there will be a "substantial reduction" of U.S. personnel in Laos in view of the harmful effects of American aid by students.

But Kissinger said the reduction is not considered a complete withdrawal "at this point." There are about 1,000 Americans in Laos.

Kissinger noted that Washington has been reduced its 1,200 personnel in Laos to conform to political realities in the country.

Two Bodies Recovered

By MARGARET HAYLOCK

Wednesday night was the bleakest of two Toronto fishermen missing since last Tuesday have been recovered in the Wellers Bay area.

Fred Millard, 45 and his son, Fred, 21, were reported missing last week when they failed to return from a fishing trip. Their 15-foot aluminum boat came ashore last Friday and a wide search of the area was begun by police and navy workers.

A spokesman for the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said the men's bodies were discovered yesterday afternoon by local residents.

Mr. Millard's body was found at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday and his son's body was recovered a short time later. Mr. Millard was described as a non-swimmer and his son as a limited swimmer.

No inquest will be held, police say.

Terrorists Identified

TEHRAN (AP) — The Iranian government says it knows the identities of three terrorists who killed two United States Air Force colonels and is hunting for them.

"No action will be spared to find the murderers and bring them to justice," the government pledged.

The government said police have identified three Marxist guerrillas who stopped the colonels' car Wednesday, shot the unarmed officers to death and drove away.

Winkler Says Future Growth To Be Spread

By BARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

MADOC — The prosperity attracted by major urban centres will be more broadly distributed around Ontario in future, Eric Winkler, chairman of the provincial cabinet's Board of Management, indicated here Wednesday night.

He said the government would halt the growth of what he called "the great monolithic centres" in the province "because servicing them has become impossible".

"The resources now going to the great urban centres will have to be spread around," said Mr. Winkler.

The cabinet minister, who also is Conservative House leader in the legislature, was keynote speaker at the party rally that acclaimed Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings, as candidate for Hastings-Peterborough in the next provincial election.

While restructuring of local municipalities should not be confused with regionalization, there won't be another regional government unless the people want it, he said.

But a regional government became necessary in some areas because of the growth of the Toronto region.

"We don't want that monolith to become a greater thing in Ontario than it is. As a matter of fact, we will take care in the very near future to see it doesn't grow any more," he said.

"Some of that prosperity will be spread around the province," said Mr. Winkler.

Transfer of provincial funds to ease local taxes is one way of redistributing the wealth of the province, he said.

Such funding has been mounting each successive year since the administration of Premier William Davis took office, Mr. Winkler said.

Mr. Whitker also said that leadership was a major factor in provincial politics.

In the past four years the Toronto area particularly has been playing the role of opposition because opposition parties have been incapable, he declared.

The opposition parties today are just as "incompetent, incapable and inept."

120,000 or 14,000 Idle

Quebec Walkout Described As Success and as Flop

MONTREAL (CP) — A one-day walkout by thousands of workers across the province ended at midnight Wednesday night amid conflicting claims as to its success or failure.

Yvon Laberge, president of the 300,000-member Quebec Federation of Labor (QFL), which called the work stoppage to protest Bill 22, language law at Pratt and Whitney of Canada Ltd. (formerly United Aircraft) in south-shore Longueuil, said it was "a fantastic success."

He said 250,000 workers across the province took part in the protest, adding: "If the government doesn't take this as a clear, very serious warning, then they're sick."

But police reports estimated the walkout across the province at 14,000 men, and in Quebec City Premier Robert Bourassa called the walkout "a flop."

Support for the strike by members in the construction industry was less than expected by union officials, particularly in light of a one-day wildcat walkout by construction workers to protest legislation to replace four union locals under trusteeship. That strike ended last week.

Mr. Laberge laughed off Mr. Bourassa's comments, saying: "It was pretty big for a flop."

Asked if he was disappointed about the construction sector support at a press conference, Mr. Laberge said the workers, most with their trusteeships, "are in a bad enough position without having to be asked to walk off the job."

He said walkouts were protested in some places by police who arrested or detained a number of workers attempting to get others to join the protest.

He cited in particular the General Motors plant in nearby Ste. Therese where he said several union militants attempting to get others to join the protest were detained by police.

In Dorion, 15 miles west of Montreal, police arrested more than 30 persons visiting small businesses in the area trying to convince workers to leave their jobs.

Accurate figures on the numbers who walked out across the province were not available but support was strongest at the post office, in the automotive industry, the breweries, bakeries and among municipal blue collar workers.

Work on the Olympic Village site progressed under near-normal conditions. The main stadium site and the velodrome remained closed.

Both Olympic sites were closed May 2 by wildcat walkouts following the release of the Cliche commission report on violence in the construction industry. The report recommended the trusteeships be established.

Masked to Heal

Behind the pressure masks they must wear constantly, Cindy and Randy Woodard of Wichita, Kan., have begun to mend from the fire injuries that nearly took their lives. The masks, proven to prevent facial scarring, can come off in 6-12 months, but the children will require various treatments for the next 16 years. Carol Woodard, their mother, says it's a miracle they're alive.

Lebanon Strife In Second Day

BEIRUT (AP) — Palestinian guerrillas and the private army of Lebanon's right wing Phalangist party fought isolated street clashes today as a nation-wide strike crippled commerce for the second straight day.

Machine-gun and mortar fire was reported in several areas of Beirut, centre of the new cut-throat between the Moslem Palestinians and the Christian Phalangists that began Tuesday.

Police and four persons were wounded in one outbreak of shooting when a shopkeeper refused to heed the strike, called by the Palestinians and leftist political parties.

Police say 17 persons have been killed and more than 80 wounded.

The guerrillas accused the Phalangists of bomb attacks on refugee camps in Beirut suburbs and threatened violent armed action if the Phalangists continue their excesses."

The guerrilla leadership said the Phalangists were "trying to engender a rift against the Palestinians in Lebanon in order to liquidate them."

Peterborough Yachtsman Was Detained by Chinese

HONG KONG (AP) — A Miami yachtsman says the Chinese detained his boat and eight persons, including a Peterborough, Ont., man, for four days last week after he strayed into Chinese waters.

The Chinese also reported his engine.

Hal Newell said his 54-foot ketch, the Lady Esther II, was starting a cruise from Taiwan to the Bahamas when it was seized off the Chinese Lintu Islands about 19 miles south of Hong Kong May 15.

He said he was approaching Hong Kong but there was not enough light to get to the harbor.

"In addition the engine developed trouble and I decided to anchor the boat in a small cove which I thought was part of Hong Kong," Newell said.

He said several Chinese officials came aboard soon afterward and informed him the cove was in Chinese territory.

"The officials apparently were very much annoyed that we came from Taiwan. But aside from this I would say they were very amiable."

He said the Chinese provided engineers who did "an efficient job" of fixing the engine.

Newell said he was escorted to Hong Kong May 19 after he signed a statement that he "intruded Chinese territory accidentally."

On board were his wife Esther; Bill Hregy of Newark, Del., and his 12-year-old grandson, Michael Dedek of Dayton, Ohio; Ann Cox, a U.S. resident of Tokyo; Chris Young of Chicago; Barbara Present of Milwaukee, Wis., and Ted Goddard of Peterborough, Ont.

Newell said the ketch will remain in Hong Kong for several months for further repairs and to avoid the typhoon season.

Newfies 'Sick' Today

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Inside postal workers in Ontario have been asked to book off sick Friday to spur government action on contract talks, an official of the London local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) said Wednesday.

James Sandall, president of the London local, also said there are indications that workers in some western provinces will participate in the walkout.

He said CUPW headquarters in Ottawa has asked its local to participate in the one-day protest in an effort to judge the federal treasury board towards a contract settlement.

"I think it's already out that Ontario and the western provinces would be in support of any action Friday," he said.

Mr. Sandall said workers in the eastern provinces would likely take their turn at a study session today.

Meanwhile, CUPW spokesman in Ottawa said Wednesday that the union is considering a number of options to speed up the talks, including a one-day strike, rolling strikes in selected Ontario centres and a work-to-rule campaign.

The CUPW, which represents about 22,000 workers, presented its initial demands March 21, including an hourly increase to $7.75 from $4.58 in a one-year contract, the right to negotiate technological change and the use of casual labor, and a reduction in the work week to 30 hours from 40.

The government last wage offer was an increase of $1.15 an hour over 32 months.

district director of postal services, said all postal stations were closed and there would be no mail sorting in the province today. The work stoppage began at midnight.

Note Taker

University of Guelph landscape architecture student Steve Skidd sits on plenic tables in Centennial Park making notes for a master plan of Trenton parks he expects to complete in August. The plan he hopes will form a basis for development of town parks he now calls only semi-developed.

Parks for People Planner's Aim

By AL EARAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — A mountain. A forest. A river.

Trenton has each in the form of Mt. Pelion, Hanna Park and the Trent River.

All are attractive ingredients in Trenton Steve Skidd calls the tremendous potential Trenton has for creating a good network of parks and related recreational activities in the town.

"Not for all intents and purposes, they haven't been developed.

"There's a place for someone over 30 to go and just sit in a green space."

Trenton parks are in a state of semi-development, he says. There is rough vegetation cover, a few broken-down play structures for children, no benches, no garbage containers.

He's in the midst of creating a long-term plan for developing the potential, ending the neglect, he has seen. His impressions are quickly, Articulate, informal, he talked Thursday with his legs draped over the red leather armchairs in the boardroom at Trenton Community Gardens.

He talked himself into his job and is concerned with its credibility, emphasizing his separation from park studies done previously by arranged, but proud at 24, to carry credentials of some six years of university studies in biology and architecture, the last two at the University of Guelph for a master of landscape architecture degree.

His concern with Trenton's parks is genuine, he says. A consultant he is, but one that plans to continue an association with Trenton longer than the five years he has already spent in the area.

Trenton is well equipped with parkland — 13 acres per 1,000 residents. That's higher than the 10 acres per 1,000 population recommended by the Town Planning Institute of Canada, one of the "bible" publishers of land use standards.

The town has 19 parks (180 acres) and of those, four are regional ones (Mt. Pelion, Centennial, Bain, and Hanna.)

The "smaller" are neighborhood park. These, says Skidd, are where almost immediate action can begin, once the master plan for parks is complete in mid or late August.

On a still preliminary basis, he has been able to assess the physical attributes of each park. He has not in most, yet watched any of them in use to ask how they use a park, what they want to

He has discovered the average age of Trenton to be 25-years, and significant in itself, but an indication that in some neighborhoods the children are not children and don't need the classic park structure — swings.

Put simply, if there are a lot of children in one area, put in creative playground equipment. For the young elderly, put benches in a neighborhood park there's teenage 2 scrub.

Next year, at the neighborhood park level, work on development, can begin. With participation in hand, the provincial or federal governments can be approached for Opportunity for Youth, Experience or Local Initiative Program (LIP) grants.

Such a method of developing the small parks is the most realistic and realizable, says Skidd. Grants, in this form or another, can be brought to Trenton.

That kind of approach says Parks and Recreation director Dene Gettas is realistic rather than Utopian, a problem he saw with some studies of parks over the past few years. Gettas approach garnered in some five hours of initial talks between the two men, is different. Rather than come from outside Trenton, pick the brains of town staff, and "crystallize their comments on paper, Skidd is working at producing a workable" document.

Director Gettas says once complete, the plan will be presented to the parks board for discussion. From there, the future is still unknown.

As far as regional parks in Trenton are concerned, Skidd has definite ideas about development. He acknowledges the need for far more money than the town contributes now, money the town cannot possibly raise on its own.

Pessimistically, at least at this stage of his study, he says problems definitely exist in the matter of dollars and cents. Because Trent Canal's tourist potential looms large.

Regional parks fit into that tourist picture, as does the creation of a "green" area within Trenton along the Trent River, now unwelling to boaters. The river's banks need industry and parking lots to the boater: "Nothing to attract you to Trenton."

He concludes that the image Trenton now projects to those who pass through is one of an industrial town. "It's definitely unloveling."

Council Defers Decision On Development Report

PICTON — Prince Edward County council Tuesday voted against approval and implementation of a report on redeployment possibilities for the county until it can be studied in depth.

The decision followed comments by Picton reeve Larry Richardson, who said he was reluctant to accept the report submitted by economic development director William Duggan at such short notice.

"I feel it is somewhat vague and lacks specific information. It does not clearly outline the future role of the economic development director," observed reeve Richardson.

He added he is not convinced council and its economic development committee has had enough time to decide on its new direction.

The reeve said he is concerned by the type of industries locating here in the industrial park. They locate but operate for only a short time before folding or fail to go into production.

He said the report offers generalities but a detailed assessment of the value of the new industries to the county is lacking.

The reeve suggested it is desirable for the persons employed by the industries that fold to swiftly after location here.

"I'm very concerned about this," he emphasized.

Chairman of the economic development committee and reeve of Wellington Robert Rogers agreed more time may be needed to study the report but added there has been "a little exaggeration" concerning fly-by-night industries here.

He said the incident at Loch Sloy Industrial park says only one building now is vacant.

Hallmaster Boats is hiring more staff and doing well while Manco Home Systems also is expanding.

"We have four industries there with full-time employment and all of them doing well," commented reeve Royce.

He said it was impossible for Proctor-Leroy to locate in Prince Edward until "a certain gentleman" (Picton's late mayor, R. Lloyd Gerrard) made it possible by supplying a site in Picton.

Similarly, he provided a location for the Bethlehem Steel ore docks here.

Councillors voted in favor of the motion by Sophiasburg reeve George Foster to delete the last word "report" from the economic development committee's report, seeking adoption of the brief on county development potential.

"It's foolish to delete it unless councillors study the report and prepare questions on it," he stressed.

Ministry Proposes Archery Hunting

PICTON — An archery hunting season for deer in Prince Edward county is proposed by the ministry of natural resources for this fall, says James Taylor, MPP Prince Edward — Lennox.

No action will be taken unless public response supports the move.

Mr. Taylor, speaking from his office in Queen's Park, Wednesday observed the suggested archery season would open Nov. 3 to Nov. 30.

It would cover an area reaching almost to Port Hope on the west and to Wolfe Island on the east. All southern portions of Lennox, Addington, Hastings and Prontenac counties would be touched and all of Northumberland and Prince Edward counties.

Mr. Taylor said the deer population for the area in question is about 1,000 with an annual kill of 220 deer through mortality. An allowable harvest would be 200 deer. Therefore, there would be only 130 deer to be killed.

The MPP said it has been estimated a 10 per cent kill would take only 30 deer.

Special archery seasons have been held in other parts of Ontario since 1965 and in 1972 a season was started in southwestern Ontario.

Few land owner complaints or other complications have sprung from the archery seasons.

Mr. Taylor predicted there would be disadvantages such as trespassing but the archery season would not permit dogs to hunt deer.

He added that a new type of broad-head arrow would reduce the danger of superficially wounding an animal and letting it to die a slow death.

Broad arrows work out easily in minor wounds and if the deer is killed it is likely the arrow will drop.

Mr. Taylor stressed the ministry of natural resources does not plan to force an archery season on Prince Edward County unless residents indicate they want one.

A survey taken several years ago showed most county residents would not object to limited season for Prince Edward hunters only.

"I see no approval there's nothing to be gained," Mr. Taylor said Friday.

He said the archery season would be a recreational activity and allow farmers with the necessary permits to shoot deer on their own property.

Its Own Fire Aid Is Murray's Plan

WOOLER — Murray township took the first step Wednesday toward setting up its own fire department while it waits for two estimates from Trenton for partial coverage of the township by town fire trucks.

Township clerk Ken Ross said today "we're going ahead with the concept of setting up our own department whether Trenton is in or out."

The township has been considering creation of its own fire hall and purchase of a fire truck since Trenton increased the 1970 fire protection cost to $30,000 up 150 per cent from $12,000 in 1969.

Previously, Trenton fire trucks covered the entire township.

Now both Ameliasburg and Frankford have entered into contracts with Murray for fire protection. Ameliasburg protects Murray south of the Murray Canal for $1,000 plus man hours. Frankford covers the northern half of Murray for a flat $6,000 annually.

Murray township council has balked at the $30,000 cost Trenton has asked for fire protection and is now negotiating with Brighton village for protection for half of the southern part of the township.

Mr. Ross said a decision will be made on offer of purchase on land along Highway 14 if need to use to build a fire hall. He said the township could put a pumper in a couple of months. A resolution by council is all that is required to purchase.

Murray now awaits cost estimate from Trenton for partial protection by township. Two alternative coverage areas have been set out— the entire southern portion or only the half closest to Trenton.

Mr. Ross said if the township gets prices from Trenton by the end of May, the town could still be protecting part of Murray.

Murray township is faced with a June 2nd deadline imposed by Trenton for payment of $13,000 for fire protection for half of 1975. Should the bill not be paid, Trenton has said it will cut off coverage to the township.

Mr. Ross said Ameliasburg, Frankford and Brighton have been asked their willingness to temporarily fill any gaps in fire protection left by a withdrawal of service by Trenton.

If Voluntary Restraint Fails Trudeau May Show Some of the Spirit of 1970

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Those who scoff when they read or hear of Prime Minister Trudeau being ready with some "tough" economic measures if they don't get a pretty quick consensus for voluntary restraint will do well to remember October of 1970.

That, of course, was the time of terror in Quebec, when the leading fringe of the separatist extremists kidnapped British diplomat James Cross, kidnapped and killed Labor Minister Pierre Laporte, and all but crushed the provincial government to paralysis of fear.

It turned out to be only a very small group of fanatical anarchists, but at the time nobody, including the federal government which spoke of "an unprecedented insurrection," could be sure the terror power might not be behind the FLQ terror.

The Trudeau response, with the government lobby of the Commons one of the most subdued and heard the Prime Minister speak of the possibility of taking such powerful counter-measures as calling out the troops.

You wouldn't dare, one of the newsmen, a veteran television network representative, told me, you just couldn't do all those men around carrying guns.

"Watch me," snapped the Prime Minister.

And then, almost immediately, to the immense relief of the overwhelming majority of Canadians, he took his frightening situation firmly in hand and invoked the War Measures Act.

The troops arrived, were on the streets of Montreal, on Parliament Hill, and stood guard at homes of offices of members of the Quebec and federal cabinets in Quebec City and Ottawa.

The FLQ was crushed, the crisis done, the Prime Minister, the strong man, emerging as a national hero.

Now five years later, there is another crisis. This one is economic.

Something has to be done, says the Prime Minister. And quickly. It can, preferably, be voluntary, but if necessary, it can be imposed from the top.

The War Measures Act won't do.

But a constitutional statute providing for "peace, order and good government" would.

It could be employed to supercede provincial jurisdiction in selected fields of the economy and impose controls in the public interest.

And the Prime Minister, again in the 1970 role of the strong man, has been showing early signs of preparing for action.

They came through, clear and sharp, at the recent Commonwealth Conference in Jamaica. A report those who watched and heard the Prime Minister, lunching both members of his personal entourage and the accompanying press party.

They saw him as tough, impatient with radical rhetoric, increasingly cautious and even conservative — that is, conservative in the small "c" nonpartisan sense.

The left-wingers among the Commonwealth leaders, including Tanzania's Julius Nyerere and India's Indira Ghandi, were playing in the Commonwealth Cong triumph over the American cause.

It was Canada's Trudeau who cooled them out with a warning of the possible Communist reprisals since taken so brutally in Cambodia — and a suggestion that the Americans right become a little distant with Third World nations.

Then he cautioned the Commonwealth's Third World members that their posturing about holding the industrial western nations to ransom through commodity cartels like the Arab's already weakening oil monopoly was ridiculous.

In the first place they didn't couldn't control their supplies or prices of oil — and in the second place, the industrial west, given the time, could develop enough to negate attempted economic blackmail.

And as to the Third World's clamor for what it calls a massive transfer of global wealth from the developed to the underdeveloped nations, the Prime Minister told the Commonwealth radicals that it wasn't much use if it went only to feed increasing numbers of people whose populations are beyond control.

Further, the Prime Minister refused any part of a suggested black radical war of liberation against white, democratically governed Rhodesia.

And finally he refused a hint that the black Caribbean Commonwealth leaders wanted to fire at the United States over its Cuban policy.

Trudeau was pushing Pierre Trudeau around. He knew what he wanted — peace, order and good government.

Prime Minister in Town

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau is in town and a welcome visitor at that. It is, we assume — the election before last, as we recall — since Mr. Trudeau was in Belleville. This visit is for tonight's meeting at Centennial under the auspices of the Hastings federal Liberal Association.

If the Prime Minister needs no reminding that universal approval of Government policy is missing, that is merely the fate, to one degree or another, of any leader. In'any event, he is due our respect as an able leader and as one of the most outstanding Canadians of our time.

Some questions the Prime Minister will inevitably face, however, have to do with inflation for one thing. Why for instance, the hefty increase in the remuneration of parliamentarians at a time when the watchword should be restraint, with the value of the dollar already too far in decline, the going tougher for pensioners, and the savings of Canadians of decreasing long-term value.

Then there are Canada's disbursements overseas through the controversial International Development Agency amounting in this "momentous year" (as External Affairs minister MacEachen termed it in the Commons in April) to $933 million. "Very close," as Mr. MacEachen said further, with perhaps some thing of guilt, to "the billion-dollar figure that some are attempting to erect as a scarecrow for taxpayers."

Why does Mr. MacEachen make such a comment if he does not have some qualms about this spending, both as to the amount and to the direction of such beneficence? There can be no quarrel with efforts to relieve hunger, but there should be questions in any disposition of public spending of such magnitude outside the country, as to whether it does in every case reflect what Mr. MacEachen has described as "Canada's political interests in the world."

Other questions might be directed forward the need for moral revival in Canada, revitalization of the work ethic. (hasn't Mr. Trudeau been quoted as saying in effect that work is not everyone's bag — that it's a matter of individual privilege?); toward a return also to a productive working society, rather than one wallowing in welfarism and labor disputes and resulting strikes.

One other major theme perhaps, one many attempt to deny exists, ignoring the signs all around, or sweeping them under the political rug. And that is: subversion, what a young cartoonist out in Whmipeg describes as a society growing "too Communistic — too socialist" and which he seeks to combat with a brand new "Captain Canuck" character, and, hopefully one that will grip the imagination of young Canadians.

Does Mr. Trudeau sense any left-wing drift, or anticipate anything in Canada in the nature of Lenin's 1905 dictum that "major questions in the life of nations are settled only by force?" Does he, as a parent, as well as a politician, envisage any upheaval in the long-term that would give him pause?

The Prime Minister might seek to dismiss such prognostications as hypothetical. Nevertheless, as one who is acquainted with the history of the past half-century, as well as with developments in more recent times, he cannot treat them lightly.

To-night's political ball session at Centennial may provide us with some answers, or at least some clues as to Mr. Trudeau's thinking.

Viewpoint

Brockville Recorder and Times

The public exchanges between Ontario Housing Minister Don Irvine and Federal Housing Minister Robert Danson are a sad reflection of the manner in which politics can become more important than the issue, which in this case is the decline in housing starts in Canada this year. Both federal and provincial governments say they are committed to providing housing for everyone in need. How serious either man or his government is in living up to the commitment is open to question in the light of results achieved to date this year. Neither government is doing as much as should be done but it seems the federal government could be doing more than it is to encourage more activity in the housing industry.

Government Advertising Rapped by Opposition

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — One of the five current forces (the term is generally dead) is over the amount of advertising being placed by the government at the moment.

Opposition members say frankly that the flood of ads that is appearing in the electronic and print media just now is an election build-up for the government.

Liberal Leader Bob Nixon has said in the house that there is a $10 million supplementary advertising program underway, that is $10 million in addition to the regular government program.

The government, of course, denies this.

But really one has to whiff a rat.

Advertising currently underway is noted by Mr. Nixon, include the following programs:

Consumer buyers identified to be costing over $400,000).

Stoelzel jobs.

Ontario's tax credit.

Consumer advice.

Seatbelts.

Liquor moderation.

Winters.

Since Mr. Nixon first enumerated his list another program has been added, the government endorsement of Family Unity Week.

Government advertising is always a touchy subject, and one in which it is almost impossible to draw the line between genuine need and political purpose.

Thus in the case of Wintario you can hardly lead a lottery without advertising it.

But does the form of the ad promote the government?

This rather seems the whole program may be questioned.

Then do we really need the consumer advice program?

This campaign which, it seems, has been running almost incessantly on radio, warns the public to get guarantees etc. in writing.

The impression it leaves with me, at least, is that if needed at all in this form it is being overdone.

In soap company would hardly give its products more play.

In fact this could be a danger that the PC's may be running into.

They may end up in over-sell. They were getting close to it this in the 1971 campaign. And the public will stand only so much.

If told something too often it can have the opposite effect than when told with its own money.

Hazards On-the-Job Pose Threat To Health

The Public Health Authorities say that over 100,000 workers die in Canada and the United States from on-the-job exposure to hazards. Each year, inhaling asbestos fibres is believed to cause the death of 2,000 workers.

New research workers have found that even families of asbestos workers are endangered by tiny quantities of asbestos dust that workers carry home on hair and clothing.

The researchers contacted 218 family members of workers who had been employed in an asbestos plant between 1941 and 1956. Forty per cent of the immediate family members had lung abnormalities associated with asbestosis. the crippling lung disease caused by inhaling asbestos fibres.

If the disease can result from such low-level exposure the implications for the public may be serious indeed. Asbestos is found in hundreds of common household products. Fibres have been found in the urban air, in water, and in some foods.

Since scarring of the lung tissue doesn't show up for at least ten years or more after exposure, there is no way of detecting how widespread the disease may be. Often it takes as long as twenty or thirty years to "incubate".

Asbestos is not the only industrial hazard. At least 15,000 substances are suspected as carcinogens. The federal standards only revealed 438 of them. Each year, industry introduces another 1,000 new substances, which may have effects on humans.

Non-return Containers

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

There was a timely advertisement by Pollutech Ltd. on the radio recently urging people to write the Ontario Government and demand that legislation be introduced to prohibit non-returnable containers.

It is unlikely that Premier Davis would ever read a letter from me, perhaps his local party officials will note this letter and bring it to the beaning of three-way containers more than a forgotten election promise.

I am one of much-needed legislation, and will benefit us all.

Reaction in Belleville to the suggested imposition of provincial income tax by the Provincial Government to replace the municipal income tax is mixed. It will mean next year if the Municipal tax is replaced by a provincial tax that something like $19,200, which has annually been paid in by Belleville taxpayers to the city treasury, will go to Queen's Park. Last year approximately $18,300 was collected from incomes of Belleville residents. In 1933 total income tax collection was $19,200. The reimbursement would take the form of an assumption by the province of additional shares of relief, highways and other costs. Should the municipal tax be removed for the provincial levy, it will mean approximately an additional mill on the city tax levy.

Intrigue, the Jockeying for Power, and Those Ontario Leadership Races

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Of The Intelligencer.

Sitting in the galleries you can seldom know in advance the intrigue that can go on behind the scenes in politics.

Such intrigue is more or less constant as politicians and parties jockey for power.

But it is never quite pronounced than in leadership contests.

And in the past 30 years there has been stamped on all these parties by the Conservatives.

Since 1943 the PC's have had three leadership races. And all three have been bitter.

Perhaps it has been because they were the party in power and winning the leadership automatically meant also being premier.

In any event all three have been marked by behind-the-scenes wheeling and dealing, private pressures, promises, slanders and general skullduggery.

For today, I will talk about the 1948 convention

In June of that year there had been an election which the Conservative government had won but it had lost its majority. George Drew had personally been defeated.

The week immediately following the convention were hectic.

Drew, of course, was still premier. But nobody quite knew what his intentions were.

It was proposed that a seat should be found for him. But then again it was pretty obvious that the national party leadership was going to open up and he would be a logical candidate.

If so his most qualified successor in Ontario would be Attorney-General Leslie Blackwell, who had actually been the second strongest man in the Drew administration.

In mid-July, however, Blackwell's name was put forward.

Despite the fact that he had won an easy election victory in his Toronto-Eglinton riding and was known to love politics, he announced that he intended to leave office and enter private practice by the end of the year.

This meant a seat was, or would be, opened up for Drew, and that was not Blackwell's purpose.

Actually what he was doing was to put pressure on Drew to declare finally for or against whether he intended to continue in Ontario or go after the national leadership. Blackwell wanted to know how a successor would be put in office.

There was a strong rumor that if Drew did move on he intended to name his successor so as to keep control of the Ontario party.

Eventually the national convention was called for early fall and Drew immediately became the main contender — in the meantime, of course, she carrying on as premier of Ontario.

Blackwell also was continuing as Attorney-General, although few people knew it he was also trying to get Drew to tell him what about the future, but Drew was ducking him.

In fact he managed to evade a meeting for three months, the delegates arrived in Ottawa for the convention.

I had been quite close to Blackwell and had known what was going on. But on the voting day of the convention, a Saturday, he told me that Drew had finally promised to meet with him either after the voting that day or on the day after, the Sunday.

On Monday morning the Globe and Mail carried a front-page picture of Drew, who had won the convention easily, shaking hands with Agriculture Minister Tom Kennedy and naming him as his successor pending a convention.

On the Tuesday morning Blackwell called me down to his office. He was furious.

Drew had not kept his promise to see him. Drew, he said, had known of the Kennedy business was when he read his Globe, and he was ready to go.

He had an his desk copies of a long press release, A very frank release.

It described the rumors there had been about Drew's intentions or a successor, his feeling that the party should be free of control by Toronto and had broke things open and raised hell and acted by announcing his candidacy for the leadership.

He asked me what I thought about leaving the release and any advice was to go ahead.

And he did.

A huge hue who had lost a leg in the first war, who had been a baseball pitcher of big league standard, who had coached the Toronto Varsity football team he was popular with his colleagues and within the party.

But with the issuance of that release the Conservatives quickly became a pro-Blackwell and anti-Blackwell party.

Rumors began circulating that he would be a dictator (and this, of course, was chiefly after Hitler), and others that he would be unreliable and was a socialist.

For a long time the old guard of the party couldn't decide whom it would put up.

There was talk of Highways Minister George Doucett, who had tremendous political power, a big organization, the previous, but who would have to run in a province and knew it.

And finally the decision was in favor of Leslie Frost, Treasurer and Minister of Mines, but practically unknown to the public.

Then the real pressure was on. Most of Blackwell's cabinet colleagues had promised him their support. But they started dropping off finally only Labor Minister Charles Daley remained loyal) as did member Bryan Pritchard of Sarnia, (later a cabinet minister) was one who stuck.

The support of Doucett became key. He held off and held off but finally announced that finally the Frost forces promised he would be made deputy premier and he threw his weight behind the treasurer.

This really put the race on, though the fighting kept up right up until voting time (with Drew on the convention floor buttonholing delegates) and Frost only won by a handful of votes.

Since that convention I have often wondered what would have happened if Blackwell hadn't issued his press release.

He quite probably might have won, for it gave his opposition a lot of ammunition.

I have already written how overnight Frost unexpectedly became the strong man and deputy premier.

Candystripers are one way of making Instantanea like Centennial Manor a little more fun for residents. Here Sherry Lynn Bisson provides a light for a manor resident's pipe.

Candystripers Popular With Manor Residents

BANCROFT — There's a friendly, loving invasion going on at the Hastings Centennial Manor in Bancroft.

The invaders are a group of young teenage girls from the area, who, under the auspices of the Manor Auxiliary, have set up a new candystripers service for the residents.

The project, behind the new group is Mrs. Ann Hillman of Bancroft who wanted her church group of youngsters to have "a real service experience".

According to Mrs. Hillman, "The residents of the manor should be treated with a great deal of respect, because they are the ones who made life the way we enjoy it now."

Mrs. Hillman is very sympathic that her girls are not at the manor to help and with the nursing care but are involved in visiting and helping the residents who very much appreciate the attention.

"Some of the residents get so lonely," said Mrs. Hillman as she watched two of her candystripers give some personal attention to the residents, "sometimes the families forget or they don't have anyone to visit."

Although the candystripers started out as a church group, they are now affiliated with the manor auxiliary and open to all girls who would like to help.

The candystripers go into the manor each day from 2 p.m. to 5:30.

Any area girls between the ages of 13 and 16 who are interested in the program or a summer volunteer job are asked to contact Mrs. Hillman who along with several other nurses in the area will be holding a series of training sessions for the girls.

Bancroft Taxpayers Will Pay More

BANCROFT — Ratepayers in Bancroft are going to be receiving some good news and some bad news on their tax bills which will be going out in June.

Following a budget meeting held by the local council, the mill rate for the village was set at 100.3 for 1975 over the residential 144.3 mills of last year.

The jump in the commercial rate is just slightly larger than that for the residential taxpayers with the increase going from 165.6 to 188.5

According to village reeve Russell Hawley, the increase in the mill rate was not due to municipal or county spending but to the increased levy from the Boards of Education.

The general municipal rate for the village dropped from 67.2 mills in 1974 to 66.9 mills this year.

However the levy from the Hastings County board of Education has jumped from 37.5 mills in 1974 to 43.6 for residential and from 41.7 to 47.6 for commercial assessment.

Separate school supporters also will be looking at an increased levy from the Hastings-Prince Edward Roman Catholic Separate School Board.

The separate school residential rate rose from 37.6 mills last year to 41.9 and the commercial rate went from 41.1 to 4.2.

The secondary school levy from the Hastings County board went from 32.1 mills to 32.3 for residential and from 33.9 to 35.3 for commercial.

The Hastings County levy dropped from 9.1 in 1974 to 8.4 this year.

The amount of money to be raised by the village for the Hastings County board of Education will be $60,925 for elementary, $27,151 for secondary and $5,449 for the separate school operation.

The total amount to be raised for village operation will be $133,200 and for the county the 1975 levy requires the raising for $14,624.

Camping: Excuse For Gluttony?

One of the great myths of our time is how good camping is for you.

I'm not talking about the psychological fallout from week-in-the-bush. There's no question that this kind of activity is superb for both body and soul.

What I mean is the camping that most of us do — up in the woods or down at the lake for the weekend.

And this kind of camping, I venture to say from personal experience, is not particularly healthy.

Oh, we may go for a stroll now and then, perhaps paddle or water-ski or play ball, but we really get very little more exercise than we do during the week.

What's worse, we cart along with us all the gadgets and frustrations of home. The campsite wasn't just like home for the first few days, it was.

With so little to do we can devote ourselves wholeheartedly to the preparation and consumption of meals. In fact, the real reason we go up there, it seems to me, is the pursuit not of nature, but of gourmet food and drink.

There seems to be a peculiar camping mentality that dictates that we should take with us far more food and drink than we would need ordinarily at home. We seem to stock up "just in case."

This may be a result of our Canadian pioneering heritage, which has taught us the fear of starvation in the bush. Or it may be simply the growing habit of stuffing ourselves, in catering to the desire for six courses of pleasure.

I'll admit it. This past holiday weekend I ate and drank more than I should have, and came home in blackness that I didn't realize existed in me. I felt. But I felt downright ashamed of the excitement and abuse of the families around us in the campground.

Kids wailing from hunger after hiking — adults sniffing back cases of beer and guzzling it — with panache, bleary boozers dozing in the sun on their chilies, and harassed, overtaxed mothers whose only real exercise was the march between cooler and barbecue — and all of us gluttonously happy. Satisfied. Between them, they can pantomimicate in English, Spanish, French, Portuguese, Italian and German.

Kids walking 20 miles hiking after hiking — adults sniffing back cases of beer and guzzling it — with panache, bleary boozers dozing in the sun on their chilies, and harassed, overtaxed mothers whose only real exercise was the march between cooler and barbecue — and all of us gluttonously happy. Satisfied. Between them, they can pantomimicate in English, Spanish, French, Portuguese, Italian and German.

'Sex Isn't Everything'

Sigmund Freud was wrong; sex isn't everything, says a prominent Spanish psychologist.

Love is.

Agustin Lolow-cade, a member of the International Association of Applied Psychology, said that without love in the slightest variation we would perish through lack of connection and balance."

Brandon Sun.

There now! Didn't I tell you? My father used to say, "Love makes the world go round!" And he wasn't talking about sex excitement, but about agape — that Greek concept — and word — that means something like "love of mankind."

Dear Doris: A number of letters come from loose and frustrated women who are virgins, are scoffed at, and feel that males of their own age range all want to rob them of that virginity.

I learned this fast, and I was still a virgin when I married at 28.

To maintain high standards, there are times when Christ demands courage to keep them, encouragement from others, strength God to control every thought (you think and plan before acting), and putting yourself into obvious temptation, removing yourself and others who look to you for leadership. It is worth it for yourself and for others when they are facing similar situations. I share this, not because I am proud, but because I want others to feel as I did on my wedding day — clean and ready to give first and all to my loving husband. That beautiful white dress had its mean something.

Thank, please, continue encouraging people to do the hard right instead of the easy wrong.

Another Reader.

Dear Another: Your encouragement is tops. All I need to do is publish a few sighing ideas of yours. Thank you.

Dear Doris: I am 14 and have been in love for three years with this boy who is 21. He is in a training centre. I am seeing another boy whom I like, too.

My parents think I am too young, I don't like school either. Do you think I am too young? I am mature for my age.

A Reader.

Dear Reader: Sorry, but I do not think you are too young to be in love and to give up school. Your 21-year-old friend is a man, living in a man's world — and he has problems.

Even a mature 14-year-old isn't ready for that — and how do you really know how mature you are?

Look for someone your own age. School is important, even if it isn't your favorite place. Believe me you'll be more than grateful you did, when you start coping with grown-up living and working.

Confidential to C.E.: Do you mean my honest opinion? The woman is craving sex; and she is hungry.

Declaring that one is sleeping with someone else's husband is a cop-out when everyone would hear it (with scheduled) is not the behavior of a balanced adult.

She is fooling the convicted herself that she is attractive to the opposite sex. You are the very existence of the illegitimate child may be suggesting a rejection of her — the mother — by the father of that child.

Sex is troubling her so much that she confides you your husband. She tries to get a vicarious thrill out of hearing more; and when you seem to clam up, she takes out her revenge by making a foolish declaration in public. I agree with your husband that you should have enough faith in him to leave the gift in trust of your group. — D.

I am sorry for the woman; she needs the help of a professional counsellor. If you could possibly get her to go back to the person who helped see her through her pregnancy, psychological treatment would help her thrown her mixed-up thinking — and get her off your back.

Language Service Solves Problems

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A university student wants a translation of a Russian journal. A Spanish-speaking man is going to court and can't speak English. A lawyer has official documents which must be translated.

Creative Language Centre, operated by a new employee set up in Kingston, offers a solution to their problems. It provides a typing, translation, interpreting and proof-reading service in a hurry.

The idea was conceived by Kathy Manley and Thais Dwyer, both Kingston women experienced in different languages and in Spain. Between them, they can communicate in English, Spanish, French, Portuguese, Italian and German.

Both were convinced there was a need of a communications language service but first they checked the market. They approached representatives from Queen's University, the department of manpower and immigration, the courts, the media and business. The response was overwhelmingly positive.

The next job was to find interpreters and translators.

"We wanted to offer a top-quality service to the client," Miss Dwyer said. "Applicants were carefully interviewed. The result is that we now have 80 people qualified in specialized areas. For example, one prefers to do engineering papers and another likes to cover contracts."

Requests come from lawyers, the courts, the university and hospitals. Tuterials are also included in the project. Instruction in Chinese, Ukrainian and other languages is available.

The women are submitting to compile a language resource guide to aid persons of different cultures.

"We have found an intimate knowledge of Kingston's municipal, social and ethnic complexities," said Mrs. Manley.

The project has not made any money yet; in fact the directors are still paying for their 24-hour answering service. But both are pleased to use their educational and business backgrounds.

Mrs. Donald, was born in Venezuela and learned English in a graduate program at the University of Ottawa. In Ottawa, she taught Spanish to government officials.

After marrying a Canadian, she went with her husband to Yale University, where he studied for a PhD and she taught Spanish. When they moved to Kingston, she worked for a small, Latin-American journal at the university.

Mrs. Manley became fluent in French and German during her years of living in Switzerland where she was born. She received her masters degree in French and taught it to adults.

When in British Columbia with her husband, a doctor, they started a doctor's replacement service where she secured temporary appointments. When they moved to Kingston, she took a part-time job in the French department at Queen's.

Quiet Woman

Diana Savage, Audiologist

Turning a clinic into something warmly human has been the goal of Sir James Whitney School for the Deaf audiologist Diana Savage.

"We want this clinic — which assesses hearing loss and improvement — to be more than a bunch of files and a bunch of machines," Diana says.

A graduate of Peterborough Teachers' College, she moved from ordinary classroom teaching to teaching the deaf and then into audiology because of a growing awareness that communication was her main interest.

"I really enjoyed teaching but I found I was more interested in the caring aspect. In the classroom I was always paying more attention to the emotional development of the students.

"Deaf children needed what I wanted to give."

At Sir James Whitney, Diana deals with children who have been referred to the clinic by family doctors, boards of education and parents. Children with suspected hearing loss are assessed and are referred to medical specialists or speech pathologists or psychologists.

Since the school deals with all of the province but the Toronto-Windsor sector, Diana often travels with her testing equipment to other Ontario centres to test children for hearing impairment.

The early diagnosis of impairment is a personal and professional interest for the audiologist who says that diagnosing early and diagnosing well can make a lifetime of difference to a child and to his parents who need emotional support.

"I'd like everyone who comes in contact with that child to understand his needs," she said. "And I want his visit here to be an almost enjoyable experience."

AROUND TOWN with LANA ROBINSON

(. . . an advertising feature designed to keep you better informed of what's new around town.)

A Whole New Line

Vader's Car Sales, on College St. just around the corner from their former location on North Front St., take the top of the column this week because of the exciting news they gave me when I made my weekly call. Vader's are now in the mobile home business and have a complete line of Cardinal mobile homes, including mobiles homes, campers for little trucks, construction offices, cottages, trailers and even ready-to-open banks, believe it or not! When Vaders' expand, they don't fool around. Vader's is also open every Saturday until 3 p.m., so you weekend shoppers can get out and see this whole new line. And while you're there, don't forget to look at the great '75 Datsuns too.

Now, That's Service

It really was a tie between Vader's and Superior TV as to which one would headline the column, because they both had some real news. Superior TV is really taking this 24 hour service claim they have very seriously. Now their service trucks are equipped with two-way radios for any location within a fifty mile radius of Belleville. So, for example, before they leave Belleville on Picton, Super TV service men will call in and see if there have been any more calls for repairs since they set out on the job. That's just about as close as you can come to reading spontaneously to the needs of the customers isn't it? So all of you TV owners — and that's most of us — can call Superior TV at 962-8616 and your call will get some action pretty quickly. Superior can fix any kind of television set and handle the warranty work on many makes. Call them.

Watch Those Whoppers!

What a marvellous weekend of weather. But it seemed that the calibre of weather was more than matched by the calibre of temperatures. They were big — and very hungry! You can understand having to put up with them at the cottage or the campsite — but when they are flying around the kitchen or the bedroom, then the observers' eyes turn upon any faulty. Belleview Glass and Mirror, 354 Pinnacle St., can help you do something about that. Just call them at 968-3701 and together you can declare war on the insect population around your house. It seems a little ridiculous to keep on spraying for them, when the fault really lies in the fact that they can get in, in the first place. Do something about it with reliable and long lasting aluminum storm and screen windows and doors from Belleview Glass and Mirror.

Summer Pet Ailments

Summer is a great time for most of us, but just as we get our share of sunburn, our pets also suffer from their seasonal maladies — such as summer eczema, which gives your dog patches of dry skin. The Tropical Garden Pet Shop, 281½ Front St. has skin and coat conditioner to remedy this situation. And it's also the proliferation season for fleas and ear mites. A '2 in 1' collar from the Tropical Garden will insure that your cat or dog doesn't have these annoyances either. This collar is good enough for three months of protection. Summer can and should be fun for everyone. It won't be for your pets if you aren't being responsible pet owners. See the Tropical Garden — and then everyone can have a good time — even the pets.

Still Some For Your House

It was a great weekend for putting in gardens and it was a great weekend for garden sales at Sidney Ian, 253 West Moira St. But never Al Whitney tells me there are still lots of petunias, etc. for your garden. And what you really might like — and it's something I noticed as I drove by on Tuesday — is the great selection of planters and bird baths. These can really add to the look of your garden, and indeed to the look of your whole home. Sidney Ian has the fertiliser and garden tools to make sure that what you buy you plant properly and that it will all grow. And don't forget those convenient 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. hours, for you late starters. But when you get your garden in is your business, right?

'Denim Days

These are denim days in fashion circles — and at Studio 231, 231 Front St. There are pants, skirts, long and short vests and young-looking artist tops, all in denim and all in style. The great thing about Studio 231 is that it has one of the great things, is that there, you can find fashion for any size, including queen sizes. The jeans and the hot-to-pelle, will find what they want and what will become their figure types, if you're thinking fashion and fashion versatility, then think STUDIO 231. Then get your feet down there. What good is your great idea if you don't do something about it? And while you're there, take a look at the wig selection in the Wig Boutique at the front. No bench will do you in, when you have a perky and stylish, cover-up on which to rely.

If You're Moving To Madoc

This is the time to year that many people in particular professions move around, professions such as teaching or police work. If you should be moving to Madoc, or you know someone who is, you should call Robbs Real Estate, 117 North Front St. at 968-6475. Gord Robbs has two listings for relatively modern homes. One is a brick bungalow with three bedrooms, electric heat, and the other is a 1½ storey, three bedroom house which has recently undergone extensive renovations, such as 100 amp service, easy-care vinyl siding and a new kitchen. Both are worth looking into. If you're moving, or told like to come to the delights of Madoc. But you won't be going anywhere unless you pick up the phone and talk to Gord Robbs salesman.

Wrought Iron Just For You

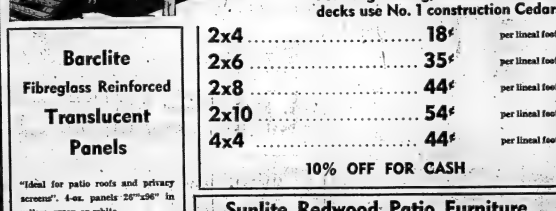
At Wrays Home Furnishers, 396 Front St. in Belleville, you can see a selection of wrought iron, which turns any old patio into something of elegance and charm. But the great thing is, you can choose what particular metal finish you want on your furniture, whether you want cotton or leatherette seat coverings, or whether you wish clear or hammered glass table tops. And you can also choose the size you wish. Every patio is different and so you can have your wrought iron furniture just right for your patio. Wrough iron furniture is very popular indoors also, so if you need a 'something special' in the dining line, then Wrays and wrought iron can be your answer to your love. But contemporary or colonial, continental or homey, Wrays can always see that you dine in and do so style.

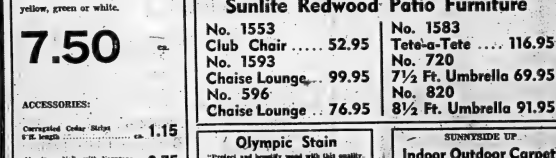
Making The Evenings Count

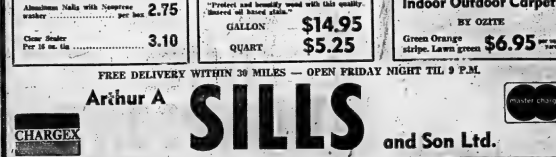
We've been spoiled by these lovely weeks of fine weather. The danger is that they give us the allusion of permanence. But we all know they will go only too quickly. If you want to make the most of a sunny and summer evening, may I suggest that you have a lovely drive into Prince Edward County, head towards Picton and then on to the evening dining at the Inn On The Bay Tavern for dinner. The setting is above Hash overlooking the Picton harbor. And you can treat yourself or your guests in a browse and some buying in the gift boutique of the dining room. The evening can start or end beautifully in the delectable surroundings of the Inn On The Bay Tavern, call 476-3114 for reservations.

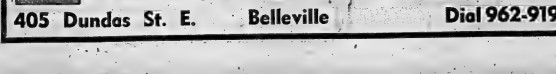
Let The Furnace Do It

There are a few different methods of having your house air-conditioned. Although if pains me to say it, we can't real say longer. (Whoever thought May would be like this?) Moira-Schuster can do air-conditioning a couple of ways — by an independent installation of a window conditioner, or they can install a complete and more efficient system which is permanent, using the duct work of your furnace. And what Moira-Schuster doesn't know about furnaces isn't worth knowing. Get the experts to do an expert job. Installing a permanent air-conditioning system at your house. Then, there will be no such thing as getting hot under your collar, even because of the weather. Call Moira Schuster at 962-4584.









Munro Orders Probe of SIU

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister John Munro, accusing Ontario of dragging its feet, ordered a federal investigation Wednesday into the internal affairs of the Seafarers' International Union (SIU).

His comments provoked hot reaction from Progressive Conservative MPs, especially Lincoln Alexander (Hamilton West) and Allan Lawrence (Northumberland — Durham), who said Mr. Munro is trying to push the blame on to the Conservative Ontario government.

Mr. Munro said Ontario authorities were "strangely unhelpful in providing clarification" of allegations that members of the union are being intimidated and are the victims of violent tactics.

"The Ontario government, for reasons I can only speculate about, continued to withhold its findings from us," he said of criminal investigations conducted last year.

The inquiry will deal with any violations of the Labor Code, although labor department officials say evidence of criminal acts will be referred to the RCMP and provincial police for action.

Mr. Munro said information obtained in an earlier investigation which dealt with alleged bribes to federal officials from the SIU had contributed to the decision for a further inquiry, to be conducted by federal labor official M. K. Carson, who will be aided by the RCMP.

The allegations that possibly will be investigated include recreations made with respect to union elections, intimidation, hiring hall practices and blacklisting of employees by either the union or employers.

PCs Will Stress Heavy Spending

OTTAWA (CP) — The Pro- Sharp, Mr. Pitfield and Jack Austin, the prime minister's Senate spokesman, will be available for questions when the Commons rises at 4 o'clock this afternoon of the whole House today.

John Reid, parliamentary secretary to Mr. Sharp, said, however, that Mr. Sharp likely will answer the question. Mr. Trudeau is scheduled to leave Ottawa at 5 p.m. EDT by jet copter for a trip to Belleville, Ont. And from the prime minister's refusal to allow Mr. Pitfield and Mr. Austin to appear before committees in the past, it is felt their appearance today can be ruled out.

Even if Mr. Pitfield or Mr. Austin did appear as scheduled, the Opposition would be prevented from challenging them directly. Because of parliamentary rules which prevent them to sit in the Commons when it is in committee, questions must be routed through the minister responsible.

It was divulged Tuesday that the cost of running the prime minister's office is 46 times larger than 15 years ago—about $12 million this year compared with 1960-61 when former prime minister John Diefenbaker was in power. The PMO staff has increased to 88 from 81 in the same period.

Mr. Sharp, after these figures were revealed in the estimates, said the estimates committee chairman, Mr. Pitfield's job is to see that cabinet decisions are carried out. And, because cabinet affairs are secret, Mr. Pitfield would not discuss such duties today even if he did appear.

But Joe Clark (Rocky Mountain), one of the more vocal critics of government spending as a whole, said the opposition wants to talk to Mr. Pitfield about the growth in the PM and privy council spending and about the increased use of consultants to do cabinet studies.

By looking back, the government was exercising the kind of "executive privilege" used in the United States during the Watergate scandal, he said.

"It led to serious problems in the U.S. and it could lead to serious problems here."

Mr. Lewis said a basic disagreement had developed "even in my own caucus" over how anti-confrontation strategy.

However, he said that most contract negotiations are a charade because both sides know within days what the final settlement will be.

'Cool It' Is Advice Lewis Gives Teachers

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Teachers should "cool" their salary demands and consequently gain public respect, Stephen Lewis, leader of the Ontario New Democratic Party, said Wednesday.

Mr. Lewis told a secondary school teachers' political action committee: "The time is right to cool it . . . it's not just politically expedient but good for the profession."

He said that in future contract negotiations teachers should present school board trustees with demands that are realistic.

"If teachers are reasonable I think there will be tremendous public respect for them."

Sailing Theme

LONDON (CP)—It is a big year for sailors in Britain. The Royal Thames Yacht Club marks its 300th anniversary and the Royal Yachting Association is its years old. The post office is marking the occasion by issuing stamps with a sailing motif.

Putrid Meat Sold at Expo

MONTREAL (CP) — A meat salvage operator told an inquiry into organized crime Wednesday he stockpiled between 400,000 and 800,000 pounds of putrid meat for Expo 67.

Leo Arcand of St. Hyacinthe, Que., told the Quebec police commission inquiry he collected the meat from kicky or dead cows and sold it for resale to concessionaires at the international exposition.

Mr. Arcand told the inquiry the animals he collected were to be butchered and the meat sold to firms manufacturing pet foods and fertilizers.

The meat was not fit for human consumption, he said.

While pet food plants were paying seven or eight cents a pound for the meat, Mr. Arcand said he was offered 20 cents a pound by a man in Iran.

He said meat destined for rendering points was sprinkled with charcoal dust as required by law to mark it clearly.

"But during Expo, even the meat marked with charcoal was used," he said. "They would tear off the blackened parts about an inch thick on each side and use the inside parts."

Chemicals were used to change the color of the meat and to take away the odor, Mr. Arcand said.

Citizenship Not Routine

OTTAWA (CP) — The government should ensure that charter residence requirement for citizenship do not result in "a factory, assembly-making process," Gordon Fairweather (PC—Fundy Royal) told the Commons Wednesday.

"The result should not be that people just run up, sign the book and away they go," Mr. Fairweather said during debate of a bill to reduce citizenship residence requirements to three years from five.

"To me citizenship is precious. It must never be cheapened."

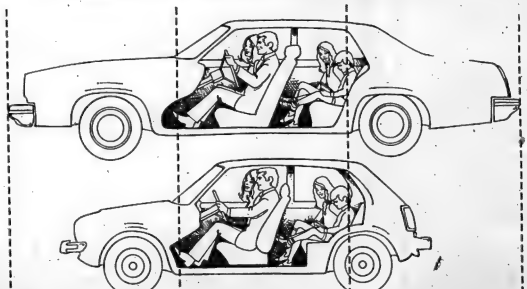
First we built a mid-size car inside. Then we built a sub-compact around it.


Most cars are built the other way around. Body style first; passenger comfort second. Which is why in the back seat of so many cars, your head slants forward. Or your knees meet your chest. Or you shift positions sitting over the hump every time you hit a bump.
At Honda, we've virtually eliminated these problems. Because we designed our car from the inside out. What we ended up with is a sub-compact car with as much room as some mid-size cars. The experts have described our car best.
"Many makers talk about small on the outside, big on the inside, but Honda has done it." (Road and Track).
How'd we do it? One car's shape is trapezoidal. A rectangle that's wider at the bottom than the top for all kinds of good reasons. For example, we give you more room where you really need it. More leg room on the floor and more seating room.
Another part of our roominess story is also a performance story. We gave our Front-wheel drive, not just to eliminate the hump inside, but for its excellent road-hugging ability.
Then we mounted the engine sideways to provide even more space. This also places the engine weight directly over the drive wheels for better traction. For added comfort, we equipped the Civic with a McPherson strut suspension, independent on all four wheels, for a stable yet cushioning ride.
The Honda Civic is more car than you'd expect. It's fast and yet it's economical to run. In fact, in the 1975 U.S. Environmental Protection Agency gas mileage test, the Honda Civic recorded a remarkable 43.2 miles per gallon for highway driving and 33.6 miles per gallon for in-city driving. Now, just try and find another car that performed as well.

CP News Roundup

Jailed Man Believed Innocent

NEW YORK (AP) — A 43-year-old former bus driver sentenced to eight years in prison for a bank robbery may be the victim of an unusual mistaken identity: he has a look-alike who robs banks with threatening notes written in a hand strongly similar to his.

Because of the strong possibility that Robert Evans has been wrongly accused and convicted, the U.S. attorney's office did not oppose his release Wednesday from federal prison, where he has served 8 months, in a $25,000 bond.

While Evans was serving his time, two banks were robbed by a man strongly resembling Evans and whose modus operandi was to pass threatening notes to tellers.

The look-alike still is at large, and has not been identified.

Weekend Eclipse

NEW YORK (AP) — The moon will become a glowing, coppery ball in the sky Saturday night and Sunday morning in a total lunar eclipse which will be visible, if skies are clear, all over Canada and the U.S. It will be the first eclipse of the moon visible here in three years, and one astronomer says it will be the best of the 1970s. The total phase begins at 1:02 a.m. EDT and ends at 2:33 a.m. EDT. The middle of the eclipse will occur at 1:48 a.m. EDT, the point of lowest light level.

Boost Own Pay

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Members of the House of Representatives voted themselves an additional $18 million in benefits Wednesday, including bigger staffs, more government-paid trips home, more government-paid telephone calls and bigger subsidies for newsletters to their constituents, announced Tuesday by the administration committee. The new schedule calls for 36 free trips home or a flat cash payment of $2,500 — double the travel allowance last year. House members and Senators now receive a salary of $42,500 a year.

Company Sued

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A federal court suit seeking $200 million has been filed against a chemical company in the accidental poisoning of 15,000 cattle, hundreds of thousands of chickens and millions of eggs, Michigan Farm Bureau Services and two of its insurance companies filed the suit Tuesday in U.S. District Court against Michigan Chemical Co. and three of its subsidiaries. The suit claims Michigan Chemical mistakenly mixed a toxic chemical—polybrominated biphenyl (PBB)—instead of the animal magnesium oxide for livestock feed which it shipped from October, 1971, to July, 1974.

Protect Parthenon

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The Greek government banned tourists from walking inside the Parthenon to protect the ancient temple from further damage. The Parthenon built in the 5th Century BC, is Greece's most famous tourist attraction and on the average is visited annually by 1½ million persons. It has suffered extensive damage from the heels of visitors as well as from air pollution and noise. Flights over the area are already banned.

Clarke Rollins Is Unanimous Choice of Area Conservatives

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

MADOC — Clarke Rollins is still MPP for Hastings.

But today he also is on the provincial election trail — campaigning as candidate for the new sprawling constituency of Hastings-Peterborough.

His latest campaign — the fifth since 1959 — was mobilized Wednesday night when he was acclaimed his party's contestant at a crowded rally here.

The acclamation was no new experience. The burly, 46-year-old Bancroft area politician has been unopposed at every convention since his first election.

Adding an extra tinge of triumph to his latest uncontested bid was the geographic background of the new constituency, recently created by redistribution. Hastings-Peterborough is an amalgamation of 19 townships in Peterborough County with the riding of Hastings, boosting the number of constituents to about 99,000.

But the new territory and its political organizations produced no challenger to contest the veteran's nomination bid.

In fact, he received nominations from what appeared every municipality in the riding.

Local Conservative practice was to submit written nominations. Rollins received them all—a total of 112 — to be acclaimed by a crowd of about 700 at the Elwanis Centre here.

The election date has yet to be announced.

But, in a later interview, Mr. Rollins said his early nomination was not to be considered a signal that the election call — postponed to 1976 in Hastings, estimated returning officer Lloyd Price.

The amalgamation brings together two areas that have much in common, Mr. Rollins told the convention crowd.

For one thing, the municipalities in both areas are unanimous against provincial government. Mr. Rollins, a former warden of Hastings County, has been an outspoken foe of regionalizing county governments.

It was a fact he again reiterated as a key point in his acceptance speech to the 400 delegates and other party members at the convention.

County government, he said, will be able to introduce ample legislation to keep abreast of change.

In his speech he also criticized recent pay increases for federal MPs.

"I feel we'd expected to contribute to the ridings we represent and give leadership in this regard," he said.

In an interview later he said he would not support any provincial government policy that would increase MPPs' salaries.

The riding amalgamation also was symbolized by the presence of the leading local government spokesmen for both counties — Warden Wilfred Ellis of Peterborough and Warden William McCrea of Hastings.

Also on the platform were Jack Ellis, MP — Hastings and Bill Scott, MP, Victoria-Haliburton.

Veteran Campaigns

Clarke Rollins MPP Hastings, meets with the people after party rally in Madoc Tuesday night that acclaimed him Conservative candidate in new Hastings - Peterborough riding. It will be his fifth election since 1959.

Home Builders Face Problem with Image

Some communities tend to view the home building industry as a leech, says Bill Kennedy, Ranish and planning officer with the Housing and Urban Development Association of Canada.

Mr. Kennedy made this comment at a meeting of the Quinte Home Builders Association Wednesday.

"While most look at the industry as being filled with the big, bad developer we see ourselves as a major economic force in the community providing many services and job," he said.

Because there is a bad picture of the industry, in many communities house builders have "very poor" rapport with elected officials, — a situation that does not seem to exist in Belleville," he said.

"Belleville is unusual on a national scale in the good relations it enjoys with city hall," said Mr. Kennedy.

He said the major problems faced by the housing industry are the reluctance of elected councils to recognize the economic value of the industry to local economy; and involving the industry in municipal planning decisions and councils not setting out clear housing policy statements.

Mr. Kennedy told home builders that because of local land shortages in the city "restructuring of the Belleville area is inevitable."

He said, "the home builders must make sure the council is evolving with the times re-structuring to head off any possible future problems of land shortages."

In general, he said it is unlikely the home building industry this year will accomplish what has already been forecast by both federal and provincial governments.

The federal government project that 250,000 housing units will be constructed this year.

"We'll be lucky if we're even looking at 175,000 by the end of the year," he said.

He attributed this short falling not through the home builder's inadequacies but primarily through the lack of mortgage money that will also hamper buying into a slump.

He said in Ontario, the industry will be lucky to get 45,000 houses built — a fall 25,000 less than forecast by the provincial government.

Triplets Surprise Couple

CAMPBELLFORD — History was made here Sunday when Patsy and Ronald Masters became the proud parents of triplets — the first to be born at Campbellford Memorial Hospital.

The lodgers, residents of Foxboro, already have four children with the oldest being seven. A hospital spokesman said the two boys and one girl, named Matthew, Mark and Rebecca, were doing fine as well as the mother.

The spokesman said the triplets came as a surprise to everyone including hospital staff. All babies weighed between four and four-and-a-half pounds.

Quinte Teachers Going to Russia

Two Quinte area educators leave Monday for a three-week course in the Soviet Union.

Gord Smith, vice-principal at Bayside Secondary School, and Brian MacKenzie, a physical education teacher at Belleville Collegiate Institute, are two of 85 teachers across Canada to be accepted into the course.

Mr. MacKenzie will be involved in a course which will provide a comprehensive overview of the system of physical education in the Soviet Union. It will also examine the role of sports in a socialistic country.

The advanced scientific teaching and coaching methods utilized in the Soviet Union will also receive major emphasis. Each participant in the course can pursue a related subject in greater depth.

Mr. Smith will be taking a look at the elementary school education there with an emphasis on reading skills and teaching methods. The teachers will return to share the information gained on the courses.

Each educator has received a $250 grant from the Hastings Division of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation to help with the expense of the trip.

Cooling Off

Current hot spell has Bellevillians seeking cool spots . . . with the waters of the Bay of Quinte an obvious rendesvous. Cherly McDonald was among those in the swim Wednesday . . . although 20-month-old Rebecca Baumhour seemed a little reluctant about it all. Temperatures hit around 29 Celsius . . . about 84 Fahrenheit.

Station St. Fire To Be Investigated

Chief Leo Culhane of the Belleville fire department said today that investigations will begin Monday into the cause of a blaze that destroyed a three-storey building at 35 Station St. early Wednesday.

The fire, which is supposed to have been burning for about an hour-and-a-half to two hours before it was discovered at 3:04 a.m., started in a stairway leading to the third floor, which was undergoing renovation.

By the time it was out, were extensively damaged while the second floor, which contained a vacant apartment, and the main floor, occupied by a drycleaning and carpet sales and service, were substantially hit with water damage.

A minimum damage estimate has been set at $4-

000-$25,000 but might rise depending on the actual extent damage to the carpets.

Chief Culhane said Paul McKercher, a representative of the Ontario Fire Marshal's office here, will conduct the investigation. He is out of the city this week on business.

The fire chief pointed out preliminary findings by fire inspectors did not reveal any apparent accidental cause and added nothing barred up of a suspicious nature yet.

He said there was no indication of forceful entry into the locked building and no one was supposed to have been working in the attic on Wednesday.

The building has been boarded up awaiting investigation.

Development Day Cutback Refused

Trenton trustee Bert Garret has added a new twist to the great debate over teacher professional activity days.

Tuesday night the Trenton lawyer told the Hastings-Prince Edward Separate School Board that professional activity days should be cut back because "teachers are better prepared than ever before and they are more needed in the classroom".

Despite his protests the board decided to add two-and-a-half days of professional activity for its elementary teachers, a figure still lower than that approved by the Hastings County Board of Education.

However, objections by Belleville trustee John Granville over the quality of the professional programs offered were muted. The board later asked specifically to have a detailed list of planned activities for these days.

Mr. Granville, a high school teacher himself, said he had no objection to the number of days but said the quality of program is essential in making these days worthwhile. He asked that the board be presented with the programs for approval at the next meeting.

One trustee suggested that the only way for the board to see the value of these days was to attend several sessions and then form a judgement.

Mr. Garrett said he had talked to teachers who had varying opinions on the subject.

He said teachers are handed in the classroom and there was just too many days set aside for professional development. He suggested five-and-a-half days, which would include three days at the end of June.

Director of education Ed Neville supported the number of professional activity days and said he believed the figure was designed in the best interests of both students and teachers.

Education new view professional activity days as different to professional development days. Development days refer to courses geared to improving the status of teachers whereas activity days are designed to be information sharing experiences.

Driver Charged

A 55-year-old Toronto man has been charged with careless driving following a collision on Ann St. early today.

City police spokesman identified the man as John F. Shepstead of 1714 East Dundas St., Toronto.

The spokesman said the GMC truck he was operating went on Victoria Ave. at about 1:15 a.m., made a left turn onto Ann St. when the accident occurred.

He said the truck first struck a utility pole on the west side of Ann St. and careered to the east side where it hit a tree at 145 Ann St.

Damage was estimated at $1,500 to the truck, but no estimate was placed on the pole which was snapped off near the base or to the trees where the truck came to rest.

Townships' Future Tied to Belleville

Official plans for the municipalities of Sidney and Thurlow, excluding the town of Village of Frankford moved a step closer Wednesday during a meeting between the two councils and the veteran's committee.

In fact, he received nomination from what appeared every municipality in the riding.

Local Conservative practice was to submit written nominations. Rollins received them all—a total of 112 — to be acclaimed by a crowd of about 700 at the Elwanis Centre here.

The election date has yet to be announced.

But, in a later interview, Mr. Rollins said his early nomination was not to be considered a signal that the election call — postponed to 1976 in Hastings, estimated returning officer Lloyd Price.

The amalgamation brings together two areas that have much in common, Mr. Rollins told the convention crowd.

For one thing, the municipalities in both areas are unanimous against provincial government. Mr. Rollins, a former warden of Hastings County, has been an outspoken foe of regionalizing county governments.

It was a fact he again reiterated as a key point in his acceptance speech to the 400 delegates and other party members at the convention.

County government, he said, will be able to introduce ample legislation to keep abreast of change.

In his speech he also criticized recent pay increases for federal MPs.

"I feel we'd expected to contribute to the ridings we represent and give leadership in this regard," he said.

In an interview later he said he would not support any provincial government policy that would increase MPPs' salaries.

The riding amalgamation also was symbolized by the presence of the leading local government spokesmen for both counties — Warden Wilfred Ellis of Peterborough and Warden William McCrea of Hastings.

Also on the platform were Jack Ellis, MP — Hastings and Bill Scott, MP, Victoria-Haliburton.

"The major question put to the townships is how will Thurlow's growth be contained in the vicinity of Belleville be divided," said Mr. Holmes.

Three meetings now indicated the Belleville urbanizing area will have a population of 78,- 000 by about the year 2000. Consultants recommended to the two townships Wednesday that this growth be divided equally.

Both councils have been asked to deal with both question and report their answers to the Quinte Planning Board June 7.

Bert Kenny, planning director for the Quinte Board said that while this division of growth will be considered by the board and by consultants, the final say will ultimately be in the hands of the two municipalities.

"It was a very good working session," said Mr. Kenny, reflecting on the day's workshop.

Once local reaction to the initial concept has been tabulated — within the next month — consultants said a plan for public presentation should be ready within another four months.

"Population figures and division of growth was the gist of the meeting — the most important question of the day," said Mr. Holmes.

Till Tapped

City police are seeking a till-tapper who lifted $130 from the Fashion Craft Shoes Ltd. in the Belleville Shopping Plaza shortly before 11 p.m. Wednesday.

Police said today a woman on duty was at the back of the store with a customer, heard a noise near the cash register and turned in time to see a youth running toward the door.

The youth, who escaped, is described as about 16 years of age, five feet, six inches tall, male and about 140 pounds.

Fire Evidence Not Conclusive

Officials investigating the cause of the early-morning fire that destroyed St. Thomas Anglican Church on April 11 have been stymied in their efforts to officially declare that arson is involved.

Det. Sam Morgan of the city police department, who met with Fred McKercracker of the Ontario Fire Marshal's office investigating the blaze, said today there is disappointment registered over a recent report from the provincial forensic science laboratory.

He termed it "an inconclusive report, as far as I'm concerned."

Det. Morgan explained samples of wooden and liquid materials were sent to Toronto to determine if a petroleum product or any foreign matter was apparent.

Instead, the report says "no petroleum product detected" and does not indicate if that burned up anything else, he said.

"THEN I

"So that's why we are a little shaki we say, unpleased with the report," he commented.

Officials have determined a break-in occurred sometime prior to the fire and the unknown intruders stole several pieces of communion silver. They have speculated that evidence indicates arson is involved.

A Crunch in the Night

Power was blacked out in the Victoria Ave.-Ann St. area early today when this truck went out of control, sliced through a hydro pole and crunched into tree on front lawn. No one was injured, but the driver was charged with careless driving.

Foxboro's Ted Foster Fires 3-hit Shutout

Ted Foster pitched a three-hit shutout to stop Shannonville 4-0 as Foxboro Merchants gained a share of first place in the standings with Deseronto in South Hastings Baseball League play, Wednesday. The league leaders have two wins in as many starts.

Foster and the loser's Steve Reid hooked up in a tight duel for four innings as the teams failed to produce a run. Foxboro used it with a pair of runs in each of the fifth and sixth innings.

On the way to the win, Foster fanned eight and walked two. Reid, finishing up with a six-hitter, struck out four and walked one.

John Masterson was the leading hitter for Merchants, belting a double and a single. Dale Harmon, Dale Timmins, Bill Arthurs and Ron McTaggart each picked up a single. Morris had two singles and Bill Barberstock one for Shannonville.

At Casniflon, pitchers were in the spotlight as Plane's and Melrose failed to decide things, battling to a 1-1 tie in eight innings.

Terry McTaggart handled the Melrose pitching, allowing five hits, striking out 10 and walking one. Plane's Gerery Adams was solid, too. He allowed only three hits while fanning seven and walking one.

Each team scored once in the fourth inning but that was it.

Adams and Kerring Allen paked doubles for Plane's. Glen McIlrachan had a triple for Melrose.

Parsons Blanked 4-0

Making their first Bay of Quinte Senior Association starts, Wednesday, Belleville Olympics and Trenton Citizens Finance got things off on the right foot by chalking up wins.

At Warkworth, the Trenton team came on strong in the second half to knock off the home side 4-1. Playing at Centennial Secondary School, Olympics blanked Belleville Parsons 4-0.

After a scoreless first half, Trenton opened the scoring in Warkworth from the penalty spot. Sandy Duchart made good on one after Jim Mcdonald was hauled down in the penalty area.

Duchart upped the Trenton lead to 2-0 on an individual effort but Mcdonald put Warkworth on the board to make it 2-1.

Ron Cannons set up the third goal for the winners, relaying the ball to Jimmy Bryer who found the mark.

Posties Produce

Wipe out the fifth inning, and The Intelligencer lost a squeaker to Post Office in Belleville Industrial Softball League play Wednesday at Prince Charles Public School.

Include the fifth inning and it was a lopsided defeat for the Intelligencer.

Post Office broke up a tight match with seven runs in the top of the fifth and posted a 10-3 win.

Luce Wins Masterton Trophy

Buffalo Makes System Go with Hard Work

BUFFALO (CP) — Centre Don Luce of Buffalo Sabres says the key to any success is hard work.

"I think the system's greatness comes from knowing where to go on the ice," Luce said, after being named winner of the Bill Masterton Memorial Trophy awarded annually to the National Hockey League player who best exemplifies the qualities of perseverence, sportsmanship and dedication to hockey.

"I don't have been a good deal of talk about the system used by Philadelphia Flyers in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup final against Buffalo. The series resumes with the fourth game tonight and Philadelphia holding a 3-1 edge.

"The system becomes good when everybody on the ice knows his position and where to get there," Luce said. "We could strictly fore check then too, but I don't think we have to do that. I think we can play our game too.

"It's a very good system, Everybody calls it defense but if you're playing good defence, you're playing in the other team's end.

"Let's say they're a defensive club and we can play offence, it comes down to who is going to work harder. It comes down to two good systems playing and the team that works the hardest is going to win."

Luce, a 26-year-old native of London, Ont., said he was proud to have won the Masterton award.

"It's one of those things that when you were a little guy, you wondered what the feeling was like. Now I've got it, I can't describe it."

Sabres coach Floyd Smith said Luce, too, was proud of Luce's award.

"As far as fitness, aiming the Masterton, I think it takes less or less tries to explain what we are trying to do here," Smith said. "We want to have a hockey club with a little discipline, dedication and the will to win."

The Sabres definitely want to win tonight's game to even the series before it returns to Philadelphia for the fifth game Sunday.

Smith said he would start goalie Gerry Desjardins tonight despite the fact Desjardins allowed three goals on 47 shots in the first period of Tuesday's game, won 5-4 in overtime by the Sabres. Roger Crozier played the last three periods of that game.

"I feel things just didn't go Desjardins' way," Smith said. "Everyone's entitled to a bad night. He wasn't sure of himself Tuesday night, but he has played well enough to be given the opportunity to go back and try the next game."

Drapeau's Optimism Isn't Shared by All

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (CP) — Mayor Jean Drapeau emerged from a protracted closed-door session of the International Olympic Committee (IOC) on Wednesday, still fervently confident Montreal is subject to an unscheduled reappearance before the committee early in the forthcoming.

Although he said "no one really showed any anxiety" over Montreal's ability to stage the 1976 Olympic Games, he agreed to "make myself available", and was even prepared to cancel afternoon departure plans, if necessary.

He also said, under questioning, that he was pressed from some quarters to consider the possibility of contingency plans in case Montreal finds it cannot handle the Games due to labor difficulties and construction delays.

However, he rejected this idea, as he has hesitatly in the past.

"Such a solution would be no solution," he said.

"Plans couldn't be conceived and executed anywhere in the world" for taking over the Games at this late date, he said.

Despite the mayor's enduring optimism, however, and the eager words of the IOC delegates to believe that all is well in Montreal, there remained grave doubts in some minds.

Other sources said it was Lord Killanin, the IOC president, who reflected some "outrageous" views in pressing for some sort of contingency planning—always a touchy subject with Drapeau.

"Plans couldn't be conceived and executed anywhere in the world" for taking over the Games at this late date, he said," said Drapeau.

"If we spend time; imagination and money on other plans we would be using time, imagination and money very much needed on the present bills. We would just divide our effort."

Earlier, the mayor said it would take only half an hour to make his presentation, plus question time, but in fact he was behind closed doors for three hours.

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP) — Canadian motorcycle champion Steve Baker of Vancouver made a clean sweep on Mosport's road racing circuit Saturday and Sunday. Baker, 23, riding Yamaha bikes, won both the qualifying heat and final in three events—250 cubic-centimetre class, 500 cc class and unlimited class. Tom Murphy and Ian MacCallum of Toronto won the sidecar final in a Nelson 500 cc Honda.

4 Players Get Suspensions

BUFFALO (CP) — Four players will sit out suspensions at the start of the 1975-76 National Hockey League season as a result of infractions committed during the current Stanley Cup playoffs.

NHL President Clarence Campbell today announced that Bob Plager of St. Louis Blues and Dave Hutchison of Los Angeles Kings each have been suspended for five games. Dave Williams of Toronto Maple Leafs and Gene Carr of the Kings got two game suspensions.

Plager's suspension stemmed from an incident in the fifth preliminary round game against Philadelphia Flyers at St. Louis, when the Blues defenceman charged Flyers Andy Van Hellemond and shoved Bozeman Leon Stickle. Stickle, a game linesmesher for each of fence.

Van Hellemond suffered a back injury and worked only one game before being forced to sit out the rest of the post-season schedule.

Campbell said the matter of additional fine to Plager to cover the loss of the services of the referee and cancellation of half of his normal playoff assignments would be reserved for later decision.

Hutchison and Williams were involved in stick swinging in the third game of the Leafs-Kings first round playoff series at Los Angeles, after Williams and Hutchison had exchanged fighting majors. Carr was ejected from the game for using abusive language as they entered the penalty box.

Carr was given another game suspension for hitting linesman Bob Hodges. Hutchison then broke off the Los Angeles bench, skated to the Toronto penalty box area and began swinging his stick at Williams. Both players got match penalties.

Few Problems Are Settled

QUEBEC (CP) — The four-day annual convention of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association concludes today and while the future location of two of the association's tournaments will be announced, several other problems will not be resolved at this meeting.

Announcements were expected on the cities chosen to play host to the 1977 midget and bantam tournament and the 1976 Memorial Cup. The 1976 midget event, for players under 17, had already been allotted to Calgary, but Moncton, N.B., Halifax and Montreal all entered bids for the 1977 event.

Three cities in Quebec province bid for the Memorial Cup—the Tier 1 Major Junior national championship. Quebec City, Sherbrooke and Montreal were the bidders.

Today's plenary session and an executive board meeting will be the last official functions for Jack Devine of Bellerive as CAHA president. Devine's two-year term will be completed with first vice-president Don Johnson of St. John's, Nfld., scheduled to move into the president's chair following an election of officers and directors.

The fledgling Canadian Major Junior Hockey League, made up of Ontario, Canada's three major junior leagues, remains one of the problems the CAHA will have to solve at a later date.

And Del Wilson of Regina, newly-elected chairman of the board of the CAHH, flew home to Regina Wednesday without resolving the contentious issue that exists between the Western Canada Hockey League and the CAHA. The WCHL has threatened to withdraw from the CAHA next season because the national governing body will not allow its teams to cross provincial boundaries in the four western provinces to recruit players from Tier 2 Junior A clubs.

Two resolutions that would have allowed the WCHL recruiting were held in abeyance by the CAHA session Wednesday. The CAHA, its provincial branches in British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, and the CAHH, will meet in Calgary June 8 in a further attempt to resolve the issue.

On another front, the CAHA was no further ahead in its attempt to get the two major professional leagues—the National Hockey League and the World Hockey Association—to sign new agreements covering payment by the pros to the CAHA or junior players drafted to professional ranks.

In an effort to get the NHL and WHA to the bargaining tables, the CAHA sent a telegram to Health and Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde Wednesday. In the message the association said it wanted to express to the minister "our grave concern over the serious unsettled situation presently existing between the NHL and WHA."

A similar telegram was sent to the 19 provincial ministers of sport and recreation on behalf of CAHA's provincial branches.

In a step to reduce violence in amateur hockey, the rules committee endorsed and approved more strident measures and penalties for fighting, cross checking, high-sticking, butting and head-butting, along with mid treatment of game officials by players or coaches.

In a further step to protect its game officials the CAHA voted that it be mandatory for the referee and linesmen to wear protective helmets.

The rule changes and the wearing of helmets by officials become mandatory for all senior leagues from the level of major junior leagues. The major junior leagues currently operate under a modified version of professional rules.

Cincinnati's Perez Has Regained His Touch

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Johnny Bench went to bat for Tony Perez last winter so Perez could go to bat for Cincinnati Reds this summer and the move is paying off.

Bench, who hibernated for his teammate when Reds were tempted to trade him during the off-season, can be called the grandstand play the way Perez is hitting now.

Red Sox Pound Lefties

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oakland A's added for trouble by starting three left-handers in their American League baseball series against Boston Red Sox at Fenway Park and the Red Sox gave it to them.

Wednesday night's 7-5 Boston victory featured Carl Yastrzemski's grand-slam homer and a two-run shot by Rico Petrocelli off Ken Holtzman.

The Red Sox hit six home runs in sweeping the series, stretching the A's losing streak to four and dropping them into a first-place tie in the American League's West Division with Texas Rangers, who edged Milwaukee Brewers 6-5.

Elsewhere, Minnesota Twins nipped Detroit Tigers 6-5 in 11 innings, Baltimore Orioles beat Chicago White Sox 8-1, Kansas City Royals defeated New York Yankees 4-1 in 10 innings and Cleveland Indians beat California Angels 3-2.

Yastrzemski hit the sixth grand slam of his career in the seventh inning after the Red Sox loaded the bases on singles by Bob Montgomery, Juan Beniquez and Rick Burleson.

"I've been hitting the ball good for the last week or so and it's time for some of it to start falling in," said the 35-year-old slugger. "I never saw such a diet of left-handed pitching. I guess I was due for a few left-handers."

Even old-timers were unable to recall a team pitching three left-handers in four days as Fenway Park, where the only friendly left field usually outs southpaws alive.

Despite an aching arm, Boston Cleveland Eck, the A's top seven hits, including home runs by Gene Tenace and Reggie Jackson.

71 gm. the fastest back in Perez said Wednesday night— and few would doubt him after he drove in four runs, two with a homer, to lead the Reds to a 11-4 win over New York Mets.

The home run was Perez' 20th of the year and the RBIs increased his total to 39, tops on the league.

In other National League baseball games, San Francisco Giants beat Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1 in 11 innings, Atlanta Braves defeated Montreal Expos 6-3, Houston Astros blanked Philadelphia Phillies 4-0, San Diego Padres beat St. Louis Cardinals 1-0 and Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Chicago Cubs 10-0.

Along with Perez' big night, Dave Concepcion and Dan Driessen each knocked in three runs as the Reds tied their highest run output of the season.

TONY PEREZ

Perez hit a two-run homer in the fourth and led a four-run fifth with a two-run single. Concepcion added a two-run single in the fifth and a solo homer in the seventh and Pirzo hit a three-run homer, his first run-batted-in of the night.

The Mets staked Tom Seaver, 4-4, to a 3-0 lead after two innings, but the Reds erupted with three in the fourth to tie it and chased Seaver in the fifth.

Chris Speier's home-run single with none out in the 11th inning gave San Francisco its victory over Pittsburgh and a sweep of their three-game series.

The victory was the Giants' fifth in six games and improved their extra-inning record to 5-4 this season.

Darrell Evans hit his seventh and eighth home runs of the season and Mike Lum added another to Atlanta's long-ball attack, leading the Braves over Montreal.

Evans hit both of his homers off Steve Rogers, the first in the opening inning and the second in the fourth.

Janis Joplin Film Canadian Venture

Written for CP
By JIM MILLIGAN

A small Canadian company, acting in defiance of evidence that films about rock stars and rock music have become a dubious investment in the '70s, has produced a 35-minute flashback that brings Janis Joplin back to life.

F. H. (Dudley) Crawley, who owns 99 per cent of Crawley Films, is the producer of Janis.

In 30 years, the company has made mainly industrial and more conventional documentaries, although Crawley gained international recognition for his feature documentation of the Indian legend, The Loon's Necklace, and widely-acclaimed full-length movie, The Luck of Ginger Coffey, starring Robert Shaw.

Crawley, 62, has also provided work for such eminent Canadian actors as Christopher Plummer, Genevieve Bujold and Lorne Greene.

Crawley saw Janis Joplin perform in Toronto in 1970, three months before she died of an overdose of heroin. He decided to do a film on the rock singer when he became aware of the amount of film footage available about her Canadian tour on the fabled Festival Express.

To produce Janis he raised $300,000, much of which was spent for the right to interview segments and concert clips that make up the main body of the film as well as special footage of the singer's return to Fort Arthur, Texas, for a high-school reunion.

The movie unfolds chronological concert segments that cover appearances at Monterey and Woodstock, in European tour and the 1970 Canada tour. There is also a gig on the Dick Cavett show and a studio rehearsal of Big Brother and the Holding Company for the recording of Cheap Thrills.

The music is interspersed with interview clips made in the final analysis, add nothing to available material on the singer's life.

There are at least two books that tell the story of Janis Joplin. One is a sensationalized look at her years of popularity by Peggy Caserta titled Going Down With Janis, and the other is a more credible biography, Buried Alive With the Blues, by Myra Friedman.

Despite their weaknesses, both paperbacks tell much more about the famed singer and the person than does the film. Its interviews seldom get past the effective facade she had developed to deal with her public and the media.

What does become apparent as the film rolls along is the way Janis quickly went about the business of burning herself out in the shortest time possible. It can be seen in her face and felt in her attitude but little motivation for her behavior is apparent.

The closest look at what might have been some of her demons appears in the footage of the Port Arthur High School reunion, where she seems to soothe with a bravely concealed hatred of her former classmates, for the way they treated her and for what they represent.

At times, as reporters banger her, she seems in verge on tears or some sort of private hysteria but still manages to choke back any outburst that would give real evidence of what she is feeling. But it is clear that the event was not the triumph she hoped to claim.

Some of the best-known Joplin material, 15 numbers in all, appear in the film including Ball and Chain, Cry Baby, Mercedes Benz, I Can't Turn You Loose, Kozmic Blues and Bobby McGee and, of course, Piece of My Heart in an anticlimactic spot near the finish.

The sound quality and the technical proficiency of the bands varies greatly. Big Brother is barely competent to convey a three-chord structure in the beginning but the Kozmic Blues Band and the Full Tilt Boogie Band of later years are smooth machines.

Janis is seen developing from a rather shrill singer in former with incredible natural promise in Monterey into a slick professional with the stereotyped mannerisms that seem to remain the focal point in front of a basically wall of sound. But even as she becomes more confident on stage and in conversation, one can see her being worn away.

The film has been seen only in a few North American cities so far but wider distribution can be expected. Its editing is effective with little time wasted on visual tricks.

G and S Operettas Started as Fill-in LONDON (CP) — First it was bad news for London impresario Richard D'Oyly Carte when a little more than a century ago he found a new show he had booked, an Offenbach operetta, formed too short a program.

Then came the good news. W. S. Gilbert, a successful lawyer who had written some comic verse, dropped into the Royalty Theatre. D'Oyly Carte had wanted a new item, light, amusing and preferably English.

The impresario and Gilbert talked. The lawyer said he had already written a suitable libretto, Trial By Jury.

D'Oyly Carte liked it and persuaded Gilbert to take it to Arthur Sullivan, then an eminent musician.

Gilbert and Sullivan—whose names thereafter became indissolubly linked—did already briefly co-operated in 1871 on Thespes, but it had not been a great success. Now they put together again and within three weeks had written words and music for Trial by Jury.

The curtain fell to cheers at the Royalty Theatre on the first night, March 25, 1875. The 30-minute skit on the legal profession was the first of a series of the most successful English comic operas ever to the throne.

Catch phrases from the most popular Gilbert and Sullivan operas now have passed into the English language. Gilbert's characters are as familiar as any in classical literature and Sullivan's music is included in the repertoire of orchestras all over the world, and there can scarcely be an amateur dramatic society since 1879—when they were first allowed to perform the operas—which has not put on at least one Gilbert and Sullivan production.

Even Judge Gilbert and Sullivan supporters are fanatically loyal.

"I was accused of being a traitor when I said publicly that I enjoyed Ruddigore," said Frederic Lloyd, now general manager of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

He has been with the company since 1931 and now plans to celebrate it's centenary.

Perhaps Gilbert's own idea that the "business could not be changed one iota from that laid down by " said Lloyd, "We do stick to main themes, for audiences don't like drastic changes, but we have changed quite a lot.

"The centenary celebrations at the Savoy Theatre will provide a rare chance to see all the Gilbert and Sullivan operas, including two which have not been performed since their first productions," he said.

No one can think of Gilbert without Sullivan, but in fact the two were different characters and often quarrelled. William Schwenck Gilbert was born in 1836, just a year before Queen Victoria came to the throne.

His father was a naval surgeon, hence the knowledge later displayed in HMS Pinafore. When he was a baby on holiday in Italy he was kidnapped by bandits and his father paid a ransom—an experience which was later to be used in several plots.

After a few boring years with the education board of the Privy , Gilbert read law, spending much of his spare time writing lighthearted, usually satirical verse.

Arthur Sullivan son of an Italian mother and an Irish bandmaster , had a brilliant musical career from boyhood. He won his first oratorio [illegible] at the Mendelssohn scholarship took him to Leipzig, where he met Grieg and Liszt. On his return he was organist at two London churches. It was a very serious background for the composer who was to collaborate in shows that had all London laughing.

Richard D'Oyly Carte, born in 1844, the son of an instrument maker, was a semi-professional musician who decided that his skills lay in management.

His greatest acrbition was to establish a theatre for the presentation of English comic opera.

HMS Pinafore was the first isferatical success and D'Oyly Carte took the company to North America at a time when more than 40 pirated versions were being played.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You may make a change in your social life that will be disappointing at first. The result of the switch will prove to be a pleasant surprise.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A get-together with some of your closest friends will prove much more pleasant than being with casual acquaintances.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The good news you receive today will not be all you had especially hoped for. Know that something is better than nothing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20) Though your material aspirations are not on a par with you today, the deserve an "A" for effort. Don't belabor the point of you first.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Ignore the temptation to "coast" at work today. You're in a good cycle to get things done effectively. It would be a shame to waste it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In a situation where you share control, don't cause your own problems by being indifferent. Your part of the profit will be smaller.

South had been taught to say "Thank you, partner" irrespective of what cards his partner put down as dummy. This time the dummy was well worth the praise, but unnecessary remark.

When all four were over and South had been set, North remarked, "It is a shame they taught you politeness instead of bridge."

South's play had been short and unsuccessful. He won the club in his hand and led a low trump. West took his ace and led a second club. East was polite enough to ruff and that was all there was.

Just a little thought before playing to trick two might well have warned South of his danger. A little more thought would have told him how to guard against a club ruff.

It wouldn't have to be much thought at all. Just a quick look at dummy's king of hearts.

Then South could have led a heart to his ace, cashed his ace of diamonds, ruffed his low diamond, discarded his last club on the king of hearts and then gone after trumps with the club danger a thing of the past.

Cancer Unlikely To Be Contagious

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is cancer catching? I have a dear friend sick with cancer. She wants me to visit her, and I am worried. — Mrs. H. M.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: After months of reading newspaper and magazine articles, I have become terrified by the possibility that cancer is contagious.

I'm so afraid that cancer can be transmitted by physical contact, coughing cancer-causing viruses and immunity studies. I have had to cancel visits to my children and grandchildren. Is cancer contagious? — A. D. R.

The theory that cancer may be caused by a virus (or a group of viruses) is intriguing, and the subject has been given much public exposure of late. However, there is a lack of evidence that it is contagious. The preponderance of evidence that says it is not. Experience also strongly suggests it is not contagious.

It is true that certain viruses can cause cancer. Chiefly these involving the respiratory tract—pox-tools, for example. Most child-hood diseases — measles, mumps, rubella, chickenpox — are caused by viruses and they are contagious.

Viruses have been implicated in certain cancers in animals, but the transmissability to other animals, or from animals to humans, has not been demonstrated. Nor has it been shown that cancer is contagious among humans.

Literature dealing with all aspects of cancer is replete with "the word may," whereas "is" appears sparingly. There are several non-viral agents suspected in cancer—tars, radiation, certain other chemicals.

Finally, we must place some weight on your years of experience with the disease. If cancer were contagious, evidence pointing to that fact would be considerable and would provide us with much more than mere guess work. We don't have that evidence. Therefore, as I said earlier, the evidence we have to the contrary indicates that the incidence of cancer is of a sporadic, random nature.

So A.D.R. should stop worrying, and Mrs. H. M. should visit her sick friend.

We are all, at one time or another, exposed to the same viruses suspected in some cancer. If it were contagious, such exposure would certainly result in a sky-rocketing number of cancer victims. This hasn't occurred.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 16-years-old and have a very embarrassing problem. In between my periods I have a flow of white fluid so bad that I have to wear napkins.

My dad says this is my fertile period, and that it is completely natural. I have tried douching with warm vinegar, but that only helps temporarily. — C.C.

Your dad is correct. Such a discharge can occur at mid-cycle due to ovulation. How about a tampon instead of the pad? The discharge should last about a day or two.

I wouldn't recommend unnecessary and indiscriminate douching of any kind. It is often a caustic exercise and can be damaging to your natural membrane secretions. If your concern continues, you might want to check by your doctor when the discharge is heaviest.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has inflammation of the sciatic nerve and has been given Butazolidin Alka. Can the condition be cured? — Mrs. D.B.

Generically, the drug is called phenylbutazone, an anti-inflammatory agent which has been effective in relieving symptoms of acute phlebitis. It is not a curative drug, and manufacturers recommend its use for a limited time.

The word control is most applicable in such inflammation. Conservative methods such as use of anti-coagulants, bed rest, appropriate elevation of the limbs, and pressure bandages are often effective.

In extreme cases, surgical removal of the affected vessel area may be required.

Restore Landmark

GREENWICH, England (CP)—Restoration of the unique-shaped dome at the old Royal Greenwich Observatory here has been completed. Glass fibre was used because of its weather resistance and fire retardant properties. The observatory was built in 1857 on the spot where the royal warrant signed by Charles II was granted 300 years ago.

Value of Dollar Drops

Wage gains made during the last 12 months have been partly eroded by a drop in the value of the dollar. The dollar value on May 14 was 96.66 cents U.S. compared with a peak of more than $1.03 U.S. a year ago. The result has been that costs of things brought from abroad, from Japanese cars to Florida fruits, have increased. (CP Newsmap)

Loonies Will Get New Chance

HOLLYWOOD (Reuter) — British comedian Peter Sellers, little seen on-screens in the last few years during what he regards as a slump in movie comedies, believes the "loonies" are about to be given another chance.

"Comedy is in again,' says Sellers who will soon make something of a comeback in his established role as the clumsy, neurotic French policeman, Inspector Clouseau.

"Film companies are just beginning to take a chance with us loonies," Sellers says. "They realize there is money in comedies and they are now willing to take a risk."

Sellers believes the turning point in the fortunes of film comedy and comedians came when Hollywood studios learned of live with the eccentric genius of comedy producer Mel Brooks.

Brooks has just produced two box office successes in a row with Blazing Saddles and Young Frankenstein.

Sellers, who has twice played the bungling Inspector Clouseau in The Pink Panther and A Shot In The Dark, will soon be seen in the role again in The Return of The Pink Panther.

Sellers, regarded as one of the top international comedians of the 1950s and 1960s, admits that his film career has been through a slow period lately.

"My film career started with a bang. I had five or six smash hits when I started which was very lucky.

"To sustain that record of success for a character comedian is very difficult. Comedy scripts were difficult to find.

"That's when I started making mistakes. I got so swamped under by scripts I just couldn't keep up with . . . with them. I did two films against my better judgment (but I stand) not have done."

Sellers refuses to name the two films, saying only: "I think they're rather obvious."

Crushes For Scrap

DUBLIN (CP)—The Irish government has licensed a private company to travel around from town to town with a mobile car crusher. The crusher compacts abandoned motor vehicles which are then turned over to a government steel mill as scrap.

ARTERIAL LAND
The advantage of early establishment on the main arteries such as North Front Street and Dundas Street East and West has been made self-evident by the leadership of national and local firms now doing business from these winning locations.
This agency offers you a wide variety of commercial sites on all three arteries of varying frontage, depth and area for your specific purpose.
Since the best positions are taken first and the price of these premium sites tends to rise as the supply diminishes — now is the time to discuss land in your plans for expansion.

Progressive Bishops Blamed For Making Church Unstable

KING CITY, Ont. (CP)—The years are responsible for a superior of the Roman Catholic monastery here says 'progressive' bishops in the last 10 years in Canada.

Rev. Isidore Geiss said bishops have disturbed people's confidence in Catholics.

His Augustinian order of monks has lost half of its members in Canada in the last 15 years.

Fast, abstinence and holy days, observed in the monastery, have been eliminated and bishops have watered down the teaching of the church by not objecting to the use of birth-control pills, Father Geiss said.

"How can you expect parents to recommend young people to become priests when they lack firm guidance from those in charge?" he said.

Father Geiss said the discipline and prayer life for theological students has been too relaxed and they have been given too much say in matters.

"It may be necessary in close down some Canadian monasteries and to join others together," he said.

Blow Gives Sight

GOLETA, Calif. (AP) — When Don Berry hit his head against a wash basin, he may have suffered a backache. But the blow also restored his sight.

Berry, who operates the cafeteria at the Raytheon plant in this Santa Barbara suburb, said Tuesday he was regularly treated for occasional vertigo and cataracts since a 1972 automobile accident.

But, after the blow on his head last week, Berry said his sight has been improving daily, including depth and color perception.

LONDON (AP) — Male British customs officers, seeking sex equality, are demanding free socks and shoes from the government. They noted girls have to buy their own, but the 300 women officers receive government-issue tights and shoes.

What if your pay cheque was late?

For many of us this would be a calamity. Your Intelligencer carrier is a young, independent businessman; he doesn't receive a pay cheque. His profit is the difference between the wholesale cost of his newspapers and the amount collected from his customers. Most subscribers pay their carriers on the first call. But some people say "come back later" . . . and the carrier's profit is put off. It's like asking you to come back two or three times for your pay cheque. Of course, you want to be paid promptly. All of us do. The boy or girl who delivers your Intelligencer will appreciate being paid promptly.

50,000 Fans Attend 8 Concerts by Pink Floyd, Jethro Tull

LONDON (CP) — When a total of 50,000 fans attended eight concerts by two British rock bands, it was ultimate proof of the forceful arrival of theatrical rock in London.

Both bands, Pink Floyd and Jethro Tull, gave four-evening-a-week concerts on consecutive nights at different halls. The reception was overwhelmingly good and the age range of the audiences decreased from 30 to between 20 and rock.

Pop is Gilbert O'Sullivan and Tom Jones and Gary Glitter, Rock, which has come to mean a yearning for messages and imagery and passages in cultural backdrop, is Led Zeppelin and the Who and even David Bowie.

Pink Floyd and Jethro Tull are decidedly rock and their fans range in age from about 18 to 28, with a hefty student following. Floyd are masters of space-age rock and at their concerts employed masterful light duties while they played their music. The sounds themselves rely heavily on the listeners' imaginations.

Jethro Tull are from the other side of theatrical rock, relying on zany comic and stage explosions, allied to risque jokes and hard, driving music. So both bands are highly visual, and both are in the front line of the latest rock scene that appears to have an iron grip on British fans. The Floyd and Tull tickets were all sold quickly as soon as the concerts were announced.

Yet this massively established music carries on a kind of flirtation with the new pop scene of Slade and Donny Osmond in this respect: rock musicians, like all other performers, strive for mass recognition and few of them are content to be club acts for the rest of their days, so the aim in view is often for a hit single record.

Both Pink Floyd and Jethro Tull have enjoyed big-selling single records in the hit parade in recent years and though they have been absent recently they will perhaps be tempted to try again in the near future. As Paul McCartney said during the heyday of the Beatles: "... no better feeling on earth for a musician than [illegible] of the chart." And he meant with a single disc.

It's ironic, therefore, that the world of today's charts exists on an almost separate level from the rock bands. Names on the "teen-agers' tips—Donny Osmond, the Bay City Rollers, David Essex, Sparks, Rod Stewart and Mud—are often greeted with a smirk by older (in age) rock musicians, who seem to think that to peddle pop for the kids is degrading. And in the least, unattractive trait.

In fact many of the "kids" in the cut-and-out pop groups like the Bay City Rollers or Mud have been around for years and are, in their chosen idiom, every bit as competent and inspired as the rock "peasants".

It takes a special kind of talent to write pop songs that capture a teen-ager's emotions in three or four minutes and long-established artists of the calibre of Neil Sedaka or Canadian Paul Anka have found it a business which no financial wizard would decry.

With these basic facts ringing in his ears, the top American singer-songwriter John Denver has just become the toast of Britain's silent majority of pop fans who love a good story.

His success has sparked a controversy among the self-appointed hip in crowd. They reckon that his songs are grossly overrated and unctuous in their sentimentality. Friends of Denver defenders point to his clarity and simplicity and plain love for old-fashioned standards.

Denver has had colossal success as a record seller—both albums and singles are selling like hot cakes—and as a television performer, with a national series in Britain which got top audience ratings.

Roy Harper has led the phrases that made fans' hackles rise. "That's only as far as public recognition goes. Digging that musical whiz-kid Denver," said Roy Harper, the articulate Harper.

London's rock scene is an insular affair and incidents like the Denver versus Harper battle are peculiar to the capital. Elsewhere in the country they don't debate the deeper aspects of the music spectrum—they just get on with enjoying themselves. And a group called Sparks is one of the hottest in the land. BOUND ODD

Ron and Russell Mael, brothers from California set-tled in Britain, got together a band of Englishmen to form this eccentric-looking and odd-sounding outfit and they have produced the weirdest yet most refreshing sound in years.

This Town Ain't Big Enough For Both Of Us and Amateur Hour and Never Turn Your Back On Mother Earth are strange enough titles for songs. But their delivery of them is unusual too, with staccato vocals allied to punchy instrumental accompaniment and highly attractive melodies.

Then there's their appearance. Ron, the older brother, resembles early Charlie Chaplin, with a pencil-line moustache and baggy trousers and shirt and tie, while Russell dresses sharply in the modern idiom and has a pretty face into the bargain. Girls are mobbing him at every concert.

Sparks were voted Brightest Hope by readers of Melody Maker newspaper in their annual Pop Poll last year.

And all the Beatles are around. Paul McCartney's band Wings has just surfaced with a rocking single, Junior's Farm (an instant hit), while John Lennon has scored a solo success with Whatever Gets You Thru The Night and his new album Walls And Bridges. George Harrison is on a solo concert tour of America, while Ringo Starr has remade the old Platters track Only You as his new single, and is starring in a new film.

Less active but still clinging to their faithful legion of fans are those old warriors the Rolling Stones, who rise about once a year in Britain and America for a grand-slam concert schedule, new album or television spectacular.

The Stones, though, are not considered by rock people to be anything other than good musicians nowadays, and Mick Jagger and his wife Bianca are society-favored jetsetters. The old anti-authority stance has been replaced by the Stones forming their own record label and holding court at London's ultra-posh Ritz Hotel.

Bombs Explode

BASTIA, Corsica (AP) — Eleven bombs exploded during the night in Corsica and there was speculation that the attacks were the work of a group seeking autonomy of the island, Napoleon's birthplace, from France. There were no injuries, but considerable property damage was reported. Two more unexploded devices were found. There were no messages left behind to claim responsibility for the attacks.

Late Delivery

The coat was mailed Jan. 19, 1963, by the English professor's sister in Newton, Mass. But it wasn't until last Friday that the postal service delivered the two-by three-foot box to the college.

"1963 1963, say! You must be kidding," Postmaster James Blankenship said when asked about the overdue coat. There was no explanation for the delay.

Too Vigorous

BIRMINGHAM, England (Reuter) — A local government worker here was upset when he was refused promotion—so he took an axe to work in his briefcase and hit his chief over the head with it.

On Wednesday, 41-year-old Donald Franklin was jailed for three years for causing grievous bodily harm.

Kissinger in Ankara Discussing Cyprus

ANKARA (AP) — U.S. Secretary Henry Kissinger is discussing the Cyprus crisis in this Turkish capital while reassuring America's allies in the Central Treaty Organization (CENTO) that U.S. changes in Mediterranean policy have not meant any lessening of U.S. support for them.

He indicated that the meeting last week in Rome between foreign ministers Dimitrios Bitsios of Greece and Ihsan Sabri Caglayangil of Turkey was a positive development, particularly since it was followed this week by the U.S. Senate's vote to lift the embargo on U.S. arms sales to Turkey.

The official said the Senate action improved Kissinger's bargaining position with the Turks considerably.

Kissinger will have a more definite idea of the Cyprus outlook after Turkish Premier Semahn Demirel meets Greek Premier Constantine Caramanlis during the Brussels summit meeting next week of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the official said.

Kissinger, in his talks with the Turks here, is concentrating on the two main issues blocking a settlement between the Greek Cypriot majority and the Turkish Cypriot minority—when the new constitutional system in the island will be and how large the Turkish Cypriot zone will be.

Kissinger is in favor of separate Greek and Turkish state areas in some kind of confederation. This is essentially what the Turkish Cypriots want.

Waldheim Would Keep Golan Heights Watch

UNITED NATIONS (Reuter) - United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim has recommended that the Security Council extend the mandate of the UN Disengagement Observer Force (UNDOF) on the Golan Heights for another six months, until the end of November.

The council is expected to meet next week to adopt a resolution to this effect.

In a report to the council Wednesday night, Waldheim said both Syria and Israel, whose armies are separated by the UN force, had agreed to the extension.

Syria's agreement to a six-month extension, which became known shortly before the secretary-general's report was published, came as a surprise to most observers.

The Syrian government had been expected to agree only to a two-month renewal, as the mandate of UNDOF and of the UN Emergency Force (UNEF) stationed in Sinai between the Egyptian and Israeli armies, would both expire at about the same time, at the end of July.

Waldheim said the continued presence of UNDOF was essential, "not only to maintain quiet in the Israel-Syria sector, but also to provide an atmosphere conducive to further efforts toward the achievement of the just and lasting peace called for by the Security Council and to assist in such further efforts, as well."

The 1,150-man force, which includes 121 Canadians, was established a year ago under the Syria - Israel troop disengagement agreement.

Trudeau Agrees

Canadians Justified In Mails Criticism

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

The country's mail service deserves the dissatisfaction of Canadians, Prime Minister Trudeau agreed Thursday night.

At the same time leaders of several union locals in certain areas have shown a "high degree of irresponsibility" he said.

Disruption of basic services is "intolerable to the people of Canada" and presents a problem which "management and unions must face together, said the prime minister.

Mr. Trudeau gave out the opinions as he answered questions before a crowd of about 1,200 at Belleville Centennial Secondary School Thursday night.

His remarks came as a series of bookoffs threatened the long-beleaguered postal system still more.

Mail delivery involves people in their daily lives and as a result:

"I know we're losing — as a government — a lot of credibility with people who are affected by poor services," said the prime minister.

He said he was reluctant to comment on current disputes because contract negotiations with postal workers were still current.

Bomb Warning False

Postal Walkout Response 'Spotty'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

As anonymous bomb warning caused the temporary evacuation of Toronto's Postal Terminal A—Canada's largest—early today as Ontario members of Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) responded spottily to a call for a one-day walkout to protest the pace of contract negotiations with the federal treasury board.

Metropolitan Toronto police received the telephone warning and searched the huge terminal without finding any explosive.

After the call was received, members of the midnight to 8 a.m. shift were sent home at 6 a.m., while day-shift workers were kept out of the buildings until after 8 a.m.

The caller had stated that two bombs were timed to explode between 7 a.m. and 8 a.m.

Meanwhile, the walkout call had varying effects around the province. In some cities, all inside workers booked off sick. In others, it reported for work.

There was partial absenteeism in some places.

In Belleville, Walter Yakeuse, president of the Belleville local, was unavailable for comment. His wife said he was ill he came to the telephone.

However, a spokesman Ray Wainright said only three inside postal workers were off sick today. He said the eight sick workers booked off sick during the overnight shift called back the mail is back up.

He said the backlog will be cleared up today.

In Oshawa workers — 37 full-an — sympathized rights per cent members of the union.

In the main Toronto terminal, 67 of the 1,000 boys off the trean 200 and 400 on the day shift reported sick, leaving the shift close to half for a Friday.

Local office spokesman Ed Rewarth said about 40 workers were missing at the Bloor Street office.

He said 40 old-age pensions out of all of Ontario were being processed here for compensary delivery on Tuesday, Wednesday and Wednesday.

The picture: Outside Toronto: Ottawa: Inside workers called in sick, though the union would not say how many.

Peterborough: Inside workers stayed home.

Kingston: Operations were normal in Simcoe and nearby areas.

Oshawa: Most clerks and mail carriers stayed sick.

Sarnia: Inside workers stayed home.

Sault Ste. Marie: All employees reported for duty.

Timmins: Inside workers stayed home.

Hamilton: Operations were normal in Simcoe and nearby areas.

But, he told a questioner challenging the efficiency of the post office, "I myself side with you that the dissatisfaction about the mail service is fully justified."

He said at the leadership level of union locals in certain cities there is a "high degree of irresponsibility."

In Montreal alone, millions of pieces of mail are stacked up.

"It's a situation which is intolerable," said Mr. Trudeau.

At the same time the public shouldn't forget that postal workers themselves over the years have had legitimate reasons for objecting to conditions.

Returned aside a suggestion that the postal service could be more effectively run if it were decentralized and contracted to private enterprise.

"The crudest monopoly situation for business and unions.

"Look at employers in the post office we certainly must take part of the blame for the present problems," he said.

The government must strive to improve employee relations while unions must not use their organizations to "pursue ends which are detestable to the common good."

Five Slain In Quebec

ST. HELENE, Que. (CP) — Three men and two women were found shot to death late Thursday night in a rented bungalow in this community 25 miles southeast of Montreal.

A Quebec Provincial Police (QPP) spokesman said early today it was "still too early to say" what the cause of death was, and setting of account.

The victims, described by police as aged between 18 and 25, were found at 10:30 p.m. EDT Thursday following telephone calls to police from neighbors. Their names were not released but police said each victim was shot in the head at close range.

The five homicides bring to seven the total number of killings in the Montreal area Thursday.

Earlier, Montreal Urban Community (MUC) police found the nude body of an unidentified woman in the overflowing bathtub of an investment apartment.

Police said cause of death was either strangulation or drowning and one man is being held for questioning in the case.

A man who MUC police believe worked for alleged underworld leader Frank Cotroni was found shot to death Thursday in a wooded area on Montreal's South Shore.

Marcel Martel, 38, had been shot several times, police said.

1972 Wiretap Revealed Sale of Tainted Meat

MONTREAL (CP) — A plot to sell tainted meat to provincial jails, hamburger chains and inside public Thursday at the Quebec police commission inquiry into organized crime.

Judge Jean Dutil, the inquiry chairman, said the names of the major companies should not be disclosed "because we don't have evidence they actually bought the meat." If such evidence emerged, the companies could be identified, he added.

The plot was disclosed in a 1972 telephone conversation between Armand Courville, manager of Regale Food Inc., and Gilbert Massey, of his former assistant manager, which was wiretapped by police.

Regale Food Inc., a meat processing firm, is run by Yvon Courville (QC) Courville was identified as earlier testimony as the organizer behind the alleged underworld figure, Mr. Massey worked for Regale Foods for eight years from 1971, and now heads the firm of Products Alimentaires, which also processes meat. Both are based in tainted meat.

During the intercepted conversation, it was revealed that some thousand pounds of rejected meat being bribed to close their eyes to certain violations.

Mr. Massey went much of Thursday on the witness stand and admitted his role in the transport of meat from stocks that were sick or had died of natural causes.

He said he had a "special recipe" for hot dogs and bologna. That recipe hid the tainted meat to which was added "fat, water and chemicals."

The meat, unfit for human consumption, was then found to be used strictly for pet food.

Mr. Massey said he sold at least two 2,500-pound loads of tainted meat to a business firm owned by William Obront and was paid in cash by Mr. Obront's son, Howard.

Willard Wright was identified as a Montreal underworld figure in earlier organized crime inquiry testimony.

Mr. Massey said he could tell good portions of meat from bad ones.

"This meat wasn't putrid like the inquiry is trying to make it out to be," he said. "It was meat from a kid of steers and I'm still healthy."

Lalonde Accused Of Playing Footsie

OTTAWA (CP) — Health Minister Marc Lalonde was accused Thursday of "playing consultational footsie with the government of Quebec" in the tainted meat scandal instead of protecting consumers.

During a stormy question and answer session in the House of Commons James McGrath (PC—St. John East) said it was the heart of Liberal MP's that Mr. Lalonde should step up the widespread practice of selling contaminated meat to the public."

Mr. Lalonde said that the information about tainted meat sold in Quebec is a provincial responsibility. Federal meat inspectors are required to examine meat only when it is loaded on to trucks and moved to another, he said.

Mr. McGrath said outside the House it is likely the injured party also has been shipped to other provinces, particularly Ontario.

"We have no hard evidence, but we know meat is shipped from Montreal to Cornwall and to points east also."

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said the federal health department "has known for two years ... that some 200 meat processing authorities were not receiving adequate inspection."

Mr. Stanfield said that Mr. Lalonde should step "responsible authorities" to see that adequate inspection is carried out.

Mr. McGrath said the RCMP had evidence in 1969 that tainted meat was being sold for human consumption in Quebec. He said the matter was raised in 1969 by Claude Wagner (PC—St. Hyacinthe), then a Liberal member of the Quebec national assembly.

Italian Origin Reference Termed Racist

OTTAWA (CP) — Use of the word Italian in newspaper reports on the Canadian scandal was called "racist-divisive and totally irrelevant" by Liberal Ursula Appollonia Thursday.

Mrs. Appollonia, a Toronto MP married to an Italian in a riding which has a large Italian population, was referring to a Canadian Press story that appeared in the Globe and Mail.

In the story, a witness at the inquiry into organized crime said shipments of tainted meat were picked up by men "of Italian origin," armed with revolvers.

Mrs. Apollonia said naming the origin of the men was deplorable.

Quebec Assembly Okays Changes in Labor Laws

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec national assembly gave third and final reading today to legislation giving the Bourassa government a powerful weapon in its war against violence and corruption in the province's troubled construction industry.

By an 81-7 vote, the national assembly approved substantial changes to existing labor laws, placing restrictions on who may hold union office and putting the burden of proof on the accused in court cases involving illegal strikes and lockouts.

Justice Minister Jerome Choquette admitted to reporters the legislation was tough but said it was necessary to bring peace to the industry.

Under the law, conviction for murder, attempted murder, aggravated theft, manslaughter, arson, embezzlement, kidnapping or counselling to commit any of these offences, disqualifies a person from holding union office for life. Only if persons convicted of such crimes obtain a pardon from the Federal Parole Board, may they be eligible to represent a union.

Convictions for theft, breaking and entering, drug trafficking, arson, intimidation, aggravated assault and public mischief causing bodily harm, render a person ineligible for five years after the sentence is served.

The law applies to union officials now holding office.

Any person illegally occupying a union post may be fined at least $1,000 a day and be jailed for at least two years.

If a worker or union official takes part in an illegal strike, picketing during the life of a contract, or if an employer clears an illegal lockout, he would be presumed guilty and bear the burden of proving his innocence.

Legal action under this provision is the prerogative of the labor department.

The Opposition Parti Quebecois decried what they described as harsh measures in the legislation during the suppression of public provisions.

Other changes contained in the legislation include the following:

—Union stewards must be elected by workers, as a construction site instead of being appointed by the union hierarchy.

—Union members are required to handle and install any materials supplied by an employer. Fines of between $200 and $10,000 per day may be imposed for failure to comply.

—Employers or their representatives may not offer, give or promise to give in a union official a loan, reward or extra benefit. Likewise, union officials cannot seek or accept extra benefits from employers. Conviction could result in fines ranging from $5,000 to $10,000.

In addition, an employer who has representatives, or a union official convicted of any form of corruption, intimidation or violence in labor relations would be banned from representing his association for five years.

Guild Plans Original Local Drama for Opener

By CINDY MORTON
Staff Reporter

The first Canadian play in Belleville in the last eight years will be produced by the Belleville Theatre Guild in early fall.

The play is being written by Bill Culp, a local man who moved to the area three years ago. It deals with a Belleville man who was involved in a murder but outside of Bloomfield and Trenton, mainly in Picton. The time is 1883-1884 and the play follows the actual sequence of events based on period records.

BILL CULP

Since the evidence was circumstantial, Mr. Culp's play will offer both sides of a number of possible interpretations of the events.

Casting starts this weekend.

Since the work is based on actual facts it will be a realistic drama. Mr. Culp feels that Belleville's performing arts is well above average and thinks it is also so artistically and creatively inclined. He feels that Belleville residents are well informed and have literary and heritage more than dwellers in larger urban centres.

Mr. Culp was inspired to write the play after reading an Intelligencer article early last year dealing with a Picton hanging. He worked around the story and then began doing research early in January. The man hanged was called Lindsey.

Since the play will deal with Belleville and the surrounding area, it should be of great interest to the public here, believes Mr. Culp.

The gallows used for the hanging may still be seen in the Picton court house. The house that was the scene of the slaying still stands on the Bloomfield Road.

The Theatre Guild was unanimous about opening their season with the original work. Mr. Culp feels that the play "will be a collective creation in which actors develop the script from basic material that they create. Part of the concept of dealing with an open-workshop style of play is that the actors develop more character.

There will be about 10 characters in the play and 12 actors to audition.

"It is a new approach to plays and the overall format of the play will be episodic."

The play will be called Around and About Us 1883 — 1884 and casting will take place at 7:30 p.m. May 24 and at 2:30 May 25 at the Pinnacle Playhouse.

Total of council's 1975 budget is $1,205,318 in comparison with $1,072,748 in 1974.

A total of $518,517 will be raised by tax levies this year, compared with $505,986 last year.

Prince Edward County's requisition to Picton for 1975 totals $294,238.

Picton Mayor Donald King observed at a special meeting of council Thursday that the budget "was pared to the core to keep taxes as low as possible".

He said that several possible construction projects were shelved temporarily to keep taxes down.

"In view of the fact the county rate has us in this position we have no alternative," he commented.

Administration salaries have been raised from $36,480 last year to $39,840 for 1975.

The fire department's budget has been increased from $61,831 to $68,940 this year.

The police department's budget this year will be $138,750 in comparison with $145,180 in 1974.

The budget for the public works department, general section, was raised from $180,000 in 1974 to $228,118.

The sanitation section has jumped from $80,325 in 1974 to $117,918 this year.

Included in revenue for 1975 is a province of Ontario resource grant of $170,130 and a general unapport grant of $27,158. A per capita grant of $64,638 is listed as well as a Prince Edward County hospital grant of $4,779. A Rail Canada CN payment in lieu of taxes totals $29,083.

Total amount of assessed real property and business assessment in Picton liable for taxes in 1975 is $53,794,600.

Education grants total $364,461 with a breakdown as follows: Prince Edward Secondary - $189,539; Prince Edward elementary - $126,461, and Hastings — Prince Edward separate elementary $10,520.

Education grants in 1974 totalled $294,827.

New Parking Approved

PICTON — Several recommendations by town council's special committee on traffic and parking have been approved by council and should go into effect soon.

A draft by-law will be prepared to place the traffic signal at the intersection of Ross and Main Streets at flashing amber from 9 p.m. to 8 a.m. daily.

The parking meter zone will be extended to include the west side of Bridge Street from the southerly limit of Main Street to the northerly limit of Mary Street. Parking meters will be installed.

No action will be taken on a recommendation from police chief Charles Fletcher to move the present taxi parking spaces from Main Street.

'How Sweet It Is'

The orchards of Prince Edward County are alive with gentle color again, the blooms imparting a fresh sparkle to a new growing season. Amy Pock, 4, of Redmersville, discovers just how sweet the spring is as five-year-old neighbor Duane Brown holds bough of blossoms for her inspection.

County Tourism

Report is Urging Changes

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Tourism in Prince Edward should be actively encouraged through formation of an independent Tourist Advisory Board says county economic development director William Duggan in a report to county council on development potential here.

The report urges the county to take the lead in specifying standards and development areas in accord with municipal councils, planning boards and senior government.

Potential for expanded tourist activity in the county is described as "good" but tourism must reach beyond the simple cottage set-up which presently exists and usually provides employment and income for only one family unit at each facility.

Mr. Duggan recommends a county tourist development advisory board to assist the present economic development committee and suggests no further encroachment by the provincial government on the county's lakeshore.

"The provincial parks provide facilities for a particular type of tourist who is not a substantial large spender within the county," he observed.

Mr. Duggan said more sophisticated resorts with quality food, swimming pools and cocktail bars are needed in addition to increased attractiveness to vacationers' special interests such as golf and water sports.

Picton's golf course could be up-graded by the sale or lease of land behind the county home against the club's agreement to provide playing facilities for tourists registered at county tourist establishments.

Mr. Duggan said many observers and members of the government tourist boards agree a grading system for tourist resorts is needed.

"The Ontario government will not do it and the Tourist Association cannot do it because they would be grading each other," said Mr. Duggan.

The proposed tourist advisory board could suggest that only establishments which had been approved and graded could appear in official publications and also could undertake the grading.

Mr. Duggan has recommended that all money now dispersed through individual grants to tourist associations, chambers of commerce and county organizations of this type should be funnelled through the economic development committee.

The committee should be constituted to consist of elected members of council with an industrial advisory board and a tourist development advisory board.

$9,000 For Hand Dryers In Schools

The separate school board Tuesday night approved a three-year plan to install electric hand dryers in 8 schools at a total estimated cost of about $9,000.

Plant superintendent J.J. Sheridan, of the Hastings-Prince Edward County Separate School Board, said each hand dryer would cost about $145 and the board would recover its money in three years with current rising prices of paper towels.

The board revealed that 120 people can dry their hands with an electric dryer at a cost of .9427 cents whereas 120 people using paper towels would cost $1.

Park Purchase Funds Transferred by Town

TRENTON — The death of a park in northwest Trenton was marked this week by transfer of $30,000 slated for its purchase to a town account for work on Centennial Park.

Brian Fagan, town treasurer, said the money had been set aside in 1974 for purchase of land for a park. But an indication from the parks board that plans had changed prompted council's move to divert the funds.

Use of the money had been approved by the Ontario Municipal Board last year. Trenton had borrowed the funds and now has them sitting idle.

"So what we want now is for the OMB to give approval to spend it on Centennial Park," said Mr. Fagan.

He expects that OMB approval will be given easily. "Normally, as long as it (diversion of funds) has to do with the actual intent they'll pass it."

Elmo Gettas, parks and recreation director, said plans for the park were shelved when the parks board received no response from the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority to a request for help to find a park location.

Plans had been to locate the new park in the flood plain of Mayhew Creek.

The diverted funds will not likely be idled for Centennial Park development as outlined by the $8,000 study presented town council by Toronto consultants.

Mayor Patrick said Thursday he did not think any inroads will be made in the $2.5-million development scheme.

Director Gettas said he suspects the funds will be used to buy land along Bay St. for further additions to park acreage.

Get More Pay

PICTON — Prince Edward County councillors this week voted to increase their indemnities from $30 to $35 per meeting.

In 1976 the per diem rate will increase to $40.

The Warden's honorarium this year will increase to $4,650 and his car allowance to $2,350.

PUC Won't Go Lower On New OHC Homes

By AL XARAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Town utilities commissioners reformed Thursday to reduce the cost of installation of electrical services to Ontario Housing Corp. semi-detached-bungalow housing on Creswell Dr.

Reduction is a $725-per-home cost was requested by OHC on 35 single-family homes now at the initial stages of construction.

The OHC claims the corporation's contractor should not be responsible for paying the $725 since it was set by the PUC after the contracts and OHC signed the construction contract.

In discussion Thursday, PUC manager Douglas Manlow said the OHC has erred in its assessment of the per-unit costs.

The $725 figure is broken down to include a $500 deposit for installation of underground wiring to the property line, a $70 cost for connecting line from curb to a home meter, and a $185 cost for transformation at the Dufferin St. substation.

Mr. Manlow said only the $185 cost is new, established after the contract for the 35 units was signed.

Commissioners opposed exempting OHC from the transformation charge, fearing a precedent that would make the charge more difficult to levy in future.

Chairman Jim Macdonald said the PUC can't back out of a policy now. "Once it's in, it's in. That's it," he said.

A $500 deposit for installation of underground services represents a $200 increase due to escalation of PUC costs of installation. Any funds not used in installation will be returned to OHC.

By letter, the OHC argued "the increase . . . will place a very great burden on the government finances and should not be applied against a contract which was signed prior to the event (signing of contract)."

Criticism, Rebuttals On Industrial Park

PICTON — Prince Edward County council's economic development committee apparently works exclusively for a private profit-making corporation," says a Picton deputy-reeve Richard Byers referring to lands for industries at Loch Sloy Industrial Park.

At this week's county council session the deputy-reeve predicted council may become a salesman for the Loch Sloy development corporation."

He indicated the term "economic development committee" is a misnomer and observed it is unusual for a council to act steadily in the interests of a privately-owned industrial park.

Loch Sloy Industrial Park was owned by the late H. J. McFarland, mayor of Picton, for more than 30 years and remains in the McFarland family.

Harvey McFarland Jr. is a member of council's economic development committee.

The deputy-reeve's comments drew sharp reply from William Duggan, Prince Edward director of economic development.

Ownership of approximately 25 per cent of Ontario's industrial parks is private said Mr. Duggan.

The economic development director noted for more than two years he has urged council to obtain an industrial park of its own "to the extent of a private members bill". Cost for such a park would be approximately $200,000 and the payment for the project has been obtained.

He emphasized that there are now about 130 persons employed in the industries at Loch Sloy and suggested this should be welcome news in view of the recent shut-down at Picton's Proctor-Lewyt plant.

He added that taxes from the park also will be "considerable" for the county.

"We have no choice but to use that park that is available for . . . reasonable rental figure," he told council.

Hallowell reeve Keith MacDonald, a member of the economic development committee, said the county is fortunate there are "private individuals who make it possible for us to have an industrial park".

Ex-Grit Tom Cossitt's Probing Questions Skewer Prime Minister and Cabinet

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — The Liberals are going to have to do something about Conservative MP Tom Cossitt.

But what?

They have tried shouting him down, and have sometimes been waiting until they have herded themselves out of breath.

They have cowed him to his face in the corridors of Parliament, and he has laughed at their bellowed rage.

They have tried isolating him as if he were sick — which the more extreme among them call him — and he has responded by hallucinated screaming as a flaming signal of their frustration.

What is their problem?

It is his stubborn habit of asking questions in the Commons which embarrass them and which demanding that they be answered in public.

He is quietly deadly, and, from his backbench seat near the back of the Commons chamber, has the government more instant damage than perhaps any other MP. Even the House Tackle-Up Lead — Robert Stanfield.

It is an odd situation.

Cossitt, an independently wealthy man, for years was Liberal member for Cartier based in Leach, and a hearty party cruncher.

Politics was nothing more than a hobby.

Then suddenly, Prime Minister Trudeau turned him off cold, turned him completely around from Liberal to Conservative, and Cossitt became Tom Cossitt, "I came to realize what a threat, a real and present danger the man was to Canada and Canadians."

Politics, no longer a hobby, became to Cossitt not just a career, but a crusade.

And he pursued it in a style unique in the Commons.

He has called as many questions hurled in the Liberals collectively and the Prime Minister individually, seldom is a copy of the parliamentary record, Hansard, printed without the name Cossitt up front.

Then suddenly, Prime Minister Trudeau turned him off cold, turned him completely around from Liberal to Conservative, became known as the nation's most quotable MP.

In fact, turned him completely around from Liberal to Conservative, became known as the nation's most quotable MP.

"I came to realize what a threat, a real and present danger the man was to Canada and Canadians."

Politics, no longer a hobby, became to Cossitt not just a career, but a crusade.

And he pursued it in a style unique in the Commons.

He has called as many questions hurled in the Liberals collectively and the Prime Minister individually, seldom is a copy of the parliamentary record, Hansard, printed without the name Cossitt up front.

That is a couple of recent samples from the grab bag of Cossitt questions:

It was his pulling teeth, but finally, (it took him six personal sessions) he extracted from the government the admission that it had a far better scheme going to help the jobless than unemployment insurance.

It is the really big benefit of all, a defeated Liberal candidate, paid, of course, like all good windmills, by the taxpayer.

Patiently, department by department, line by agency, Cossitt combed through the government with questions and caught the names of 16 Liberal election losers on the federal payroll at an average $21,000 to $22,000.

Not a fortune, but better than "peace", what?

Then he dragged from the reluctant Trudeau government the confession that the Liberals were free-loading on the Federal-Provincial Conference Centre that will cost the taxpayers some $2 million to complete. The Canada Games Site is a great, high-vaulted hall in which Prime Ministers and Premiers confer on national issues.

Yes, conceded Public Works Minister Jean Drury in grudging answer to a Cossitt question, while the Conference Centre "was not intended for use other than for government purposes, it had been turned over "without charge" to the Liberal Party of Canada for purposes of a political get-together.

But to appreciate the subtler style of the gentle Tom Cossitt — of Cossitt fiction to him knife Trudeau on the issues of the $30,000-plus-a-year salaries that 33 unidentified Toronto advisers are giving him:

"Surely," purrs Cossitt, "it is a simple matter for the government to list these 33 names.

"That they have not been forthcoming can lead us only to the unfortunate assumption that there is something to hide.

"If there is any conflict of interest or impropriety involved, I would think the Prime Minister will have no hesitation in public all the details about the men, their duties and to what other duties they may be called. Public officials have a right to know the truth from Parliament and the public."

Deadly insinuation.

So enraged is the Prime Minister that he falls into the trap of blurting out that if he can't accept the need from these 33 secret advisers, "then I would suspect he would be up to the Treasury (the poor taxpayer, who else?) to find the bill."

Cossitt is a cautious.

Minister Tours North

So you are basking in the unaccustomed warmth of this merry month of May.

Well think back briefly to earlier in the year and a tour of provincial correctional facilities in the north country by Belleville's Dr. Richard Potter. "Correctional Services" is cold enough terminology, but behind it are flesh and blood, human problems, and efforts by many dedicated people to remedy them.

As the minister concerned, Dr. Potter, his deputy, Glenn Thompson, and other officials covered 3,500 miles — mostly by train — in eight days last February and March. Whether the brain journey was a ministerial how toward making economies is not stated — more probably it made for easier access to various communities, and in any event there was a side trip by air to a mine and other centres — but it brought its own attendant problems for the visitors.

A diary of the trip in the ministry's publication, Correctional Update, notes one of the party was troubled by motion sickness; so there was a stop at Thunder Bay for medication — and, just to show that government can be forgetful of little things too — for razor blades!

The diary, by accompanying ministry reporter Don Kerr, after hinting at a possible cause of the official's discomfort — lack of sleep as the train rattled through the night, as if bent on a new step as the train rattled through cuss progress made in the correctional field up north.

This is a region which, because of the peculiar difficulties faced by the native people, perhaps requires approaches and techniques not applicable elsewhere.

Picture the living room of a house in Dryden which serves as a community resource centre for native offenders. It is run by Gary and Cathy Lienberger and they agree with native counselor Norbert Saylor that the centre is, first of all, a home, a factor given substance by the presence of the Lienberger children, a girl of seven and a boy of three.

The Kerr diary reports the response from local businessmen as good, with the first 16 men to stay at the centre obtaining jobs. One problem though is that some of the men quit once their sentences expire.

There was another aspect of human nature, as well as of race relations which manifested itself at this centre; and it should afford independents some genuine insight into a perplexing problem. That is, the people on the spot believe that mixing natives and non-natives is unrealistic and consequently the centre is being maintained strictly for the Indians.

It can be seen that the work of a provincial minister and his assistants is not spent entirely at a desk or in the legislature. There is a lot of field work and on-the-spot study which do not always make the headlines.

"Is that gloom or just air pollution?"

Eye on Polls, Harbor Issue, PCs Play It Safe

By DON O'HEARN

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — For two months the question was, would he? Now the question is, why didn't he?

Premier Davis let the date go by for calling a June election.

This today is period of ten, slow, though July is still is a possibility.

But it didn't end curiosity.

It is known that about two months ago a June election had been to most practical purposes decided on.

There were words of some second thoughts, but still the dominant signs were for June.

Premier Davis played it cool, saying the ball depended on whether June or later.

Then he let the date slip by, without calling for the writs.

The writer lacks the premier's bend as a crystal ball so, therefore, can't give any oracle board interpretation of why the decision was put off.

But there are two most common speculations.

One is that party polls taken a few weeks ago didn't come up to expectations.

It is said—and this is only rumor—that while the polls showed some gains for the government they also left it still trailing the Liberals.

And, according to this theory, party strategists decided they would be better to take more time to try to build back the party.

A second speculation is that the Hamilton Harbor Commission trials are under way this month and will continue into next.

Former Solicitor General George Kerr is to figure in these trials not only as a witness but in evidence.

Nobody can be too sure just what might come up at these trials and there could be at least the suspicion in the public mind of another government scandal.

This suspicion would apply not only in the Hamilton area but would quickly spread throughout the province.

The pundits believe that it was, therefore thought better to put the trials out of the way before going to the people.

A federal law banned all Chinese immigration, a law which was not repealed until 1942. In 1881, 11 Indian immigrants were lynched by a mob after the New Orleans police chief was murdered, supposedly by an Italian.

In San Francisco riots tried to segregate the schools against the Japanese.

During the late 19th and early 20th Centuries, Congress reduced immigration and imposed literacy tests, sanctioned that nearly all immigrants must be from countries in England or Northern Europe.

And that quota system was not ended until 1965, when President Johnson signed into a law a liberal immigration act which had been proposed by President Kennedy.

Remember some of the resentment against the Hungarian refugees coming to the U.S. in the late 1950s? And the anger when thousands of Cubans fled from Fidel Castro after he came to power in 1959?

The Vietnamese, too, have had from Communism, practically these refugees will be "absorbed" into the U.S. population just as those who have come before them.

Refugee Melting Pot Takes Time to Jell

Wolverton Thesis

The public should not be surprised at the hostility being expressed by some Americans against the thousands of Vietnamese who fled their country for safety in the United States. This type of expression has been going on for more than 320 years. It has been directed at practically every race, religion and national origin.

As Jon Margolis of the Chicago Tribune points out in an historical perspective, hostility to immigrants it seems, is an American tradition that slightly younger than immigration.

Quebec's Troubles And the Olympics

Montreal Gazette

Much of Quebec's crisis in labor relations can be attributed to the fact that leadership, in both government and labor, has feet of clay. Leaders whose authority has been shaky have tried drive to excess in word and act in an effort to restore it.

The weakness of Mr. Bourassa and his government first in the fact, documented by the Cliche Commission, that it contributed so decisively to the mess it is now trying to clear up. The conclusions report outlines the way in which a minority union leadership, largely drawn from criminal elements, sought to obtain monopoly control of construction sites. It also shows how this effort was abetted by Premier Bourassa's principal non-elected adviser, by the conduct of Labor Minister Cournoyer and others responsible to him, and by the failure or absence of formal law enforcement under Justice Minister Jerome Choquette.

Brantford Expositor

In recent years, first the CNTU and then the QFL have moved farther and farther away from the traditional central concerns of organized labor. They have become highly political, and their political ideas issue manifestos calling for drastic changes in the social order. Their politics are a mixture of extreme socialism and separatism. In demonstrations, mass meetings, in the corridors of court orders, they have condemned not only the government, and foster disrespect for the law and its processes.

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

It is inconceivable that a country as rich in human and material resources as Canada should even consider dropping the Olympics because of labor troubles.

It is to be sorry these we read or hear that the International Olympic Committee is considering switching the Games again for some site such as Mexico City.

U.S. Balks At Metric

The Christian Science Monitor

The reputation of the supporters of the metric system is that if you give Canada a centimeter, they'll take a mile. But this has not been true in the United States. Support for the metric system has not been persuaded to any great degree. Even with a decimeter pole even though it was the gift of a friend from a country that has converted to metrics, grass and liters — leaving the U.S. standing only against the system favored by 90 percent of the people.

Last year Congress once more rejected legislation to bring about a voluntary conversion to the metric system. Now, as many supporters predict, the legislation's time has come.

Or so it appears. It is 1,288 years since Horace said, "It is right that the use of words and measure blessed by his own time." Even then he no doubt referring to a sense of standards rather than a statute.

In a growingly interdependent world, the metric system is a good sense should allow it to catch on. It has already done so elsewhere, with the 19th century's rise, 1851, for the metric system has been struggling for acceptance since the time of the Declaration of Independence.

Americans have hardly budged an inch.

It's hard to think of post Robert Frost saying, "I have kilometers to go before I sleep."

It's chilling to think of Congress as room temperature, and members' glamorous wives as being measured to an age of vast numbers, and everywhere the metric system is the sign of a confirmed to see the system of the ground.

Parks Are Busy Again

With the official opening of the provincial parks, there has been the usual flurry of liquor offence and other disturbances.

Perhaps it's the weather, the first flush of summer, or whatever, but this sort of thing has become something of an annual ritual. Then it seems to level out and things remain relatively quiet.

A few years ago, during the early pre-opening months, a dozen motorcyclists invaded The Outlet; there was some shooting by a few and the noise ran counter to all the talk of impending anti-noise legislation, yet it does seem to have been no more than an isolated incident.

Still, amid the outward calm and beauty of the provincial parks scene around Ontario, there remains an undercurrent of trouble. Restless young people and booze make a bad combination, but they are a factor of these latter days which is out of character with the parks' recreational objectives and which make demands on law enforcement and on the taxpayers.

A group of parks employees planting trees at The Sandbanks Park on a recent weekend were overheard talking of problems with some young men on motorcycles; the details escaped us, but the tone of the discussion suggested the episode had made demands of some kind or another on the park staff's time.

There is another aspect of the parks' environment and administration which should be mentioned. Once again park visitors pay either $1.50 a day or $15 for the season. For this they should expect clean facilities. Yet this was far from being the case in some of these at The Sandbanks a week prior to the holiday weekend.

History Provides Some Depressing Lessons

Winnipeg Free Press

In an attempt to put into historical perspective the gains and potential reversals about the Western world's state of economy and politics in an enlightening editor of Forbes magazine has fished out a quotation from Harper's Weekly. It is a report that will sound depressingly familiar to present-day newspaper readers. Prices, said Harper's, were so high as to be impossible, the dollar was dangerously weak, Russia's intrigues loomed on the horizon and the outlook was bleaker than it has ever been in human memory.

The quotation is not from a year-end review published in January, 1975; nor from the days of the Great Depression. The Harper's editorial was written in 1867. However, before the 1975 reader has settled comfortably in his television program, muttering whatever is his equivalent of "plus ca change . . ." he should beware.

Things were indeed tough in 1867. The Civil War had just broke loose. Barricades went up in Paris and Vienna in Berlin and Warsaw, in Prague and Budapest. In Britain the government hastily recruited special constables to cope with threatening revolution.

The British revolution was not quite complete, however, followed in the streets and when the revolt was subdued as a repression and it was not possible all the rosy hopes of freedom and democracy.

In Germany in particular the liberal forces were crushed so thoroughly that it took a century for them to have any sway at all.

In a growingly interdependent world, the metric system is a good sense should allow it to catch on. It has already done so elsewhere, with the 19th century's rise, 1851, for the metric system has been struggling for acceptance since the time of the Declaration of Independence.

Americans have hardly budged an inch.

It's hard to think of post Robert Frost saying, "I have kilometers to go before I sleep."

It's chilling to think of Congress as room temperature, and members' glamorous wives as being measured to an age of vast numbers, and everywhere the metric system is the sign of a confirmed to see the system of the ground.

Township Bridge Finally Gives Out

BANCROFT — Cottagers and residents headed for the cool relief of Ray Lake area of North Hastings will find their way blocked by a partially collapsed bridge on Ray Road, four miles south west of Bancroft.

The bridge and road are the property of Faraday Township and have been looked at for replacement several times in the past.

According to Faraday clerk Mona Gunter, the road has been closed until a decision is made by the council about replacement or repair.

There are several alternate routes into the western area of Ray Lake, so no one has to miss a pleasant weekend at the cottage.

While one of the Faraday township trucks was going over the bridge, the damage occurred.

No one was injured in the mishap.

Cheques Make Good Reading — For Board

The Hastings-Prince Edward Separate School Board has decided the listing of about 200 cheques totalling about $230,000 each month makes good reading for trustees and is part of their responsibility.

The board Tuesday night rejected a move by the administration to list only those cheques in excess of $500. It would have reduced the number by about 70 per cent. At Tuesday's meeting the trustees contained eight pages of cheques for last month.

Business superintendent Ed Fagan said it would be easier to give greater detail on the larger cheques of a significant nature. He said many of the cheques are routine each month and there was no need to report them.

Trustee Paul Wall said he would like to see an alternative format but re-affirmed the board's position that it has a responsibility to see every cheque.

Fun Fair Friday

TRENTON — The Murray Centennial Community Club will hold a fun fair, complete with fortune teller and puppet show, at the school this Friday at 7 p.m. Proceeds from the event will be used to support various school projects.

PCs Meet Friday

COBOURG — The Northumberland Progressive Conservative Provincial Association will hold its annual meeting at the Dalewood Golf Club, on Dale Rd. midway between Cobourg and Port Hope, Friday at 7:30 p.m. A dance will follow the 14-hour meeting.

Grants Boosted

PICTON — James Taylor, MPP Prince Edward-Lennox, Wednesday announced supplementary road grants totaling $57,700 to Prince Edward County municipalities.

The supplementary grants for road construction will be paid in addition to the regular road budget approved by the province.

Municipalities receiving this extra assistance are as follows: Picton, $20,000; Wellington, $7,000; Athol, $1,700; Hallowell, $2,000; Hillier, $7,000; North Marysburgh $1,500 and Sophiasburg $1,500.

Mr. Taylor said the supplementary grants were made to municipalities that applied for the assistance because of work projects requiring extra funds.

For OSSTF

Communications Are Emphasized

MADOC — Back-biting and non-constructive criticism have no place in the federation, says Jodie Carty, newly-acclaimed Hastings Division Ontario Secondary School teachers' Federation (OSSTF) president for her second term.

Speaking to about 125 county high school teachers Thursday night at Centre Hastings Secondary school here, Mrs. Carty urged the county's 530 secondary school teachers to bring their problems to the federation — no matter how small.

"Communication is the key to a successful organization," said Mrs. Carty," and the private network is not working to capacity in that all members are not taking advantage of it." She was referring the use of branch networks in each secondary school in the county.

She urged teachers to tell their local presidents their problems who can then pass the information along to the OSSTF executive. Mrs. Carty argued that then these problems could be solved before school administration for solution.

During the annual meeting Teacher Welfare Jerry Dacs introduced a resolution calling for better communication between the provincial executive and the local executive.

Communications Take 2

Mr. Dacs argued that the Hastings division and OSSTF should have the same status as a district." He said this would promote more consistency for teachers and better representation at workshops.

Hastings County is now part of a larger district, composed of two other counties Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington counties, Mr. Dacs said with the current arrangement it is possible Hastings can find itself without a representative on certain committees.

The teachers supported the resolution. Mrs. Carty, during her speech, also supported current co-operation between the other two teacher federations in the county, the federation of Woman Teachers Association of Ontario and the Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation.

Teachers' Federation Votes in Executive

MADOC — Jodie Carty, 29-year-old Centre Hastings Secondary School teacher, was acclaimed by acclamation to her second term as president of the Hastings Division of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation (OSSTF).

About 125 secondary school teachers held the annual OSSTF Hastings Division meeting at Centre Hastings Secondary School at Madoc. The division currently represents about 530 teachers in the county.

Ross Allan, a Bayside Secondary School teacher, was also acclaimed to his second term of first vice-president while a newcomer, Wilma McWilliams, from North Hastings Secondary School was acclaimed to second vice-president.

Allan succeeds Mrs. Carty, Prue Judd of Moira Secondary School.

Paul McAllister was also acclaimed to the position of secretary replacing Gabriela Local, past-president Ian Davidson, from North Hastings Secondary School, will become treasurer replacing Harold Hildebrandt, Sr.

CWL Event Is Held

MARMORA — A mother-daughter brunch was held in Sacred Heart Church Hall recently to commemorate Catholic Women's League Sunday.

The new president, Wilma Brady, welcomed 100 ladies and girls of the parish, their guests and Father Ted Lennon.

Guest speaker for the event was Lillian O'Connor of Marmora, member of the Diocesan Council of the CWL who is presently serving on the provincial executive as treasurer.

She outlined the ongoing programs of the league: the fight for right to life of the unborn and the support of the poor of the world through world development and peace.

New Executive

TAINA BOMAN

Exchange Student Ends Year

A spur of the moment decision to apply for a Rotary International student exchange program last year brought Taina Boman to Belleville from Hasilmi, Finland.

"I hadn't even been thinking about Canada when a friend said "why don't you apply," she says, "it did and I arrived here last August.

Taina, 16, whose father is a Rotarian, arrived last August and will return home Saturday after spending the year living with four exchange families and attending Belleville Collegiate Institute.

Travel isn't a stranger to the student who toured England and the continent alone at 14.

"Pretty well every student is on their own for the summer at that age, traveling," Taina explains. Since her arrival here she has visited New York city and South Carolina as well as other parts of Ontario.

Of all the provincial cities she visited — Toronto, Kitchener, Ottawa, Kingston — she prefers Belleville.

"I like the size of Belleville, I think it's best."

While its smaller than the other centers she visited, it's bigger than her home town where life for the student is more active and varied.

In Finland, during the evenings, for example, most young people congregate to stroll the streets, sit in parks or in coffee bars to chat. Parties are popular and frequent and dancing in an outdoor pavilion is a regular summer activity.

The difference is social life has made Belleville quite lonely for Taina who says, resignedly, that "most kids my age have all their friends so I really didn't get to know anyone here."

She enjoyed her educational experience at BCI — "I passed all my courses," she says proudly — where she studied math, English, French, geography and home economics. School too, differs from Finland, where all studies are prescribed.

Going back to Finland will leave Taina longing for two new favorite foods — corn and chocolate chip cookies (she's taking some of both back in her suitcase!). But she'll be glad to be back to an old favorite — saunas.

"The first thing I'm going to do is take a sauna."

Property Law Film Planned

Women — and men too — who are interested in the new provincial family property reform legislation, should make an effort to see a film being shown at Centennial Secondary School, Saturday, May 24, at 3 p.m. and again at 8 p.m.

The film — Family Property Law — is distributed by the Attorney-General's office at Queen's Park, and is being shown throughout Ontario prior to the legislation going to the Cabinet for approval in June, and before the House in October.

Sponsored by the Anglican Church Women of the diocese of Ontario, the film is endorsed by the University Women's Club, Dr. Richard Potter, MP Jack Ellis, the Victorian Order of Nurses, the municipalities of Sidney and Belleville, the Hastings County Board of Education and the Roman Catholic Separate School Board of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties, the Department of Social Services.

Dorothy Mallory, who saw the film earlier this spring at the University of Guelph, became immediately enthusiastic about its value and began arrangements for its showing here.

"Our ACW group, like several others in the area, had been hoping to get the film," she says. "And once I saw it for myself, I could see how important it is that people get this vital information."

Mrs. Mallory invited Guelph lawyer Joan Heath to conduct a question-and-answer period following the 40-minute film.

"There are so many issues involved here that are of concern to married couples, as well as anyone contemplating marriage," says Mrs. Mallory.

Although some of the present inequalities will be erased by the reform legislation, there are still several problems of which the public should be aware, Mrs. Mallory points out. For example, once the new regulations become law, they will not pertain to those who were married before it was enacted, unless a change is made before June.

After seeing the film, and taking part in the discussion, individuals and groups should have sufficient information to decide whether or not they wish changes in the legislation while there is still time."

"Women, especially women in traditional rural communities such as we have in this area must realize how much they need the protection of better and fairer laws," says Mrs. Mallory. "Without pension or adequate savings, they can be left with nothing if they are widowed or divorced.

"This film gives us a chance to get the information we need to influence the new legislation."

There will be no admission charge, but a collection plate at the door will be used to collect donations to defray the minor expenses of the day.

Planners Affect Lives

LONDON (CP) — There are no elections in Britain by which planners little office as there are for politicians, but it is widely felt that every threat from a planner's pen can affect lives in a greater degree than can any politician. . . . .

Planners as a whole are viewed with suspicion but a critic might be reassured, even impressed by a face-to-face meeting with a planner such as Sylvia Law.

She has just been made president of the Royal Town Planning Institute (RTPI), one of the profession's highest accolades, and is one of the most influential planners in south-east England.

The planning profession is roughly divided into two sections—development planning and development control. In the first group are the strategists who research the geography, sociology and other vital factors of an area and then make the general policies for it.

Development controllers make sure the plans don't go wrong, that they don't put a group of factories into the middle of a housing development or vice versa.

Sylvia Law found development control "very stressful emotionally" and was glad to go up in the ranks. Now she is a principal planner in charge of recreation for the Greater London Council (GLC); the largest local authority in Britain.

Sylvia never intended becoming a planner. The daughter of a cotton waste merchant, she went to Cambridge University and gained a master's degree in geography.

"I was looking for teaching job at Swansea, later—the school mistress who taught me Latin at Queen Anne. "I enjoyed it, but at the end of three years I knew I wasn't a born teacher," she said frankly.

Her next job was in market research for Unilever, finding out whether people would like a certain soap powder. "After three years I knew conclusively I wasn't for me either."

Eventually she heard that the county planning office of Kent was willing to take any kind of graduate. She applied and was accepted.

Although immediately her grounding in research techniques was invaluable. She was involved in a vast social survey which showed that two per cent of the wage-earners on every housing estate were unemployed. The resulting much of Kent into little more than a dormitory area.

The only alternatives then was in dingy building developments where they would attract no industry. This was done, and Kent began to lose more of its industry.

In 1969 Sylvia joined the GLC and was quickly to be promoted position. Now she has a free hand to plan a sailing dinghy which she races when she can, and a motor launch on the River Medway in which she—together—"paddles" all the time. We are going further afield to watch the birds and the marshes.

It is perhaps because her own recreation is so important to her that she would work hard to improve the recreational facilities for eight million Londoners. Some time ago she discovered that private sports grounds were gradually being sold off for housing development, and sales are being checked and will eventually stop.

She is also pressing hard for the London boroughs to extend their parkland. London has some of the most beautiful urban parks in the world but she would like metropolitan green spaces within two or three miles of every home with middle-sized and smaller parks as shorter intervals.

London Council. She is pressing hard for the London boroughs to extend their parkland.

LADY JANE GREY by Hester Chapman

Hester Chapman is a well known writer of historical fiction. Lady Jane Grey is a fascinating biography that should like a novel. The author writes with understanding and skill of the tragic figure that was Lady Jane Grey. Just as Shakespeare described Lady Jane as nearly so plain in the hands of her father-in-law, and certainly not an Anne Boleyn, the martyred saint that historians have made her.

Lady Jane Grey, a nine-day queen with a romantic name, is usually overlooked in the long pageant of powerful kings and queens. Hester Chapman describes the religious and intellectual background of Lady Jane's early life and paints a vivid picture of a great English nobleman at the beginning of the Reformation.

This book is available in Derby Library.

The Don't Be Shy Lunch

Some people may have the opinion, but if you go into the Terrace Dining Room of the Pine Crest Inn, it's going to be expensive — and fattening. It doesn't have to be! There are delicious, delectable salads there from which to choose, one of which is the Dieter's Delight, a cold plate of cottage cheese with a variety of fresh fruit. This is served in a very appetizing manner and is only $2.95. A steady favorite of mine is the Executive Salad, which includes julienne of ham, swiss cheese, chicken and salami, topped with greens, hard boiled egg, tomato wedges, black pitted olives and radish roses — with your choice of dressing. Again at the modest price of just $3.95. And believe me, there is lots — enough for two or three normalsized. The Terrace Dining Room is a treat in decor, service and food experience. Try it.

Friendly Fans At A Savings

And no one can tell me that fans aren't going to be great friends from now on. Just to get you and your "fan" off on the right foot. Reddy Electric is offering a special sale. Till October 31st, it's having a sale of AIR-KING fans. These are three-speed machines selling at a very special price of just $14.95. And at that price you can afford to get your bedroom. Also don't forget the Westinghouse air-conditioners which Reddy Electric carries too, models to fit both horizontal and vertical windows. If you want to keep cool — and Heavens! we'd cool enough this winter — you'll have to get busy and get those fans and air-conditioners. The Reddy Electric people should be your "keep cool" headquarters. They really know all about it.

All In One Place

If you've been bathroom vanity hunting, you're probably curating the shape of your bathroom, because all the models you've seen have all just been the same. Then you haven't looked into the custom-made marble vanity tops at Highland Countertop. Here, in their Measurement Centre, 221 North Front St. You can choose from a wide selection in width from two feet to 10 feet, right hand or left hand sinks, because the sink and the vanity top are not connected to it. There are no ugly and dirt-collecting chrome edges to worry about cleaning, with this custom-made vanity top. Your wife will die for it all. And any bathroom size can be accommodated. Visit the Home Improvement Centre yourself and see what I'm talking about. Then you'll be talking about the one at your house.

Still A Chance To See It

Dennish Cameron's exhibition of her work will be in the lower gallery of the Corby Library for two more days if you haven't already seen it. And if you haven't, you'll find a Cameron piece of art from this talented mother, father, daughter trio, you can visit the gallery every weekday and usually during the hours. Cameron's watercolor, pen and ink, print or piece of pottery are all excellent gift suggestions for various occasions and especially for weekday/every gifts. Take a little of us with you and take a Cameron piece of art with you. Or interested parties can go on a week day, drop by and check if the car is there, or just call 962-1096 and you'll find out for sure. That's the Cameron Gallery, 1½ miles west of Bridgewater on the Belleville Rd.

Sewing Machine Tune-up

You are used to my telling you about the great work that Gibbs and Son, 37 Ahlen St. do on vacuum cleaner tune-ups. Well, they also do the same thing on sewing machine too, oiling them, balancing them and generally, doing a good overhaul. Right now, you can get such a tune-up for your sewing machine for just $6.95, plus parts. That $5.95 10 point check on your vacuum cleaner is still in effect and Gibbs and Son too. And you can call 962-2112 and they'll pick up the vacuum in there now. Why not grab both the sewing machine and the vacuum cleaner and get them running order at the same time? You can't do a very good job of either sewing or cleaning if the machines aren't up to your ambition.

Summer Leisurewear

If you're a fan of summer, then you have to get yourself up to Jean Scott's Fashion Centre in Trenton Actionette and get dressed for the part. Jean has new shipments arriving every day and right now, she's up to her eyelids in gorgeous shorts and tops. Just before Easter, Jean had a huge purchase and wide straw hats, beautiful cover-ups for after the swim in both long and short styles, and evening gowns in light-weight summer fabrics that look like a million dollars and make you feel like that too. Jean Scott Fashions has newly added another line of new accessories. But what she has for right now, can't be matched. Except to you. Her boutique is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday to Saturday and at 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Monday to Saturday and at 6 p.m. on Sundays.

While They're Still In The Ground

Murray Atkinson of Murray's Feed Market on Front St., in his usual astute way, has noticed that a lot of people are putting in gardens this year. That's understandable — even Murray's keen eye is commendable. But last year many ambitious souls who were wanting to preserve and can, were out on a limb when it came to getting jars. Murray says it doesn't want that to happen to anyone. So he has a good supply of mason jars on hand. If you have grand plans for your garden, you'd better make sure that they can come to fruition and be preserved. That means seeding and hoeing then now. Murray can keep his eyes open for us, but he can't do the work. Right?

Still Looking And Doing

ServiceMaster is still looking for competent people who would like to do housekeeping work and be paid decently for doing so. All you have to do is to call ServiceMaster at 967-1671 and talk to Mr. Teed. He'll give you all the details. And if you're in the market for reliable housekeeping performance, then you too can call that ServiceMaster number. And you will be relieved of those questions which have often astounded the housekeeping business. Questions such as: "Will she be here?; will he be on time?; will the work get done properly?" That's ServiceMaster's job to answer those questions. And they will.

Holiday With Holiday

I mentioned before how Holiday Car and Truck Rentals, 71 West Moira St., can make sure you have a holiday by getting you there in a fine Chrysler product. But they can also help you and your relatives and guests get around while they are visiting you here in Belleville and area. Why not rent a car for the day, or for a couple of days? You can drive from one way also so that your group, large or small can be comfortably accommodated. Maybe you'd like to have a car and would just like to explore all the sights and wonders of our own area — the beaches, parks, museums, galleries and villages. Holiday can help you with that kind of holiday too. Call 962-9114.

All A Matter Of Worth

As I've mentioned before, the slogan for Trenton Optical is, "We're worth looking for!" And they are. But worth here has a few meanings, not just the implication that you will be rewarded for your effort of dropping into 14 Bridge St. E. With Trenton Optical, worth can be measured in many different ways. There is worth meaning value; Trenton Optical will hold its head up about its competitive prices anytime. There is worth in terms of the knowledge you'll derive from what these, finding out-what's new in frame materials and styles. And the staff is nice. That's always worthwhile, meaning nice people. So at Trenton Optical, you really do get your visit's worth. And you don't need an appointment.

'Depression Black' Mocks Fashion Cliches

NEW YORK (Reuter) — The supreme fashion cliches — the tuxedo and the basic black dress, have been cross-bred with the newest fad, T-shirts.

The odd-ball heroes are being worn in their new versions, dubbed "depression black."

The tuxedo is actually a black T-shirt with a white bow tie, cummerbund, sequin-back cuffs and collar. The basic black dress is called on it. Once Chanel created the kind of the little black dress and costume jewelry with it.

The artist, Philip Mackrood, says he created it because it hats to get dressed up."

"I wore it to a party and so many people bought it I was fantastic that I decided to go big business with it.

"It makes people smile and laugh. And those days people need to stay loose. It's just a fun thing people can relate to. It's not serious. It's not what's been inspired by the '60s, but it's "mood music" for it has its taste.

Although called "depression" wear, it is priced at $16.

He tried to peddle the wares to the better Fifth Avenue stores, "but they didn't want to get involved. Now a boutique called Off-Broadway has exclusive rights to the shirts.

He said 5,000 have been sold since their debut last November. He is trying to market them in England, Paris, Japan and the Philippines.

Mackrood originally designed a penn-dress T-shirt campaign with carnage but abandoned the project because it was too complicated to reproduce.

Prescription for Fitness

Are you fit as a fiddle and ready for anything, or are you pretty pasty looking, well, you're always tired and yet nothing is organically wrong with you. Maybe it's time to change your living habits. Spot a few short cuts to fitness.

Fifteen minutes out from bed each day, lying flat on your back with your feet propped up higher than your head will do you more good than a dozen sit-ups. It takes all of seven. Make "early to bed" your motto — at least when you're feeling better. Plan more leisurely exercise and get more fresh air.

It could be that a meal at home is the only time you have had one for a year, it is. Your family will be grateful again a long before they give you any warning. So inflict what you outline a better program for your power, good health. If you're doing fine and he can't see any improvement, then you'll have done yourself a lot of good anyway for you'll rule out of his office on air.

Dear Doctor: I hear that there are places where you can write to arrange to take your family to a farm for vacation. Our children are still very young and very curious about animals and about farm life, and we are thinking for a couple of weeks or more in the summer so that they might do us all good.

Would you tell me where I could write for information about such an idea?

Apartment Dweller. The idea of taking a vacation on a farm has been growing over the past few years. Now there is an attractive little booklet on "Farm Vacations" turned out, listing over 40 farms right across Ontario, where summer guests are welcome.

Not only is the name and address listed, but a paragraph describing the accommodation, type of farming, and other advantages like swimming, horseback riding, opportunity for fishing and picnics.

From the booklet you select the farm you are interested in and contact the owner by telephone or letter. You make the necessary details of the payment when you make your reservation.

To get one of the little booklets write to the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, 357 Bloor Street, east, Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

Dear Doctor: I have never seen the "Soldier's Bible" (or the "Gideon Bible" as it is called in a prayer book by a soldier) and I have a copy of the original story of Richard Lee.

The British book society, published nearly a hundred years ago, is full of fun of her and I can send you a copy.

If anyone else remembers that if you are ever asked for a "Soldier's Bible" or a "Gideon Adventure", I have one taken from a magazine of 60 or 70 years ago, and I would be glad to see if the two most interested persons ever referred.

J.H.R.

Dear J.H.R.: We have sent several copies of the Gideon's Bible — thanks to readers, but we are grateful for your offer.

If anyone does ask for "Riley Harmon" we may be taking advantage of your willingness to type that one out for us.

Man Dies In Mishap At Mine

MARMORA — A 19-year-old Trenton man died Thursday after he fell 25 feet into an open pit at Marmoraton Mining Co. on the outskirts of this village.

Provincial police at Madoc said today Gerald Mills, of 43 Queen St., Trenton, was one of a three-man crew employed by Quinte Marine and Salvage Co. of Belleville.

Police said the crew was dismantling a railway track leading into the mine when Mills lost his footing and fell into the pit. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Coroner D. G. Parkin of Marmora. The body was taken to Belleville General Hospital for a post mortem.

The accident occurred about 10:15 a.m.

Mr. Mills is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mills, with whom he resided, and four brothers, Brian, Gary and Bobs of Trenton and Bill of Toronto.

The funeral will be conducted Saturday at 2:30 p.m. from Weaver Funeral Home at 179 West Dundas St. in Trenton by Capt. George Donaldson of the Salvation Army. Burial will be at St. George's Cemetery.

Canoe Stolen From Car

City police are investigating the theft of a canoe valued at $225 from the roof of a car parked in front of 525 Lingham St., sometime between 11:30 p.m. Thursday and 7 a.m. today.

Police said the owner is Charles Faulkner and the car was parked in front of his residence.

Brass Goes To Picton

PICTON — The Concert Brass of Belleville will strike up the band May 24 at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute in Picton.

The band, accompanied by the Vocaltones, will visit Prince Edward County next month by the Picton Kiwanis Club.

Picton Kiwanian Chris Lockyer says the Concert Brass appeared frequently in county schools and is responsible for a dollar level in creating enthusiasm for music among the students.

The Vocaltones is a barbershop chorus featuring "10 voices singing" the old sweet songs."

Tickets are available at the Lockyer Flower Shoppe, Massey's Men's Wear, Dan Hanton Insurance and Bill Moore Farm Equipment. They will also be sold by Don Baxter, Bloomfield. Mrs. Muriel McNeill, Wellington and Reverend J. Cullen, Northport.

Auspicious Autograph

Belleville's official guest book got an auspicious signature Thursday night. Prime Minister was asked to sign the volume after he was greeted by Mayor Robin Jeffrey while entering meeting at Centennial Secondary School.

Abortion, Drugs, Hanging PM Challenged on Moral Issues

Morality issues — abortion, drugs and capital punishment — aroused questions aimed at Prime Minister Trudeau in Belleville Thursday night.

One man even wanted to know if the prime minister's personal religious beliefs affected his legislative stance.

"I don't try to impose my religion by laws on other people," replied Mr. Trudeau.

The serious questions created serious discourse from the prime minister on morality and law.

But at one point he injected a lighter note into the crowded auditorium at Centennial Secondary School.

One young man persistently quizzed Mr. Trudeau on relaxation of marijuana laws.

Mr. Trudeau said new legislation on marijuana was held up "by the process of final approval by the Commons.

"You don't start smoking it tonight," wryly advised the prime minister, drawing loud laughter from the crowd.

But he said there are more drugs from which people must be protected. A drug user won't remain in solitude forever.

"You will become a drug addict — and the rest of society will have to pay to keep you going," he pointed out.

Other issues:

Abortion: Specifically queried Mr. Trudeau on comment of Montreal Dr. Henry Morgentaler for abortion, Mr. Trudeau called him a "the humanitarian" whom he knew personally although he disagreed with his views. "He is a fine man. But the point is . . . he was deliberately testing the law in order to raise public opinion . . . to force the government to change the law." When a "man does that he shouldn't complain about being in jail and he shouldn't ask for mercy." Due process will be given him, he added. Citizens have a "right to convince politicians to change the laws they desire. But "it's the law of the land and you're free to break that law you go to jail."

Capital punishment for murder of police and prison guards: The law allows the Queen the prerogative of commutation and the law can remove that privilege. But "I hope that day won't come. I hope there will always be room for mercy even in the hearts of the hardiest politician."

A legislator must try to formulate laws for what he believes is the common good — as he sees it. This doesn't necessarily mean following students' opinions.

"I hope legislators always will have the courage to do that," said the prime minister. "If they are wrong they pay the penalty at election time, he added.

Summer Camp Is Cut Back Two Weeks

A summer day-camp for city youngsters has been cut back from eight to six weeks.

The move was decided after a $2,300 support grant was turned down by the provincial government.

The camp is operated jointly by the Belleville YMCA and the city's recreation department.

Cutting back the length of the program and increasing the ratio of campers to counselors from 10 to 12 were among solutions to the loss of the grant, the recreation-arena committee and parks board was told Tuesday.

Fees also could be increased from $15 to $18.

The recreation committee agreed to meet any deficit up to $300.

County Museum Plans Exhibits of Engines

The Hastings County Museum at 257 East Bridge St. will hold a "stationary" engine and mobile machinery exhibit as its focus item from 9-4 p.m. Sunday.

Martin Lewis, museum curator, said Thursday if there is inclement weather, the show will be completely cancelled. He explained there will not be a temporary postponement due to the problem of setting dates for such an event.

He said exhibitors will be Don Foster of Belleville and John Hews of Trenton who will bring various types of machinery dating from around the turn of the century.

Included will be exhibits of early gasoline engines used for farming and light industry and all will be operable, Mr. Lewis noted.

The public is invited to attend and discuss the artifacts with museum officials and the exhibitors.

Shuffleboard Is Pondered

The city's recreation department will investigate the possibility of introducing shuffleboard — likely close by senior citizens' dwellings.

The move was suggested by Ald. Jean Smith Thursday on a request from a city resident.

"We have everything for young people," said the councillor.

Shuffleboard installations were suggested in a letter from Arthur J. Clare, 217 Bridge St. East.

Locations he proposed were the East Hill Playgrounds park and adjacent to senior citizens apartment on West Bridge.

Lloyd Dyer, parks director, said a shuffleboard already has been installed for some time at the Alemite playground.

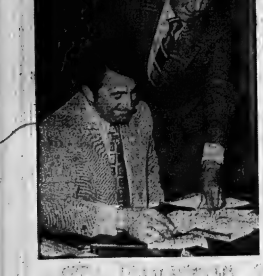
One problem posed was that one course was injuriffeled, since it would draw few people. A court of shuffleboard facilities which would accommodate many players simultaneously was needed, he said.

Competition On Weekend

The Prince-Edward-Hastings region of the Industrial Arts-dent Prevention Association (IAPA) will hold its annual forklift competition Saturday from 8 a.m. to about 2 p.m. at the Dick Diet Ltd. plant on Hooper Dr. in Belleville.

Ken Fisher of Dekers Stellite at 471 East Dundas St. in Belleville, chairman of the competition, said there will be about 30 participants will compete in team and individual contests.

He said Bob Courtney of Deloro Stellite, the 1974 individual winner, will return to attempt his second consecutive championship. He won for the first time last year.



Truckers' Troubles

Max Haggarty, sealed, Ontario Trucking Association president, said Thursday "piracy" is major problem facing Ontario truckers. Mel Donnelly, chairman of the association board, at Belleville meeting called for more government control to combat illegal truckers which he called "pirates of the highway."

'Piracy' Seen as Serious Trucking Issue: Haggarty

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Trucking "piracy" was diagnosed as the Ontario Trucking Association's "most serious" problem by association president Max Haggarty Thursday.

The association (OTA) held its regional meeting in Belleville Thursday "to bring information from the association directly to the grass roots" said the president.

Mr. Haggarty said in an interview the association is actively lobbying the provincial government for legislation enforcement that will restrict or eradicate illegal truckers.

He explained certain companies without public commercial vehicle licences are operating across Ontario and are not complying with stringent regulations placed on licensed operaters by the province.

"These people are taking the bread off the top of the industry . . . running with only full loads," at their own discretion, he said.

Companies must provide scheduled service whether or not the truck has a full load."

"What the illegal operators gain the customer will get the benefit of the business," he said.

The trucking industry in Ontario last year earned a total $600 million "of which at least eight to 10 percent was taken by pirates," said Mr. Haggarty.

He said the same rules would be applicable in the Belleville area.

"We know who the illegal companies are and we've had conversations with Minister of Transportation and Communications John Rhodes," he said.

Mr. Haggarty said Thursday's meeting was a business meeting as such for the association but one where members could ask questions.

Trudeau in Belleville:

Big Wage Settlements One Peril for Exports

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Big wage settlements could contribute to pricing Canada out of its export markets, Prime Minister Trudeau warned Thursday night.

There's little to be "cheery" about for an exporting nation when "big wage increases now are running higher than in the United States, he cautioned.

The comments came as Mr. Trudeau defended his government's policy of seeking voluntary restraints while fielding questions from a standing-room crowd at Centennial Secondary School.

The economic situation is compounded by the fact industry and labor is caught in a cost-push inflation squeeze.

One sequel has been that costs are not only trying to keep wages in line with rising costs but with increased future inflation. This has seen wage settlements greater than the current inflation rate. The government is trying to find "a very fine balance" between overstimulating the economy and reducing unemployment without further fueling inflation.

But it also is bewing to voluntary constraints while attempting to increase productivity by reaching a consensus with unions and industry.

"It's a very serious situation," said Mr. Trudeau. "That's why we have this series of consultations with business and labor and the provinces.

"We have nothing to be very cheery about when in Canada the pattern of wage settlements is as markedly higher . . . than the United States.

"It will mean eventually we will price ourselves out of the market," said the prime minister.

We will not be able to sell our goods in foreign markets. And when you realize Canada is essentially an exporting nation it can be very serious for us.

"That's why we're trying to appeal for voluntary restraint."

However he opposed a return to a system akin to wartime controls — a solution voiced by some questioners.

Such controls only work in a time when the nation is prepared to accept sacrifices — when all transactions are subject to law and people are prepared to surrender some very, very basic liberties."

But "freezing is not the way for an economy to progress, he said.

He said he is necessary "in some circumstances, but I hope we will succeed in the voluntary consensus as we will not have recourse to it here," said Mr. Trudeau.

The prime minister — who arrived in Belleville by helicopter and stayed overnight at the Four Seasons Hotel on a swing through east-central Ontario — was heard out by a crowd of about 1,000 as he answered questions for an hour.

It was his first visit to the city in four years and he mingled freely with the crowd before departing at the end of what was billed by local Liberal organizers as a "fireside" session — styled on the old-time family meetings where politicians went directly before questioning constituents.

The prime minister was accompanied by Secretary of State Hugh Faulkner.

His appearance at the school went without incident, although there was one distraction for security forces just as he arrived.

A figure was spotted on the roof of a 15-story apartment block opposite the school as the Trudeau cavalcade neared.

When police investigated they found an 18-year-old — who had earlier been turned out of the school by a janitor — observing the scene below. He chased officers and was chased through the area to the nearby Dick Ellis Rink before he was caught. Police said he was escorted home.

Ellis Critical of Trudeau For Leaving During Estimates

OTTAWA — Jack Ellis, MP for Leeds, Thursday criticized Prime Minister Trudeau for deliberately fanning the precedence of the House of Commons.

Mr. Ellis said the prime minister should have remained in the House for discussion of the budget estimates of his department but instead left to come to Belleville.

"I'm delighted to have him come to Belleville, but under the circumstances his departure was inappropriate," said Mr. Ellis.

The budget for the prime minister's and Privy Council offices is about $30-million, he said.

Mr. Trudeau should have remained in the House to justify the expenditures in detail as Commons custom, said Mr. Ellis.

Playground Is Sought For Children's Centre

Because of a shortfall in provincial government funds, a new project in child development programs is in the help of city parks and recreation authorities.

The facility is the Children's Development project on East Bridge St. and Bleecker Ave., scheduled to open this September.

The project, an undertaking of volunteers with a track record in community work with youngsters, is to offer sensory development facilities for mentally and physically handicapped as well as normal children.

A large house at 225 East Bridge now is being renovated for the school, but provincial funding has been cut back, two of its representatives said Thursday.

As a result, Miriam Bishop and Margaret Maddocks asked if the parks board and recreation committee would assist with creation of a playground area. Such a facility is vital to the project since it provides a common meeting place for the centre's young people, they said.

The committee decided to make a decision when a conceptual plan of the entire project is available.

Alarm Box

Belleville firefighters responded to the following calls for assistance during a 24-hour period which ended at 8 a.m. today:

Thursday, May 22, 9:16 a.m. — malfunction in motor of washing machine at 360 Victoria Ave., no damage.

Thursday, May 22, 5:22 p.m. — false alarm at Consumer Distributing Co. Ltd., at 311 North Front ST.

Thursday, May 22, 6:17 p.m. — false alarm at Black Hawk Motor Inn, 225 North Front St. due to power failure

Thursday, May 22, 7:40 p.m. — hydro overload caused short in electrical computer machine at the Unemployment Insurance Commission regional office at 494 East Dundas St., no damage.

Thursday, May 22, 8:08 p.m. — fire in garbage container at Moira Secondary School at the corner of Farley and Victoria avenues, contained to container, cause unknown.

What if Mayaguez Had been Canadian?

What would he have done if the Mayaguez had been a Canadian ship, Prime Minister Trudeau was asked Thursday night as he faced a crowded Belleville auditorium.

He had only immediate knowledge of the pick up by the phone and send the Eighth Fleet in there now — we ain't got that kind of navy."

The Mayaguez was the United States vessel fired on by U.S. forces last week after its seizure by Cambodian warships was declared piracy.

In a hypothetical case involving a Canadian craft he hoped things could be settled peacefully, said Mr. Trudeau.

"But," he told the meeting at Centennial Secondary School: "In my heart I think it would be difficult for me to claim I would have had a very different reaction from President Ford if I'd been in his shoes . . . I don't want to put you have to draw the line."

But he admitted, he wanted to be careful not to make a judgement about "people in high office caught in such difficult situation."

By example he cited the Quebec FLQ crisis five years ago when his government declared the Mesures de Guerre Act.

"I still know of a situation in October, 1970 when I think the government did the right thing. But a lot of people think we overreacted," he said.

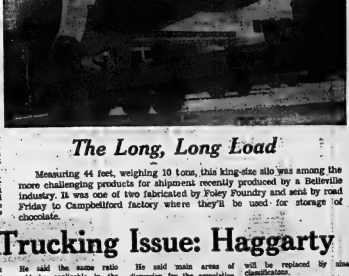
New Officers For Legion

Branch 90 of the Royal Canadian Legion has elected five officers and executive for 1975-76.

The new president is Bill Richardson. Working with him in the positions of first and second-vice and sergeant at arms are Eric Walker, Dave Evans and Hop Charters, respectively.

The executive will be formed by Cliff Fobert, Roy Hamilton, Ray Morrison, Tom Purdey, Jack Rashotte, Ina Rollins, Fred Smith, and George Siddall.

The past president of Branch 90 is Gerry Downes.



The Long, Long Load

Measuring 44 feet, weighing 10 tons, this king-size silo was among the more challenging products for shipment recently produced by a Belleville industry. It was one of two fabricated by Foley Foundry and sent by road Friday to Campbellford factory where they'll be used for storage of chocolate.

He said main areas of discussion for the association cover "additional law enforcement to ensure truckers obey the rules of the road, particularly in respect to speeding and following closely.

Driver licences rejuvenation is also a major interest for the association.

Mr. Haggarty said the association is formulating a new licensing program where the chauffeur's licence will be replaced by nine classifications.

The classes will be tailored to the piece of equipment the employee has been trained to operate, he said.

In the past only a standard licence was required to allow operation of a commercial vehicle.

A ministry spokesman, Wally Gallacher, said his department is hopes the reclassification will be ready by the end of the year or early 1976.

No Place Like Home for the Sabres

BUFFALO (CP) — There has been no place like home for Buffalo Sabres during this year's Stanley Cup playoffs.

The Sabres now have won all eight of their post-season games in front of their home fans at War Memorial Auditorium, with the latest a 4-3 win Thursday night over Philadelphia Flyers to even their best-of-seven final at 2-2.

The Sabres lost the first two games of the National Hockey League championship final in Philadelphia but returned to some ice Tuesday night to win it on overtime.

"We have these two games in Buffalo would be most games we can," said Sabres coach Floyd Smith. "We came up with the effort that we needed."

Smith did not feel his club got off to a good start in Thursday night's game despite the fact they had goal posted before the first half of the first period.

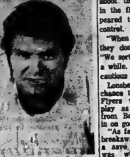
"I don't think we had a shot on goal in the final eight minutes of the first period," Smith said. "But then we regrouped and we came out and we were ok."

Philadelphia's Andre Dupont scored the lone goal of the opening period for the Flyers to came back to take a 2-2 lead in the second period on goals by Jerry Korab, Gilbert Perreault and Jim Lorentz while Rene Lonsberry got Buffalo's second goal.

Danny Gare completed the scoring into an empty Flyers net in the final minute of play.

Dupont's goal came on the Flyers' third shot on goal in the period. At one stage, the Sabres had an 8-1 edge in shots, but could not get the puck by Philadelphia goalie Bernie Parent.

Dupont took a pass from Bill Kelly and beat goalie Gerry Desjardins in the right side from the left-wing faceoff circle.



GERRY DESJARDINS

Desjardins was replaced by Roger Crozier.

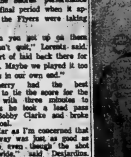
The Sabres tied the score 1-1 in the second period on Korab's goal at 3:46 when the Buffalo defenseman fired a screen shot from the blueline left corner. But 84 seconds later, Lonsberry broke down the left wing and beat Parent with a low position and tucked the puck into the open net.

Perreault netted the score with his ninth goal of the playoffs at 19:07 on a pass from Lorentz. From the slot after taking a pass from Rene Robert.

Korab got the winner when he converted a setup by Rick Dudley for his ninth playoff goal.

"I should have had the shot," said Desjardins. "The rebound was a bad one. I thought I could have had it."

It was one of the few mistakes Desjardins made all night as he returned to action after a shaky performance in Tuesday's game when he gave up three first-period goals out of



"I shot the puck in and Dudley beat the defensemen to the puck," said Lavasis, "I think he got a shot and Parent controlled the rebound but I don't think he deflected it the way he wanted to so it came right to me and I had the whole side to score."

Lavasis said he was worried about the fathers' performances in the final period when it appeared the Flyers were taking control.

"When you get up on them they don't quit," Lavasis said. "We sort of laid back there for a while. Maybe we played it too cautious in our own end."

Lonsberry had the best chance to tie the score for the Flyers with three minutes to play as he took a lead pass from Bobby Clarke and broke in on goal.

"As far as I'm concerned that breakaway was just as good as a save, even though the shot was wide," said Desjardins. "He shot it when he was by the net."

The first major penalties of the series came in the second period when Buffalo's Jim Schoenfeld and the Flyers' Dave Schultz scrapped at the first bout while Dudley and Kelly tangled in the other. The Schultz-Schoenfeld affair was no surprise as the two had previously butt Dudley and Kelly used their fists in a wild exchange.

Dudley, playing his second game after missing seven playoff matches due to knee injury, appeared to have reinjured the knee late in the third period when he bumped with Dupont. However, Dudley said after the game that he had not suffered any setback.

The fifth game of series is scheduled for Philadelphia on Sunday afternoon and the sixth in Buffalo next Tuesday night.

Jim Lorentz—Too Cautious?

Puck Jumped Says Lonsberry

BUFFALO (CP) — "We had a bunch of floaters out there," said Rene Robert of the Buffalo Sabres.

That was one of Clarke's early comments Thursday night as the Flyers lost 4-3 to Buffalo Sabres in the fourth game of the Stanley Cup finals.

Coach Fred Shero of the Flyers changed the subject when asked why there were no penalties in the third period.

"That's the way the players was it. In a close game, let 'em play unless someone gets a head taken off. No one wants to see it in a close game."

The Buffalo win evened the best-of-seven National Hockey League series at two games apiece with the fifth game scheduled for Philadelphia Sunday.

One of the stars for the Sabres was goaltender Gerry Desjardins, who could do nothing right Tuesday night although the Sabres won 5-4 on overtime. He allowed three goals in the first period, then asked coach Floyd Smith to be taken out of the game.

Desjardins, 30-year-old native of Sudbury, Ont., was sharp in the fourth game. He came up strong late in the third period when he prevented Rene Lonsberry from scoring on a breakaway with the Sabres leading 3-2.

Desjardins said he forced Lonsberry wide on the breakaway, banking the puck off the goalie post on the side of the net with his shot.

"I knew I have stopped him if he had shot on the net, unless he was able to bounce the puck off my head," the goaltender said.

But Lonsberry had a different explanation for the play. He said:

"The secret of a breakaway with a goalie is to try to force the player to make the first move, I made my move and he moved with me, but he didn't move far enough. He reached for it. I guess I should have would shoot it right away, which I didn't, then he reached for it.

"He had nowhere else to reach in, he was stretched right out. I had lots of put to shoot at and he was laying on his side. It's obviously he can't get up too high, and I went to put it up and it (the puck) jumped just as I went to shoot it."

Lonsberry said he hit the side of the post with his shot.

Rick Dudley, another top Buffalo performer, took a unanimous decision over Bob Kelly during a second-period fight and assisted on the winning goal by Jim Lorentz at 15:07 of the same period.

Dudley, who missed seven games in a row in the playoffs with a knee injury before he returned Tuesday, said he hurt his knuckles when he hit Kelly.

Dudley, who twisted his knee when hit by Andre Dupont in playoff action, laughed with Kelly after Jim Schoenfeld of the Sabres and Dave Schultz of the Flyers fought in a preliminary. Each of the players received five-minute fighting majors.

Deficit of $88,000 Doesn't Bother CAHA

QUEBEC (CP) — The executive board of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association (CAHA) Thursday night approved an operating deficit for the next 15 months that included a deficit of $88,450.

Gordon Jackson, director, executive director of the CAHA, said the deficit figure was based on projected income of $240,000 and expected expenses of $328,000.

Jackson and president Don Johnson of St. John's, Nfld., said the income figure did not include any money the CAHA would get should it be successful in signing a television agreement with the National Hockey League and the World Hockey Association.

Last year the CAHA obtained more than $60,000 from the professional leagues as its share of their payment of $1.5 million for player's drafted from amateur ranks. However, the CAHA has been unsuccessful in getting a renewal of the agreement with either league since the contract ran out at the beginning of May.

But both men denied pressure had been published that the CAHA was on the verge of bankruptcy.

"We're not broke, we don't have any money," Jackson said. "We are not in debt, but we budget for a deficit and we have to have the insider security, I guess, and the best."

Jackson said assets of $220,000, whereas four years ago they were only $127,000. He said the $220,000 can carry the $88,450 deficit.

Johnson, elected president to succeed Jack Dewing, of Kitchener, Ont., earlier in the day at the final session of the association's annual convention, said steps have already been taken to reduce the deficit and the accumulated next year.

He said that all provincial branches of the association have agreed to allow trips of additional individual assessment at the player, team or branch level must be made to look after any future deficit problem.

Johnson also said that Gordon Cohen, Montreal lawyer, Barrie Flyers, remained under investigation although he was suspended after he pulled his team from the ice during a brawl erupted during the third game of the Allan Cup semi-final series against St. John's Capitals in the Newfoundland capital.

There was discussion of the incident between players from the Newfoundland and Ontario teams, Johnson said during the meetings here, Johnson said.

"The St. John's people have asked for a formal apology from the CAHA," he added. "Gordon Kendall will set the date for the hearing."

Rosenick, of Cambridge, Ont., was elected first vice-president of the CAHA in Thursday's election.

The board also decided to issue an invitation to Moscow Selects and a second club team from the Soviet Union to play a series of seven or eight exhibition games in Canada next season. The teams would face other college professional or junior competition during their Canadian tour.

Hull, have to attend a sports celebrity dinner, said both the National Hockey League and the WHA will probably be re-trading many players in years to come.

The minor systems in Canada just don't teach all the basic fundamentals needed. He all the Europeans get. Also the attitude toward the game is much better in Europe than in Canada.

Hull added that his two Swedish team-mates resented the stressed in their contracts that they would have to play all 70 games.

"That's something you would not find very easily in Canada."

win that enabled them to tie Excelsior after a second-place tie with Fergus.

But New Question Posed

IOC Delegates Accept Report from Montreal

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (CP) — Mayor Jean Drapeau was on his way back to Montreal today having apparently satisfied the International Olympic Committee (IOC) that his city will be ready for the 1976 Olympics but also leaving behind a new question regarding the Montreal construction schedule.

The IOC delegates went through two lengthy sessions Wednesday and Thursday before finally announcing Thursday they had accepted "with full confidence" the Montreal organizing committee's report on plans for next year's Games.

But Drapeau departed for Montreal, via Paris, a new controversy over the cost of the mayor's alleged statement to the chancellor IOC session about construction on Olympic facilities is actually well ahead of schedule, contrary to the popular belief that work at the Montreal sites are falling behind schedule due to labor troubles.

The report circulated in Canada on Wednesday said Drapeau had told the IOC that construction was three months ahead of schedule but he wanted the information kept secret to avoid further problems with the labor unions.

IOC president Lord Killanin said Thursday night that he had confirmed the Drapeau statement.

"I knew nothing about it," Killanin told The Canadian Press in a midnight telephone interview. "I haven't seen any reporters. You would have to ask the mayor and he said it was a matter of opinion at my press conference tomorrow."

Two Canadian reporters said they and a third reporter were sitting outside the IOC conference room after most of the press had left the building Thursday night, when Killanin strolled over and began talking.

One, a Canadian Broadcasting Corporation reporter, said he took Killanin's remarks as confirmation that Drapeau had informed the chairman attributed to him in the earlier reports in Canada.

The other Canadian reporter said that when he read Killanin quotes of the remarks Drapeau was reported to have made in the closed session, Killanin commented:

"You are a very well-informed person."

The IOC and the Montreal delegation avoided the traditional news conference following Thursday's session and the IOC issued only a terse 16-word statement saying Montreal's report was accepted.

Roger Rousseau, president of the Montreal organizing committee, said the IOC's brief statement of confidence was "the statement we expected."

European Players Are a Must—Hull

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — Professional hockey will have to look to Europe for players if it is to remain strong, says Bobby Hull.

Hull, player-coach of Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association who broke the major league single-season goal scoring record with 77 goals last season, gave a lot of credit to his two Swedish line-mates, Ulf Nilsson and Anders Hedberg.

"The two Swedes came to Canada to play with and made the game of hockey fun for me again," Hull said Thursday night. "This last season was the best I've had in five years."

Constellation Scores Again

Constellation keeps rolling along in the Belleville Industrial Softball League. The leader in the East division has opened pocked up its eight win—Thursday, shading Independents 8-7. It was the first loss for Independents, about a win and a tie.

In the other match, Canadian Tire found the winning formula, tripping Mead Johnson, 3-2. The Tiremen lost their first two starts. Mead Johnson has only a tie to show after four outings.

Ken Kerr, sung by 16 Independent hits, recorded the win. He fanned five and had perfect control, walking none. Greg Rollis ad Earl Colden shared the Independents' pitching, giving up 13 hits, striking out one and walking four.

Kerr helped his own cause at the plate, collecting three singles. Wayne May added a home run and a single while Earl Cain and Mike Callaghan each singled twice.

Ron Fuller supplied three Independent singles, Al Lewis, George Foote and Doug Hamilton each connected for a homer and a single.

Randy Pradden got the win on the board for Canadian Tire, stopped Mead on seven hits. He struck out five and walked one.

Loser Sonny Holoway was nicked for nine hits while fanning five and walking two.

Pradden, John French and Al Moorcroft each added two hits for the winners. Alec Balch homered.

Tops for Meads were Gary Hayes and Ron Gerard and Rowbotham with a triple and a single each.

Not Much to Say Following Defeat

Canadian Press carried a one-paragraph report on the Ontario Football League game played Thursday night in Newmarket. Belleville Mc-Donald's was the visiting team.

The Canadian Press report said: "In other Thursday play, Newmarket won its second game in three starts, trouncing Belleville 19-1 to move into a second place tie with Burlington in the east division.

Belleville is winless in four starts.

Perhaps that's the way officials of the Belleville team want it — short and to the point.

The team is scheduled to play three games at home on the weekend.

Burlington, edged 3-2 by London Dukes, Thursday, is here for two games, Saturday. On Sunday, Hamilton will be the visitor for a single game.

Broadloom Peewees Lose 8-2 in Opener

TRENTON — A solid pitching job by Barry Mclaish and Steve Smith, combined with some healthy hitting, carried Trenton Legion Peewees to an 8-2 Eastern Ontario Baseball Association win over Belleville Broadloom here, Thursday.

McIntosh and Smith combined for a five-hitter while hitting out six and walking two.

Rory McLeod went the distance for the Belleville squad. Nicked for 11 hits, he fanned four and walked seven. His mates were charged with five errors.

Bob Alexander cracked a double and a single for the winners. Mike Peterson collected two with three singles and McIntosh had a pair.

Diminutive outfielder David Maikwa was tops for the visitors with a triple and a single. Stu Emerson, Mcleod and John Dent shared the other Belleville hits.

Belleville makes its next start Sunday, playing host to Whitby in a 4 p.m. game at Parkdale.

BCI Blanks Napanee

Sparked by John Geen and Brent Walmsley, Belleville Collegiate Institute rolled to a 9-0 Bay of Quinte High School Lacrosse win in Napanee, Wednesday.

Geen supplied four goals and three assists while Walmsley clicked for three goals. Rob Prower and Richard Burrowes were the other marksmen.

Aiming for Top Honors

Belleville will be well represented at Saturday's Ontario Karate Championships in Toronto. Keizo Donozo, owner and instructor at the Belleville Karate School, plans to take 30 of his students to the event.

Last year only three students from his school attended. Donozo explained the reason for the boom as "it is necessary to take a larger number for the students own sake. Like a hockey team, in karate the only way to reach a level of excellence is to compete against good opponents. That is why it is good that as many students as possible participate this weekend."

Of the 30 attending the championship, Donozo has high hopes for three and particularly great expectations for one. Ron Harris and Ron Guay will compete in Intermediate Sparring for lower belts. However, his student with the greatest chance of high achievement is Maureen MacKinnon. A Grade 11 student at Belleville Collegiate, the 17-year-old took first place in Ladies Form competition at the Quebec championships in February.

In all, there are six different categories of competition. Ladies' Form, Children's Form, Novice Sparring, Intermediate Sparring, Black Belt Sparring and Black Belt Form.

The event is being held at the University of Toronto's Varsity Arena beginning at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Rich Getting Richer

The rich got richer and the poor stay that way in the early going of the Quinte Fastball League.

In Tuesday's doubleheader at Alemite Park, Sanders Supplies and Trenton Auger Men's Wear each made it two wins in as many starts. Devolin Motors and Ellis Juniors were on the short end of the scores and both teams are still looking for their first wins.

Bardon topped Devolin 3-1 while the Trenton team turned back the Juniors 8-1.

With the first week of the schedule completed, Howard and Horwood Printing joins Auger's and Bardon at the top of the heap. Each team has a 2-0 record. At the other end of the scale are Murakeck Real Estate of Wellington, Devolin and the Ellis team, each with an 0-2 mark.

Bardon said it early in the contest with Devolin. Triples by Warren Ostrander and Ron Weese combined with a Devolin miscue produced two runs and it was all Bardon needed.

Devolin got one back in the bottom of the third with Ralph Plante's single plated Carl Bonsmeyer who had doubled. Bardon restated its two-run cushion in the top of the fourth with the final run of the game.

Veteran Ranger Sharp

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Hands had his velocity, but none of his vitality.

At the age of 34, Hands no longer throws the ball as hard as he used to, but appears to be pitching as well as ever.

"There's an old saying about never underestimate class—Bill was first-class today," said Milwaukee's Jim Lonborg after the ex-Cub defeated the Brewers 4-0 Thursday by the veteran's five-hit, 10-strikeout shutout.

Hands, who is 2-4 since winning his only decision with Chicago Cubs in the National League, matched the mark of the Minnesota Twins' staff before moving to the Rangers this year, pitched a five-hitter.

After two frustrating seasons with the Twins, Hands appeared to have come into his own with the Rangers. Thursday's victory raised his record to 5-3 and lowered his earned-run average to 2.16.

"It's just taken me a while to learn the hitters in the American League," said Hands, who pitched the Rangers into first place in the American League West.

The Rangers took a half-game lead over the Oakland A's Thursday with the victory.

In other American League games, California Angels beat Boston Red Sox 6-5 and Chicago White Sox defeated Baltimore Orioles 3-1.

In the National League, Pittsburgh Pirates beat San Diego Padres 4-3 and Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Chicago Cubs 9-2.

The Texas-Milwaukee game was closer than the final score indicated. Hands only had one run to work with until his teammates scored four runs in the eighth inning.

Cesar Geronimo, the game's first batter, opened the inning for Hands by Milwaukee second baseman Pedro Garcia. After Geronimo flied out, Hands hit a three-run homer into the left field seats. Jim Sundberg and Tovar opened the Texas eighth with singles and were hit by Davis and Mike Hargrove produced the first two Ranger runs of the inning. After Davis and Hargrove worked a double steal, Jim Spencer was intentionally walked and then Toby Harrah singled home two more runs.

Sundberg singled, stole second, reached third and scored on Davis' double in the ninth for the final run of the game.

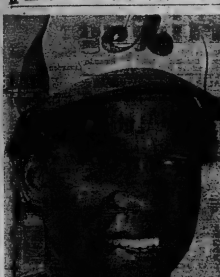
Rookie Jerry Remy scored the first run after a leadoff triple and then drove in two more, helping California beat Boston.

Bill Singer rattled down after Fred Lynn hit a three-run homer in the third inning to pick up his fourth victory of the season. The right-hander has lost five games.

Carlos May singled across two runs in the third inning and Jim Kaat, with relief help from Rich Gossage, recorded his seventh victory as Chicago flipped Baltimore.

Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell broke a 3-3 tie with a two-run homer in the fifth inning as the Pirates snapped a three-game losing streak by beating San Diego.

Ron Cey doubled home two runs in a four-run sixth inning and Jimmy Wynn's RBI single triggered a four-run seventh as Los Angeles whipped Chicago for Burt Hooton's first victory against six former club.



Rich Coggins

Outfielder Back

CHICAGO (CP) — Outfielder Rich Coggins has been activated by the Chicago White Sox from the 15-day disabled list since the start of the National League season. Coggins, who was batting .333 when he injured his knee in spring training, was optioned to Memphis of the International League.

The Expos picked up Coggins' contract in an off-season trade with the Baltimore Orioles but the slugger, sent on option to Memphis of the International League to make room for Cogginsville Baltimore Orioles but the slugger.

Lefty Grove Dead

MARTINSBURG, W.Va. (AP) — There was no flourish as baseball great Robert (Lefty) Grove was laid to rest Thursday.

Hall of Famer pitched with over 300 games in his 17-year major league career, was buried Wednesday in the family plot in Martinsburg.

The 75-year-old Grove was a found slumped over in a chair in his Norwalk home by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Robert Green, with whom he lived.

Mrs. Grove, an invalid, said she was suspicious when Grove didn't come to her room to see her on a usual practice of his in past afternoons. She struggled out of her bed to look for him, she said, and found him slumped up in a chair in another room.

There was no immediate explanation for the cause of death.

Grove started to pursue a star career with Philadelphia Athletics and Boston Red Sox, compiling a lifetime record of 300-140 for a phenomenal winning percentage of .682.

He had eight seasons where he won 20 or more games and once bagged 31 victories in a season, 1931, generally considered to be his best year. The great southpaw only had four losing seasons.

Grove recorded 3,306 strikeouts during his career and posted a lifetime earned run average of 3.06 for his 17 years.

Ford in Hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — Whitey Ford of New York Yankees will remain under resting comfortably at Long Island Jewish Hospital Thursday. Ford collapsed after pitching batting practice before the Yankees' game against Kansas City Royals Wednesday night.

The Hall of Famer, now a pitching coach, was placed in the hospital's intensive care room and was under the care of his personal physician. The Yankees said it had been determined that Ford had not suffered a heart attack.

The hospital listed his condition as serious, an automatic designation for intensive care patients.

Ford, 45, collapsed in the runway leading from the Yankee dugout to the team's dressing room. He had pitched 25 minutes of batting practice on a wet, humid night, and left the mound when he didn't feel well.

CFL Studying New Format for Schedule

HAMILTON (CP) — The Canadian Football League decided Thursday it is not quite ready for a schedule that would require each team to play nine of its 14 games on artificial turf.

The CFL executive committee, meeting here with championship of Major League Baseball, the National Football League decided instead to continue studying the possibility of a nine-game schedule with Jim Kimball of Edmonton Eskimos.

Kimball said he would like to see the CFL extend its regular schedule to 16 weeks so that all mid-week games could be eliminated. Action on the proposal was deferred to Friday night. Saturday and Sunday games are played Wednesday.

CFL commissioner Jake Gaudaur, at a news conference, said his office had been instructed to draw up two possible schedules that would be considered later this year for introduction in 1976.

One would be a 16-week schedule with mid-week games only in Labor Day. The other would be a 17-week schedule with no mid-week games after the end of August.

Gaudaur said the schedules will be drafted in late July and circulated to the nine CFL clubs for consideration at an August meeting. The commissioner explained that although the nine teams were in favor of the one-game schedule, some were still uncertain how their fans would take to it.

On other matters, Gaudaur said the league's expansion committee, headed by Sask. Roughriders president Peter Gardiner, will meet in Toronto to that effect that there had been no applications for a franchise. He said Gardiner and Jack Gordon, Ottawa Rough Riders president, will meet earlier in the week to establish an expansion team fee but that he had heard nothing from there lately.

Gaudaur also said he had told the meeting that there will be no Canadian football on U.S. television again this year. The reason is that the World Football League operating in both countries, have had a lot of interference.

Wilson Signed

CLEVELAND (AP) — Johnny Wilson has signed Thursday to a multi-year contract as coach of Cleveland Crusaders of the World Hockey Association. Terms were not disclosed. Wilson was released from a three-year contract with Baltimore Blades, another WHA team.

Stamps Sign Rookie

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders of the Canadian Football League announced Thursday the signing of rookie defensive tackle Richard Pedersen, and the return of second-year men Larry Hand and Dennis Morgan. Pedersen, a 250-pounder from Sir Wilfred Laurier University at Waterloo, Ont., was Calgary's fifth-round draft choice in the 1975 Canadian college draft.

The new Fiat 131.
It's not a dream car.
It's a reality car.

The way things are today, you'd assume that the dream car would have seen its end. But somehow it persists. Despite all the whoopla you've been hearing, in 1975 the average car made in Canada will weigh 4000 pounds and get 16 miles a gallon.*

At Fiat we've built our cars to deal with the world as it really is.

The new Fiat squarely faces the problem of survival. If you've gotten used to trading in your car every 2 or 3 years, the 131 should come as a pleasant surprise.

The engine was tested for over a million miles. The valves last twice as long as ordinary valves. The piston rings are plated with chromium. They last far longer than ordinary rings.

The 131 faces the problem of rust. Its entire underbody is sealed against the elements. The exhaust system is made of special steel, impervious to corrosion.

The 131 faces up to the inevitability of accidents. The passenger compartment has horizontal steel rings at the floor, waist and roof. The gas tank is tucked away against a pressed-steel bulkhead behind the back seat. The steering column collapses should there be a head-on collision.

The 131 gives passengers in the front seat more legroom than the Cadillac El Dorado. Yet it is shorter than a Vega. It deals very nicely with parking and traffic.

Last, the 131 faces the spiralling costs of owning a car. It's designed to be economical, not just on gas, but on day-to-day maintenance and repair.

In times like these, isn't the reality car starting to sound more and more like a dream?

FIAT
It's where the automobile is going.

Sinatra Reafirms Legend

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Sinatra more than $400,000 for the two nates, during his two concerts above), which attracted about here Saturday night, reaffirmed 36,000 persons.

his legendary position in the entertainment world and also to prove he can melt the hearts of female fans the way he did more than 30 years ago.

During the midnight concert, one fan stopped the show briefly during a soft ballad, by crying "Ohhh, Frankie!" Before the continuing the number, Sinatra flashed a grin and remarked: "Oh, you're really living, baby."

Sinatra, 58, performed with a freedom and easy assurance produced by those who have climbed to the pinnacle of success—first as a pop singer and later with numerous films and television credits.

One unconfirmed report said newspapers to crash his dog and Sinatra was expected to earn like his parrot's cage, and of-

He interrupted both concerts to "turn zap the press," appearently upset by a front-page story in Saturday's Toronto Star by radio entertainment writer Peter Goddard reported on Sinatra's arrival at 3:30 a.m. Saturday.

Goddard said the singer was tired but appeared cheerful following his Montreal appearance while his "squad of menacing bodyguards" were brutal, pushing a freelance photographer and threatening to make him "eat your camera." If he took a single picture.

During the first concert, Sinatra remarked that he uses that . . . reporter who said one of my men punched (the photographer) in the mouth," he said. "So far, he hasn't stepped forward to collect."

The Star story did not specify where the photographer was allegedly struck.

"If he got punched in the mouth by one of my security men, he wouldn't be able to speak for six months," Sinatra said. "He'd be getting drivers cards for the next year and a half."

He interrupted his concerts to ask if anyone who could prove him responsible for the scuffle.

During the second show, he delighted his audience by responding to the news story in his familiar tough-guy fashion. "I said I'd pay $1 million to anyone who proved $1 million to anyone who

She Wins Her First Emmy

NEW YORK (AP) — Barbara Walters has won her first Emmy award, as co-host of NBC's Today show.

The National Television Academy of Arts and Sciences announced achievements Thursday in 19 categories of daytime TV in a live program aboard the Hudson River excursion boat, NBC Emmys; ABC six and CBS three. Mary Wisak received a syndicated TV show won two Emmys.

The Hollywood Squares game show on NBC won three Emmys. One was for the show, one was for host Peter Marshall, and the last for director Jerome Shaw.

The Young and The Restless series on CBS was top honors as daytime TV's best soap opera, and its director, Richard Dunlap, got another Emmy.

Other awards for best acting in a daily soap opera went to Lee Grant for Sam Evans and Helen Gallagher, co-stars of NBC's Days of Our Lives.

ABC's Afternoon Playbreak series of drama specials was the only contender in five best-special categories. It put in 16 nominees and five won Emmys for actor, writing and direction.

Bradford Dillman and Kay Lenz won the acting awards.

NBC's Another World series shows won an Emmy for its writing.

In the children's department, NBC's Star Trek, a cartoon version of the old prime-time series, was given an Emmy as the outstanding series.

Harlequin, a segment of the Lively Arts series on CBS Sunday for children, won the best-special award.

Elmer Bunn won an individual achievement Emmy for behind-the-scenes graphic design and artwork on ABC's weekend children's shows.

Mannix Being Dropped After Eight TV Years

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After eight years of widespread popularity among television viewers, Mannix is being dropped by CBS, and co-producer Ivan Goff thinks the continuing anti-violence campaign of the networks may have contributed to the show's death.

The CBS decision not to renew Mannix, announced April 26, was not unexpected within the television industry. However, the viewing audience wondered why a network would drop a series that had placed in the top 10 rated shows twice in the last month.

Fred Silverman, the CBS programming vice-president, said Mannix was yanked for three reasons.

"One, the ratings were just fair. Two, we had good program development and it seemed wiser to replace it with a new show. Three, there were contractual problems. We would have had only one more year, then the series was going into syndication.

Silverman blew down the anti-violence angle.

"The show that is replacing Mannix—Break with Jack Palance—is basically the same form. It is neither more violent nor less."

Star Mike Conners is philosophical about the cancellation.

"I knew it had to come eventually. Whatever the hell, we had a good ride. Now it's time for me to get . . . my career rolling after eight years in one job.

"I want to do pictures and then get ready to do another series. But not for another year."
